Reflection of the City

Newsie Jack Kanchikoff stands beside an architect-designed news kiosk in Vancouver. The silver kiosk, made of plastic, is a prototype of a design which the Vancouver Sun hopes will eventually replace all the green huts now in use. "A newspaper reflects the city, and we thought a reflective design would be ideal for a place that sells newspapers," a spokesman said. (CP Photo)

The Black Soldier
Valiant Attempt

NEW YORK (AP)—Negro soldiers fought and died in every war the United States has waged. You just don't hear much about it.

In the second broadcast of its Of Black America series, narrated by Bill Cosby, CBS attempted Tuesday night to set the record straight with The Black Soldier.

The half-hour show was a valiant, though belated, effort to overcome the neglect of generations of historians.

How many, for instance, knew that the first to die in the Boston Massacre in 1770 was an escaped slave named Crispus Attucks? Or that nearly 17 per cent of the Colonial Army was Negro?

Or that Negro sailors were aboard the ironclad Monitor when she fought the Merrimac?

That 38,000 Negro soldiers died in the American Civil War or that 14 Negro men received the Medal of Honor fighting Indians on the Western frontier?

Through a series of paintings, drawings, photographs and newsreel films, the Negro soldier's place in U.S. history was shown. As in the first broadcast, the show was not interrupted by commercials.

In the country's earlier wars, Negroes had to fight prejudice just to get into the military service, Cosby said. Once in, they acquitted themselves well.

The course was not always smooth. President Theodore Roosevelt once integrated three companies of the all-Negro 25th Infantry when there was violence in Brownsville, Tex. Segregation, Cosby said, intensified racial frictions in the military.

Later, in Houston, Tex., Negro soldiers of the 24th Regiment killed 17 whites. Thirteen Negroes were hanged and 41 sentenced to life imprisonment.

In the Second World War reports of troops' "melting away" from the front lines in 1942 marred the otherwise good battle record of the all-Negro 92nd Infantry Division, one of 4,000 all-Negro units in the army.

All-in-all, the program was informative and educative. Indeed, it was a contribution to racial understanding. But there is that nagging feeling that it could have—should have—gone further.

It is regretted that CBS limited the scope of The Black Soldier to a mere recounting of accomplishments, as admirable as the intent may be. Worthy of additional exploration is the irony of such an undemocratic institution as the military service now being one of the most democratic in its attitude toward, and its treatment of, Negroes.

Such an exploration might go a long way toward explaining the unequal—and controversial—ratio of Negro fighting men in Vietnam to the population in general. Only 11 per cent of the American population is Negro, but 20 per cent of the soldiers fighting in Vietnam are Negro. The record for 14 per cent of the battle dead.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thompson, of Tweed, were pleasantly surprised when a party was held at their home on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. Guests were in attendance from Kingston, Peterborough, Trenton, Tweed, Plainfield and other points. Lawn furniture was presented to them.

Some 70 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hayes, met at the home of Ben Hayes in Ardoch, recently to entertain the couple at a shower, when they received many gifts. The program included music and singing followed by a delicious lunch. Friends were present from Bowmanville, Hampton, Bancroft, Harlowe, Lake, Arden and Plainview Grove.

Michael Schwager of Bon Echo, near Cloyne, Ontario, called on relatives in Ardoch, recently, he was accompanied by Carman Schwager of the R.C.M.P. of Trenton.

Miss Janet Graham and friend Miss Sheila Garber of Toronto, spent a few days with Janet's mother, Mrs. T. C. Graham of Tweed.

Anniversary services were held recently at the Plevna United Church, to celebrate the 82nd anniversary of the church. Mrs. Arthur Lentz was in charge. Mrs. William Gerr read the history of the Plevna United Church, and Phillip McInnes sang a solo; Mrs. Ola Lemple composed a poem which very fittingly summed up the story of the church.

Idols Not Idle

LONDON (CP) — A pop group called the Idle Race are doing something positive to register their disapproval of the Labor government. They plan to devote half of the profits on their latest record to Conservative party funds. They also say they will vote Tory in the next election.

UK Bank Merger Opposed

LONDON (AP) — The government said Tuesday it opposes but cannot prevent a merger of three of Britain's largest banks.

The government monopolies commission recommended against merger plans that would bring Barclays, Lloyds and Martins banks together into the biggest banking concern in British.

The commission also recommended against a two-way merger of Barclays and Lloyds.

But Anthony Crosland, president of the board of trade, told the House of Commons that the vote against the merger was by 6-4 in the monopolies commission, less than two-thirds majority needed for the government to prevent a merger.

He said the government would study the commission report before deciding on possible further moves.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials posted small losses in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metals and western oils were firm.

Brokers thought the market was pausing after the strong advance since early June.

Revenue Properties fell ¼ to 31¾, MacMillan Bloedel ¼ to 25⅝, Moore Corp. ¼ to 30½, Bank of Nova Scotia ¼ to 39, and Dofasco ½ to 19. Algonquin Building Credits lost 3¢ cents to 10 and Calvert Collieries 2¢ cents to $4.65.

Ford of Canada was up 5¼ to 245, Boeing Lumber ½ to 18½ and Salada Foods ¼ to 11. Among heavy trading Alcan Electric gained 25 cents to $3.50 and Trizec Corp. 10 cents to $2.00.

Alcan picked up ⅛ to 26⅛. The company has received planning commission from the local authorities for a $130,000,000 smelter in Northumberland despite protests from Norway.

Livingston Industries dropped 3½ to 26½ on sales of 150 shares after the company reported increased annual profits of $1.73 a share compared with $1.35 the previous year.

In golds, Camflo fell 50 cents to $3.60 and Upper Canada 5 cents to $1.80. Analysts said that stockholders in gold mines are afraid of a drop in the free price of bullion.

On index, industrials lost .33 to 170.46 and golds 1.07 to 102.42. Base metals gained .45 to 104.56 and western oils .17 to 210.63.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,012,000 shares compared with 819,000 at the same time Tuesday.

The Toronto market posted a small loss Tuesday, interrupting a powerful eight-day surge. Only western oils were strong.

Golds dropped in the wake of the lower bullion price on the free markets in Europe. Analysts also said that golds are sinking in anticipation of South African bullion sales, which are expected to sharply depress the metal's free price.

Dome fell 2 to 61, Giant Yellowknife ¼ to 19, Campbell Red Lake ½ to 30¼ and Sigma 65 cents to $7.25.

In oils, Pacific Petr gained 1¼ to 22¾, Central-Del Rio ¼ to 11¾, Canadian Export Gas 40 cents to $7.10 and Westaires Petr 2 to 11.

Among climbing industrials, Ford of Canada jumped 5¼ to 239¼, Canadian Goldale ½ to 21¾, Consolidated Textile 1¼ to 13¾, Canada Cement 1w 1 Cement 1½ each to 31½ and 20 and Rothmans 1 to 29½.

Canadian Steel Foundries lost 1½ to 22½, R. L. Crain 1¼ to 17¼, Canadian Imperial Bank ½ to 39½ and RACM Industries ½ to 15½.

Magazine Started with Borrowed $5,000 Has Advertising Revenue of $7½ Million

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian venture started four years ago with a $5,000 loan has thrown the cut-throat international magazine publishing game into a bit of a tizzy.

It also has provided a small group of young, high-powered executives with an exciting few years.

The venture is Homemaker's Digest, in effect a series of preprinted shopping lists. It was started in 1964 by Gordon Bridger, 31, and Randall Munger, 24, both of Toronto.

In its first full year of operations, the magazine had gross sales of $167,000. This year, gross sales are forecast at $7½ million.

It is a controlled-circulation magazine that comes out six times a year. It now claims total circulation of more than 12,500,000—a figure its publishers say is the largest in the world for any women's magazine.

Each issue is mailed free to a selected group of readers in Canada, the United States, Britain, and West Germany.

In addition to the preprinted shopping lists, the magazine offers articles on diet to reduce the risk of heart attacks in husbands, keeping children active-and-free at cottages, and new toys to buy daddy to keep him away from junior's electric trains.

Since the magazine is given away, the revenue obviously has to come from advertisers.

A big selling point from the magazine's viewpoint is that its company buying list puts its products listed exclusively—no competitors are allowed in.

And that's where the tizzy comes from.

Advertisers don't like to rush their money into a new communications medium in case it flops. But if Homemaker's Digest is as successful as its founders claim, they have to be there or be left out.

Also, many big advertisers don't like to put money into a brand-new magazine. They argue that since people don't pay for it, there is no way of determining if a buyer anyone wants it or reads it.

Homemaker's Digest, however, has made extensive use of opinion polls and surveys to determine it is being accepted by housewives.

And it claims that, since the mailing list is carefully controlled, it goes only into homes where it will do the most good from the advertisers' viewpoint.

The magazine is aimed at families living in their own homes, where the head of the house has a median income of more than $8,000 annually.

The first issue of the magazine, then called Market Maid, was a 10,000 mailing in Toronto.

Homemaker's Digest now claims a Canadian circulation of 1,024,000, plus 1,000,000 in British and 500,000 in West Germany.

Its U.S. circulation, started at a cost estimated at $750,000, is put at 10,000,000.

Mr. Badger says the aim of the magazine is to put the consumer in a specialized position by giving her-specialized service.

"There are trade magazines serving every conceivable facet of life in North America, but no one has given the housewife that kind of service," he says.

"That's what we're doing."

He says the idea has proved so successful that almost all magazines now will go over to controlled circulation. This, he claims, is the only way to show an advertiser conclusively what he gets for his money.

Consumer Communications Corp. (Canada) Ltd., the corporation that produces the magazine, has about 40 employees. Their average age is 28.

Three Policemen Wage Gun Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Two policemen were shot and wounded when a gunbattle erupted Tuesday night among three off-duty officers following a car accident in Tottomville mishap on the Cross-Bronx Expressway.

The officers were identified as probationary patrolman Nicolo J. Danisi, 24, in critical condition with a head wound, and patrolman John Dalton, 41, in serious condition with a chest wound. Both wese in hospital.

Police identified the third officer as detective Frederick Gibson, 28.

All three were dressed in civilian clothes and driving their own cars when the incident began about 10:15 p.m.

The car driven by Dalton stalled on the expressway in the East Bronx where the roadway is partially blocked by construction.

Danisi was in a car backed up behind the stalled vehicle and he got out and walked up to Dalton's car. Police said the two men started arguing.

Gibson, who was several cars back of Danisi, said he saw Danisi pull out his wallet and display his shield to Dalton.

A police spokesman said Gibson then saw Dalton shoot Danisi, the bullet striking the probationary patrolman above the right eye.

Police said Gibson then took cover behind a car and, drawing his revolver, ordered Dalton to drop his gun. But Dalton fired at Gibson instead, police said.

Returning the fire, Gibson shot Dalton in the chest.

He was driven the 30 miles to Burlington by a newspaper reporter to see the MacPherson family. He emigrated from Glasgow three years ago.

The actual reunion took place at the Friday's Restaurant. Only a few there when it appeared Steven would be sent home on another ship.

Lakehead's Handlers of Grain Approve Strike by Big Margin

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — A strike that would transform the Lakehead's mammoth terminal grain elevators into monuments of inactivity could start at any minute.

All conciliation procedures leading up to strike action have been completed.

But, for now, the 1,300 Fort William-Port Arthur grain handlers are still on the job at the more than 20 grain company terminals.

A vote announced Tuesday—97 per cent in favor of strike action—was accompanied by union expressions of hope that the dispute will be settled at the bargaining table and not on the picket line.

Significantly, no strike deadline was set.

There are not planning for any immediate withdrawal of services," said union spokesman Frank Manzr.

Somebody has to get negotiations going again, and the unions says it is not going to make the first move.

In the meantime, a firm strike date—Aug. 25—was set by union representatives of 15,000 pulp and paper company employees.

All the companies involved are in northwestern Ontario with the exception of operations at Pine Falls, Man., and Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que.

Unions in the two plants are counted in the membership of the Central Canada Council of Pulp and Paper Mill unions because they are part of the Abitibi Co. network.

Abitibi is the regional giant of the pulp and paper industry with two operations in Port Arthur and others in Fort William, Sault Ste. Marie, Sturegon Falls and Smooth Rock Falls.

Other communities involved, many of them one-industry towns, are: Thorold, Port Frances, Kenora, Red Lake, Terrace Bay, Marathon, Kapuskasing and Espanola.

Strike action has been endorsed by the membership in Kenora and Fort Frances and strike votes will be held in a number of other towns during the next week.

Council spokesman Carl Blasby of Fort Frances said:

"If satisfactory settlements between union and management have not been concluded by Aug. 25, all council-affiliated locals in a position to strike will do so."

A grain handlers' strike would halt all grain deliveries from the country elevators in Manitoba and most of Saskatchewan.

The farmers would be the first to suffer, because he gets paid on the basis of his deliveries to the country elevator.

The railways would immediately put an embargo on grain shipments to the Lakehead because there is nothing to be gained in using grain cars for deliveries that wouldn't be unloaded.

This, in turn, would quickly plug up the eastern prairie elevators.

Already, because of the St. Lawrence Seaway workers strike which began June 21, direct overseas clearances of grain from the Lakehead are blocked although ships are still calling in and being loaded for storage destinations farther down Lake Superior.

The strike vote followed unanimous rejection by the grain handlers of a federal conciliation board report in which the chairman recommended a wage increase of 70 cents an hour over two years.

The recommended increase would, in four stages, bring wages for general elevator laborers to $2 an hour from the present $2.30.

We Cannot Do Simple Tasks

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Trying vainly (and knowing I would have to call for help) to knot a black bow tie for a dinner dinner the other evening, I assuaged my sense of ineffectuality by recalling some of the silly and simple things people cannot do.

For years I have tried to cope with bow ties: patient friends and relatives have given me lessons, and when they turn around, I can manage some semblance of a knot. But, left to my own, I ignominously have to settle for something that looks like a snake eating its own tail.

I know a woman who can sew and knit expertly, and yet cannot extract a cork from a bottle to save her life, even with the most ingenious of corkscrews. I know a gifted surgeon who cannot back his car into a parking space: his wife does it, or he finds a larger space.

Visiting out of town not long ago, I was playing bridge when the hostess was out for a rubber. She excused herself and said brightly, "Think I'll go into the kitchen and whip up some fudge."

My greedy little mouth began to water, loving fudge and recollecting the general excellence of her cuisine. As soon as she had left the room, her husband leaned over and murmured us, "There won't be any fudge — just forget it."

He went on to explain that on an average of one evening a week for years she has popped into the kitchen to "make fudge" with no success whatever. All they had at the end was a glum and gooey mess in the pot, or the ice cream. "I haven't eaten a piece of home-made fudge in four years," he said darkly.

I suppose the Freudians would say there is a "block" somewhere if a reasonably adept and intelligent person cannot perform a simple function like tying a bow tie or uncorking a bottle. Yet, it helps to keep in mind that Houdini, the most adroit of magical manipulators, was always clumsily breaking things around the house; his wife finally refused to let him help with the dishes.

And Montaigne, the noted French writer who was the very inventor of the essay, once confessed, "My hands are so clumsy I cannot write so as to read myself: what I have written, and I'd rather scribble it over again than take the trouble to decipher it."

What this all suggests; I suppose, is related to my remarks in a recent column about the types of "intelligence." Intelligences can be graduated up like a ladder, but must be measured off like a fence. Intelligences are of different kinds: Great magicians drop dishes, and brilliant psychiatrists often cannot run their own families — which the nofudge lady does with admirable ease.

Brewers Urge Negotiations

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario brewing industry appears ready to go back to the bargaining table, with a suggestion from its chief negotiator that both sides make an effort to settle the 21-day dispute which left the province in a beer drought.

In a letter Wednesday to the United States breweries, Mr. Sheppard's statement followed a warning from Harry Simon, district representative of the Canadian Labor Congress and union spokesman, that if no one could include arrangements for rescheduling vacations and payment of vacation pay on a mutually-satisfactory basis.

Union officials complained earlier that the industry has refused to give the 2,700 workers involved in the strike-locked their vacation pay while the breweries are shut down.

Another issue in the dispute is the employee pension plan. The companies want a uniform, industry-wide scheme, but the union wants to negotiate to improve individual company plans.

G. Harry Sheppard, chief commissioner of the liquor control board, said Wednesday the board will not tap new foreign sources of beer to ease the situation.

The board has received orders from several taverns and hotels seeking to buy beer from

Seaway Intervention Refused

OTTAWA (CP) — The government kept its hands off the St. Lawrence Seaway labor dispute Wednesday despite a spate of pleas for federal action to reopen the waterway.

Prime Minister Trudeau said the dispute should be traced out by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, the Crown agency which operates the seaway, and the 1,250 members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers who walked out June 21 to back their wage demands.

"The government should not interfere with the collective bargaining processes," Mr. Trudeau said in a telegram to the Montreal Port Council, a private organization which promotes Montreal port facilities.

The Dominion Marine Association sent him a telegram asking the government to re-open the seaway, using troops to man the locks if necessary.

Mr. Trudeau had not seen the Marine Association telegram when he emerged from a cabinet session. But his reply to the Montreal council made it evident that he has not changed his stand against government intervention into this sort of dispute.

A Montreal shipping company, meanwhile, offered to put its car into the tie-up.

Alec C. Pathy, vice-president of Federal Commerce and Navigation Co. Ltd., volunteered at a news conference to act as mediator to get the workers and the authority back to the bargaining table.

Federal Commerce has 24 sea-going ships locked in the seaway system.

Mr. Pathy said representatives of both labor and management are just "sitting in their offices, waiting for the other to pick them a call."

While they were sitting, combined losses in toll revenues and worker's wages totalled $130,000 a day.

Dominion Marine Association, representing most vessels in Canada's laker fleet, said its members are spending $500,000 a day to keep idle ships in operating condition.

Strike Could Begin July 17

OTTAWA (CP) — A conciliation board that investigated the issues in the postal dispute submitted its report Wednesday but its findings remain confidential.

The report will be released to the press today at 6 p.m. EDT but it may not be published before 11 a.m. Friday.

Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the public service staff relations board, told a hastily-assembled news conference Wednesday of the disposition of the report.

He formally accepted the document from Prof. Andre Desgagne of Laval University, chairman of the conciliation board, then gave sealed copies to representatives of the parties in the dispute which threatens a national postal shutdown on July 17 at the earliest.

Reporters, some of whom expected immediate release of the Report Contains Nothing on Pay

MONTREAL (CP) — Local union officials, preparing for a nationwide postal strike July 17, said today a conciliation board report dealing with the postal dispute contains no real settlement proposals.

Marcel Perreault, local president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said he understands the report deals primarily with working conditions and not with higher salaries.

"I don't believe the report will change anything about the date of the strike," he said.

report's details, were told the delay in publication was to give the parties time to digest it and discuss it with its members.

Mailmen Exhorted To Be Firm

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's 24,000 postal workers are preparing for their second strike in three years.

At a noisy meeting in an east-end arena, union leaders told 1,000 workers the strike could take place legally July 18. Marcel Perreault, local president of the Canadian Union of Postal Employees, called on the workers to continue their prospective strike no matter what pressures are put on them—and regardless of injunctions, special legislation or even imprisonment.

His call to continue the strikes even in the face of imprisonment drew a standing ovation from his audience.

"We are headed for a strike and I think that only a miracle can stop it," he said.

Mr. Perreault said the strike would not end "until everything has been settled in a fair and equitable way."

He called on Prime Minister Trudeau to "have more sense of responsibility and a little less kissing."

Maurice Briere, president of the Montreal local of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, said conciliation report "doesn't contain much good—nothing more than what has been agreed upon during the negotiations."

If the strike takes place, it will stop the flow of all mail except for that originating from social welfare agencies. Union spokesmen said arrangements would be made to have the welfare mail distributed.

Spock Gets 2 Years For Anti-war Stand

BOSTON (CP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, the internationally-known baby specialist, Wednesday was sentenced here to two years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

His crime: Conspiring with three colleagues, the U.S. government says, to counsel, aid and abet youths of the so-called Spock generation to refuse to serve in the Vietnam war.

Judge Francis J. W. Ford also imposed two-year prison sentences on Yale University Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43; author Mitchell Goodman, 44, of Temple, Maine, and Harvard graduate student Michael Ferber, 23.

Coffin and Goodman were fined $5,000 and Ferber was fined $1,000.

Ford stayed the sentences and continued the defendants' $1,000 bonds pending their appeals to the U.S. circuit court.

The maximum sentence was five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

No pacifist, Spock served in the Second World War as a naval psychiatrist and supported the United Nations role in Korea against the Communists.

But not Vietnam.

"There's not a shred of legality in the Vietnam war," he insisted angrily Wednesday in Boston after sentencing. "I say wake up. Get out there and do something before it is too late."

There were demonstrations outside the Boston court where the four were sentenced and in Philadelphia, New York; Toronto and Vancouver. American draft dodgers picketed the U.S. consulate in Toronto. Among a dozen arrested in Toronto was magazine writer June Callwood.

In New York, a spokesman for the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam said, "We have been quiet for a while but now we are going to come crashing back into action again."

Marlbank Octogenarians Off Fishing in 1928 Ford

MARLBANK, Ont. (CP) — James Burd, 85, and his wife Edna, 82, once more have official clearance to take their 1928 Ford on fishing and blueberry-picking expeditions.

Mr. Burd, who will be 86 July 26, Tuesday passed his annual driver's test without trouble.

His health and eyesight are good, but Ontario regulations require all persons of 80 years and older to take annual tests.

"I don't know what we'd do if Jim couldn't drive," Mrs. Burd said.

The couple, married 61 years ago, spend most of the summer at their bottage on Seaver Lake. Mr. Burd also makes frequent shopping trips to Napanee.

They also go on frequent fishing and blueberry-picking trips in the nearby lakes and hills.

Mr. Burd says he keeps his four-cylinder, 40-horsepower coach in top running condition. The odometer registers slightly more than 86,000 miles, but that may be the second or third time around the 100,000-mile mark, he said.

'Open-end Threat' Lakehead Strategy

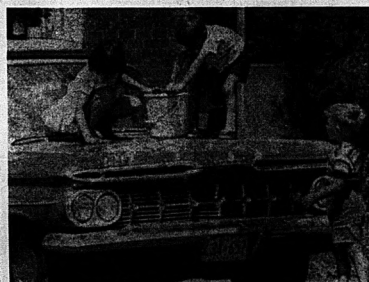
FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Lakehead grain handlers were to begin piloting new strategy today based on the open-end strike threat they announced two days ago.

Union spokesman Frank Maxwell Wednesday the talks were planned for today and Friday but they are strictly internal with no new contacts with representatives of the terminal elevator companies.

The union, with 1,300 members, voted 97 per cent in favor of a strike but reserved decision on a deadline. If they strike, they'll choke off grain deliveries from Manitoba and most of Saskatchewan.

The prospect has provincial agriculture ministers, who are meeting in Regina concerned.

Agriculture Minister Harry Enns of Manitoba said: "We would be the innocent victims to the wrecking of the prairie economy."



His Alberta counterpart, Harry Strom, said: "Something must be done. We just can't sit back and wait for the strike to run its normal course."

The Prairie Economic Council, made up of the three Prairie premiers, added the grain handlers threat to their agenda for a meeting in Edmonton Thursday, and fired off a telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau, asking the federal government to ensure grain movement.

"Continuation of the work stoppage poses a serious threat . . . that cannot be condoned at a time when Canadian wheat sales abroad are the lowest in years and carryover stocks will be the highest in a decade."

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan said the timing of the strikers' demands is "little more than blackmail."

In addition to the grain handlers' threat, the Prairie officials were concerned about a strike on the St. Lawrence Seaway which started June 21. It has blocked direct overseas clearances of grain from the Lakehead.

National Union Pledges Support to Trenton Strikers

TRENTON — This town's 21 striking municipal employees today were pledged support from the Canadian Union of Public Employees national strike fund.

Backing came in a telegram from CUPE national president Stanley Little as the walkout of the town's outside employees entered its second day.

Meantime the strikers are planning door-to-door distribution of a pamphlet appealing for public "understanding and support" in the breakdown of wage-hike negotiations with town council.

The workers, members of CUPE local 790, walked out Wednesday, today was pick eting the town hall and the municipal garage depot.

The national president's telegram from Ottawa said CUPE's national resources were being placed at the disposal of the strikers.

"You can count on all the experts employed by the union — research, legal and public relations staff — to help you out", Mr. Webb pledged. "And if necessary, you will be able to draw on CUPE's million-dollar national strike fund to see you through the strike".

Mr. Little charged the strike was forced by town council's "stubborn attitude".

Strikers said they planned to distribute leaflets starting at 2 p.m. today.

The pamphlet apologizes for inconveniences the walkout may cause Trentonians and their families.

It claims: "We did everything we could to come to an understanding with town council.

"We patiently swallowed the arrogance of the professional negotiator council hired to deal with our requests."

It says the town's conciliation board representative agreed to recommendations of salary increases totalling 20 per cent and a job security clause.

"Now council turns around and stubbornly refuses to grant us the job security . . . recommended by its own nominee on the conciliation board."

"We ask for your understanding and support. Let Mayor MacDonald and his council know how you feel about the way they treat us."

Picketing continued as both sides in the dispute seemed holding fast to opposing stands.

Although garbage collectors are under union contract, strikers are watching for any union members who may attempt to dump garbage.

Said a picketer, "They will be reported to their union and they'll lose their job."

Yesterday police dispersed picketers at the dump but one of the strikers said this had been due to "pretty loud behavior" on the part of the picketers.

Police said today the strikers are within their rights at the dump as long as they do not interfere with the privately contracted collectors.

Union members who work at the town hall were still not entering the building.

Town Clerk G. W. Larry said there has been no change on the town's stand on the matter.

He added no "special negotiations have been planned between the town and the strikers."

The strikers believe the strike action could go on indefinitely. As one picketer put it, "we could be here for one half of a long time".

The job security clause is still the big stumbling block in the situation. The strikers do not want the town to hire outside help for certain jobs as this would result in layoffs for the town employees, they claim.

The town points out that permanent workers have never had this experience.

However, one picketer put this in a new light when he said, "There were around 45 employees in the town 10 years ago.

Mr. Larry said this might well be so but at this time there "were many road repairs and curb installations taking place."

He added that most of this would have been summer help.

No Beer Today-- Liquor Sales Up

Assistant Manager at the Plaza liquor store, Donald Dafoe said that he had noticed a definite increase in liquor sales.

And bartenders in all of the city's lounges also report increases.

"If they can't drink beer," said one of them, "they usually have one or two drinks anyway".

Seizures are still reported to be much more frequent at the Canada-U.S. border posts and there have been seizures between Ontario and Quebec.

OPP Superintendent D. E. Wellesley of Belleville said the beer bat would be for Ontario resident to bring back only one case of beer."

". . . If you find five cases of beer in your car and tried to bring them into Ontario from Quebec, you would stand a good chance of running into problems with the police," he said.

Whenever there's beer in Belleville it certainly doesn't take long to sell these days.

According to a spokesman at the LCBO store at the Belleville Shopping Plaza a supply of imported beer that arrived yesterday was sold out the same day.

"The order wasn't as large as expected anyway," he said, "but it didn't take long going."

At the LCBO's other location on Station St., it was reported that there was no beer and it was not known when another shipment would be coming in.

But beer isn't the only thing that sells quickly.

An increase in liquor sales has been noticed all across Ontario as well as in Ontario and at the liquor stores.

Realtors Told They Pave Way For City to Live Up to Name

Belleville realtors were told yesterday that because of the nature of their job they must be prepared to expend extra energy in fulfilling their community responsibility.

"Almost every newcomer to this city has immediate contact with one of you," Intelligencer Managing Editor David M. Soutter told the brokers. Mr. Soutter was talking to the brokers and their salesmen at the annual golf outing at the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

"Your approach, sincerity, and faith in this community will go a long way towards Belleville being able to maintain its slogan as 'The Friendly City'. If these newcomers are to contribute to the progress of our city, their initial reaction to the community is all important," he said.

Mr. Soutter said the city's brokers and salesmen would have to be prepared to play a growing part in the philosophy that industry, commercial business and institutions must not look upon their operation as a one-way street.

"The Intelligencer has always participated in community affairs, in the past," said the newspaper editor, "and we are prepared to continue to do so." As examples he cited the appearance in the Quinte area last year of the Toronto Symphony and "our decision this year to add to the natural attractiveness of Twick's Island by participating in the sponsorship of the series of Sunday afternoon musical concerts."

In linking the newspaper and the real estate business, Mr. Soutter told the meeting the first classified advertisement ever to appear in a North American newspaper was a "farm for sale" ad in a Boston newspaper in 1704.

"Since that time, the use of classified advertising columns by real estate firms has grown, so that on almost any day there are 12,000 house for sale ads running in Canadian newspapers."

Mr. Soutter brought to the attention of the realtors that a survey indicated 73 per cent of the families that bought homes found them in the classified real estate columns and 50 per cent of those who consulted brokers learned of them through the classified columns.

In emphasizing the popularity of a newspaper's classified advertising pages, Mr. Soutter told the realtors they should be prepared to exercise imagination and innovation in their advertising programs.

"Study what other boards are doing," he suggested. "There is no reason for stereotyped presentation. The service is flexible and viable and should be made to work for you."

In closing, Mr. Soutter suggested the brokers might be willing to consider a co-operative weekend listing by street address so that prospective buyers might drive around the city and inspect the exteriors of the homes for sale. He also suggested the newspaper would be willing to carry a news article on a weekly basis in which the local board answered questions about Quinte real estate problems.

No Word If Base Planes Needed for Biafra Lift

TRENTON — It is not known yet whether CFB Trenton will play a role in the transporting of food to Biafra where children are dying by the thousands.

Capt. Dennis Hogan, public relations' officer for the base said there had been no official word as to the departure point of any air transport.

"We don't know what type of planes or how many would be needed as of yet," said Capt. Hogan.

He added that political complications had frozen this matter in the hands of the department of external affairs.

"We have contacted General David Adamson," said Capt. Hogan; "and he says there is no definite information to be given."

Wednesday Prime Minister Trudeau said he has asked External Affairs Minister Sharp to prepare a report for the cabinet.

An external affairs spokesman said Canada is prepared to provide relief supplies but the political situation has not been sorted out. Biafra seceded from Nigeria and the two African countries have been locked in civil war since last year.

Nigeria has threatened to shoot down any planes carrying relief supplies into Biafra unless they are cleared through Nigeria. The Biafrans say they fear any food transported through Nigeria would be poisoned by the Nigerians.

Premier Robarts said Wednesday the Ontario government would be "quite prepared" to assist the people of Biafra if roadblocks which now prevent such aid were removed.

Corke New President Of Downtown Merchants

Ben Corke was elected president of the new Downtown Businessmen's Association at a meeting this morning.

About 40 businesses were represented.

Supporting him in his efforts to develop the downtown will be directors Jack McIntosh, Bryson Leslie, Irvin Shulman, Joseph Blackburn, Bruce Mosolf, Wilbur Fox, Charles Bristol, Jack Ireland, James Walker, Ernie Colebourne, Howard Booth and Stanley Albert.

Mr. McIntosh made opening comments and told the merchants that if they wanted to do better and insure their business they would have to forget self interest and think about the general development of the area".

Schemes of promotional activities were emphasized by the new president who also said that last year's dues totalled $1,620. "This is absurd when we have investments in millions".

To finance promotional activity and get the ball rolling for redevelopment Mr. Corke said that $12,000 would be needed.

Suggestions from the floor to raise the money were a business tax applied through City Hall and an appraisal of businesses based on the amount of frontage.

Mr. Corke was passed to have the directors investigate what kind of reception a frontage levy would get from the merchants.

After a question as to how much money was going to be given was raised by Mr. Albert, Mr. Corke stated that as far as he was concerned. "It's going to take at least $10 from each business to make the venture successful."

A few of those present voiced agreement but no decision was made.

Now that the directors have been elected Mr. Corke said that a meeting would be held in the immediate future to establish some concrete plan of action and decide how it should be supported.

Estimates Already Committed

Road Construction Cutback - - Lack of Money

Inflation is a speedy process these days — particularly when it hits a stretch of road construction costs.

So much so, it has affected requests for additional road development, Hastings County council learned yesterday.

Reeve R. Clarence Graham, of Hungerford, council's road committee chairman, noted a recent request for additional development was turned down by the Department of Highways.

The committee earlier believed sufficient funds were available in five - year estimates allocated by the department in 1965.

However, the committee discovered, the estimates already had been fully committed to development already under construction.

Reason for the "unfortunate situation", said Reeve Graham, is that actual construction costs have so outpaced estimates made in 1964, that available cash was being written off at a higher rate.

County engineer Peter Anderson said allowances was made for increased costs when the Department drew its estimates.

"But it was nothing like the actual jump in construction costs," he added.

There were instances where estimates were 50 per cent above costs, he said.

Some estimates "were low in my opinion at the time," added the county engineer, "but not so great in the light of increased construction costs."

Council wrapped up the final hours of its two-day mid-summer session with debate on various issues in the road committee report.

It approved a needs study of roads in the county's northern townships which lie outside the county roads system.

The survey will be included in an updated report on county roads already underway, and will cost $8,000 — 75 per cent of the cost being paid by the Department of Highways.

Gerry Browning, Department needs study engineer, said the survey would produce the facts and figures of any financial implications if the townships entered the county road system in future.

Implied behind much of council's debate was the possibility of regional government, and the need for municipalities to be organized for such an eventuality.

Bancroft deputy reeve Earl Hawley noted "a long - term - view" trend toward regional government in the province.

"We might better move at the right time . . ." he said, "because if it's going to come to regional government it would be nice to have all the information."

Reeve Graham also updated council on road construction progress in the county.

In one instance, estimates have had to be revised for a construction project—replacement of Hunt's bridge in Tyendinaga township.

Postal Strike

Postal Unions, with members spread across the country, needs time to notify its hundreds of locals of the report's contents. The council also has scheduled a weekend meeting with its top officials.

The council already has strike authorization from its membership if it decides to reject the report. More than 90 per cent of union members polled vote for such a strike.

The treasury board, which represents the federal government in collective bargaining, could also balk at the report's recommendations, particularly if their adoption appeared to fan the fires of inflation.

Under bargaining legislation, federal public servants may legally strike seven days after a conciliation board reports. In this case that means late on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 17. However, the council could delay for its own organizational and psychological purposes.

There were 46 points in dispute when negotiations broke up April 24. Wages were the disputed, although some postal sources said the council proposed increases of some 70 cents an hour—about a 25-per-cent increase.

Under public service legislation, the contract in dispute must expire Sept. 30, 1968. Allowing for retroactivity, it would cover a 14-month period.

Council Co-chairmen William Houle and Roger Decarie declined comment on their demands Wednesday. They said they will not comment on the conciliation report's details until Friday.

University students Al Thomson (left) and Roy Maddocks are covering seven counties in the Peterborough - Quinte region this summer gleaning opinions from local councils. The results — they explain here to Hastings County councillors — will be contained in report prepared for Lake Ontario Regional Development Council.

Two Students Survey Hastings In Search for 'Grassroot' Ideas

How do the grassroots grow in the Quinte area?

Two political science students are spending their summer finding out — and their field of discoveries could reap economic benefit to the region.

Roy Maddocks, a 19-year-old Belleville, and Al Thomson, 18 of Peterborough, have been meeting with municipal authorities since June 10.

Their mission is to garner opinions from local government representatives on the potential and expectations in area municipalities.

The findings will be combined in a survey being prepared at Trent University in Peterborough for the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council, which in turn will pass it along to the provincial government.

The survey is not emphasizing statistics. Instead it wants grassroot ideas, problems and needs in the various municipalities in the LORDC zone.

The area counts seven counties in the Peterborough - Quinte region, and both students consider it imperative they talk with as many local councils as possible.

"We try to find their ideas of their own potential, what they feel is the biggest problem," says Al Thomson, studying political science at Queen's University.

The response of municipal veterans to their youthful interviewers has been worthwhile so far, says Roy, who is majoring in political science at Trent.

"They've been really quite serious in their attitude towards us — helpful and constructive," he adds.

A sample of the general response was gleaned when the youths went before Hastings County council yesterday to introduce themselves to reeves of various townships.

"We can't oversell ourselves at any time," said Bancroft deputy reeve Earl Hawley.

"The more we participate in these things the better it is going to be for us all."

"I think it's a good idea that each municipality have these gentlemen visit them," advised county warden Calvin White.

The project also is proving an illumination to the two students of public affairs.

"Before we got this job we knew text book politics," points out Roy. "Now we're getting a little of the reality."

Carl Bateman

Bateman to Speak At Washington Meeting

As administrator of Hastings County, Carl E. Bateman is used to facing assemblies.

Today he is busily processing details from the mid-summer session of county council which ended yesterday.

Some time in the near future the county clerk-treasurer must prepare details for the biggest confrontation of his career to date — the Association of American Counties congress in Washington, D.C.

Some time between July 28-31, he will go before 3,000 congress delegates to tell them about the Canadian municipal way of doing things on the American continent.

He is among three local government officials charged with delivering papers to the big convention. His platform colleagues will hail from Hawaii and Alaska.

Mr. Bateman, who has been administering the municipal business of Hastings County for the past six years, comes by the honor through an earlier recognition of his capabilities.

This year he is serving his term as president of the Association of Ontario Counties. He is the first appointed municipal official to hold that office.

This week, county council quickly noted the importance of his secondary role in municipal affairs. One of its first acts was to grant him leave to attend the Washington congress.

Department Examines Intersection

The highway intersection at Marysville is one of Quinte's newest.

It also has turned out one of the most disastrous.

Now the department of highways is examining the bleak record of the junction of highways 302 and 49 Hastings County council was told yesterday before it wound up its mid-summer session in Belleville.

The rate of mishaps — some of them fatal — at the crossroads carrying traffic from the Quinte Skyway to the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway was raised by Deseronto reeve Donald Armitage.

(Provincial police in Belleville said today three people had been killed in traffic mishaps at the intersection in the past year.

OPP District Superintendent D. E. Wellesley said the site was a "selected" area for police traffic patrols because of its accident record and the high number of traffic violations).

The reeve dubbed it a "dangerous situation" since stop signs at the junction were posted for Highway 49 traffic.

He indicated motorists travelling the main highways were being caught unawares by the signs.

"There are many, many cars going through it (the intersection) at quite a speed," he said. "I think we should petition the department of highways to have a look at it.

However, Reeve Delbert Harvey of Tyendinaga township said provincial authorities already were examining the situation.

"The matter is under investigation by the department of highways," he said. "A survey is being undertaken and my information is that we will have (the results) within two weeks."

Recipients Keep Diaries

Welfare Policy Reviewed

Employable recipients of welfare in Hastings County must now keep a written record of their attempts to find work.

The record is to be available to welfare officials who can instantly check its, veracity, Hastings County council was told Wednesday.

Donald Rodgers of Stirling, chairman of the county welfare committee, said it is official policy that any employable recipient "should do his best to find work."

Such a recipient "has to keep a diary and report regularly . . . what he has done and where he has been," said Reeve Rodgers.

The welfare official can check immediately and see if he (the recipient) has been there," added the reeve.

Reeve Rodgers' report also proposed the county-wide welfare department now be known as Hastings County department of social services, since more than welfare provisions are provided by its staff.

"It was also our understanding," says the report, "that it was the hope of each municipal council involved that any means by which the dignity and self-respect of recipients could be enhanced should be utilized."

Results will justify formation of the country-wide agency, the welfare chairman added.

Reeve Rodgers also emphasized the system works toward rehabilitation of its recipients.

Inability to handle personal finances had placed many people on welfare, he pointed out, and the agency worked in hopes of eradicating such personal problems.

Reeve S. J. Carr pondered how welfare could be extended a family when its male guardian refused to work and reneged on his role as breadwinner.

"A man may gain employment," he said, "but how do you make him work?"

"Are well-to-do people going to let the children starve because the man won't work? If you give the children welfare, how are you going to keep that man's nose out of the trough?" he queried.

Reeve Rodgers admitted such a situation was a core problem of welfare.

Pollution in NWT

Is there no part of this vast land that is going to be left free of pollution?

We have more space than any other nation on earth except the Soviet Union, and yet the word now is that pollution has been detected even in the Northwest Territories. A wildlife service biologist says more may be expected there if mining activity increases.

"The dangerous print of pollution has already been stamped in a ruggedly beautiful valley on our east slope," biologist Norman M. Simmons, stationed at Fort Smith, told a federal-provincial wildlife conference at Whitehorse.

Mr. Simmons also warned of the threat to wildlife in the area posed by increased commercial development. Industrial development must come, but in its train the scourge of pollution may be expected. If this problem is to be controlled, now is the time to tackle it.

The rest of Canada — "the outside," as it is known to residents of the far north — is only too well acquainted with pollution. It is so well entrenched that any counter measures can only be regarded as being of token value.

In some instances official inaction is to blame. A classic example is the situation at Centreville, N.B. where a tributary of the St. John River straddles the international border between New Brunswick and Maine. Once a thriving trout stream, the waterway lately has been carrying into Canadian territory filth rotted by the outflow from plants on the U.S. side.

Centreville residents, taking action themselves, have bulldozed earth and stone across the tributary and created a dam to block the flow of waste. The resultant lake is expected to back up into Maine.

Here at least is a situation where an aroused public was presented with an opportunity of doing something about it. But overall, pollution unfortunately is something else again, presenting a formidable problem outside the capability of any small group anxious to correct it. This is a task that must be tackled increasingly at the scientific and industrial level. To the scientists we must look for measurement of the extent of the problem and for possible new solutions. To Canada's industrialists we expect compliance with existing regulations governing the outflow of waste material into both our waterways and into the atmosphere.

Thirsty Ontario

Ontario's beer drinkers — and goodness knows there are plenty of them — are becoming increasingly impatient at the strike-by-lockout of brewery workers that has deprived them of their favorite brew for three weeks.

Quite apart from the merits of the workers' claim for increased wages, it is the public as ever which suffers from the stoppage. While reduced intake of beer may be good discipline for some and beneficial to the health of others, the fact remains the public is being deprived of the opportunity of obtaining it.

One of the reasons why it cannot be obtained is the absence of alternative outlets. The provincial government, through its agency, the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, has a monopoly on the sale of beer. At a time like this, the availability of beer from other sources would be appreciated.

Who knows what ugly neuroses are developing in the minds of citizens unable to obtain their beer. In Toronto pickets have been the target of abusive comments from passers-by and even missiles.

Yes it is a hard world for beer drinkers in Ontario.

Fair Exchange

There is poetic justice in the report from Sydney that the New South Wales education department is seeking teachers from Canada, and has already recruited 21.

It may be news to many, but according to New South Wales deputy premier Charles Cutler Canada broke a Commonwealth gentleman's agreement by recruiting teachers from Australia recently.

Whatever the validity of his claim, the fact that nearly two dozen Canadians are going to exchange the northern for the southern hemisphere mid-winter snow and short-lived summers for a climate ranging from temperate to sub-tropical most of the year round seems like a fair exchange.

If a gentleman's agreement did exist, the fact that it has been broken should make for an interesting new dimension in the careers of the teachers concerned, as well as helping to create closer ties between the Commonwealth countries.

PC's Stanfield Still Has His Sights on Premiership

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Of Conservative Leader Stanfield you have to say much, much more than the currently pat and popular "he loses well."

This faint-praise "good loser" brush-off is suspect as the wishful thinking of the Instant-benefiaries of "Pierre Power."

Having seen Robert Stanfield lose well in the election, they now hopefully see him losing even better in the confidence of Conservatives, and then "getting lost" best of all as opposition leader.

And that, except for one or two exceptions has been the way-it-was with Conservative leaders who tried and lost before him.

It could be the-way-it-is for Robert Stanfield . . . except.

. . . except that to assume, expect, or even hope it is to be so is to ignore the realities of Robert Stanfield's kind of man.

Even now after this defeat, humiliating as it must have been, after all the morning-after second-guessing, and after, most of all, the denigrating of the discounters, one thing about Robert Stanfield comes through strong and hard.

It's his implacable determination.

Bob Stanfield intends to be prime minister of Canada.

He didn't make it last time. Didn't even come close. In fact, missed by 60 seats. But there have been other Conservative leaders who have missed by more, far more.

And he may not make it when four years brings around the next election — assuming all runs according to parliamentary plan and program — in 1972.

It could take two elections and eight years.

Or longer.

As long, or longer than it took him to bring the Conservatives in Nova Scotia from nowhere in 1940 — just 20 years ago — to their present position of great power.

Robert Stanfield at 54, all quiet, purposeful energy dedicated to the ultimate prime ministerial triumph, makes it sound and credible, as something almost inevitable.

But then, how real is the real Robert Stanfield, how realistic?

Well, in this last losing campaign, while he publicly might have talked victory — all leaders must display supreme confidence — he privately spoke of something quite different.

Sure, he hoped — and all it was actually, was a hope, faint, as things turned out — for token victory in a minority win.

But his cold conservative (Cont. it with a small "c" for careful) expectation was for less then even minority victory.

It was a cool assessment of the best prospect running between 90 and 100 seats.

That would have taken him back to Parliament with about the same MP-power he took into the election.

But even this cautious calculation was made in the nervous knowledge that things could turn out much worse — that he could come back with far fewer than the 97 who returned from the '65 election.

He had been around politics too long not to know that the party campaign apparatus was not operating smoothly, that some amateurs were in charge of his personal election tour, that Conservative national headquarters was captive of the Montmorency "thinkers."

What he had to do, and what the party's professional "doers" — as opposed to its deceitfully unprofessional "thinkers" — saw as the overriding priority was just this:

The export from Nova Scotia to other parts of Canada those qualities of integrity and responsibility — especially in economic leadership — that were such best political sellers for so long in the Atlantic provinces.

Prime Minister Trudeau, they were confident, simply couldn't go on forever talking Mozart, taking half-gainers off poolside diving boards and holding shopping mall kiss-ins.

When the honeymoon was over — and it could be sooner than a lot of people think — it would be a contest for Canadians to have Bob Stanfield around with his agility as a contemporary politician, his strong intellect, his subtle sense of humor, his cool control and his quiet knowhow.

All that, and his implacable determination to become prime minister sooner or later, gives it the sure feeling of inevitability.

Poltergeists at Large

Pat Wheelen in
The Windsor Star

Those weird happenings in a house near Belleville spell just one thing: poltergeists.

The startling thing is not that such things are reported in the second half of the 20th century, but that they have been reported so often over hundreds of years, often enough to suggest that there's more than a hoax involved.

The stories are very similar: household objects flying, strange noises, unexplained movements and sounds. Sometimes stones are thrown; sometimes fires break out in locked rooms or closets.

Early German investigators thought that ghosts were responsible, and named the ghosts Poltergeister or "rackeling spirits." Since that time, the physical signs have appeared so often, and in such widespread areas of the world, that the existence of poltergeists, whether of ghostly or non-ghostly origin, is widely accepted.

There are many examples of poltergeists in Canada, although it is often difficult to separate fact from exaggeration in accounts of the cases, particularly the older ones. The celebrated Baldoon Ghost, which operated not far from Wallaceburg more than a century ago, appears to be a classic example. One house was affected. Stones dripping wet from the Snye Carte River were hurled through the windows. Fires broke out. Crockery sailed through the air. That part of it is credible, if only because the events are so like others recorded all over the world.

The cult of the Baldoon Ghost thing is not so clear-cut. A marksman used a silver bullet to shoot a goose that always appeared in the vicinity when the mysterious phenomena were present. The bullet struck the goose's wing, and the phenomena ceased. But an old woman who lived in a "long low log house" - nearby, showed up next day with a wounded arm. Very few people today would believe the end of that story. Because part of it is suspect, the whole story is suspect. So the Baldoon Ghost story is generally looked upon as just a bit of old-time imagination.

Who ever heard of using a silver bullet to shoot a goose in the wing, and having the wound transferred to the arm of a witch? Who ever heard of a nonhuman agency throwing stones from a river bed, or setting fires in a closet or throwing a deck of cards at a person?

Witches are pretty well discredited these days, but down around Belleville, recently someone was throwing cards.

A U.S. View of Our Bulging Wheat Surplus

Milwaukee Journal

His trench coat gives Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's new prime minister, that extra measure of flair. And it has helped keep him dry during an unusually wet spring in Canada.

The rains have so soaked the western prairies that farmers are predicting a bumper wheat crop. This means that Canada's wheat stocks will be higher than at any time in the last decade.

Every available foot of regular storage space in the country is already bulging with unsold grain.

Canada's two best customers, Russia and mainland China, who in 1966 bought nearly two-thirds of Canadian wheat exports, have since cut their purchases. There is no sign they will step up buying this year. Australia and the United States are becoming hot competitors in the international markets. The United States has been cutting prices and has captured a huge share of the Japanese market, which Canada once considered a kind of special preserve. The Australians are producing more of the high quality hard wheat in which Canada used to have a near global monopoly.

A new international wheat agreement just ratified by the United States and approved earlier by Canada, should help stabilize global markets somewhat by setting higher minimum world trading prices. Still this will not solve Canada's problems of excess supply.

Unless Trudeau thinks of something better he may have to trade in his trench coat for a fireman's bib overalls when he travels west.

Middle-Aged Canadians Deserve Pat on the Back

Ottawa Journal

Suggestion has been made for a Company of Elderly Canadians to help older citizens and be a grey-haired counterpart of the Company of Young Canadians.

If that idea is acceptable the further need is for a Company of Middle-aged Canadians to serve those who pay the taxes, mow the lawns, provide educational fees and, daily thankfully into bed at day's end too weary to wonder.

Nothing could be finer than the concern with the well-being of the young and the old and the ordinary folk in the middle wouldn't have it otherwise. If they weren't so busy they would notice more often there's a touching faith in their ability to produce, wherewithal of the good society. They are to be trusted to struggle on but it would be nice if a member of a Company of Middle-aged Canadians, unpaid, sometimes came around to say thanks for effort.

July 11, 1968 . . .

A naval force from Nova Scotia 154 years ago today --in 1814--captured Eastport in Passamaquoddy Bay, Me., in a move that was to secure a large part of Maine for the British in the War of 1812. Britain held this territory until the signing of the peace of Ghent, when Britain handed it back to the United States. The Duke of Wellington, who defeated Napoleon at Waterloo, was instrumental in persuading Britain not to hold the territory taken in the war.

1966—Canadian statesman Sir Hector-Louis Langevin died.

1914—British forces sank the cruiser Konigsberg in the Rufiji River in Africa.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—Italian and French forces captured Berat, Albania; the United States supply ship Westover was torpedoed with a loss of 19 persons; Australian forces made a daring raid near Merris on the Western Front; French troops took the village of Coucy.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the Allies consolidated their Sicilian footholds, capturing Licata, Gela and Pozzallo as United States forces repelled enemy counter-attacks on the south coast; Russian sources announced a new German offensive was launched and the Nazis were confined to the small gains made early in the campaign; the Japanese air bases at Munda, on New Georgia Island, and Rabaul, on New Britain, were attacked by Allied bombers.

Doctors are Scarce

Calgary Herald

There is an underlying significance in the brief news report that a shipload of emigrants currently en route to Canada includes 20 Scottish doctors.

Here is further evidence that Canada is facing the threat of a serious doctor shortage.

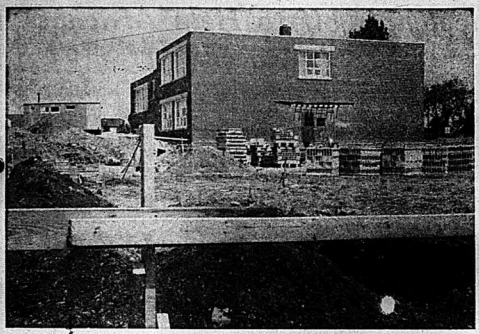
Only a year ago the Canadian Medical Association told Parliament's immigration committee that this country must dispend on qualified immigrant doctors "for many years to come" in order to keep the profession at a desirable level.

And yet, the federal government persists in its plan to impose a costly and unnecessary medicare program on Canadians instead of concentrating on the obvious priority of providing increased facilities for medical training.

Seaway Revenue Is Down

Peterborough Examiner

Seventy-five ships are trapped in the St. Lawrence Seaway because of the Seaway workers' strike. Some 1,200 employees are idle losing $175,000 a week in unearned wages while the Seaway Authority is losing about $70,000 a week in revenues and their U.S. counterparts are losing an average of $20,000 a week. All this because of a three per cent difference between a wage demand and a wage offer.



U.S. Seaway workers are not permitted to strike. Rather their wages and benefits are established by a formula which is based on the highest U.S. wage scale with limited arbitration processes open to the workers. It has been suggested that a similar plan should be adopted in Canada. However, the shortcoming of compulsory arbitration in 'essential services' is that it often provokes wildcat strikes because collective bargaining is undermined. Britain and Australia have experimented with the system with Britain abandoning it and Australia losing many work-days despite it.

Japanese Brewing Formula

St. Louis Post - Dispatch

Japan, which has been the wonder of the industrial world since the end of World War Two, seems to have hit on the key to harmonious capitalistic enterprise without having to accept colonialism along with it.

In the latest application of this policy the Tokyo government has blocked Texas Instruments, Inc. from entering it with a wholly-owned manufacturing subsidiary but permitted it to set up a 50-50 partnership with Sony Corp. True, the agreement allows Texas to buy out its Japanese partner after three years at the option of either party. But the Japanese government would have to approve, and it has given no indication it would.

School Addition Under Way

Construction is under way on the addition to Hillcrest School. The $270,000 addition and alterations to the existing building will result in the most modern school building in the city, equipped for team teaching in semi-ungraded teaching areas instead of conventional classrooms.

New Hillcrest School Addition--Modern Approach to Education

Construction is under way on Belleville's most modern school, the addition to Hillcrest school.

Maurice H. Rollins Construction Ltd. began construction July 2, on the $240,000 building. Total cost will be $270,000, when alterations to the present building are completed and equipment installed.

Hillcrest school has an enrolment of 217 pupils and two portable classrooms have been in use to accommodate about 40 pupils for whom there was no room in the building.

When it appeared the child population of Hillcrest would remain constant with the continuing residential use of the area, the Belleville Public School Board went ahead with plans for the addition. Regulations prevent the use of portable classrooms for more than three years.

The addition will contain an auditorium - playroom and three teaching areas.

Each teaching area will have a resource centre with library, teaching aids and audio-visual equipment, teaching sections and study sections.

A team teaching approach will be used with three teachers in each teaching area handling a semi-ungraded program.

Pupils will be grouped according to age and learning ability and will move from one section of the teaching area to another for instruction, research and study. Carpeted floors will cut the sound level of three groups of children working in the same room at the same time.

The existing school will be altered for use as a kindergarten.

Barring construction tie-ups, the addition is expected to be ready for use next January.

Complete' Y' Expansion Not Possible: Fast

Goal $457,400 — result $225,-000.

In a letter to members and friends of the YMCA, Harry J. Fast, president of the organization, admitted that the full plan for expansion can not be carried out.

However, he said, with an indication of what the final total is going to be, decisions can now be made on what is to be done.

"It is acknowledged that there is a great need for more facilities. However the difficulty of raising capital funds to liquidate debts is recognized."

The official position of the National Councils of YMCA's is that no new buildings should be constructed unless the old ones are paid for.

No matter what the decision of the Belleville committee, Mr. Fast stated that the local YMCA is in a much better position as all the monies that have come in were applied to debts on the present building.

Although $225,000 has come in now all of it has been in cash and there is still one large industry and several foundations to be heard from.

Mr. Fast stated that the Belleville YMCA will be making its own decision as to what to do with the money.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Don't mind him. He's always got a bee in his bonnet about something or other!"

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

The completely vandalized worthless shell of a house is now becoming a common sight in the core areas of many of our cities. How an owner can rid himself of the unmarketable properties and escape from the liability they represent is now a frequent question.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Some 10 years I acquired a house in a neighborhood which has now become very undesirable. When the tenant moved out two months ago, the house was completely vandalized within 48 hours. The heater, plumbing, electrical wiring, kitchen fixtures and the bathrooms were completely ripped out, chopped-up and every window broken.

Two months later, all I have left are four walls — and even these are now in questionable condition.

Of course, nobody will buy such a wreck. How does one go about getting rid of a house under these circumstances? — Mr. S. T.

ANSWER: A house in the condition described has no market, for it's beyond the point of economic feasibility. If an owner confined to retain ownership, he is not only liable for taxes, but also can be prosecuted for violation of many municipal codes. Also, he is liable for damages that third parties may suffer. (A property of this kind is not insurable.)

The best method of disposal would be to try to get a charitable or nonprofit organization to accept it as a gift. At least, under this technique, an owner can recover part of his loss in the form of a tax deduction.

If the above is not possible, then I would try to get the municipality to take the property and offer them a deed without any compensation. If this method is not acceptable, then I would urge the municipal authorities to place it on the tax sale bill.

Here is another way to try. In many metropolitan areas, there are now housing agencies that will accept property of this kind for nothing or even pay a small consideration. Your realtor can tell you if such an agency exists in your community.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: After this I'll never trust anybody. Just listen to this story.

I found my house in a green valley next to a stream. It was in very poor condition — the previous tenant had abused it — so they rented it to me for $100 per month.

During the past year the house has become my hobby. I planted, painted and fixed it up. It's in A-1 condition. The owner stopped by last night, saw it and praised me.

Here is the shocker! He informed me that since the house is now in very good condition, the rent wil increase to $150 per month when my lease is up next month. Can they do this to me? — Mr. E F.

ANSWER: Yes, they can do it to you! When your contract (lease) expires next month, it's a new ballgame with new rules. Next time, before you improve a property make sure it's either your own or you have a long term lease.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Every time there is a heavy rain I literally sing, "River Stay Away From My Door." When I bought the house a year ago, I fell in love with the creek that flowed in back of the property. Nobody told me, and it never occurred to me to ask, but after a heavy rain the creek becomes a lake.

Three times during the past year water has literally been lapping at the back doorstep. A couple more inches and it would have been in the house. I've been taken by somebody, but I don't know who. The former owner, the broker, the mortgage company, and even the township officials ignore my letters and phone calls. — Mr. T

ANSWER: This is truly a case of "caveat emptor," (Let the buyer beware.) Neither the former owner, the broker, the bank or anybody else did anything to cause or aggravate the problem. It was simply a case of a buyer purchasing without investigation.

The best way out of your dilemma is to wait for a long dry spell and put the house up for sale. Properties of this type, like bad pennies, keep bouncing from person to person.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I'm an engineer and I know cost figures — I don't want to be taken. When building my house, I asked the contractor to enlarge a closet. He has now sent me a bill for $200.

I sat down and showed him that his cost for labor material was only $28. I'm willing to pay him 10 per cent profit and 10 per cent overhead in addition. But I'll not pay him double. We both agreed to accept your decision. — Mr. D. U.

ANSWER: Ten per cent overhead nd ten per cent profit over direct costs are considered adequate on large engineered construction jobs. However, in house construction a bill for double the direct costs is very fair. Most contractors charge more than that—triple and four times direct costs is more common. I'm trying to tell you — pay the $50 and be thankful you were not billed for $100.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Liberty Never Got Warning

WASHINGTON (CP) — Because of a series of tragic errors, messages in the U.S. Intelligence ship Liberty to get out of the danger zone during last year's Middle East war were never delivered, a congressional committee has been told.

The Liberty, about 12 miles off the Sinai Peninsula battle zone, was attacked by Israeli planes and torpedo boats and suffered 34 dead and 75 injured.

Testimony before the U.S. House of Representatives defence appropriations subcommittee, released Tuesday, indicated a message ordering the Liberty to sea was sent 11 hours before the attack but was erroneously transmitted to a naval communications station in the Philippines.

The Philippines station returned the message but due to a second error it then was sent to the national security agency at Fort Meade, Md., where it was simply filed away.

HAS PROS AND CONS

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto alderman has both praise and criticism for Russian apartment buildings. Ben Grys, who returned from a municipal services convention in Moscow, said he was impressed with the nursery facilities in Moscow apartments. However, he said, they have no facilities for the 120,000 cars in Moscow.

Woman in Wheelchair off to Help Africans

MONTREAL (CP) — Volunteers leaving here Friday for a two-year African adventure as part of the Canadian University Services Overseas contingent are not necessarily spring graduates intent on spending their salad days abroad.

The 130-strong group finishing up an intensive CUSO training course at Loyola College in preparation for two years' voluntary service in Africa include a woman confined to a wheelchair and a family of five.

They are part of the 1,000 trained nurses, engineers, agriculturalists, accountants and teachers assigned this year by CUSO to developing countries in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean.

Ruth Heron, who was crippled 15 years ago by polio, will fly with her husband Jim to Dar-es-Salaam in Tanzania. The Montreal couple will be assigned to teaching posts somewhere in that country.

The couple, who have a 22-year-old son, decided to volunteer for CUSO because they were dissatisfied with middle-class suburbia and "the niceties of life."

Mr. Heron is giving up a 15-year career as an analyst with an oil company for the two-year assignment.

Dick McGachie is leaving a firm of financial management consultants in Calgary, Alta., to go to Tanzania with his wife Eleanor and their three daughters, aged eight, 11 and 14.

Mr. McGachie said his family's reasons for going were not entirely altruistic.

"We were bringing up three automatic consumers with televisions for eyeballs," he said. "They thought that money grew on trees and that their father must live in the branches.

"They — and we — are going to get all the advantages of being immersed in a very different culture at a very basic level."

The CUSO volunteers will be treated as civil servants and if they do well, will be paid roughly equivalent to an African in the same position. A teacher for example, would earn about $2,400 a year.

Travelling and medical expenses are paid by CUSO, and the volunteers receive free language instruction.

Diefenbaker Departs for Scotland After Slap at Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker left on a sentimental journey to Scotland Wednesday night with a parting shot at Prime Minister Trudeau and a promise to buy himself a kilt.

"I'll look good in it," the former Conservative prime minister happily assured a little knot of friends who saw him and his wife off at the airport.

He also promised to keep a close eye on the activities of Mr. Trudeau "as he keeps his pupils lined up at attention."

Mr. Diefenbaker is to officiate Saturday at the unveiling in Rogart of a monument to Sir John A. Macdonald, his political hero and Canada's first prime minister.

On Monday he will dedicate a plaque to his own Scottish great-grandfather, George Bannerman, an early settler in Western Canada.

Earlier the 72-year-old chief accused the prime minister of treating his ministers like little boys with his public warning on cabinet secrecy.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was proper to end the leaks of the Pearson administration. In the last few years, opposition MPs got more information on cabinet activity from newspaper reports than they did in Parliament.

But now, Mr. Trudeau himself had revealed a cabinet secret by telling about the warning he gave to his ministers, who were treated "as a group of little boys."

Mr. Diefenbaker said in an interview earlier that a royal commission should be appointed "right now" to study charges by a Hull, Que., man that he was tortured by guards at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary in Montreal where he served 10 years.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he met Gaston Nicholas, 30, Tuesday and heard his charges.

Nicholas was sentenced to six years in 1958 for criminal negligence in the drowning of his wife. He was sentenced to an additional 14 years in 1962 for his part in a riot at the Vincent de Paul.

Nicholas, who was released in June, has said he will try to get his convictions quashed through new trials or a government investigation.

He said he was beaten continuously by prison guards and confined to a narrow segregation cell for two years during his prison term.

Kitchener MLAs Hit Ban on Farm Children Leaving School

TORONTO (CP) — Two Liberal members of the legislature have criticized a provision in an amendment to the Schools Administration Act that would end a procedure allowing children to leave school at 14 to work on their parents' farms.

Edward Good (L—Waterloo North) and James Auld (L—Kitchener) voiced opposition Wednesday during a legislature discussion in which other speakers ur inclusion in the bill of a transfer review board for teachers.

Mr. Good and Mr. Breithaupt said the procedure cancelling permission for children to leave school is vigorously opposed by the Amish and Mennonite Brethren. The normal school-leaving age in Ontario is 16.

Mr. Good said the Brethren want their children to leave school at 14 so they might be "further educated in agriculture at their homes."

"This, I think, is a matter that will affect their lives, their way of life and their conscience," he said.

Mr. Breithaupt said the Mennonites were among the first settlers in his part of the province and had been model citizens. They had asked little from either provincial or federal governments and took care of their own.

The sect members were in the legislature while the members were speaking. Education Minister William Davis said they were there at his invitation and would appear today before the house education committee when it considers the bill.

However, use of the section of the act in question "has not been confined to Mennonite communities," and the government was determined to do everything possible to encourage children to stay in school as long as possible, Mr. Davis said.

In other legislature business Wednesday:

—Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) urged that the registration of Allstate Insurance Co. to handle health insurance be taken away. He also asked that the role of the superintendent of insurance, an officer in the department of financial and commercial affairs, be changed to make him a defender of the public against what he called "crooked practices" of insurance companies.

He made the suggestion after reading correspondence which he said showed Allstate had cancelled a health insurance policy for unacceptable reasons, misled a subscriber and unlawfully tried to backdate cancellation so that the subscriber making a claim appeared to owe the company money.

—Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton told the legislature Judge Walter Little is "well advanced" in his study of collective bargaining in Ontario's pubic service. Judge Little was appointed by cabinet order a year ago to make recommendations on appropriate bargaining units in the civil service.

Algonquin Park Plan Ready Soon

TORONTO (CP) — Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle said Wednesday a master plan on the future of Algonquin Park is expected to be completed by fall.

Replying in the legislature to Eddie Sargent (L—Grey Bruce), Mr. Brunelle said he considers Algonquin "one of the most scenic, one of the most important parks in North America."

"Months and months of study have been done on the master plan and it will be out sometime this fall," he said.

"We will have public hearings in the Algonquin Park area."

Mr. Sargent had asked whether the government was going to continue to permit logging operations in the park in view of the stated intention of maintaining primitive zones in Algonquin.

The minister replied that no logging is permitted in the park's primitive zones and all logging operations are under "very close supervision under a management plan." He said all logging roads are individually authorized.

Catholic Schools To Grade 13 Urged

TIMMINS (CP) — Denominational education for Roman Catholics in Ontario should be permitted up to Grade 13, the president of the Ontario Separate School Trustees Association said Wednesday.

A. E. Klein, addressing the annual convention of the provincial council of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, said the British North America Act in 1867 guaranteed rights for denominational schools. But Ontario arbitrarily decreed in 1872 high schools would be public and limited Catholic education to Grade 10.

Full denominational school systems operate in Alberta and Saskatchewan and "non-Catholics in the province of Quebec have always had this provision," he said.

A trustee committee planned travelling through Ontario later this year to hear Catholic high school boards and other organizations on the extension of Catholic education, Mr. Klein said.

The CWL, in a resolution, pledged support to Mr. Klein's association and the Association of Catholic High School Boards of Ontario in "their effort to obtain adequate financial support for all grades"—kindergarten to Grade 13—for all Ontario children in the province attending school in the public Catholic systems.

Teachers Studying National Grouping

FREDERICTON (CP) — A comprehensive report on how the 48-year-old Canadian Teachers' Federation could evolve into a national teachers organization was under study by the CTF's annual general meeting here today.

The 56-page report—compiled after a year-long study of the objectives, organization, programs, operation and financing of the CTF—acts out a basis for reforms in the federation and possible affiliation of the Corporation des Enseignants du Quebec with the CTF.

The study, commissioned last year by the CTF, was carried out by Rae G. Fredericks, president of the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union, Miss R. E. McLean of the Ontario Teachers' Federation, and A. A. Asper, past president of the Manitoba Teachers' Society, chairman of the commission.

The study found the present constitution of the CTF "unsatisfactory" and suggests it be replaced by a new one reflecting the commission's recommendations.

The study was intended to produce a blueprint for a national teachers organization which would effectively meet contemporary national needs. The commission, therefore, instead of making a critical analysis of the present CTF, sought rather to establish principles which would produce the "ideal" organization. It could then determine the modifications required in the CTF to realize this ideal."

The CTF officials believe acceptance of the report at the meeting here could result in an affiliation of the CEQ with the CTF within a year. The Quebec organization is reported to be favorably impressed with the report and recommendations.

Room for All In University

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister William Davis Wednesday expressed confidence there will be ample space in Ontario's public universities for qualified students who apply for admission for the 1968-69 semester.

In reply to a question in the legislature from Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) he pointed out that some students apply to more than one university.

Demure by Day, Daring by Dark, Prediction for Autumn Fashions

NEW YORK AP - Demure by day. Daring by dark.

That was the message from Norman Norell in his fall collection.

The black-tie audience applauded the simple lines and good design of daytime coat and dress ensembles and suits featuring capelike or notched shawl collars, fitted waists, belts, easy skirts and turtleneck jersey blouses.

But they saved their superlatives for the evening collection — be-jeweled and be-sequined silks and satins, little black "nothing" dresses turned into "something" with rhinestones and bare midriff crepes.

Hemlines for day stayed just about two inches above the knee.

Coats were double breasted fitted or belted, and trimmed with flap pockets. Buttons ran up the side of the sleeves—as on a man's suit.

Taking the ever - popular cape and giving it a special color in the shape of Maltese crosses hung from mock ribbons on gowns of silk and satin.

One two-piece dress left the midriff-from the bottom of the bust to the top of the hipbones —bare. The jewelled touch here was a single stone which the model wore in her navel.

Unfortunately, the jewel popped out.

Weekend "Switcheroo" Game Almost Ends in Disaster

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read some letters in your column from women who considered becoming involved in that suburban swinger's game called "Switcheroo." I hope you will print a letter from a sad and sorry suburbanite who played the game and very nearly lost her home, her sanity and everything in life that matters.

ANN LANDERS

My husband and I were fascinated with the stories we had heard about our upper middle class neighbors who got together Saturday nights and changed partners. At first it seemed so bizarre we couldn't imagine ourselves becoming involved in such lunacy. But when our new, next-door neighbors suggested we go along — just to "observe," we agreed.

In that highly charged atmosphere, with just enough liquor to warp the judgment and dissolve the inhibitions, the inevitable happened. The couple we switched with were the next-door neighbors.

The rationale was as follows — and I admit I bought it hook, line and sinker: There's no reason why mature, well-balanced adults can't enjoy the physical aspects of sex without making an emotional investment. My husband and I congratulated ourselves on our mature approach. We even persuaded ourselves that variety can revitalize a marriage that had grown dull and unexciting.

After a few months, tensions mounted. Our children grew suspicious. My husband and I began to argue. One day he'd say, "I want a divorce. I'm in love with the lady next door." The next day he'd say, "She's a slob. I wish I'd never seen her."

My neighbor-lover began to get on my nerves. He made a complete pest of himself and I was bored with his senseless chatter. Finally, nobody was talking to anybody.

My husband and I decided the horrible involvement was ruining our lives. We agreed that we had to terminate our relationship with the neighbors, but it would be impossible so long as we lived next door. So we agreed to move, not only to another neighborhood but to another state.

This meant taking a job at a smaller salary, selling our home at a loss and pulling our children out of schools where they were doing well. Our foolishness had cost more than we had planned to pay.

Six months have passed and we are gradually returning to a normal, decent life. My blood runs cold when I think how close we came to destroying ourselves for a few cheap thrills. Please, Ann Landers, publish this letter for the benefit of others who may be toying with the idea of adding a little zest to their lives. It's a lousy idea — BEEN THERE AND BACK.

DEAR BEEN THERE: Thanks for taking the time and trouble to tell it like it is. Yours is not the first letter I've had on this subject but it's one of the most revealing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My boss's daughter was standing in the wrong line when they handed out brains. She is in summer school now because she flunked two courses.

Again this week I've been handed her "homework" to type. This irritates me. Should I keep my mouth shut and do it or should I tell the boss that a girl who is old enough to go to college should be able to type her own homework? — CHEWING TACKS.

DEAR CHEWING: I trust the boss has not asked you to come in early or stay late to do his daughter's homework. So — treat the girl's typing as you would any other typing job. And stop chewing tacks. It's bad for your digestion.

Why are you sitting there straining your eyes when you could be pleasing your tummy with a Schneiders barbecue-style chicken. They come fully cooked and fully seasoned. Just heat for 30 minutes then dig in.

Last Commencement Occasion for the Graduates' Farewell

MARMORA — H. R. Jenkins, BA, introduced guest speaker, Robert L. Prentice, BSc, a former student of Marmora High School, Plant Manager of the Quaker Oats Co. in Trenton, the last Commencement Exercises of Marmora High School.

Mr. Prentice emphasized that when the school was built, it was one of the finest in Ontario, but, he maintained, "no longer in this advanced society of ours, is an academic high school satisfactory to suit the needs of our present day economy."

He said "we must now include vocational training along with the academic curriculum. In order to give this vocational training, expensive equipment is necessary — and it is not feasible to spend this kind of money for a high school as small as Marmora."

He assured the students, "when you go to Madoc this fall, you will have a choice of vocational courses as well as academic courses."

To the graduates of Marmora High School, he congratulated those who had won awards and scholarships. "The future is yours," he said, "but those who did not win awards, you can still be successful in future education or in the business world which follows."

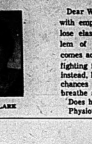
Presents Are Considered A Pretense of Love

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: How do you relax the old rules? Our families were very straight-jacket religious. A showing of affection toward each other and even the children is a hard thing to give even though I know better.



Sex is a means to reproduce children. Presents to each other are a false pretense, since it was earned by Dad in the first place (also it is his). — Tryin' and Errin'

Dear T. and A.: You know better? Then that's a start. Humans need physical contact to express warmth and love; and we know that intimate relations are the ultimate in this expression. I'm writing you separately about this.

But about presents, you are assuming that a gift represents money earned, and that is all. What about the thought and time devoted to choosing it? What about the loving celebration of a birthday?

A woman is given money to run the house and with some to spare — or should be. Boys and girls receive allowances — or might well. If you say this money is still Dad's, you might as well say his company president bought your house for you.

Dear Doris: My husband, who suffers from emphysema, refuses to stop smoking. Can anything be done to help him if he keeps on smoking? — Worried

DORIS CLARK

Dear Worried: I'm told that with emphysema the lungs lose elasticity and the problem of drawing breath becomes acute. If a man who is fighting for air inhales smoke instead, he further reduces his chances of continuing to breathe at all.

Does he understand this? Physiotherapists can help emphysema patients; but it is folly for him to increase his own risks. Most of us enjoy life enough to protect it. Do you suppose he would give a look at my 10-cent leaflet on how to stop smoking?

I'll send it anyway.

Confidential to Hate My Name: Last week a reader was deploring a somewhat undignified nickname. Now you are trying to name to anything, simply anything, but your own given name.

I know a girl who says sadly, "I never had a nickname." Seems to imply nobody found her special enough to apply an endearment to her. There are times when bosom pals desperately rename each other a sort of bosom pal pact.

Try inventing your own preferred diminutive; sign your informal letters that way; get your closest friends to use it. It might just get into common usage!

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Recipe for Light Raisin Bread

By MARY MOORE

The satisfaction, which mounts to excitement in some of us, of taking two beautiful loaves of bread from the oven should be included in a list of "What is happiness".

The only drawback is that I cannot give everyone of you a slice but I can tell you how to experience the happiness firsthand.

LIGHT RAISIN BREAD
(Two Loaves)

2 cups (12 oz.) golden California raisins
1 pkge. granular yeast
2 tsps. sugar
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup scalded milk
3 tbsps. shortening
1-3 cup sugar
2½ tsps. salt
1 cup cold water
8 cups sifted all-purpose flour

In a bowl pour boiling water over the raisins to cover and let soak for 5 min., then drain and dry between folds of tea towel.

In a very large mixing bowl soak the yeast with the 2 tsps. sugar in the lukewarm water 10 min.

In a saucepan heat the milk to scalding, remove from heat, add shortening, the 1-3 cup sugar and salt. Stir to melt shortening. Add cold water to cool to lukewarm and add to yeast liquid and stir. Add 4 cups of the sifted flour and beat to thoroughly mix — beat until your arm tires — about 5 min. Now add 1½ more cups flour and the raisins and mix in to blend as well as you can, but be sure all of this 1½ cups flour is incorporated. Cover, and let rise at room temperature until more than doubled and light.

Cut down dough, turn out on board sprinkled with remaining ½ cup flour and knead 200 times, tucking raisins back in as they fall out with your kneading. Cut dough in half and form into two small football-shaped loaves. Place in well buttered loaf pans (If desired you may knead ¼ cup chopped drained maraschino cherries into one loaf before placing it in pan to give you a variation for a special occasion. It takes about 25 "kneads" to work the cherries in.) Let rise in warmish place. (Under a lighted light bulb is a good idea.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 55 to 60 min., or until deep gold and when tapped with your knuckles gives a hollow sound. Do not underbake. Let rest in pans 5 min. on rack, then turn out on rack to cool.

These loaves freeze excellently and slice perfectly and make excellent toast.

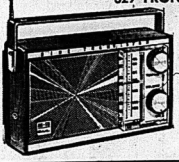
Women's Institutes

LONSDALE WI



LONSDALE — At their latest meeting, members of the Lonsdale Women's Institute received copies of the year's program which they had planned at an earlier meeting. The programs were made up and distributed by Mrs. Bernard O'Sullivan, chairman of the citizenship and education committee.

A busy year is ahead for the members, with several special activities, such as an auction sale of farm and garden produce, a box social, a potluck supper, and a series of card parties.

Two visitors joined the members for this meeting. One of them was Mr. Brooks Allen, husband of the president, who entertained the group by showing slides taken in the West Indies when he and Mrs. Allen had visited there.

Coating the Runners

Attacks On PM Are Filed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusations about Prime Minister Trudeau's past, similar to those denounced by all political parties during the Canadian election campaign, have been entered into the congressional record.

Representative John R. Rarick of Louisiana, saying Trudeau's election has "caused many Americans to inquire into his background," filed an article by the Canadian Intelligence Service of Flesherton, Ont., as published in the South African Observer. Also entered was a recent broadcast by Rev. S. J. Lyons, later reproduced in a number of publications.

Rarick, a right-wing southern Democrat, said in introducing this "interesting background documentation" that the Trudeau victory led many Americans to "ponder what can be expected from the new leadership of our neighbor to the north."

BC Woods Strike Averted

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 11th-hour contract settlement was reached Wednesday in the British Columbia coast forest industry but a rift developed within the International Woodworkers of America negotiators on the employers' hard line on vacations.

The vacation issue was the only stumbling block in an agreement reached one hour before 4,000 loggers were to begin a strike. The IWA, representing 28,000 members, finally accepted the employers' proposal.

Salaries, calling for a 36-cent hourly wage boost on the current base rate of $2.76 had already been agreed upon in the proposed two-year pact.

The woodworkers will vote during the next week on the contract.

Quebec May Close Its Liquor Stores, Allow Private Sale

QUEBEC (CP) — The provincial government is studying the possibility of turning over the retail sale of wine and liquor to private industry.

Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare told a press conference here Wednesday a brief has been presented to the cabinet by his department recommending that the Quebec Liquor Board be responsible only for the wholesale distribution of alcoholic beverages.

"After all," he said, "the government is not a merchant. We are not here to sell spirits."

Mr. Bellemare said the strike of 2,885 QLB employees, which began at the end of June, could be of long duration.

"There is no spirit of compromise between the two parties," he said.

The walkout has closed all wine and liquor outlets in the province.

New Greek Constitution Cuts Powers of King and Parliament

ATHENS (CP)—Greece's military regime published a proposed new constitution today drastically cutting the powers of the monarch and of parliament. It also places controls on the press.

The Athens news agency reported that the draft constitution, replacing the 1952 constitution, maintains the status of Greece as a crowned parliamentary democracy but sets up a National Council whose advice the king will have to take before making any major decisions.

The draft constitution is to be submitted to a national referendum Sept. 1. It is a sweeping revision of a previous draft drawn up by a panel of jurists and other legal experts.

Greece's previous constitution was discarded by the ruling junta after the military coup d'etat April 21, 1967.

Publication of the final draft was postponed several times in the last few weeks because of serious discord within the junta on the monarchy's future role.

The military rulers have not forgiven King Constantine because he did not support their coup and then tried to overthrow their regime with a counter-coup last December. When it failed, the royal family fled to Rome.

The draft constitution removes the king's power to appoint and dismiss premiers, a source of frequent clashes between the royal house and the political parties in the past.

Instead, the political party that wins a majority in parliament would name the premier, and the members of his cabinet would not be drawn from parliament.

The proposed constitution also:

—Increases the parliamentary term to five years from four.

—Reserves 30 of the 150 seats in parliament for prominent personalities to be elected at large by nationwide voting.

—Specifies that if the majority party cannot agree on a leader of its own to be premier, parliament would elect a premier.

—Declares that the Communist party remains outlawed.

The new constitution incorporates existing laws on press freedom by stating that the press performs a public mission which implies privileges and responsibilities.

Under the draft, it is considered an offence to attack the church and monarch, to undermine the armed forces, to assist in activities for the overthrow of the state, to propogate illegal views and to promote outlawed organizations.

It contains a provision saying that a law will be passed in relation to the finance of newspapers.

The draft also says no person may serve four successive terms except those who have been parliamentary premiers or leaders of the parties. Deputies cannot be ministers—even if they resign—except for the premier and up to two deputy premiers.

Greek monarchs would in future have to consult the National Council before taking any major decisions in lieus of national crisis.

Judge Escapes From Divorce Treadmill

OTTAWA (CP) — For one grim period this spring it looked to Mr. Justice Allison Walsh as if he might be hearing Quebec divorce cases for the rest of his life.

The new Divorce Act gave Quebec the choice of allowing its cases to be handled by the Exchequer Court of Canada or by its own Superior Court.

Happily for Mr. Justice Walsh, arbiter of an average 30 divorce cases a month since he became Commissioner of the Senate in 1964, Quebec chose the latter course.

Otherwise, the former corporation lawyer probably would have finally taken his seat on the Exchequer Court bench only to be limited to handling the Quebec divorce cases.

The bilingual 57-year-old Montrealer was named to the Exchequer Court in mid-1964, then given a leave of absence to handle the Senate post.

He said in an interview Wednesday, after hearing several cases—an uncontested petition takes about 30 minutes to deal with in court—that the Senate divorce slate should be clean by December.

Between Jan. 1 and July 2, when the new act was proclaimed, Quebecers and Newfoundlanders had filed 386 applications for divorce to his office.

Mr. Justice Walsh and his cohort, Judge C. A. Cameron, have heard 441 cases so far this year but the figure includes only 112 of the 1968 cases.

It will take the rest of the year to clear up the others. Meanwhile, any petitions since July 2 go to the Superior Courts of the two provinces.

Newfoundland averages fewer than a dozen divorces a year and Quebec about 800. Mr. Justice Walsh said divorce in the two provinces should be far less expensive under the new law and he expects the number of cases in Quebec to rise to perhaps 2,000, then taper off.

He says the Senate system has worked reasonably well but has been clumsy.

Mr. Justice Walsh estimates the average cost of a Senate divorce at $1,200 to $1,500. There is the Senate fee of $216, an agent's fee of $100, a bailiff's fee of about $15, the $25 cost of publishing notices in the Canada Gazette, travel costs of $50 or more, about $350 for the detectives who testify in about 60 per cent of the cases and $500 to $750 for the lawyer.

With the provincial courts handling divorce, applicants will face only the lawyer's fee and that of the detective, if one is necessary. Getting evidence to prove adultery, the only grounds for a Senate divorce, often meant applicants had to hire a detective, then pay his way to Ottawa.

Now there are other grounds and applicants may not have to hire detectives as often.

Women's Amateur

Quinte's "Betty" Advances

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Quarter-final play in the Ontario women's amateur golf championship began today with the field of 16 narrowed to eight.

The 16 qualifiers from a field of 131 began match play Wednesday for the title which will be decided in a two-round championship Friday at the St. Catharines Golf and Country Club.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, who easily won the two qualifying rounds with a 151 total, defeated Bonnie Mae Legge of Thornhill 5 and 3 Wednesday to advance to today's play.

Pam Miller of Oshawa defeated Liz Ferrier of Cooksville 6 and 5. Miss Miller has won the amateur title the past two years.

Others qualifying for today's quarter-final play were Betty Ingram of Belleville and Kaiberine Helleur and Jane Kirkpatrick of Toronto.

Bowerman Draws Attention

TORONTO (CP) — Gary Bowerman's second-place finish in the Millar trophy tournament last week convinced some members of the Maple Downs golf club where he is assistant professional that he should be on the Canadian pro tour.

Irv Livingstone, head pro at Maple Downs, said Wednesday that some members have given Bowerman enough money to play the rest of the Canadian tour.

Bowerman plans to play in the Alberta Open, the British Columbia Open, the $20,000 Willow Park pro-am in Calgary, and the CPGA championship in Quebec.

"If he goes real well, he'll go to Palm Beach and try for his U.S. tour card," said Livingstone.

What would the world of sport be without numbers?

Here are a few of current interest that would give even exponents of "new math" cause to sit up and take notice.

2,000,000 — That's the number of dollars involved in the syndication of controversial Kentucky Derby "non-winner" Dancer's Image. The disqualified winner of the 94th Derby will stand at stud in Maryland for the financial benefit of 32 shareholders, owner Peter Fuller has announced.

14 — represents a per-meal quota of that many quarts of milk set themselves by the eight-member Canadian sculling team competing in England's Royal Henley Regatta. They're making a hit with Thames Valley dairy farmers!

$2,000 — For an unknown Lake Erie fisherman that's a best-forgotten figure. The anonymous angler lost out on the first prize in a weekend fishing derby at Long Point Bay — and not because of his fishing skill. His five-pound small mouth bass was the biggest among 1,000 weighed, but the short-sighted owner hadn't filed an entry form!

27 — No, this time it's not the "Big M's" twenty number. That's the number of letters in the middle name of a Hawaiian-borne tackle trying out at this summer's British Columbia Lions training camp. His last name is Diaz, but his middle moniker makes Yastrzemski look like "Smith" to a type-setter.

"Kapaealionaowaaskamehameha" is what our composing room just labored through, and what CFL statisticians will have to worry about if "Skip" — as he is known — makes the Lions' roster.

$14,657.87 — It was by that tune that the Ontario government carried their financial coals to Newcastle by subsidizing the horse-breeding hobby of Canadian industrialist E. P. Taylor during the 1967-68 fiscal year. Mr. Taylor headed the list of 14 breeders, each of whom received more than $1,000 for thoroughbred horse breeding.

$20 million — This could be lost to the National Football League's kitty in the event the threatened players' strike becomes a reality. The amount has been contracted for by the Columbia Broadcasting System for television rights to carry regular season NFL games.

167 — What d'ya think — the number of days left before Christmas!

City Wins 2nd Spot...for Now

City Hotel pounded out a 10-hit attack against Black Diamond Cheesemen last night, breaking up a three-way traffic jam for second place in the Commercial Softball League standings.

The Holeimen's 8-0 win put their season's record at 8-5, and stalled the Cheesemen at 7-7. Black Diamond is now tied with Stinson's for third spot in the standings, but the builders have a game in hand.

Big Bob Davenport returned to the starter's slab for City, setting the Cheesemen down on three hits, while striking out two, and issuing a pair of walks.

Meanwhile, his mates were taking apart the deliveries of Black Diamond starter Sonny Holoway and brother Don, who came on in relief in the sixth frame.

City touched Sonny for seven hits and six of their runs, while the Cheesemen starter was walking one, and striking out only a pair of Holeimen. Brother Don was charged with two runs on three hits, while fanning five.

The winners gained a 2-0 edge in their half of the second inning, made it 4-0 in the top of the fifth, and tallied an extra four in the sixth.

City second-sacker Bobby Wannamaker continued his plate performance for the Holeimen, good for a pair of singles last night. Another brace of safeties was contributed by third-baseman Doug Hull, while shortstop "Pug" Kellar stroked a triple.

Davenport proved his batting eye was in as good form as his throwing arm, knocking a single and double, while singles were collected by right-fielder "Moe" Hawkins and Doug and "Shiner" Murray.

Catcher Don Wood hit once for Black Diamond, and Cheeseman shortstop Dwight Rathwell collected the losers' other pair of safeties.

BRANTS 2 — POINT ANNE 1

In the other half of last night's league double - header at the Alemite, the last-place Brants entry grabbed their third win in their last five starts by edging Point Anne Cementmen 2-1 behind Mark Sheridan's two - hitter.

The lone temporarily dashed the Cementmen's third - place hopes, and left their season's record at six wins against nine losses. Brants are now 4-11.

Sheridan fanned nine and walked three in going the seven - inning route for the winners. Only Point Anne shortstop Rick Robichaud seemed to have his number, stroking a single and double to account for all the Cementmen's hitting.

Brants fashioned their winning margin in the second inning, when centrefielder Rod Ridley led off with a home run. First - sacker Jim Parks doubled with two out, advanced to third on an error, and came home with the winning run on catcher Wayne Bunnett's single.

The lone Point Anne tally came in the sixth, when catcher Dave Akey reached first on an error, and came around on a fielder's choice, a fly ball, and an error.

Jamie Hunter took the loss, allowing five hits, including a single and double by Brant third - baseman Steve Ling.

Hunter struck out two, and didn't walk a batter.

While NFL Camps Contemplate Strike...

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The possibility that the college all-star game in Chicago Aug. 2 may be cancelled as an casualty of the hassle between National Football League owners and players was a step nearer reality today.

Vince Lombardi, general manager of Green Bay's champions, followed an order handed down by the owners earlier this week and politely ejected star quarterback Bart Starr and 10 other veterans from the Packers' training camp Wednesday.

Even if a settlement is reached in the dispute that threatens a suspension of NFL activity for the 1968 season—and there were no indications of this —it may not come in time to save the all-star match.

Lombardi has insisted he won't send the Packers against the collegians in the game just a little more than three weeks away unless he can field a well-conditioned and representative team.

Starr and Co. weren't the only ones with rejection problems. Quarterback Roman Gabriel of the Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lion, were told to leave when they tried to check in with 13 rookies at the Lion Angeles Rams' camp at Fullerton, Calif.

And Dallas Cowboy veterans reportedly planned to set up their own training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., in an effort to get around the owners' decision that all veterans will be barred from regular training sessions until the controversy is settled.

Dave Manders' player representative of the Cowboys, was quoted as saying the oldtimers had decided to hold their own camp, minus coaches, because "there's little much in all stake. We're going for the title."

Meanwhile, things were rosy in the American Football League, where players and owners announced agreement Wednesday on a new two-year contract providing increases in player pensions, insurance and in exhibition game pay.

Under the new pact, a five-year player at age 65 would receive $689 a month instead of $500, a four-year player would get $1,132 instead of $775 and a 15-year man would receive $1,407 instead of $990.

Sports In Brief

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Stokers scored a goal with less than eight minutes left to defeat Santos of Brazil 2-1 Wednesday night before 16,205. It was the first loss in eight games on a current North American tour for the Brazilians and their super star, Pele.

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota Twins learned Wednesday that slugger Harmon Killebrew suffered a torn muscle in Tuesday night's baseball all-star game and will be lost for six to eight weeks. The assessment of Killebrew's injury and the period of his disability came from Dr. Harvey O'Phelan, a club physician who examined Killebrew Wednesday afternoon here. "His disability is relatively severe," O'Phelan said. "He will be unable to play for six to eight weeks." League, where players and owners announced agreement Wednesday on a new two-year contract providing increases in player pensions, insurance and in exhibition game pay.

TORONTO (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, commissioner of the Canadian Football League, said Wednesday players involved in the National Football League strike will not be eligible to play in Canada. "Any player legally under contract or option to play with any club in the NFL will not be eligible to play in the CFL," Gaudaur said. "Any player, whether directly or otherwise, not under NFL contract to clubs are eligible for CFL teams." Gaudaur said he has been besieged by telephone calls from the U.S. asking him about the situation.

...Canadian League Sees Pre-Season Play

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts defeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers 25-1 Wednesday night in a Canadian Football League exhibition game before 20,784 fans.

Halfback Joe Williams scored two Toronto touchdowns, one on an 86-yard run, while offensive end Mel Profit, alternate quarterback Don Wilkinson and halfback Bill Symons got the others.

Punter-place kicker Dave Mann was good on all five convert attempts. Winnipeg got its single point when Toronto's Jim Copeland conceded Ed Ulmer's 55-yard kick at the end zone.

The Argos went 47 yards on six plays for their first touchdown, with Symons crashing over from the one-yard line at 6:46 of the first quarter.

An intercepted pass by Gil Patmanis early in the second quarter returned to the Winnipeg 43-yard lot to the second Toronto touchdown.

Jim Dillard went around the right end for a 42-yard gain and Williams went around the left end for the score on a third-down situation.

Quarterback Wally Gabler hit Profit in the end zone for the third Toronto touchdown at 9:16 of the third quarter. Gabler got the Argos in position by connecting a 30-yard pass to Dillard.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders defeated British Columbia Lions 9-8 Wednesday night in a Western Football Conference exhibition game played before 36,000 fans, a Canadian record for a pre-season game.

Saskatchewan's only touchdown followed a fumbled pitchout by Leroy Sledge on the B.C. 23-yard line in the third quarter. Veteran Roughrider fullback George Reed bulled over from tw yards out. Bill Good converted.

The Riders' other two points were scored early in the second quarter when Bill Lasseter reversed his field on a punt reception, misjudged and was tackled in his own end zone.

The Lions' lone touchdown converted, was scored in the last minute of play as rookie fullback Jim Evenson, one of three trying for the job vacated by Bill Munsie, went over from two yards out.

Recreation Dept. Tries Track for Tots

By JERRY HOFF
Staff Reporter

The Trenton Minor Lacrosse team took the locals 1-0 in an overtime game Wednesday night at the Arena to put the Belleville Minor Lacrosse squad at 2-1 for the two week old season.

The game was a goose-egg tie for the three regulation 20-minute periods but in the first overtime Brian Johnson of Trenton put it in the net with an assist by Dave LaFrance.

Belleville meets Picton tonight at 8 p.m. in the Arena for their fourth game of the year.

All games in the Quinte Minor Lacrosse Association are played at 8 p.m. in the Belleville Arena.

Gord Smith and the Belleville Track Club like it, the high school coaches like it, the Recreation Committee likes it, and now, if only the kids like it, Belleville will have a grass-roots program that should have Quinte area track powers fearful or the future.

The idea is playground track teams.

The Recreation Committee last week appointed Robert Cretney, 21, ex-member of the Moira Secondary track and cross-country teams, as track and field superintendent for the Belleville summer playground programs. Cretney is currently a student at Queen's University.

The idea of the program is two-fold. Much to the delight of area coaches and participants, the participation of the playground kids in track and field will provide a solid base from which to draw future secondary school talent. The program will also, like the entire summer playground recreation system, provide out-of-school kids with something to do for the summer.

"We've never done anything like this before," Cretney said. "What we're trying to do is organize the kids into teams. Before, we just had individuals and at best it was just something to do. Now we hope to give the kids something to be enthusiastic about joining. And the teams will give the spectators something to cheer for."

The teams organized by the new program will in some instances incorporate several playgrounds. Other playgrounds with enough participants of their own will form one - playground teams.

As grouped by the Recreation Committee at present, the city playgrounds will be divided. Prince of Wales and Hillcrest will form the Prince of Wales team; Queen Victoria and CNR will form the Queen Victoria team. King George will have its own as will South George; Harry J. Clarke and Stanley Park Bayview will form the Bayview team; Parkdale will have its own; West Hill, Firehall, and Wellington Crescent will form the West Hill team; East Hill and Bayview Heights will form the East Hill team; Sir Winston Churchill, Bayview Heights, Churchill Heights, and Queen Elizabeth Alumite will be the Sir Winston Churchill team, and OSD and Avondale will be the OSD team.

Cretney will visit each of the teams once a week at the team's school. On Mondays, from 9.45 a.m. to 11.45 a.m., he'll be at Prince of Wales, then from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. he'll be at Parkdale.

He'll visit Queen Victoria and West Hill on Tuesday, King George and East Hill Wednesday, South George and SWC Thursday and Bayview and OSD on Friday.

The playground teams will compete in at least two meets this summer. On August 9, the teams will compete in the City Meet. On July 26, the playground teams of Picton, Trenton and Belleville will meet at Picton.

The top two competitors in each event in the City competition will go as members of the City Playground team to the Eastern Ontario meet in late August.

Cretney also pointed out that the teams are open to both boys and girls and joining them is entirely voluntary. The kids can either join or watch or take part in the activities without actually joining the team. Cretney said. "We don't want to over - organize."

Big Leaguers Talking Shop

HOUSTON (AP) — For the time being, at least, major league baseball has set its house in order.

Meetings of the National and American leagues Wednesday led to the adoption of a two-divisional split of the NL's 12 teams in 1969 and agreement by the AL to increase its schedule from the previously agreed 156 games to 162.

That means both leagues will operate with two six-team divisions with a best-of-five playoff between division champions determining the World Series opponents.

Originally, the Nationals, who move into Montreal and San Diego next year, had voted to stay with a single 12-team league playing 162 games next year. Meanwhile, the Americans, adding Kansas City and Seattle, agreed to two divisions of six and 156-game schedule.

Commissioner W i l l i a m D. Eckert and baseball's executive council, recognizing the chaos two separate systems could create in the sport, urged the Nationals to split providing the Americans would revert to the 162-game schedule.

The AL went along and the Nationals announced the following divisions for 1969:

One division comprised: New York, Montreal, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis.

The other division comprised: San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Houston, Cincinnati and Atlanta.

Earlier, the Americans had split this way:

One division had: Minnesota, Chicago, Oakland, Kansas City, Seattle and California.

The other division had: Cleveland, New York, Detroit, Baltimore, Boston and Washington.

The plan calls for teams in the same division to play one another 18 times—nine at home and nine away—while meeting clubs in the other division 12 times—six at home and six on the road.

Naturally, t h i s eliminates choice attractions for certain clubs and it was this problem that caused the most trouble Wednesday.

The Mets, for example, were home games against both Los Angeles and San Francisco because of the drawing power the Dodgers and Giants have in New York.

"We voted again and again until we broke the log jam," said Warren Giles, president of the National League, who presided at the day-long meeting.

Once the Nationals reached their decision, they presented it to the AL at a joint session that lasted scarcely five minutes. Now baseball was ready to present its united front.

Baltimore Bounces Bauer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hank Bauer kept his family in Kansas when Baltimore Orioles hired him as manager in 1964, saying "baseball is so indefinite, you know."

He was back home today with the family, having been dismissed Wednesday midway through the American League season.

It was expected Earl Weaver, 38, a minor league player and manager throughout his career, would be named today to replace Bauer.

Weaver was brought up as coach from Rochester of the International League last season when the Orioles fired three of the four coaches on the staff after the World Series champions of 1966 finished sixth in 1967.

The Orioles currently are in third place with a 43-37 record, but trail leading Detroit Tigers by 10½ games.

Bauer was informed of his discharge in Kansas during the all-star-break by Harry Dalton, Oriole director of player personnel.

Dalton said Bauer would be paid the balance of his contract for $50,000 a year which had been due to expire at the end of this season.

"It wasn't much of a surprise," said Bauer, 46. "Somebody had to take the blame and I'm the guy. Our pitching has been good, but the hitting has been bad."

The Oriole team batting average currently is .218.

Canadian Cyclists Few, But Among Best-prepared for Games

MONTREAL (CP) — Although Canadian cyclists will make up one of the smallest teams this country will send to the Summer Olympics at Mexico City in October, the Canadian Cycling Association is ensuring that the bike riders will arrive there prepared.

Mexico City is perched in rarefied air 7,300 feet above sea level, and the altitude and its effect on the competitors has become a major issue months before the Olympic torch is lit.

Since Mexico was granted the Games, medical teams have been busy studying the reaction of athletes performing in oxygen-thin atmosphere.

The CCA has decided to cash in on the varied phases of medical research on the subject.

One phase of preparation was completed here recently at the University of Montreal.

Through a laboratory complete with stationary bicycles, tubes, mouthpieces, cardiographs, test tubes, switches, buttons and computers, passed most of Canada's hopefuls for the bike marathon events at Mexico City.

Included in the group tested were Stu Mapp of Cookville, Ont., Jean Martel of Montreal, Joe Jones of Toronto, Roger Sumner of Vancouver and Ian Mahaux, a Canadian now residing in California.

Three Quebecers—Yves Landry of St. Romuald, Marcel Roy of Lac Megantic and Jules Beland of Drummondville—took their tests just prior to leaving July 4 for Font Romeau in the French Pyrenees. There they are training at the high-altitude test site set up by the French Olympic cycling group under France's Olympic coaches.

The Quebec trio will remain there for two months.

At the University of Montreal lab, under the testing of two University of Michigan doctoral graduates, Ron Ferguson and Richard Mostpetli, clues were sought on each athlete's potential in simulated rarefied air conditions they will face in Mexico.

Basically, the lab determines oxygen transportation —the differential between intake and output which actually spells out how much is being burned by an athlete's heart and muscles.

"It is not a final gauge or a final projection," warns Ferguson. "It is simply one factor which comes down to efficiency in use of oxygen.

"In athletes there are so many factors that one only cannot be counted as a gauge. However, because of Mexico, the cyclists feel our reports are an essential piece of information."

The type of testing the cyclists are undergoing is far from restricted to athletes. Highly sophisticated and accepted around the world, it is used in a variety of ways in business and industry to evaluate numerous things.

Strangely enough, with altitude so much a worry, teams are not beating down the doors of the Montreal lab—or other labs like it—in this country.

The cyclists are doing it, paddlers have passed through and a smattering of gymnasts are on the schedule. And that is all.

"We feel it is essential," a CCA official said, "because physically Mexico does offer problems for our boys." He adds:

"Through this sort of testing we can get a good line on who will and who won't be able to function to his potential at that level (Mexico).

"On the psychological side, being able to offer them conclusive scientific proof that they can function will remove some barriers."

Mapp was one of the first processed by the University of Montreal team. He rode to the beat of a metronome, a tube leading from his mouth to exhaust bags which measure volume, against an ever-heavier pressure on the wheel and with a cardiogram recording his heart's reactions to his exertions.

He is a veteran international competitor who has ridden in the Tour of Mexico. He is aware of the pitfalls of the country and figures the emphasis is being placed in the wrong area.

"Altitude is a problem and does require acclimatization," Mapp says. "Sure I think about it, but worse than that are the other effects."

These other effects are referred to, in findings of medical research teams, as gastro-intestinal tract disturbances caused by the water and some foods.

"That needs more care than the altitude," says Mapp.

British Golfers Lead Own Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (CP) — This could be a big year for Britain in the 100th British open golf championship if the first-round showing of her native sons is any criteria of things to come.

A Briton hasn't won the world-famous tournament since Max Faulkner turned the trick in 1951.

After the first 18 holes Wednesday, the top four placings were held by Britons, one of them a protege of Faulkner. And there were seven British players in the first 11.

For years, Michael Bonallack, 33, has ruled Britain's amateur ranks, winning every amateur title his country has to offer.

Wednesday, Bonallack and Brian Barnes, Faulkner's protege, shot into the first-round lead with two-under-par 70s.

Together with Englishman Peter Mills and Maurice Bembridge, who carded 71s, they were the only players in the field of 120 to crack par over the 7,252-yard course.

The vaulted American invaders were in trouble. Only Billy Casper, the lading American money-winner, was able to stay even with par.

Casper, the leading American bracketed at 72. Joining Casper were Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander who won the British Open in 1963 and took the Canadian Open title this year; Tony Jacklin of England, who broke into the U.S. pro circuit this year, and Paddy Skerritt of Ireland.

Jack Nicklaus, the American the bookies made a 4-to-1 favorite, had a 76, the victim of some rough weather late in the day.

Defending champion Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina and former champions Arnold Palmer of the U.S. and Peter Thomson of Australia were in danger of missing the 36-hole cutoff today after first-round 77s.

The 70 low scorers and ties will qualify for the third round Friday. The 45 low scores and ties will go into the final 18 holes Saturday.

At 73 were veteran Sebastian Miguel of Spain, Sandy Wilson of Scotland and Peter Allitt of England.

Then came Al Balding of Toronto, the lone Canadian entry, who was bracketed with seven others with a 74. Balding had a sizzling 34 on the front nine but he slumped to 40 on the back nine.

In the 74 bracket were such names as Gary Player of South Africa, Faulkner, Kel Nagle of Australia, Dave Thisel of England and Guy Brewer of the U.S.

This is the richest-ever British Open with prize money totalling £20,000 ($52,000). The winner's share of £3,000 ($7,800) is small compared with North American standards but the man who collects it knows he will have a bonanza of more than $100,000 in fringe benefits plus a special niche in golf's Hall of Fame.

The North Sea winds knocked the thermometer down into the 50s Wednesday, and the back nine of this frightening seaside course started to behave like an old witch.

Maladies crept in with the wind, including a strange throat virus that seemed to hit hundreds.

"WE SELL MORE THAT'S WHY WE CAN SELL FOR LESS."

here come the judges

Last week we asked the ladies (and gentlemen) who shop at Loblaws to complete a survey questionnaire which we distributed at our check-out counters. Among other things we asked our customers to judge our service, our quality and to give their opinions on Green Stamps.

The mail has been flooding in. We're grateful to all of you who took a few moments to complete the questionnaire. We're already working on many of your suggestions. To those of you who haven't yet returned your form, I would consider it a great personal favor if you could drop it in the mail this week.

Again, many thanks to all of you who have already done so.

Cortisone Useful in Severe Allergies

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: For 16 years my husband has received a cortisone shot part way through the ragweed season as he was not getting sufficient relief from his desensitizing shots.

The almost instant relief was so tremendous that he convinced me to try it last spring during the grass season and he received another in the fall.

We saved not only money and time (we had been making twice weekly visits to an office 10 miles away) but through the grass season I had absolutely no symptoms and required no anti-histamines.

However, I felt there were a few "side-effects", but perhaps it was only my imagination. My menstrual periods were disturbed for several months and I felt there was an abnormal growth of facial hair, but both conditions returned to normal.

I realize that cortisone is just a stop-gap and isn't for the allergies, but on the other hand it has given me full relief. Do you have any pros and cons on the subject? — W. E. G.

Cortisone (or one of its derivatives) is used in severe allergies and often gives dramatic relief, as you know. And, as you also know, it is a temporary measure, not a cure.

Obviously, if you can be comfortable by relying on desensitization and avoiding allergens, and thus developing some tolerance, that is the best way. But in severe cases one sometimes must resort to cortisone-type medications.

I am emphasizing that, not for your sake, V. E. G., but to guard against people with milder allergies rushing off and demanding a cortisone when it is not warranted.

It is possible that the side-effects you noted were real. Since they were temporary, there's no harm done.

Use of cortisone is primarily in seasonal types of allergy. I'm taking it only at certain times is quite a different matter from taking it unceasingly.

Furthermore, for allergy it can be taken in small doses by mouth (rather than by injection) which is a convenience.

In a case like yours, I see no objection to its use. The dosage can be adjusted to meet your needs while still limiting it to a minimal amount and to the times you need it.

Since no two people can be predicted to react alike to any medication, adjustment of your dosage to do the most good with the fewest side-effects is a matter you must discuss with your doctor.

Dear Dr. Molner: I just had calcium deposit in my spine. Why don't MD's suggest a diet to help avoid recurrences? — W. S. H.

Because, sir, it isn't calcium in the diet which causes calcium deposits. These deposits occur because of some injury, irritation, or infection. The body needs calcium. The calcium is deposited in the course of the healing process.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you think taking two aspirins and a cup of coffee of 30 per cent wine is harmful? I take that before I go to bed because it makes me go to sleep and I feel good in the morning. I am 81 and in good health but nervous. — Mrs. P. D.

At the age of 81 a good sleep is far more useful to you than any possible harm that could come from such a modest sleeping potion, so don't worry about it.

Government Revenue Shows Eleven Per Cent Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Total revenues of all governments in Canada, federal, provincial and municipal—rose to $5,656,000,000 in the first three months of 1968, more than 11 per cent greater than in the same period last year.

Reporting on the national account, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics says that at this rate, the year's total tax take and other government income will reach $23,008,000,000, compared with last year's $20,696,000,000. This is an increase of nearly eight per cent.

The combined revenues of governments are more than 25 per cent of all the goods and services produced in the country. The gross national product during the first quarter of 1968 was estimated by DBS to be running at an annual rate of $64,828,000,000.

The total of government revenues amounts to more than $1,115,000,000 for each man, woman and child in the country at the begining of the year, whether employed productively or not. This is $62.24 per capita more than last year.

On the annual rate basis, federal revenues in January, February and March run to $3,136,000,000 a year after making allowance for the federal government's payments to provincial and municipal governments.

With these transfers, provincial and municipal revenues were running to $12,932,000,000 a year. The provinces and municipalities, therefore, have about 56 cents to invest for every $3 available to the federal government—an important factor in federal-provincial negotiations to manage the economy.

In addition to these revenues by the three levels of government, the Canada Pension Plan fund is taking in $700,000,000 a year, and the Quebec Pension Plan another $240,000,000. These funds are available to the governments to use, but they pay interest on the money which turns up in the accounts again as investment income.

The largest increase in government revenues has been in receipts from personal direct taxes, up more than eight per cent. This was almost entirely in the federal sphere because of its inflation-dampening surtax on personal income taxes.

Some of the increase is also attributable to a slower rate of refunding than in the first quarter on over-paid income taxes. The federal revenue department ran into delays with its computer processing of 1967 income tax returns.

Indirect tax revenues rose by four per cent, mainly at the provincial and municipal level. Property tax revenues were up by about 10 per cent.

On the expenditure side of the national accounts, federal outlays on goods and services in the first quarter were running at an annual rate of $4,-616,000,000 compared with $4,-259,000,000 in 1967. This was despite a cut in defence spending to $1,732,000,000 from $1,-856,000,000.

Provincial and municipal outlays on goods and services have been running at an annual rate of $8,432,000,000 from $18,000,000 last year.

Pensions and other welfare payments by the three levels of government are running this year to $6,684,000,000, compared with $6,223,000,000 actually paid last year. Annual interest on the public debt of the three levels of government is amounting to $2,900,000,000 this year, compared with $1,362,000,000 in 1967.

UK Assigns Nuclear Punch To NATO Air, Sea Units

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced today the further assignment of powerful air and sea units—some with a nuclear punch— to the North Atlantic Alliance for defence of the Mediterranean and Europe.

A white paper on defence policy also disclosed a government decision to reinforce Britain's air, land and sea power based on the island colony of Hong Kong.

The document was reporting progress on the government's plans to withdraw most of its military forces from the east of the region by the mid-1970s.

It told of widespread redeployment and retrenchment in the armed forces during the period 1969-1972 all Britain's new Buccaneer and Phantom aircraft will be committed to NATO.

The Phantoms and Buccaneers are equipped to deliver tactical nuclear weapons.

The white paper stressed Britain's resolve to preserve its NATO role with the help of any colony or. Commonwealth part, ner any place in the world in case of military need. For this purpose, it said:

"A substantial number of naval ships, an amphibious force, several squadrons of RAF squadrons and a naval force.

The white paper listed the following new British contributions to NATO:

—From 1969 a squadron of Shackleton long-range anti-submarine reconnaissance aircraft will be transferred to Malta.

—From 1970 a guided missile destroyer will be added to Britain's frigate force in the Mediterranean. A second destroyer will also be stationed there.

—From 1970 Rapier air defence units of the United Kates will be attached to NATO. From 1971 Phantom strike-planes bought from the United States will be at the disposal of the alliance.

—During the period 1969-1972 all Britain's new Buccaneer and Phantom aircraft will be committed to NATO.

The Phantoms and Buccaneers are equipped to deliver tactical nuclear weapons.

The white paper stressed Britain's resolve to preserve its NATO role with the help of any colony or. Commonwealth part, ner any place in the world in case of military need. For this purpose, it said:

"A substantial number of naval ships, an amphibious force, several squadrons of combat aircraft of various types and a land force of at least brigade group size" will be available for deployment in an emergency outside the NATO area.

The government explained why it has decided to reinforce Hong Kong:

"In view of the distance between Hong Kong and the United Kingdom our withdrawal from Singapore and Malaysia will require certain increases to the force in Hong Kong and some measure of support previously provided in Malaysia and Singapore will have now to be located in the colony itself."

New Brunswick Court Experts Study Ruling About Language

FREDERICTON (CP) —The issue of French language use in New Brunswick courts may not be resolved until this fall's session of the legislature.

It came to a head July 3 when the appeals division of the New Brunswick Supreme Court ruled that English is the official language of the province's courts.

Premier Louis J. Robichaud, the first elected premier of Acadian French descent in a province where about 40 per cent of the population is French-speaking, has "no comment at this time" regarding criticism of Mr. Justice Charles J. A. Hughes's decision.

New Brunswick Justice Minister Bernard Jean said provincial officials are "studying the judgment and the problem as a whole".

He would not comment otherwise at present "because the case is still before the courts and there is a chance the defence counsel may appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada."

At the spring sittings a government motion paving the way for official recognition of English and French was passed in a house dividing on straight party lines.

Premier Robichaud said the accompanying legislation would be introduced in the fall.

The New Brunswick Supreme Court decision was on an application by two Quebec province students, then attending the University of Moncton, who asked that court proceedings in the case be heard in French.

Jacques Belisle 21, of Terrebonne, Que., and Jacques Moreau, 22, of St. Sauveur, Que., were charged with public mischief after a pig's head was placed on the residence doorstep of Moncton Mayor Leonard C. Jones.

They chose to be tried by a judge without a jury and asked that the trial be in French. Judge Henry Murphy rejected the request and his April 24 decision was appealed to the provincial Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Hughes's decision said English became the official language of New Brunswick courts through English statute law passed through the British North America Act.

He noted that regardless of what language a person speaks, protection is afforded to one's ignorant of English with evidence translated to him and his testimony translated to the court.

The B N A Act makes English the language of law and the courts except in Quebec, where persons may be heard in either English or French, and in the Supreme Court of Canada and the Exchequer Court.

After Judge Murphy's April decision in Moncton it was delivered by New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas and the party's Quebec Leader, Robert Cliche.

Grocery Beer Sales Are Urged

TORONTO (CP) — A Liberal member of the legislature said Wednesday beer is a basic commodity and should be sold in Ontario grocery stores.

"The government should permit the sale of beer in grocery stores all the time," said Eddie Sargent, member for Grey-Bruce.

"The people of this province are fed up with the hypocrisy of the Robarts liquor policy. Beer is a basic commodity."

Mr. Sargent was commenting outside the house on a question he put in the legislature to Premier John Robarts asking why beer cannot be sold in grocery stores.

Mr. Robarts replied it was not government policy.

Businessman Deserves Better Break: Rodgers

"The small businessman isn't getting a better break under present local tax systems.

He may not be going broke, but he's falling into an "ever-widening gap," Hastings County council was warned yesterday.

The plea for consideration of the victimized small businessman came from Reeve Donald Rodgers of Stirling.

Reeve Rodgers said inequalities in present tax structures were developing an "ever-widening gap" between farm and residential assessments as opposed to commercial assessment.

The basic - shelter exemptions now introduced in Ontario only means the local businesses accordingly are being taxed that much more.

"For some of these small businessmen, it's starting to pinch them severely," he said.

The reeve, hoped council's committee on municipal reform would carry the issue before a select committee of the Legislature due to visit Eastern Ontario next month.

Presbyterian Youth Groups Hold Tea

DESERONTO — The Explorers and C.O.C. of the Presbyterian Church held their annual tea and sale in the church hall last Wednesday afternoon, and those in charge state that it was the most successful one to date, with more adults than on former occasions attending and thus showing their appreciation of what is being done for the children.

The children have been studying Japan during the year, and so the Japanese theme was followed. A tiny Japanese lady in a tiny Japanese garden was at the centre of each small table, and on the tea table, a Ming tree was surrounded by similar gardens. The children sang a Japanese song at intervals during the afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Griffiths, leader of the C.O.C., was at the door, and was also in charge of the sale of greeting cards, from which the groups derive some revenue.

Pouring tea was Miss Gladys Pearase.

In the kitchen were Mrs. Charles McMillan and Mrs. Kay Hood, leader of the Explorers.

The mothers and friends of the children had shown their appreciation by contributing all sorts of good things for the baked goods table. Terry Griffith and Debby Knapp had no trouble selling everything.

Cathy Pringle and Kim Fraser were in charge of the craft table, many of the articles the work of the children themselves during the meetings. Janet Claus looked after sales at the White Elephant table.

Only City Water Tasteless

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

It is a fitting retribution that the man who lives for himself dies without ever getting to know himself; for it is only in the free give-and-take of social commitment that we can ever realize our personalities.

Against all sense and reason, it's nearly impossible to refrain from shouting at a foreigner with a weak understanding of English — as if it were a defect of hearing rather than of language.

* * *

One of the curses of "bigness" in cities is that keeping the records straight soon becomes more important than keeping the customers satisfied; and whether one is in a hospital, restaurant or store the nurses, cashiers and clerks are much more concerned with their paper work than with the human beings who make the work possible.

* * *

The irony of insecure people who have to frequent only fashionable and expensive restaurants is that they generally meet nobody there but other insecure parvenus who are suffering from the same compulsion.

* * *

It is as silly to call Paris "Paree" in English as it would be to call Rome "Roma" or Moscow "Muskva."

* * *

A sound touchstone for young people in determining whether it's infatuation or the real thing, is Saint - Exupery's perceptive remark: "Love does not consist in gazing at each other, but in looking outward together in the same direction."

* * *

Over-eagerness to please usually succeeds only in creating problems where none existed before.

* * *

Why does almost every person agree with the old maxim that "variety is the spice of life," and yet at the same time look aghast at any variety in ideas, variety in ways of living, and variety in dress and social demeanor?

* * *

It's difficult to remember how tasteless tap water is in the city until you've resumed drinking well water in the country.

* * *

Actors, who would seem to lead the most exciting lives, write the dullest biographies — possibly because they don't understand what they have lived through and look upon life merely as a "role."

* * *

The most common mark of ignorance is the belief that "history is dead"; for the errors made at Vienna in 1815, or at Versailles a century later, still live on to plague us and our children.

In the parental relationship, "love" that does not include understanding can be worse for the child than frank neglect.

Don't Squeeze Dry PM Warns Unions

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Friday accused some unions representing government employees of trying to squeeze too much out of the public treasury.

The Liberal leader, pressed by the St. Lawrence seaway strike and a threatened postal walkout, told a news conference the union aim in some cases was to "squeeze as much as we can from the lemon."

He said he was speaking generally and not directly about seaway or postal workers.

"The juice does not come from my pocket," he added, "but from the public."

Mr. Trudeau, a former labor lawyer, said he hoped his remarks did not sound too reactionary.

They climaxed a mild-mannered lecture about the difference between unions operating in private industry and those representing government workers as in the case of seaway and postal workers.

Private industry can afford to pay only so much in wage increases and no more lest it go broke. The public should recognize that the government cannot go broke, but must look at the danger of inflation and the state of economy in the light of wage increases, which could also lead to tax increases.

Canadian unions that seek wage parity with the U.S. are asking for transfers of resources from other groups in society who do not have parity.

"Parity begins at home," he said.

Mr. Trudeau said that if Parliament had to be recalled to deal with labor unrest, the earliest possible date was July 26 — the day after writs are returned from the June 25 election.

Beer May Flow Again

TORONTO (CP) — Talks which could lead to the end of Ontario's 22-day-old beer strike got underway on schedule here today.

David Lewis, Toronto lawyer who has been conducting negotiations for the United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, said Friday night he hopes for an agreement today or Sunday in the 22-day strike-lockout.

Mr. Lewis, who is also New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Scarborough West, said "yards were made" Friday night in his talks with officials of the brewing industry.

Details of the negotiations Friday, the first since 200 workers walked off the job at Molson's Toronto plant June 22, and prompted an industry-wide lockout in turn, were sketchy.

But a union spokesman hinted the workers may compromise on demands for a $1.25-package-increase over three years.

And there were also reports that company officials moved from their earlier position that they would not go beyond a 85-cents-an-hour package of wages and benefits.

Rates under the old agreement ranged from $2.57 to $3.51 an hour.

Meanwhile Friday night, Harry Simon, regional director of the Canadian Labor Congress, was more restrained about chances for settlement.

"The union is prepared to compromise, but we're a lot of work to do yet," Mr. Simon said.

Pension plans are also at issue, with the companies calling for a uniform industry-wide scheme and the union holding out for improvements in individual company plans.

Last Ditch Try

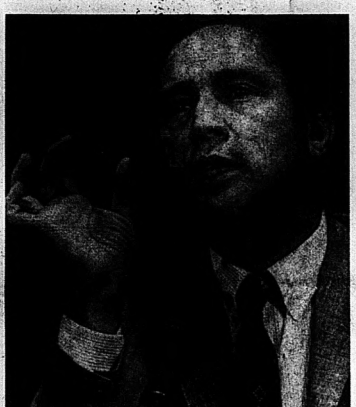
OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday a postal strike is not inevitable as unions and government prepared for a last-ditch meeting Monday in an attempt to reach a wage settlement.

Mr. Trudeau told a news conference he hoped both sides would "make progress" at the Monday meeting. He was leaving it up to them.

The news conference, called to announce details of a government departmental reorganization, came a few hours after the Council of Postal Unions called a strike for 5 a.m. EDT Thursday.

Mr. Trudeau said the postal unions' wage demand is unreasonable. The state of the economy and postage rates do not justify what he called a 23-per-cent increase.

The Liberal leader's figures did not precisely agree with other figures which place the postal demand at a 15-cent-an-hour increase over a 14-month contract. It would amount to more than 27 per cent for the top category of $2.75.



Mr. Trudeau said the government has no recourse to prevent a postal strike. The unions have the legal right to strike.

He said there was no "absolute necessity" for the treasury board, the postal workers' employer, to make a definite counter-offer. And the board had not. The parties were too far apart for that.

The bright spot in the strike picture was the federal government's acceptance of a new offer for new talks with Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the public service staff relations board, serving as informal mediator.

But union leaders, who represent 24,000 postal workers, say they doubt a strike can be avoided at this late stage. For one thing, it takes three days to poll workers on any agreement reached by negotiators.

Wages apparently became almost the sole remaining issue with the release of a conciliation board report that amounts to a working contract.

Squeeze Not the Lemon

Lock Talks Start

OTTAWA (CP) — A move to end the costly St. Lawrence Seaway strike developed unexpectedly Friday as seaway and union teams quietly resumed negotiations of the wage dispute that led to the strike June 21.

The teams met for seven hours Friday in the offices of the labor department here and were to continue the bargaining session at 1 p.m. EDT, after an overnight recess.

It was their first session since negotiations collapsed June 30. The resumption of bargaining came without fanfare. Only a day before, no meeting was in sight.

However, there has been a hail of protest against the strike which has trapped 70 ocean ships and left 200 lakers idle at the height of the seaway season.

Neither Dr. Pierre Camu, president of the seaway authority, nor William J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, would comment after Friday's meeting.

William Kelly, director of the labor department's conciliation branch, described it as a "steady" session in which the negotiation teams worked hard.

There were few of the huddles that usually interrupt such bargaining sessions. The two parties "clarified" their positions in a non-negotiation meeting July 5.

The union wants a 15-per-cent wage increase in the two-year contract for 1,250 striking seaway employees.

The seaway is offering 12 per cent but suggested June 30, in negotiations since rejected, that it might go slightly higher.

The government has refused to intervene in the strike. A seaway strike in 1966 was settled when Ottawa stepped in with a 30-per-cent increase.

Prime Minister Trudeau told a news conference Friday it would be a mistake for the government to intervene now. He said he hoped to get away from that tradition.

Church Must Launch Move Into Ghettos of the Poor

UPPSALA (AP) — The churches must look beyond the affluent suburbs and launch a new missionary movement into the ghettos of the poor, says a report to the assembly of the World Council of Churches meeting in this Swedish city.

The subcommittee on urban and industrial mission said in its report today that churches still are mainly organized in parishes patterned on village life, despite the great social changes caused by urbanization and industrialization.

Christian congregations usually are middle class—white collar workers and business people —with the number of secure people disproportionate to the poor, whose participation is desperately needed, the report said.

This applies equally to churches in the West, Asia, Africa and Latin America, the report added.

It is no longer enough to assume that people will come to the church, the subcommittee said. The church must go after the workers, the new poor, the decision makers, the planners and the technocrats, it declared.

The report said there have been church missions into city centres for some decades, but most were still in the pioneering stage and in many important areas there had not been even a modest beginning.

The subcommittee recommended regional strategy conferences to plan relocation of the church's efforts. They should be fully ecumenical, embracing all denominations including Roman Catholic, it said.

Silver Coins Getting Scarce

TORONTO (CP) — Silver coins have become so scarce in Toronto that merchants Friday offered a soft-drink bonus to customers bringing in $10 worth of silver change.

The shortage is attributed to international smuggling of silver.

One supermarket appealed to customers in a newspaper advertisement to bring in silver coins. The advertisement offered a soft drink as a premium.

The crisis is expected to ease after the Canadian mint starts producing new nickel alloy coins Aug. 1.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. customs officials said Friday they seized more than a half-ton of coins Thursday that they believed were to be melted for their silver content. One man was arrested on a smuggling charge.

A customs spokesman said he believed most of the coins were Canadian. They had not been counted, he said.

The coins were in 38 bags, with the total weight 1,628 pounds.

Ball Point Pen Ballots Defeat MP

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP) — Former Comox-Alberni MP Tom Barnett said Friday night he was beaten in the June 25 federal election by a ball point pen.

He made the comment in an interview after a judicial recount showed the New Democratic Party incumbent, in the Vancouver Island riding to Liberal newcomer Richard Durante by seven votes.

Mr. Barnett said that during the recount he lost 13 votes and Mr. Durante one because ballots were marked by ball point pens instead of lead pencils as stipulated in the Canada Elections Act.

Toronto Rejects Hippies and Yorkville Summer Madness Begins

TORONTO (CP) — Fires burned in refuse cans along Yorkville Avenue Friday night as 3,000 hippies, tourists and police officers waited for something to happen in the midtown coffee-house area.

When it did, cars crawling along the narrow street were pelted with assorted fruit, firecrackers exploded along the crowded sidewalks and 10 persons were arrested for causing a disturbance by obstructing traffic.

David Bernard (Smokey) Johnson, a self-proclaimed deserter from the United States Army, was dragged off to a waiting paddy wagon when he attempted to stage a sit-in. It was his third arrest this week following disturbances in the village.

What started as a demonstration against the war in Vietnam soon turned into a protest against traffic in the hippie district lined with boutiques and discotheques. The village was the scene of clashes between police and the hippies last year when three sit-ins were staged seeking the closing of the street.

"I organized the demonstrations here last year, but it was nothing like this," David Depoe, a member of the Company of Young Canadians, said as he tried to keep the young people off the pavement. "But with all the idiots and tourists down here tonight, how can you organize anything?"

Depoe stood in the street pushing youths back onto the sidewalk as policemen directing traffic looked increasingly at long-haired youths crowded along the curb.

One girl was grabbed by the hair and thrown onto the sidewalk as police attempted to keep traffic moving.

"What a way to treat a . . . lady," the girl screamed as Depoe tried to calm her down.

Young executives with attractive dates, fathers with their children and grandmothers in the back seat of shiny cars were there to see what was happening.

Newspaper photographers and reporters mingled with the hippies trying to hide their notepads and pencils. One reporter was chased down an alley by two youths. He hurriedly ripped up his notes.

Half an hour before his arrest, Johnson had burned a large poster of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh in a trash can.

"Look, you can't go burning fires anywhere you want," a police officer told Johnson. "Move along."

"I'm moving. I'm moving," Johnson said as he shuffled his feet along the sidewalk.

Seconds later, 19-year-old Kirk Richwina from Pennsylvania burned a similar poster of U.S. President Johnson and an American flag.

The demonstrations Friday night followed the arrest Wednesday of freelance writer June Callwood and five others including Star Weekly writer Margaret Daly on similar charges.

Toronto Mayor William Dennison has urged police to try to stop the influx of homeless hippies by "constant harassment and surveillance."

"They've been rejected in Winnipeg, Vancouver, Hamilton, Montreal and Ottawa and now I add Toronto," he told a news conference Friday.

A little more boyhood practice on mechano sets might have helped Donald Davis and Chamber of Commerce secretary O. F. Bradley to puzzle out the assembly of a pre-fab metal hut, the nucleus of Cafe de la Moira, opening Monday on Front Street. The sidewalk cafe will provide employment for university students.

Sidewalk Cafe Ready -- Starts Operation Monday

Belleville is going cosmopolitan.

A sidewalk cafe will make the scene Monday on the Front Street lot opposite opposite Rolul's store.

Its name? Cafe de la Moira . . . what else?

The sidewalk cafe is the brain child of Alderman Robin Jeffrey, who first proposed it to city council as an employment opportunity for university students.

When city council failed to take up the idea, Mrs. Jeffrey went ahead on her own.

The project could just as well be called "instant coffee house," for it was only a week in the making.

At a meeting last Monday, the board of parks and recreation, public works, Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Businessmen's Association, Public Utilities Commission and Interested Industrialists and private citizens, volunteered their help.

A plywood platform was constructed on the site of the burnt-out area on Front Street and a donated metal "utility house" was assembled yesterday afternoon by O. F. Bradley of the Chamber of Commerce, assisted by city public works employees and Roy Jeffrey.

Umbrella tables, also donated, will be placed in front of the utility house. There, patrons will be able to sit and watch the world go by on Front St., in the best tradition of European cities.

When it goes into operation Monday, the cafe will serve tea, coffee, chocolate milk, "Moira moonshine" and a special item each day, such as fruit in season, Danish pastry and cheese.

Purpose of the cafe is to give employment to university students, many of whom could not find work this summer.

A profit sharing plan is in operation; each of the eight students employed through the local Canada Manpower office will receive his percentage of the profits when the cafe closes at the end of the summer. In effect, the students will be owners of the cafe when Mrs. Jeffrey bows out on Monday.

The city's only woman alderman had other purposes in mind when she planned the cafe.

"It will add color to Front St. and provide a showcase for local talent," she said.

On a platform built against the wall of the adjacent building, entertainers will perform and the works of local artists will be displayed.

"And of course," added Mrs. Jeffrey. "The cafe will be a pleasant place for the weary shopper to stop for a cup of tea."

"Our young people have accused us of not caring about them. Adults do care. This is the proof," she finished, sweeping her arm over the half-finished cafe.

Trenton's Public Employees

Strike Settlement Expected Monday

TRENTON — It was the threat of Trenton's swing bridge being left open that had Mayor James MacDonald and his council rushing to the negotiating table with the town' public employees late yesterday afternoon.

But it was the failure to use this threat as a bargaining tool that resulted in the union losing out on its job security demand.

When the meeting was over Douglas Lindsay, national representative for the CUPE, met with workers and announced that "a settlement would be reached by tomorrow".

This would mean no job security clause.

Said Mr. Lindsay, "We achieved what we were after because we showed them we were willing to fight for what we wanted."

Cecil Webb, president of local 760, was awaiting word at noon yesterday on the action of opening the bridge.

He was given the go-ahead at three o'clock but held back pending a meeting with the mayor and council. The meeting began at 4.30 and lasted an hour.

Mr. Webb came out of the municipal building and mounted across the street where strikers had waited throughout the meeting.

"No dice," Webb told them, "they still won't go for it."

Lindsay immediately called a meeting of all present and they marched over to the public yards.

Within half an hour it was all over.

"I promise a settlement will be reached by tomorrow," said Lindsay.

Most of the workers said nothing but were content to agree with a man who "knows a lot more about this business than we."

During the meeting Webb mentioned that during the meeting with council he did not say anything about opening the bridge.

"The fact that they were there talking to us showed they knew about the bridge," said the local president.

Town clerk O. W. Larry said this morning he had been informed of the union's agreement with the town.

All that remains is the signing of an official memorandum.

New Hastings County Home for Aged Overlooks Bancroft

Home for Aged Opens in Bancroft

BANCROFT — Mrs. Dan Goodwin started a new home life yesterday — with a party of public personalities opening the door.

The 87-year-old Monteagle township widow became the first resident of Hastings County's new home for the aged here.

She took up residence while workmen were still putting final construction details into place on the ultra - modern structure.

In the coming months, Mrs. Goodwin will be gradually joined by other, elderly citizens from the northern townships, as the home gradually becomes fully operative, filling toward its 108-bed capacity.

Yesterday the home—which complements the county's first residence for the aged at Belleville — also received its first compliments as the official party welcoming Mrs. Goodwin afterwards took a quick inspection tour of the building.

In the group, headed by county warden Calvin White, were Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings; Delbert Harvey, reeve of Tyendinaga and chairman of county council's home committee, and county clerk-treasurer Carl E. Bateman.

Earlier in the week, some disappointment had been expressed in county council at the rate of work progress on the site. Yesterday the criticism took second place with compliments as the official party saw the architectural accomplishment first hand.

Off the blueprints has risen a structure that not only provides a humanitarian public service but enhances the entire community here.

In the northern reaches of Hastings county the geography is an overwhelming factor, and the outdoors panorama has been acknowledged in the layout of the home.

The land around is visible from almost any point.

Perched on high ground above the village, it has a sweeping view of the rugged northern countryside.

But the community itself gains from the presence of the building, the biggest structure north of Belleville — and the most ultra modern.

Combining brick and cedar wood, Toronto architects Bregman and Hamman created a structure that gracefully contrasts with the surrounding countryside.

But the view is only a bonus to the environment inside the home.

Warm bright colors set a happy mood in lounges, dining halls and private rooms.

An elevator connects the two main floors which will be used by the elderly residents.

There's a barbershop, even a chapel for religious services.

In the huge kitchen chef Mervin Mullen estimates he could easily cook full-course meals for 200 people daily.

For the public, the home is a boon — in more ways than the obvious one of providing extra accommodation.

Hitherto elderly folk requiring county care from the northern townships went to Hastings Manor, in Belleville.

Now they may stay—If they wish — in their own district, in their own kind of countryside.

Also relatives and friends won't have to travel the length of Hastings County to visit.

The home—expected to cost about $1,500,000 when fully completed and equipped — also graphically underlines the change in public expectations in care for the aged.

This was noted yesterday when a surprise visitor dropped in as the official party was ending its tour — Elmer Sandercock, former MPP Hastings West, who once was superintendent of the county home in Belleville before he entered politics.

"Just wonderful — it's certainly a change from my day" reacted Mr. Sandercock who had the task of operating a home of the elderly in the atmosphere of the 1930's.

She's the First Lady!

Mrs. Dan Goodwin, 86-year-old Monteagle township widow, was first resident admitted to new Bancroft county home yesterday. Among official party on hand with surprise greeting were (from left) Calvin White, county warden, Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, and Carl Bateman, Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, Delbert Harvey, Tyendinaga reeve, and Carl Bateman, county clerk-treasurer.

Tourist Outlook Bright Throughout Hastings

The tourist outlook is bright in Hastings county this year, although a slump is reported in the Kingston and Prince Edward County areas.

O. F. Bradley, secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and president of the Highlands of Hastings tourist association, said literature on the county is going "like hotcakes", and the C of C has had more inquiries than ever this year.

"Operators of private camping grounds are doing better this year because of the increased rates at provincial parks", he commented.

"Water-borne tourist traffic appears to be up too", he added. "Dozens of boats were turned away from the harbor last weekend because of lack of accommodation and some said more yachts were cruising Quinte waters than ever before".

Carl Reid of Landsdowne, district representative of the Ontario Department of Tourism, said he had received conflicting reports on the tourist traffic this year.

"Tourist areas off the main highways are doing well, but operators of tourist accommodation on the main highways did better last year", was the way he summed it up.

Expo was responsible last year for the high volume of traffic on the highways and comparison of the 1967 figures with those for this year give a misleading impression.

Mr. Reid quoted figures for the number of inquiries at the information booth run by his department at the Thousand Island bridge.

During the period from January to June 24 in 1966, 6,903 inquiries were made. In the same period in 1967 the total rose to 7,475. This year the figure is 6,852.

"This indicates a normal steady increase in volume of tourist traffic over the bridge" Mr. Reid said. "The 1967 figure was excessively inflated due to Expo."

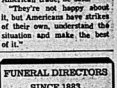
His conclusions are borne out by the reports of city motel operators, although they too present conflicting figures.

"Fewer Americans are on the road this year," said manager David Kerr. "I guess they spent themselves out last year, and the weather has been poor."

E. Clyde Bell, secretary of the Tweed Chamber of Commerce, reported that cottagers in the resort areas around Tweed are booked solid. However, the number of campers at the provincial park at Massanaw Lake has declined, due, Mr. Bell thinks, to the increased park rates and poor weather.

The number of inquiries at our tourist information booth in North America's Smallest Jailhouse has declined," he added. "But merchants report their grocery sales are up."

"In former years we saw many New York and Michigan cars in the district. This year most of the Americans seem to come from Ohio," he commented.



The same rosy picture is painted for the Arden area by James Arbuckle, president of Land O'Lakes tourist association.

"Prospects look good," he said. "We had more early bookings this year, with more Ontario residents and fewer Americans registering."

The beer strike hasn't had a marked influence on the American trade, he said.

"They're not happy about it, but Americans have strikes of their own, understand the situation and make the best of it."

Hospital Workers Acclaimed

NAPANEE — One of the interesting features of the hospital event planned as a garden party but because of the weather materialized as an afternoon tea and sale, was the public recognition of the volunteer work which is being carried on in the hospital X-ray department, especially by the school girls during June, July and August. Some of the girls are beginning their third summer of such work.

Two girls, Anne Woodman and Madeline Exley, were presented with certificates testifying to the work they had done. Twelve other girls received both certificates and pins. They were: Cathy Aikenbrack, Elaine Bateman, Susan Brandon, Sharon Davenroe, Brenda Davidson, Patricia Donelan, Valerie Hanna, Mary Murphy, Jackie Paterson, Terry Richmond, Sheila Schell and Jo-Anne Woodley.

The presentations were made by Mrs. Thea Owens, R.T. (R), head of the X-ray department, with the assistance of Mrs. Sylvia Madden, its secretary. Mrs. Owens eulogized the girls, and on behalf of the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital, expressed sincere gratitude to them for their many services.

These volunteers have given of their vacation time, and some of them travelled long distances, but the speaker stated her belief that it had been worthwhile as far as they themselves are concerned. They have learned hospital life, and some of the girls have been influenced to make some phase of hospital work their career, several in the department where they have been working.

Following the presentations of certificates and pins to the group of girls, Cathy Aikenbrack was recalled, singled out for a speical award for especial duties.

Strikes Hit Economy

The disadvantages of the free enterprise system, superior as it is to a planned, socialist-type economy — coupled with the workers' right-to-strike — are seen with grim clarity in these long hot summer days of labor discontent.

Four major strikes are either in being or pending. Millions of dollars in revenue and wages are being lost. The strike of St. Lawrence Seaway workers in particular poses a grave threat to the national economy. Lakefreighter grain handlers are threatening a stoppage at a time when wheat sales are the lowest in years and carryover stocks are the highest in a decade.

From the economic standpoint it is most unfortunate that strikes of this magnitude should be allowed to continue. And yet, to interfere — to bring in troops, for instance, to replace the Seaway workers — the Government is loathe to do.

This still does not get away from the fact that the country's industrial future is being jeopardized. Many firms are being faced with ruin. What to do then? It is wrong that individual and corporate resources should be squandered like this, to the detriment of all.

Swedish Interlude

The picture of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, lowering his newspaper to take note of an elegant young blonde Swede passing by is as good a reminder as any of our common humanity.

Archbishops to carrier boys delivering their papers, deep down we are all the same. Newspapers recording the scene described the scene with delicate finesse.

One caption noted: "Dr. Michael Ramsey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, interrupts his reading of a newspaper today at Uppsala, Sweden, to watch a young woman walk by. He was taking advantage of a break in events of the fourth assembly of the World Council of Churches by relaxing in the sunshine."

Another newspaper, still more circumspect, observed: "The Archbishop of Canterbury digresses from news of the day during a break in events at the Assembly of the World Council of Churches."

The Swedish social and recreational scene apart, the churchmen discussed a variety of subjects and concluded that encouraging progress was being made toward church unity. Some obstacles remain however, and Dr. Ramsey cited mixed marriage as one of the most difficult under discussion by the Anglican and Roman communions.

Another pressing matter, particularly in view of what is happening in Nigeria, is that of poverty. Speakers urged Western governments to narrow the great gap between the world's rich and poor.

British economist Dr. Barbara Ward put it with particular emphasis when she urged an audience of more than 2,000 representing all the major churches of the world, to place "the world's miseries above the upward drift of our ample domestic comforts, or, more urgent still, above the world's vast expenditure on a sterile defence."

The Movie World

The movies of today and the personalities who make their living from them don't seem to be of the calibre of the great films and stars of the past. Memories of the cinematic art form abound — of the scenic grandeur and stirring music that were a feature of many productions, and of great performances.

And sometimes one fails to wondering what became of such and such an actor of the not so far distant past. There, in a television commercial in the middle of the Lawrence Welk show for instance, was a vaguely familiar face. But who was he? And then the still handsome, well-built man said: "I'm Ralph Bellamy." A noted Hollywood actor and star of many films, the Chicago-born Bellamy is now 63.

Among Hollywood's well-known women stars one who seems to be enjoying something of a comeback is Irish-born Greer Garson. It is difficult to believe that Miss Garson, who is married to a wealthy oil company executive and lives in New Mexico, is now 60.

The star of Mrs. Miniver recently was reminded of her Irish background during a visit to Dallas, Texas. It seems she was entering the city just as the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, Terence O'Neill, was leaving. Although Miss Garson and Mr. O'Neill did not meet, the latter arranged for a scarf bearing the legendary Red Hand of Ulster symbol to be sent to her. And since Miss Garson was born on a farm near Newry, County Down, and has family connections with the O'Neill's, the gift was an appropriate one.

Stanfield — Dief Duo May Make It Hot For Trudeau

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA - Although Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau heads Canada's first majority government in six years, it could be he really won't know what he is up against until it hits him.

The hitting will come in Parliament and it could burn.

Numerically, Pierre - Power looks potent enough with 154 seats in the 72 of the official Conservative Opposition.

Let all the opposition groups, Conservative, New Democrat, Creditiste, gang up against the government and the Liberals still have a 44-seat edge.

How much safer can a government get?

Not much, until you remember what a supposedly puny combined Opposition of only 57 Liberals and New Democrats did to former Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker's mightiest - power - base - of all - governments, that 208-horde of Tory MPs who tidal-waved in from the 1958 election.

It can work both ways, as it did just the year previous, in the 1957 election, when a combined Conservative - New Democratic - Social Credit Opposition of 85 upset the 170 seat-strong St. Laurent government and ended 22 unbroken years of Liberal power.

It is all up to the Opposition, and the secret weapon is the quality of its manpower.

The Opposition does not have to be large numerically — although it helps — but it must be good.

It must possess the instinct for the political jugular and the will to kill.

Such an Opposition could be in the making for the Conservatives.

The election carnage of its potential frontbench talent was gruesome, with Mike Starr, Earl Brownridge, Dalton Camp Roger Regimbal, Wallace McCutcheon, Merle Hamilton, George Chatterton, Davie Fulton all slaughtered.

But Robert Stanfield easily survived the massacre and so did Dief.

And what a one-two wallop they could have together for socking it to Pierre.

The impact is in the contrast.

Robert Stanfield . . . quiet, reasonable, wedded always to the responsible, so full of calm compelling integrity as to be able to erode the great inheritance of trust and affection left the Nova Scotia Liberals by the well-beloved Premier Angus L. Macdonald.

And John Diefenbaker . . . noisy, unreasonable, flirting often with the irresponsible, so full of wild imperative excitement as to be able to topple the 22-year tower of Liberal power and hold its humbled occupants captive of fear of further disaster through 10 more years.

Between them, with their change of pace, they should be able to keep even the supposedly imperturbable Pierre off balance.

For the prime minister remains untried and untested by the pressures of power and of Parliament.

Being the sort of public person he presented on the stomping plazas — a theatrical performer, a kind of cross between an aging Steve McQueen and a youthful Charles Boyer — he romped through the frolic he made of the election campaign.

But the pressure cooker of the prime minister's office and of Parliament is no fun-play, neither being a motel swim pool nor supermarket kissing stall.

The few times the new prime minister has appeared under anything approaching pressure, he has been edgy, brittle, prickly, even petulant.

And he word leaking out from the inner Trudeau circle — he is still very much his own man-alone with few if any real confidantes — is that this new youngish (48) cat does not always keep his cool.

Can you imagine what may happen as Impetuous Pierre has to sit there in the Commons, impatiently listening to Robert Stanfield who can simply reek with rectitude reading him a lecture?

Will he blow?

If not, then what happens when Dief, that thunderhead-of-a-man, skewers him on that pointing finger of scorn?

The old chief, more than ever, the Mad Hatter since they stripped him — no, correction, skinned him — of his leadership, is rumbling about "dismantling," as he puts it, some of the corners of the prime minister's past he considered as "shadowed" if not altogether "dark."

You can almost hear the acid drip.

"Thanks for coming, fellows — I'll see you all at the same time tomorrow."

Fashion Equality

Hamilton Spectator

New York fashion authorities claim the battle of the sexes has ended in a draw. Men and women, they say, can wear the same clothes, jewellery and perfumes. And share handbags and hairdressers.

They call the concept "unisex."

We challenge the decision. We'd say the women have won.

We can remember the day when a man was socially acceptable with a bath, suit and small clip designed to keep his tie out of the soup. Now the well-dressed male sets forth with enough costume, coiffure, attar and ornament to rig out the Queen of Sheba.

If husband and wife fit the same sizes, there'd be certain economies in all this. Otherwise men would be the losers in the unisex game.

The first time dad plans to carry his lunch to the steel mill in the family's new paisley handbag, guess who will be wearing it to her bridge club?

Postage Anomaly

St. Catharines Standard

We don't have to coddect a survey to know that a great many people are blithely ignorant of postage requirements.

On an average, almost one of every two letters we receive from readers carries more postage than necessary. In the majority of these cases, local letters, requiring a four-cent stamp have a five cent stamp; sometimes the value of the stamps on a local letter is as high as eight cents.

Oddly enough, the letters that complain about some aspect of the high cost of living are very often the very letters that carry the most postage.

The Intelligencer welcomes letters to the editor. No letter will be published that does not bear the hand-written signature and the address of the sender. For publication purposes, however, a pseudonym or pen-name may be used if the writer so desires.

Mystery Surrounds Pompidou's Future

Couve de Murville Is de Gaulle's Choice as Premier

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

France is likely to harden its independence and neutrality and move to the left politically with the sudden elevation of diplomat Maurice Couve de Murville to the prime ministership. But in the end changes in command and policy may split the Gaullist party.

Grumblings are already heard that Georges Pompidou, the rather conservative former prime minister, received poor thanks at the hands of President de Gaulle for his Herculean effort in leading the Gaullists to a smashing general election victory.

Others argue that voters, in casting their ballots, were really expressing support for de Gaulle rather than for Pompidou and though Pompidou displayed outstanding leadership qualities during the riots and turmoil that threatened to wreck the country, he was in effect nothing more than the voice and servant of the president.

This argument would suggest it was only reasonable that once Pompidou indicated he could not carry out the president's industrial and worker reforms, he had to step down and allow de Gaulle to make another choice.

The president, 77, appears to have softened the blow by suggesting Pompidou hold himself in readiness for some mandate "which could be given you one day by the nation."

Some French newspapers which lean towards the Gaullists immediately leaped to the conclusion that de Gaulle is holding Pompidou in reserve as his eventual successor. But it would be strange to groom an heir to such an important post by allowing him to linger in the shadows. The political light now is cast on the wavy locks of Couve de Murville and since de Gaulle gives no indication of retiring, the former foreign minister is likely to have a few years in which to solidify his political position.

Nevertheless the road ahead is not without its obstructions. The parliament which forced a dramatic change in government so soon after an election victory carry restles which could tear the party's unity.

De Gaulle has promised the workers "participation" in industry which has been variously interpreted as profit-sharing and even union membership on company boards to placate restless workers.

The problems of increasing workers' earnings carry with them the threat of inflation and possible economic instability. Couve de Murville may have his work cut out for him as he tries to strike a balance that would satisfy de Gaulle, workers, investors, corporation management and the national treasury.

Pompidou, at 57 four years younger than Couve de Murville, may be playing a wise role by remaining on the political sidelines. Couve de Murville has shown himself a skilful diplomat but he likely will find the fine rules of diplomacy shredded in the jungles of domestic politics.

THIS IS A BUDDHIST temple in Taipei, capital of Taiwan. The island has an estimated 6,750,000 Buddhists among its 13,350,000 inhabitants. However, the Christian church is experiencing a resurgence in Taiwan, with the Presbyterians doubling their congregation between 1955 and 1965 and the Roman Catholics now the fastest growing church. Christian Church Experiences Resurgence on Isle of Taiwan

Western churchmen say the Christian church on the Chinese Nationalist island of Taiwan (Formosa) is gaining ground over Buddhism, Graham Trotter of the Ottawa staff of The Canadian Press reports following a recent visit.

TAIPEI, Taiwan (CP) — The Christian church is experiencing a resurgence in Taiwan at a time when its voice has been stilled on the Chinese mainland by the religion of Maoism.

Presbyterians, the first Christians to establish themselves on this Chinese Nationalist island 90 miles off the southeast coast of China, doubled their congregation between 1955 and 1965. Roman Catholics now have the fastest-growing church.

Christian adherents total 640,000. Protestants and Roman Catholics have roughly 300,000 each and two Chinese denominations have 40,000.

Western churchmen say they are more than holding their own in proportionate increase in relation to the main religion, Buddhism, which has an estimated 5,750,000 followers among the island's 13,350,000 inhabitants.

Dr. Chow Lieh-hwa, 48-year-old Baptist theologian, says there has been no public practising of religion on the mainland since mid-1966 when the Red Guards ordered discontinuance of services, burning of Bibles and destruction of holy sacraments.

EXPECTS REVIVAL

But he adds that members of Western churches, which for many decades sent missionaries and money to China, should not lose all hope.

"I am confident there will be a rebirth of the church on the mainland," says Dr. Chow, who preaches Mandarin services each Sunday here at Grace Baptist Church and lectures in New Testament and Greek at Taiwan Baptist Theological Seminary.

"Persecution can only make good Christians better. News has been received that some on the mainland still are very faithful.

"The lukewarm adherents of Christianity will have long since departed. The church will have to rely on the faithful few for its rebirth on the mainland.

"When the mainland is freed, there will be a real opportunity for Christian witness."

Dr. Chow, native of Shanghai and graduate of theological seminaries in Louisville, Ky., and Princeton, N.J., who came here in 1954, is the personal chaplain of President Chiang Kai-shek of the Republic of China.

He says he notes these trends in Taiwan:

— Most of the churches are thinking in terms of autonomy. The Chinese want to stand on their own feet spiritually and financially.

—Many "thinking" Chinese are giving much thought to the question of whether Christianity is a foreign religion or in fact one that can be embraced as Chinese.

—There is a growing, albeit small, move toward ecumenicism.

There now are more than 600 Protestant missionaries in Taiwan— which also goes by the name Formosa—representing some 60 missionary societies in the United States, Britain, Canada, Scandinavia and Germany.

The Presbyterians are strongest with 836 congregations and 178,429 members, followed by Baptists, Methodists and Lutherans.

There are some 125,000 aborigines—formerly head-hunters—in the island's mountainous regions. An estimated 65 per cent of these have embraced Christianity since 1945. About half the Presbyterian congregations are composed of these tribespeople.

Roman Catholic membership increased to 300,000 in 1967 from only 10,000 in 1949, and priests to 785 from 20. There now are about 350 churches with resident priests.

The Protestants run 41 hospitals and clinics and the Roman Catholics 21 hospitals and 142 dispensaries. Both also run many schools.

The first Canadian missionary to arrive here was a Presbyterian, Dr. George L. MacKay from Woodstock, Ont., who came in 1872. He is commemorated by the 100-bed MacKay Memorial Hospital in Taipei.

Important Resolutions Approved At Nurses' Association Meet

SASKATOON (CP) — Nurses' duties and bargaining rights highlighted debate at the Canadian Nurses' Association biennial meeting which ended Friday.

Most of the resolutions approved on the convention's closing day asked re-assessments of the national association itself: Its goals, fee structure, by-laws and relationship with provincial nurses' associations.

Also approved was a resolution asking the federal government to continue its present program of health grants for provincial training of health personnel, including nurses.

About 1,600 nurses registered for all or part of the five-day convention.

Dr. J. N. Crawford, deputy minister of national health and welfare, told them on the convention's opening day that adoption of universal medical care insurance by a majority of provinces will bring an expansion of nurses' duties.

He said pressure on physicians' time will force nurses to assume increased responsibilities in pre-natal work, well - baby check ups, care of the elderly and rehabilitation.

A definition of nursing care was approved by delegates Friday laid stress on assistance and counselling to individual patients.

It also said a nurse collaborates "as a full member of the health team" by "participating in the development, implementation and evaluation of a plan for the total health care of the individual."

Sheila Quinn, executive director of the Geneva-based International Council of Nurses, told the meeting Thursday nurses "would do well to take a lesson from the trades unions" and teach their members about collective bargaining.

Sister Mary Felicitas of Montreal, CNA president, said in opening the convention that only an increase in nurses' pay can stop a decline in nursing recruitment.

Sister Felicitas was re-elected president. New officers elected for 1968-1970 were E. Louise Miner of Regina, president - elect; Margaurite Schumacker of Red Deer, Alberta, first vice-president; Margaret D. McLean of Ottawa, second vice president and Sr. Jacqueline Bouchard of Moncton, representative for the nursing sisterhoods.

Bargaining Rights Urged

SASKATOON (CP) — Nurses don't know enough about collective bargaining, the Canadian Nurses' Association was told Thursday.

Sheila Quinn, executive director of the International Council of Nurses, told the CNA convention:

"We have to teach nurses economic welfare and bargaining, and we would do well to take a lesson from the trades unions in this."

Miss Quinn, formerly of London, Eng., and now of Geneva, said nursing will not survive as a profession in any country where the professional association does not work for good economic status for its members.

Vinaigrette Dressing With Any Salad

Vinaigrette dressing is a good dressing necessary with any salad. This recipe uses peanut oil as a base. The oil clings easily and evenly to greens, and enhances the flavor of the herbs and spices used in most salad dressings.

The recipe follows: ¾ cup peanut oil; ¼ cup vinegar; 1 hard cooked egg, finely chopped; 2 tbsp. finely chopped parsley; 1 tsp. sugar; 1 tsp. salt; ¼ tsp. dry mustard; a dash cayenne pepper.

Place peanut oil, vinegar and remaining ingredients in a pint jar with tight-fitting lid or blender. Mix well. Makes 1¼ cups.

Serve with: 1. Chilled cooked asparagus spears, garnished with strips of pimentos.

2. Hearts of palm on Belgian endive.

3. Chilled cooked artichoke hearts.

4. Mixed greens with cherry tomatoes and cubes of Cheddar cheese or crumbled Roquefort cheese.

ADVANTAGES OF GOING TO A PRIVATE BUSINESS COLLEGE

EVERY PERSON needs to have at least a basic commercial course before going on to any other profession; yet if this is taken in the Secondary School the educational background has to be diluted to make time for it. In one year or less, you can have the advantages available to you at Ontario Business College which are:

1. Encouragement to work at your own speed. You do not wait for the slow learner, or speed up for the one who learns faster than you.
2. You may choose a partial course
3. You get individual attention.
4. You can begin now, at the first of any month.
5. You are ready for a position when YOU have finished your course, and not looking for work at a time when the market is flooded with unemployed.
6. You can write each examination in the month the work on that subject is completed, and then you may fill that time with other subjects.
7. You can rewrite any examinations the next month, you do not have to lose a year.
8. You can earn all it costs in your first two or three months of working.
9. Where else can you obtain a complete training for earning your living for the rest of your life at such a low cost? Compare, if you wish and then enroll at O.B.C.
10. You do not need previous commercial training.
11. Adult training a specialty.

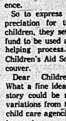
Someone Cares Where Social Worker's Involved

By DORIS CLARK

Jane, age 19, and unmarried came to Vancouver from the East "to hide" when she was six months pregnant. She is a capable, intelligent, sensitive girl, who "should never have been in this situation." She came to the Children's Aid Society for help in planning for her baby.



The baby was stillborn. When this news was relayed to CAS the worker went over to see Jane. Jane's letter tells the rest:

"Dear Mrs.

"I don't know what to say but thank you. You'll never know how much your visit meant to me.

"A few hours before you came in I had to sign the papers for the baby. Although the baby was dead I felt as if my heart would break.

"The flowers meant so much to me. The words on the card, 'Someone always cares' was the most wonderful thing that could have been said at the time. I'll never forget the kindness I received when I was all alone and needed it so much.

DORIS CLARK

"I thank you with all my heart. — Most sincerely."

The flowers were made possible by a special fund set up by a young business executive and his wife, proud parents of two adopted children. They had attended a Post Adoption Discussion Series where they realized that to many unmarried mothers, deserted by the father, the giving up of a baby can be a devasting experience.

So to express tangible appreciation for their adopted children, they set up a flower fund to be used as part of the helping process—CAS News Children's Aid Society of Vancouver.

Dear Children's Aiders: What a fine idea! I know this story could be repeated with variations from the records of child care agencies from coast to coast.

Thank you for letting us produce it here.

* * *

Dear Doris: Let's say two young people (both age 19) fight a great deal. The boy claims he loves the girl very much. The girl is unsure whether or not she loves him but believes that maybe later on it could turn into a deep love.

If this couple continue to try and fix their differences, do you think that their relation ship could work out? Or if two people fight a lot in the beginning that there is no hope of their ever really getting along? — Tiffs and Tears

Dear T. and T.: It's a rocky route to the real thing! Tantrums and tears — so much of the time — suggest a childish romance.

Far be it from me to say they would never grow up. If they do work at fixing their differences, they might just catch on about how to be agreeable and enjoy each other after a while. Want my 10-cent leaflet "What Is Love? to show them?

Doris welcomes your comments and ideas. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Ann Landers

14-year-old Frets Over Death of Cat

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you won't think this letter is too crazy to print. I am 14 years old and can't get over the death of my cat.

ANN LANDERS

Tom was hit by a car. He barely made it home and I could see he was in bad shape. I had to argue with Mom to let me take Tom to the vet. The vet said Tom would be all right but I'd have to leave him in the hospital for a few days. Well, when I went to get him, the doctor said Tom would never be well and maybe it would be best to put him to sleep.

I cried half the night, Ann, and I just can't seem to get out of the depression. Tom was like a human friend. When I was blue he'd do tricks for me and make me laugh. He was so faithful and loving.

This morning my parents bought me a little kitten, but that kitten is just not my cat. Please tell me how to get over this heartache. — MISSING MY FRIEND.

* * *

DEAR FRIEND: One of the tests of maturity as well as an essential ingredient of peace of mind is the ability to accept that which we cannot change.

Tom is gone and there's nothing you can do about it, so open up your heart to the kitten and give him a chance.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A mother in our neighborhood has made it clear that her five-year-old boy may not play with girls and her six-year-old girl may not play with boys.

This woman insists that all the trouble in the world starts with sex and she is going to see to it that her kids have nothing to do with it. You don't need to tell me she is a nut because I already know it.

I am writing to find out how I can keep her nuttiness from having a bad effect on the other children in the neighborhood, namely mine. My four-and five-year-olds have asked me why the woman tells them to go home. I don't know what to say. Any suggestions? — TIRED.

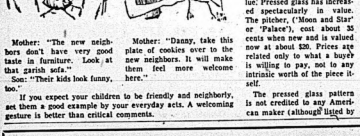
* * *

DEAR TIRED: Tell your children they are not to go where they are not welcome, and give no reason. In the meantime, let's hope those unfortunate kids get enough exposure to members of the opposite sex at school to offset the emotionally disabling influence of their sick mother.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl of 16 who is respectable and always right from wrong. I've been going steady with Teddy for eight months. We have never done anything we are ashamed of. Both of us flunked French so we are taking it over in summer school. This means we have to study a lot. We study better together — which is the problem.

I have two bratty brothers who will not give us any privacy. The only way Teddy and I can get any studying done is to go upstairs in my bedroom and lock the door. Last night my father blew his cool because we were in the bedroom and the door was locked. He embarrassed me so badly I cried. My mother sided with me and that started an argument between Mom and Dad. Now Teddy is afraid to come over and my whole life might be ruined. Help me, please — HUMILIATED.



* * *

DEAR HUM: Your mother may be on your side but I'm with your dad. A bedroom is not the proper setting for a 16-year-old girl and her boyfriend for studying — or for anything else.

It's up to your parents to control your bratty brothers. You should be permitted to have a guest in the living room and your mom and dad should see to it that you have privacy.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "The new neighbors don't have very good taste in furniture. Look at that garish sofa."

Son: "Their kids look funny, too."

Mother: "Danny, take this plate of cookies over to the new neighbors. It will make them feel more welcome here."

If you expect your children to be friendly and neighborly, set them a good example by your everyday acts. A welcoming gesture is better than critical comments.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Thousand Island Dressing

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have come pretty close to putting together the recipe I lost for Thousand Island Dressing and will give it to you but I would like to have the end result a little pinker and just a trifle thicker — any suggestions? Maybe better too. — Marjorie B.

ANSWER: I tampered with your excellent recipe a little to achieve the changes you want. Thank you for this request.

We all liked the following result.

Pressed Glass Made In St. Johns, Quebec

Pressed glass has been made in North America since 1826 — 27; in Canada sometime between 1845 and 1857, beginning in St. Johns, Quebec. There were earlier glass works, but not in pressed glass. Glass works were started wherever a suitable combination of the right type of sand, ashes and fuel could be found.

The discovery of a mechanical method for pressing glass, claimed by the Sandwich Glass Co. of Cambridge, Mass. was the first major advance in its production since the discovery of glass-blowing some 2000 years previously.

Refinements in the manufacture of glass had been developed in England. The major improvement was the addition of lead derivatives to its manufacture. The finished produce was known as glass-of-lead or more commonly now as lead crystal. The brilliance of the glass and its working qualities were done with the addition of lead oxides. Perfection of this technique was developed by George Ravenscroft, at Henleyon Thames, England in 1676. English and Irish glass-makers excelled in the field, particularly in the 19th century.

Pressed glass in its earliest forms attempted to emulate glass-of-lead and has generally been looked down upon as a cheap imitation of cut glass-of-lead or lead crystal.

The value of cut glass has remained constant over the years, expensive to purchase but with little increase in value; Pressed glass has increased spectacularly in value. The pitcher, ("Moon and Star" Palace"), is dated about 35 cents when new and is valued now at about $20. Prices are related only to what a buyer is willing to pay, not to any intrinsic worth of the piece itself.

The pressed glass pattern is not credited to any American maker (although listed by American authorities). It has also been attributed to any Canadian manufacturers either, although the frequency with which it appears in Canada might suggest that perhaps it should be. If American, it was made around 1870.

"Moon and Star" is credited to at least seven manufacturers. It is said to have been made by Adams and Co. of Pittsburgh, who used the trade name 'Palace' when the ware was brought out in 1888. It was discontinued as a pattern but has been reproduced since in many pieces including a large size of the pitcher shown.

Collectors frown on reproduced items. Frequently, though, the reproduction is both of better quality and better finish than the original. Dealers who specialize in glass can advise you about reproductions; most are fairly recent, well-documented and dated.

The next time you examine a piece of glassware notice its "feel". The "Moon and Star" pattern has a "soft" touch, smooth, heavy and pleasant to the hand. Cut glass, in contrast, has a "harsh" feel, sharp and somewhat repellent.

Any well-made piece of glass is likely to have a "ring" when struck. It doesn't it may be of doubtful quality, and if it is cut glass it is probably cracked.

AUSTRALIA — FIRST HAND

"This has to be heaven — except for the mozies (mosquitoes)." — Judi Linton.

* * *

"Hi from Surfers' Paradise!" writes Judi Linton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Linton, 395 Bleecker Ave., whose informative, vividly written letters from Australia where she is spending the current year as a teacher, have charmed all readers, and welcome news from her again. She continues:

"You are now reading a letter written by a full-fledged working inhabitant of the Sunny Gold Coast (of Queensland). I went up to Brisbane on Friday (Feb. 2, '68) afternoon and within twenty minutes had a teaching job (science and maths) in the Southport High School, which is about three miles, if that, north of Surfers. I am told that in the morning there are buses that run from Surfers to Southport every three minutes. So transportation is no problem. I start tomorrow, (Feb. 5).

The beauty of the flowering vegetation delights her and she speaks of a garden "wild with ferns, hibiscus flowers, spider flowers and all other assortments of shrubs and flowers". Especially are living in the linen press — but everyone here has roaches. All they do is fumigate once every so often! Anyway, I've taken to sleeping under a mosquito net — (the mozies are fantastic), and this frustrates them no end." As for their bites, "you get so you don't even notice them after awhile."

However, when the wind shifts, the mosquitoes won't be around any longer! It has been glorious here — in the 80's everyday and down to a pleasant 72 at night.

This week I am going to buy myself a bike, to get around on. "It takes 15 minutes to walk to town, even if it is along the shore. Also I want to invest in a tennis racket and get into the swing of things."

There, too, Judi is pleased with the cost of living, having found a friend, who owns a chicken farm, from whom eggs may be had at 40 cents a pound, eggs at 20 cents a dozen. Milk is 18 cents a quart and cottage cheese 13 cents a pound. You can't beat it! Also fresh garden vegetables and fruit are plentiful." Another friend's garden is laden with pears, peaches, bananas and passion fruit, and they given them away. This has to be heaven! Except for the mozies.

Our 80 degree weather is a far cry from 27. Every morning, I have to remind myself that this is February — and this is the rainy season, which is odd for winter here is the dry season — so far."

Efficiency Move

Cabinet Portfolios Clarified as Switch of Agencies Announced

OTTAWA (CP)—The Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration will get a new home in a wholesale shift of agencies among federal departments announced Friday by Prime Minister Trudeau.

PFRA, the longstanding agency providing aid and support to western agriculture, will be shifted from the agriculture department to a new department of regional development.

The minister, as previously disclosed, will be Jean Marchand, who will carry the title of forestry and rural development minister until the new department is officially rennned.

Although Mr. Marchand keeps rural development, he loses the livestock feed board, supervising feed grain in Eastern Canada, to agriculture.

Most of the department switches centre on the Marchand portfolio and four other new departments being created in an attempt to improve efficiency and reduce duplication of services.

From other departments, Mr. Marchand will get the Atlantic Development Board, the Area Development Agency, the Cape Breton Development Corporation and the experimental projects branch currently in the manpower and immigration department. He will also supervise the Atlantic Provinces Power Development Act.

The new supply and services department has all of the old defence production department except the international programs branch, most of which goes to the new department combining trade and commerce and industry.

Consumer and corporate affairs, under Ronald Basford, generally receives agencies to protect the consumer. These also include responsibilities of the Food and Drug Directorate related to economic fraud in foods such as in packaging. The directorate itself remains in health and welfare.

But the two departments will immediately prepare a program to protect the economic interest of the consumer. This is apart from the government's intention to proceed with the drug bill introduced in the last session of Parliament in a bid to reduce prices.

Mr. Trudeau told a news conference called to announce the changes that he considered shifting forestry from Mr. Marchand's portfolio to agriculture, but finally decided on linking it to fisheries in a merged department.

One factor in his decision was that agriculture was already a large department. But these and other changes will be followed by more as the situation demands.

The new communications department headed by Eric Kierans picks up not only the post office, now a separate portfolio, but also parts of telecommunications agencies from defence and transport.

Mr. Kierans also gets the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation from transport and the satellite project group from the privy council office.

Mr. Trudeau said he left the CBC in the hands of the secretary of state partly because he wanted to bring Mr. Pelletier's expertise in the field to bear on it.

It would be up to Mr. Kierans to discover how fast and how far Canada should go into the satellite field. Canada must enter the field to some extent.

Task forces have been established to oversee the changeover work, which should be complete by summer's end, Mr. Trudeau said.

The re-organization was authorized under existing legislation by cabinet order-in-council. New names for the five new departments would be formally changed by legislation later. It cannot be done by cabinet directive.

Mr. Trudeau said he had not decided on assignments for the three ministers without portfolio. Next week he would announce changes in senior civil service jobs in line with the department shuffle.

Business Girds for Mail Shutdown

With Canadian postal workers set to strike at 5 a.m. EDT Thursday, government agencies and large corporations are instituting every emergency plan short of reactivating the Pony Express to offset the effects of loss of mail services.

Federal and provincial governments are mailing pension, family allowance and welfare cheques early this month. And some Canadian companies are buying bundles of foreign stamps and renting United States post office boxes in anticipation of the country-wide mail halt.

Meanwhile, negotiators for both sides are having a meeting Monday in Ottawa will resolve differences between the treasury board and the Council of Postal Unions which represents 24,000 workers across Canada.

But the federal government is preparing for a strike. The health and welfare department announced Thursday it would immediately mail 1,400,000 post-dated old age security and Canada Pension Plan cheques.

It said it would also mail 2,900,000 family and youth allowance cheques early next week.

A spokesman for the post office in Plattsburgh, N.Y., said Friday about 25 boxes have been rented by Canadian companies planning to receive their mail there.

He said the U.S. boxes rent for between $2 and $3 a month, so that the only real profit to the U.S. post office from a strike would come from increased stamp sales.

Already one Montreal firm has made a large purchase of British stamps, planning to air express mail to London and then have overseas letters sent on from there.

A spokesman for Bell Telephone Co. of Canada said that during the 1965 mail strike, long distance telphone calls increased about 10 per cent.

And an official for Canadian National Telecommunications said additional staff and telephones may be needed for the expected crush of telegram messages.

Ted Holtzheimer, postmaster of the U.S. post office in Blaine, Wash., said in a telphone interview that his line "has been busy for the last three days" with calls from British Columbia companies arranging special mail facilities.

"We've set up a special system in our general delivery department under which firms will have boxes assigned to them," Mr. Holtzheimer said.

He could not give the number of companies involved, but said it "includes most of the major firms in the Vancouver area, including banks, stockbrokers and airlines—in fact, just about everyone who does any volume of mailing to points in our country."

In Ontario, the comptroller of accounts for the treasury department said 60,000 welfare cheques and 6,000 pension cheques for former government employees were mailed Thursday, but they cannot be cashed until the end of the month.

Meanwhile, in Sudbury, Ont., John Tanguay, secretary of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said Friday his men "would be willing to work without pay to handle welfare and pension cheque."

"Of course, we'd need authorization from the post office department to enter the building to handle just this mail," Mr. Tanguay said.

Banks in Metropolitan Toronto have hired extra couriers and inter-city courier service will be extended to smaller Ontario centres.

The Toronto Hydro-Electric System has about 14 summer-help university students to carry 5,500 bills a day in the event of a strike.

Simpsons-Sears Ltd. and Eaton's department stores in Toronto will declare a moratorium on bills, their credit offices said Friday.

Halt Rejected

Transplant Doctors Share Notes

CAPE TOWN (AP) — The pioneers of human heart transplants have rejected any suggestion to halt all such surgery until more is known about keeping the patient alive after the operation.

In the South African city where Dr. Philip Blaiberg has lived nearly 6½ months with a transplanted heart—longer than any other recipient—13 surgeons from nine countries began exchanging ideas today at a medical symposium.

At a news conference Friday, many of them said more heart transplants must be performed in efforts to solve the immunological problem—how to prevent rejection of the transplanted organ without drastically reducing the patient's resistance to infection.

Dr. Pierre Grondin of Montreal, head of the Montreal transplant team whose patient is one of seven of 25 heart recipients still living, said there is a definite future in heart transplants.

"There is a need for it," he said, "and the fact that surgeons have performed this operation all over the world proves that it is feasible, and that we can expect prolonged survival.

"In medicine, you know, when there is a need we find ways of improving the results," added the chairman of the Montreal Heart Institute.

His team's patient, Gaetan Paris, 49, received a new heart June 28 and continues to progress satisfactorily.

The moratorium question was posed by Dr. Christiaan Barnard, who performed the world's first heart transplant and who is host to the symposium at the University of Cape Town.

"No, certainly now," said Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz of New York's Maimonides Hospital. "I think this is too important a development in the field of heart disease and it is something that should be pursued with great vigor by surgical groups around the world."

Despite the 18 heart transplant deaths, Dr. James Mowbray, an immunologist on the British transplant team led by South African-born surgeon Donald Ross, said rejection problems are "perhaps less for heart transplants than they are for kidneys."

He also rejected the idea of a moratorium, along with Dr. E. R. Stinson of California's Palo Vedes Hospital team. The latter said, "Cardiac transplantation has reached the stage of clinical investigation where we can safely say that this will be a powerful therapeutic tool."

Canada, the United States, Britain, France, India, Argentina, Chile, Brazil and South Africa are represented at the symposium.

Dr. Denton A. Cooley of St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, Houston, Tex., who has performed more heart transplants than any other surgeon, said anti-lymphocytic serum may increase the safety margin for future heart transplants.

"I have three healthy survivors at present," said Cooley.

"All of them are ambulatory. They show no signs of rejection and are doing extremely well."

Still Holds Lead

Cautious Casper Stalks Carnoustie

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (CP) — Cautious was the word to describe Billy Casper Friday. But he may have to take some chances today if he expects to hold onto his one-stroke lead and win the British open golf championship.

Casper had a four-stroke lead going into Friday's play but saw it whittled to one by Bob Charles of New Zealand who played a more-adventurous round.

Casper, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer lead the U.S. contingent in the 72-hole tournament going into the final 18 holes.

Casper shot a two-over-par 74 over Carnoustie's 7,252-yard course for a total of 211.

Charles, 1963 British Open champion and recent winner of the Canadian Open, shot a 71 for a 213 total.

Explaining his round, Casper said: "I thought this was not the day to become over ambitious."

Charles commented: "I am very confident and I am improving the ball straight. That's all I want to do now and I'll play my best and hope to win.

"This is a fair course, mostly but it can get up and grab you very easily."

The slim New Zealander said his game now is approaching its peak.

The field of 70 was cut to 45 for today's final round.

Among the golfers teeing off today will be Al Balding of Toronto who shot a two-over-par 74 Friday for a 224 total. He is tied for 18th place with eight other golfers.

Balding, the only Canadian left in the open after Al Johnston of Montreal fell by the wayside at the 36-hole cutoff, shot a par 36 on the first nine holes Friday.

But he ran into trouble on the 10th, escaping with a one-over-par five by holing in a 40-foot putt.

"That was my most spectacular hole," he said. "My drive finished on a narrow strip of ground between two bunkers and, unable to take a proper stance, I pulled my No. 4 wood into the next lot of traps.

"I wedged out, hit a No. 7 iron to the green and then sank a huge putt."

The Toronto touring professional got his only birdie by sinking a 13-foot putt for a four on the 14th hole. He parred the last two holes to make up for lost strokes on the 13th and 16th holes.

"I wasn't displeased with that," he said. "My putting was better and I could have knocked off several strokes with a little more luck."

While Casper and Charles are clearly in front, the final round hardly can be called a two-man affair.

Only two shots off the pace is Gary Player of South Africa who shot a 71 Friday for a 216 total.

Nicklaus, 1966 winner of the British Open and pre-tournament favorite this year, shot a one-over par 73 for a 218 total and was reasonably close to the leaders. However, his game has been spotty all week.

Nicklaus Intent on Title

Four shots off the pace entering today's final round of the British Open golf championship, burly Jack Nicklaus demonstrates the lee side style he hopes will put him into contention. Golf's "Golden Bear" was two over par on the Carnoustie, Scotland course after the first three rounds of play.

A recent piece of municipal legislation makes horse racing just about the last organized "recreation" to be permitted on Sundays.

Bertie Township council Monday voted to permit Sunday track activities in their jurisdiction, which includes the popular Fort Erie downs.

(Sunday racing has been banned under the Lord's Day Act, but recent provincial legislation gave municipalities the final say in the matter.)

It's difficult to reason why, if baseball, hockey, or golf can be enjoyed on Sunday, the followers of any other recreation, including the sport of kings, cannot be afforded the same privilege.

Perhaps the reason behind the delay in legislative handling of the issue has been due to the financial aspects of horse-racing.

After all, people do bet on the ponies — legally and otherwise.

But that's no argument.

Money changes hands on the Lord's Day in this country in corner stores or shopping plazas.

Even in ultra-moral Ontario, many municipalities have shown their disdain for one of the province's most time-honored taboos — that against consumption of alcoholic beverages in public on Sunday.

Financial considerations did, however, play some part in the latest ban-lifting on a Sunday sport.

It seems Councillor Wilfred Cook delivered the most persuasive sermon on the racing issue to his Bertie Township colleagues.

Realizing that a councillor is — or should be — at least as practical as the average man on the street, Mr. Cook talked cold facts . . . or, rather, cash.

Sunday racing won 3-2 council support after Mr. Cook estimated its legality would bring the township an extra $148,000 revenue, or about eight per cent of its entire 1967 income.

The voters will get their say in a referendum next December, but, at least for the time being, it looks as if modern logic has won out . . . by a neck.

NFL Player Spokesman Says Owners Using Threats

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The feuding players and owners of the National Football League are preparing to meet again in an attempt to solve the pension problems that have plagued their practice camps and threatened their season.

"NFL owners have acknowledged the request of the players association for a meeting which has tentatively been set for Sunday afternoon in New York," NFL president Art Modell announced in Cleveland Friday night.

He added that the meeting would be held on the condition that all concerned parties could be notified in time.

Ed Garvey, a spokesman for the players' group said John Gordy of Detroit, president of the NFL Players Association, had reached all members of their negotiating committees and their attorney and all were ready to make the trip.

Gordy also accused the owners of attempting to break up the players' group.

"It appears," Gordy said, "the owners are trying to break this association and we will not stand for it. The association is stronger than ever."

In Johnson City, Tenn., where Atlanta Falcons opened their rookie camp today, player representative Sam Williams charged the owners "are trying to break up the players' association by threat.

"First, by making a statement cancelling all training camps and then reversing their decision and opening them to rookies only and running off all veterans who show up.

"And by threatening to play the season with rookies and free agents only."

Modell denied the charges, calling them "not true and ridiculous."

Heading Pack at Winnipeg, Alvie in "Right Frame of Mind"

WINNIPEG (CP) — Conservative golfer that he is, Alvie Thompson of Toronto would find no pleasure in finishing a close second, Vicory motivates him.

"Second place is no good except for the money," said the 32-year-old native of Vancouver who fired a pair of 36s Friday to take the lead after the second round in the 54-hole $6,000 Manitoba open golf championship.

"You have to win a tournament to get into the right frame of mind."

Thompson, second - highest money winner on the Canadian pro tour this year behind Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., said he'll skip the tour's fifth leg in Regina next week.

His round Friday, a two under par 70, gave him a 36-hole total of 142 going into today's final. He heads a field of 61 other qualifiers who shot 158 or better after 36 holes.

Bill Wright Jr. of Edmonton, took advantage of a hot wedge and putter to burn up the 6,720-yard Set Acres course with a five under par 67. The official club record gave him a 68-134 total of 142, second place slot shared by Ken Fulton of Trail, B.C.

Fulton combined a 72 in the opening round with a 71 Friday for his one under par 143.

The opening leader, Dave Gumlia of Minneapolis, lost his putting eye and shot a 76-74 second round with a 75 for a 144 total.

Ben Clayton of Toronto shot a three under par 69 to match Gumlia's score.

Frank Fowler of Calgary, Will Honsonsik of Winnipeg and Len Harvey of Regina each had a 146 while five players shared scores of 147.

Norman, the leading money winner of the Canadian tour and three-times winner of the Manitoba Open, rocketed to a 76 for a 150 total.

"I'm playing very conservatively . . . you have to do this course," said Thompson who shot three birdies and an eagle.

Gumlia blamed his disastrous second round on a "balky putter." He said pin placements were tough and he had a number of putts short.

Wright, who took only 28 putts and had five birdie holes, said: "They went in for me . . . yesterday nothing went in for me."

Eskies Freeze Out Regina

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos nipped Saskatchewan Roughriders 16-12 Friday night in a Western Football Conference exhibition game at Clarke Stadium.

A sparse crowd of about 8,500 watched as Jim Thomas and Joe Zdan pooped per yde deep down each for Edmonton and Peter Kempf connected with one field goal and a convert.

Ron Atchison got an unusual kind of touchdown for the Roughriders in the third quarter and Bill Good added two field goals.

Good put Saskatchewan on the scoreboard about a minute into the second quarter with a 44-yard field goal.

Edmonton's rebuttal game three minutes later when Kempf replied in kind—a 44-yard field goal. Five plays later, Good made it 6-3 for the visitors from 35 yards out.

Just before half time, Lefebvre ran the ball over from the Saskatchewan six-yard line for six more points to make it 8-6. Peter Kempf's convert made it 9-6.

KNUDSON'S
WORLD OF GOLF
By GEORGE KNUDSON

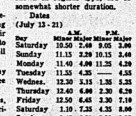
I became associated with something this summer that I feel is one of the greatest things that ever happened to golf . . . the Ampex video tape instant replay.

Perhaps you have already had the opportunity to use one of these. If not, now is the perfect time to try it. You've been playing for a couple of months and this would give you a chance to see what is happening in your swing.

I didn't see one of these cameras until last November and then, for the first time in my career, I could actually stand back and study my swing.

A golf swing is quicker than the eye, but this catches everything. I was reasonably happy with my best swing when I played it back, but still I could feel that something wasn't quite right.

So I played it back on slow motion and sure enough, I was making a move that I hadn't been able to see at regular speed. That means another pro wouldn't have caught it either.



Everybody thinks he looks like Sam Snead, that he really has something going. Then he goes to the pro and says: "Hey, I want you to look at my swing." The pro does, and tells him there is something wrong with his headwork.

"But I can't feel it," might be the answer.

Now the pro will be able to play the video tape back and show the golfer what he means.

It is the ultimate in communication between the teacher and student, something that should be used at every decent club in Canada.

It will make everyone's game better.

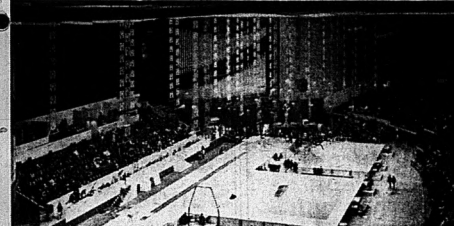
Top Powerboats Compete



VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP) — The 20th annual international powerboat regatta gets under way today over the 1 2-3-mile St. Francis Bay course with eight outboard events on the schedule.

It'carries over into Sunday, when an equal number of races will be held for the more powerful, heavier inboard classes.

Canada's top pilots will be matching their skills against 50 drivers from the United States, including Skeeter Johnson, Tony Piazza, Bill Heath and Bob Wannemaker. Wannemaker is president of the American Power Boat Association.

Best-known Canadian is Art Ashbury—of Dwight, Ont., formerly of the famous Aubert Brillant racing team, and Marcel Laberge of Ste. Foy, a Quebec City suburb.

Laberge recently pushed his Miss Quebec entry to victory in the Florida Orange Bowl regatta.

Scotian Entry Cost $900

WESTBURY, N.Y. (CP) — Fresh Yankee was a mere 7-2 third choice to win tonight's world championship of trotting, the $100,000 International Trot at Roosevelt Raceway.

But just the fact Fresh Yankee is entered in the race is amazing. She was so modest a prospect as a yearling that Dick Logue and Duncan MacDonald, both of Sydney, N.S., paid only $900 for her.

But now the daughter of Hickory Pride is representing Canada for the second consecutive year in the 1¼-mile International.

Last year, Fresh Yankee finished second to Roquepine, the French mare who is expected to be the race-time choice of the anticipated crowd of 45,000.

Canadian-owned trotters have won two previous International s. The Silk for Miron Farm of St. Augustine, Que., in 1963 and Armbro Flight for Armstrong Brothers Co. Ltd. of Brampton in 1966.

Also competing in tonight's field are Italy's Ecumene, New Zealand's Le Chant, Austria's Epsom, Germany's Simmerl, Sweden's Kentucky Fibber and America's Carlisle, the second choice.

There's a Canadian link for Le Chant. She is owned in New Zealand-but is leased for North American racing by Yves Ballargeon of St. Lambert, Que., and is driven by Gaetan Baillargeon.

"Sudden Sam" Fans First 5 Batters To Tie Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Records are made to be broken, but Sam McDowell had to settle for its end a raincheck Friday night.

The fast-balling left-hander equalled a modern major league mark by fanning the first five batters he faced in Cleveland Indians' 6-3 victory over Oakland Athletics. But he was one short of the standard of 41 strikeouts in three consecutive games when he was relieved with two out in the ninth inning.

Elsewhere, American League-leading Detroit Tigers beat Minnesota Twins 5-3, Baltimore Orioles edged Chicago White Sox 2-1 and interim manager Les Moss 2-1.

In the first inning, McDowell whiffed John Donaldson and Bert Campaneris en route to a 15-strikeout night. Danny Cater then fouled the first pitch off his foot and left the game. Ramon Webster completed the strikeout.

Sal Bando went down swinging to start the second and Reggie Jackson was caught looking before Joe Rudi bounced to short. It was the second time in his career McDowell had fanned the first five batters in a game and he is one of seven pitchers

Cards' Gibson Has Scoreless Streak Halted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you don't think baseball is a game of inches, just talk to Bob Gibson.

A few silly little inches are the only things standing in the way of the St. Louis Cardinals' blazing fastballer from shading the greatest shutout artist in history.

Eleven days ago, one of Bob's hopping fastballs was a bit off target and Los Angeles scored on the wild pitch to halt a Gibson scoreless string at 47 innings.

Unperturbed, Bullet Bob started another streak and had built it to 23 innings Friday night when Houston's Denis Menke lined a run-scoring double in the seventh.

Menke's shot-scoring only the second run in 71 innings off Gibson—was fair by only a few inches.

Although he was unsuccessful in his bid for a record streak this season, Gibson stopped the Astros on three hits and his mates knifed him with a 15-hit attack in the 8-1 rout. Gibson, 12-5, didn't permit a baserunner until Bob Aspromonte's leadoff double in the sixth.

It was the ninth straight triumph for Gibson, who hasn't been beaten since May 28, and it was the ninth victory in 10 games for the rampaging Cardinals, who maintained their 9½-game lead.

In other National League activity, Atlanta ripped Los Angeles 7-0, San Francisco trounced Cincinnati 11-4, Philadelphia turned Pittsburgh 3-2 and New York blanked Chicago 4-0.

The Cards gave Gibson a 3-0 lead with single runs in the first, third and fifth, then put it out of doubt with a three-run uprising in the eighth when Bob Tolan smashed a two-run homer and Johnny Edwards, Julian Javier and Curt Flood each singled in runs.

The Dodgers' Don Drysdale, who holds the record of six straight shutouts and 57 scoreless innings Gibson has been seeking, was battered by Atlanta for three runs in the sixth, then departed with four more in the next inning.

Rookie Jim Britton, 4-2, checked the Dodgers on five hits.

Jim Hart accounted for five of San Francisco's runs with a pair of homers after Cincinnati had taken an early 2-0 lead. Willie Mays also contributed a two-run homer, the 357th of his career, and Willie McCovey had a solo blast.

Rookie Jeff James and John Booster teamed on a six-hitter that handed the Pirates their seventh straight loss.

in the American League and three in the National—to perform the feat, but the only one to do it twice.

The all-time mark is nine game-opening strikeouts by Michael Welch of the New York National League club in 1884.

McDowell was relieved by Vicente Rome after he fanned Jackson to open the ninth, walked Rudi, got Rick Monday on a popup and went to a 2-0 count on Jay Duncan.

"I didn't mind being taken out," he said. "All I wanted to do was win. I don't try for strikeouts. I try to get two quick strikes and then throw a pitch the batters can't handle. I only reach back for something extra with runners in scoring position."

The Indians scored twice off Jim (Catfish) Hunter in the second inning on singles by Duke Sims, Larry Brown, Vern Fuller and McDowell. Both runs scored in the seventh by Russ Snyder and Jimmie Hall ensured the triumph.

Moss, normally a White Sox coach, was making moves with all the slan of Eddie Stanky, who stepped down as manager Friday. But there was nothing Moss could do about successive seventh-inning homers by New York's Tom Tresh and Frank Fernandez that saddled lefty Tommy John with his first loss after seven victories.

Detroit's Denny McLain, the majors' top winner, coasted to his [illegible] victory as the Tigers beat the Twins and maintained their 9½-game lead. McLain, who has won eight straight and lost only twice, gave up an unearned run in the seventh.

Baltimore edged Washington by combining the daring baserunning advocated by new manager Earl Weaver with some power left over from the Hank Bauer regime. It was the Orioles' second straight victory under Weaver.

Their first two runs came on homers by Don Buford and Andy Etchebarren and Frank Robinson scored the winning run in the eighth inning with a head-first slide after a sacrifice fly to shallow left by Brooks Robinson.

Mike Andrews squeezed home the winning run in the eighth inning and reliever Sparky Lyle put down a California rally to give the Red Sox their ninth victory in the last 10 games.

CHICAGO (AP) — New York Yankees traded veteran right-hander Bill Monbouquette to San Francisco Giants Friday for Lindy McDaniel, another veteran right-hander used mostly in relief roles. Monbouquette, 31, pitched for Boston Red Sox for 10 seasons before joining the Yankees as a free agent last year. He has a 5-7 record this season. McDaniel, formerly with St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs, has pitched only 19 innings so far this year with the Giants. His record is 0-0.

OTTAWA (CP) — Halfback Ron Stewart, a sparkplug of the Ottawa offence for many years, has signed his contract with the Rough Riders for the 1968 football season, it was reported Friday. Salary was not disclosed. The 32-year-old Stewart was the all-star spot as the Rough Riders battled Calgary Stampeders to a 15-15 tie in their first pre-season game Thursday night, but did not figure in the scoring. In Canadian Football League play last season, Stewart had a rushing average of 7.8 yards, the best in the country. He scored five touchdowns.

Make That Five For Amazing Marlene

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill scored an eight and seven win over Jocelyne Bourassa Friday to win her fifth Ontario women's amateur golf championship.

Mrs. Streit fired a sizzling 68 in the first round of the 36-hole match play championship at the Canadian Golf Club for women for unofficial course record for the St. Catharines Golf and Country Club layout.

Miss Bourassa, 21, of Shawinigan Falls, Que., played even with Mrs. Streit through the first 11 holes of the second round, but couldn't catch her.

Mrs. Streit, who didn't play in the championship last year and finished second in 1966, was at her best Friday, playing almost faultless golf. She had nine birdies in the first round.

Miss Bourassa, who lost last year's final to Pam Miller of Oshawa by the same eight and seven margin, said Mrs. Streit played "perfect golf."

Surprise Announcement

Stanky Clears Gear From Chisox Locker

CHICAGO (AP) — Eddie Stanky resigned as manager of Chicago White Sox Friday and was replaced by Al Lopez, the man whom Stanky succeeded more than two years ago.

The White Sox did not hold a press conference. A club spokesman called various news media and announced that Stanky had resigned. Stanky said he had resigned but was surprised by the announcement.

While Stanky might have been surprised by the announcement of his resignation, inquiries revealed that the move to replace Stanky had been in the works for nearly a month.

Coach Les Moss filled in as manager of the Sox until Lopez' arrival scheduled Sunday for a doubleheader with Washington Senators.

"It was all so quick," said Stanky, "and I was surprised by the move. But I had to take into consideration my family, myself and the organization and it was the right move to make.

"I'll miss the packing and answering of phone calls and friends I have made," said Stanky, "Right now I'm still with the Sox organization. Tomorrow I might change my mind. As long as I stay out of baseball, they have to pay my contract through 1971. But I want to work."

Stanky's more than two years as manager of the White Sox were marked by his various battles with sports writers.

Stanky, 50, also has had problems getting his White Sox to hit. He gulped them to fourth place in his first season in 1966 and last year the Sox were on top of the league most of the season until their last week collapse.

The hangover apparently plagued him again this season by losing their first 10 games, a drop off from which they never recovered.

Stanky's first venture as a big league manager was with St. Louis Cardinals and he was relieved of his duties in 1955 during his fourth season with St. Louis.

Stanky replaced Lopez as Sox manager at the start of the 1968 season.

The 60-year-old Lopez, who has a reputation of second-place finishes, was signed for the rest of this season and the entire 1969 campaign, according to team owner Arthur Allyn.

A cat can look at a queen — and a bush-league observer can agree or disagree with the experts and pundits of the American major baseball leagues, anent the all-star game.

The news media, all three, rang with the exploits of one Willie Mays as being the hero of the recent all-star game. He was the number-one boy who scored the only run of the game. He was, according to the media, the outstanding star of the all-star battle.

I don't buy it.

Willie Mays, the great star he is, took advantage of circumstances. Let's see what he did.

Willie Mays did what any ordinary baseball player would do. True to his own credit he singled in the first innings.

An error when Louie Tiant threw wildly, sent him to second base. The Cleveland pitcher threw a wild pitch Maya going to third. Willie McCovey bounced into a double play, enabling Willie to score with the game's only run.

What price Willie?

Willie Mays, in my book, was the victim of baseball circumstances and outside of his bat single, did nothing personally to score the run that won the game.

In my book the hero of the game was one Tommy Helms the shortstop of the National League.

The sports pages, the television and radio tossils clustered the air with the wonderful pitching of Don Drysdale, Juan Marichal and the rest of the National League mound corps.

True, Drysdale came through with a one hitter in three innings and with Marichal and the rest of the Nat'l mound corps did not allow a single walk.

Be that as it may. They were given along with Mays all the credit for the 1-0 victory.

But what was omitted as I read and saw it, was the tribute to the defensive corps of the National Leaguers.

The brilliant exploits of the National League pitchers will go down in all-star history as records. They allowed three hits and struck out 19 opposing batters. They had no errors.

Why?

Because of the alright defensive plays they had behind them and which drew little or no comment from the experts and pundits of both leagues.

Tommy Helms saved Drysdale's skin and also that of Marichal with super-brilliant plays as a shortstop. Three times he came up with defensive brilliance that could have cost the National League its victory.

Later he cracked out a double and stole a base. What else could he do to collect a nod from the media and what have you.

Drysdale, Marichal, the rest of the National League hurlers all brilliant with their no-walk-even strikeout record, but what might have happened if Tommy Helms had goofed up one or more of his brilliant defensive plays with runners on base?

From up here in the Canadian sticks via the television, I'll take Tommy Helms as the all-star hero.

Old-timer Remembers When PM's Dad Owned Montreal Royals

By STERLING TAYLOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A voice came softly out of the telephone, wavering slightly with nostalgia, years and exasperation.

"The trouble with the newspapers, radios and news agencies is that they never remember the good things.

"I bet you didn't know that Maurice Richard's father was a good baseball player—locally, of course. That's what got Maurice and Henri interested in sports.

"I'm surprised you know that Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's father was an owner of the Montreal baseball team.

"Sports writers nowadays are so busy digging up something new, they can't spend any time remembering the past."

Although Bill Hutchinson has considered himself a Torontonian for the last 20 years, he still has a soft spot for Montreal where baseball once drew 25,000 fans on a Sunday afternoon.

His contention is that baseball will flourish in Montreal, providing the news media help boost it off the ground.

"Everything you read about baseball in Montreal finishes in the National League is derogatory—trouble providing a new stadium and a hassle among the promoters.

"What we need is a touch of the good old days to make people realize that Montreal, and Toronto too, are two of the top sport centres in North America.

"Boy, I can remember back about 30-40 years when Bob Shawkey managed the Montreal Royals. Later, Jackie Robinson played and became the first Negro baseball player in the majors.

"Babe Ruth played in Montreal once. We used to line up six deep for seats to a Sunday game and it was almost as bad for a twi-night doubleheader."

Hutchinson is 70 years of age. He considers baseball, hockey and football—Canadian football—the three greatest.

"That's the damn trouble. The newspapers spend too much time and space promoting American football and when something good comes along for Canada, they just find fault with it."

The voice continued to waver slightly, but the facts were right.

Ontario Richard was a shortstop in the Montreal city league. Charles Trudeau owned the Royals during the 1950s.

"Oh yes, and when you're writing about Canadians who made it big in the major leagues, don't forget Mooney Gibson, the finest amateur catcher of them all. He later managed Pittsburgh Pirates for years."

Gibson died in his native London, Ont., last year. He was one of the top catchers of the day and the first Canadian to manage a major league baseball club.

"If the newspapers continue to treat baseball this way, Montreal will lose its franchise. Toronto will never get one and baseball will die in Canada," said Hutchinson.

"What the game needs is a Conn Sqythe. Just imagine what he could have done with baseball."

Smythe, the former owner of Maple Leaf Gardens and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, now devotes his time to thoroughbred horses.

"If someone like him doesn't come along and the press continues to handle the situation in a slipshod manner, we're going to end up with nothing but tiddlywinks."

Opportunities for Women

Employment Situation Improves

By J. R. STAVELEY,
Manpower Counsellor

The past week showed a labor demand offering slightly more employment opportunities for women than for men seeking work.

As is normal at this time of the year, there was activity with tourist trade employment.

The recent fire weather has enabled local farmers, generally speaking, to complete their first cutting of hay.

A local canning factory, having finished this year's strawberry pack, is hoping to commence canning the raspberry crop around July 20.

The processing of the current pea crop has been in progress for the past two weeks and temporary workers are anticipating a further three weeks of employment.

The demand for additional workers either skilled or unskilled, from the construction field was slow, which is normal at at this period of the summer.

With a few exceptions, additional labor requirements from the industrial plants were limited. This can be expected as seasonal local industrial plants are on the verge of their annual summer holiday period.

Despite these seasonal temporary jobs, there are a considerable number of persons seeking work, including students who are interested in summer employment.

With regard to students who have been finding it difficult to obtain work, something unique for this community has been initiated to assist a number of grade 13 students and undergraduates. These students under the guiding hand of Mrs. Roy K. Jeffrey and with the approval of all concerned, will operate, for the balance of the summer, an open air cafe located on the north side of the lower entrance to the city parking area off Front Street. This positive approach to a difficult problem, scheduled to start early in the morning work, will be well served with great interest.

The following employment opportunities are now available at this office:

In the female division locally, still required are capable housekeepers who would be willing to live-in. In the motel and restaurant field, there is a limited demand for experienced waitresses and also a requirement for a bookkeeper to work for a period of possibly two months. A number of openings, on a commission basis, are available in door-to-door selling. In constant demand are registered nurses, with a special emphasis for anyone having physiatric nursing experience. Out-of-town, there is a position calling for a qualified stenographer to work in a large retail organization.

In the male division locally, still unfilled is the excell ent position calling for a chemical engineer who possesses one to three years of industrial processing experience. Another attractive position calls for a mature person who has experience in various types of personnel experience. A qualified classII stationary engineer is being sought by a mining company located near a neighboring town. One of the community's diversified industries, that of manufacturing pleasure sailing boats, is looking for a qualified cabinet maker who will do the interior woodworking and finishing of the sailing boats. A rural firm engaged in the saddlery business has a requirement for a saddle maker who is experienced in either making Western or English type saddles. An experienced general farm hand, preferably a married man, is required to look after a beef herd, supervise the harvesting of the tomato crop and other related farm work. This position is on a year-round basis with accommodation provided on the farm. An industrial plant is seeking a qualified wood patternmaker for permanent work. A motel is seeking the services of a room deck clerk for shift work on a permanent basis and also a bar tender on a regular part-time basis.

If interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of reentering the labor market, contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 324 Church Street, Belleville.

Hepworth Becomes Mecca For Country Music Fans

HEPWORTH, Ont. (CP) — John Kocher, 27-year-old land developer millionaire, is turning this community of 350 people into a country and western music mecca with the support of major Nashville, Tenn., stars and even Prime Minister Trudeau.

Last May, Kocher started building a $150,000 auditorium capable of seating 2,000 persons. It was finished just hours before opening night June 29 when Hank Locklin appeared before a capacity audience.

Opening night attracted people across a 200-mile radius including U.S. points.

Between now and Oct. 27, big names to appear here from Nashville include Mel Tillis, Leroy Van Dyke, Bill Anderson, Max Wiseman, Webb Pierce, Grandpa Jones, Goldie Smith, Jeannie Shephard, Stonewall Jackson, Dottie West, Don Gibson, Billy Walker, Hugh X. Lewis, Hensel Eargill, Del Reeves, Carl and Pearl Butler, Johnny Darrel, Jim Ed Brown and Roy Husky.

The auditorium is located on the Sauble Highway, 12 miles from Owen Sound.

Kocher—who operates 20 businesses out of Hepworth—notes his native village turning into a town with a population of 5,000 within five years. He is the planning stage is a larger auditorium capable of accommodating 5,000 persons.

Development is receiving a shot in the arm through the interest of U.S. stars planning summer homes in Hepworth.

Sunday School Lesson

Songs from Sobbing Throats

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

April and May are the prettiest months of the year in Washington, D.C. Then the spring flowers are at their loveliest. Forsythia and daffodils splash their yellow across the landscape. People come from near and far to see the famed cherry blossoms around the Tidal Basin and in suburban Kenwood. Saucer magnolias and flowering crab-apple trees add their pink to spring's rainbow colors. Then the white of the dogwood contrasts with the spectacular colors of the azaleas. Dogwood and azaleas, in turn, give way to roses. Spring is a good time to be in Washington.

But for hundreds this year, April was not a pleasant time to be in Washington. Fires burned and gutted hundreds of buildings. A pall of smoke hung over the White House. Hundreds of persons looted. Federal troops patrolled the streets. An early evening curfew was men and firemen worked clamped on the city as police around the clock to control the worst rioting and looting the city has known in its entire history.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 14: "Exiled in Babylon," Lamentations 5; Psalms 130; 137.

On the evening of April 4, a madman's bullet crashed through the neck of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Within hours of his assassination, rioters and looters were in the streets of scores of cities. Washington, Chicago, Baltimore, Kansas City, and others became a theatre of violence and blood shed.

These tragic events, when so many hissed at lw and order, happened over the week - end prior to Palm Sunday when Christians remember the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem. But how could they sing Hosannas when so many were afraid even to go to church? Instead of singing, "How Great Thou Art," many, looking at American cities, felt like saying, "How sick we are." And yet faith and love began to show themselves in many ways. There were many acts of mercy shown in the midst of the worst riot. There was a spontaneous outpouring of compassion from the churches as members rushed food and clothing to the destitute. Though shocked by the violence, already there was talk of rebuilding. Still, for many on Easter Sunday, there was the question, "How can we sing the Hallelujah Chorus when the shells of burned-out buildings stand only a few blocks away?"

They were not the first to face such a problem. In Jeremiah's time, Jerusalem experienced total destruction as invading soldiers sacked and burned the city from end to end. Most able-bodied persons were marched off to serve the Babylonians. Jerusalem was reduced to rubble. Jackals prowled in the ruins of the temple. Many fled far away, captors taunted the captives by asking them to sing the songs of Zion. But they hung their harps on weeping willow trees, and cried, "How shall we sing the Lord's song in a foreign land?" (Psalms 137:4 RSV)

How, indeed? How could they sing songs of faith in the midst of freedom they could not enjoy, luxuries they could not share, mirth in which they could not join, temples in which they could not worship?

But the sun continued to rise each morning bringing new rays of hope. And in the midst of destruction and decay, a prophet, looking at a new day, said, "The steadfast love of the Lord never ceases, His mercies never come to an end; they were new every morning; great is Thy faithfulness." Lamentations 3:22-23 RSV)

What a faith! That kind of faith can be shaken, but not conquered. Instead, it could say to the captives in Babylon that if they sought God sincerely, they could find Him there just as they could back in Zion. (Jeremiah 29:13)

Faith will always have to operate in a turbulent world. And faith in God always seems to "take" sign in front of their eyes of men's burned-out hopes. Put Dietrich Bonhoeffer in a Nazi prison, and he writes Christian insights that have challenged thousands to deeper discipleship.

This is no time to lose heart. This is no time to give up faith in the power of love and the principles of brotherhood. It is no time to give in to the cries of hate and violence. This is a time for all Americans to repent and pray. It is a time to remember that faith has nothing to fear but neglect. It is a time for people to be more true to God and in the power of brotherhood. In this way, we can say, "We are afflicted . . . but not crushed; perplexed but not driven to despair." (II Corinthians 4:8 RSV)

To Your Good Health

Myxedema Not Same Thing as Goitre

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like information about myxedema as I have had thyroid deficiency since childhood. Can this cause bowel and bladder problems?

Is myxedema the same as inward goitre or simple goitre?

Usually under active thyroid is the term I have become, but in my case I have been unable to tolerate thyroid preparations. Yet all the doctors (and I assure you I have had many) claim I need thyroid badly. I would be grateful for any light on this subject. — M. E. W.

Myxedema, simple goitre, and inward goitre are not the same, although all are conditions related to functioning of the thyroid gland.

The term myxedema is usually applied to a low thyroid state when skin manifestations are prominent — the skin has a thick, dry clay appearance and is pale. There is little or no sweating. Hair is coarse, sparse, and lusterless. Nails are thin in the outer third.

Other common symptoms are swelling of the eyelids, extreme fatigue, headaches and aching muscles. The heart can be affected (constipation) but the kidneys should not be affected.

True, underactive thyroid usually is controlled readily enough by thyroid medication, but, as in so many health problems, there is always the case, which for one reason or another, is more than ordinarily hard to solve.

In your particular case I have two suggestions.

First, there are various types of thyroid medications, synthetic ones, that could be tried to determine which does you the most good with the least associated difficulty for you.

Second, another possibility which must be considered is that, as sometimes is the case, underfunctioning of the pituitary gland may be the underlying cause of the thyroid gland's not being as active as it should.

This condition requires a battery of tests, and also gives some signs of its presence by other symptoms — faulty growth and menstrual disorders. Where this is the real cause of the myxedema, treatment of the pituitary, rather than only the thyroid gland, obviously is the way to attack the trouble successfully.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have read about experiments attempting to increase life expectancy by lowering body temperature. Do you have any knowledge of this? — W. D.

While I've read it's an interesting theory, but let's wait until there has been a great deal more study before trying to form any opinions on the theory.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am in my fourth month of pregnancy and for five weeks have been taking vitamin capsules. Could this cause my baby to be mentally retarded? I have not been to a doctor yet. — H. B. S.

No, vitamins won't harm your baby — but I've preached and preached on the wisdom of going to your doctor as soon as you know you are pregnant. It avoids complications, often makes delivery easier, and costs no more than waiting until the last moment. Usually prenatal care and delivery are a package deal with the doctor unless complications require special tests and treatment.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a peri-rectal abcess? What causes it? How serious is it? — J. K.

An abcess adjacent to the rectum. Causes are a fissure, or infection in the rectal canal, crypt(like being one form. Pain and toxicity from the infection are severe. Treatment is by surgical drainage plus antibiotics.

United Church Turns to New Word To Summarize Faith in 90 Words

TORONTO (CP) — A committee of the United Church of Canada is trying to summarize Christianity in 90 words in a new creed which does not mention the heaven, hell, resurrection or Virgin Mary.

The church's committee on Christian faith, operating with theory as a keynote, says it has an agenda for the August meeting of the church's general council: "This creed is about what we believe that it is memorable and that it so expresses the gospel as to lead men to praise."

The committee says its new creed, produced after several others were judged inferior, is not typical but is useful.

"In a day when creedlessness is considered a virtue by many, it does indicate that what a person believes is in relevant to life."

The creed:

Man is not alone; he lives in God's world.

We believe in God: who has created and is creating, who has come in the true Man, Jesus, to reconcile and renew, who works with us and waits for us by His Spirit.

We trust Him.

He calls us to be His Church: to celebrate His presence, to love and serve others, to seek justice and resist evil.

We proclaim His Kingdom.

In life, in death, in life beyond death, He is with us.

We are not alone; we believe in God.

The committee says the new creed says enough without attempting to say too much.

"The terms used are suggestive rather than definitive, which means that they can be filled with personal content by those who use the creed. For this reason, Christians in any branch of the church should have little difficulty affirming the content of the creed . . ."

The committee also suggests that a creed adopted in 1950 by the United Church of Christ in the United States be used experimentally, but adds that at present the United Church has the disadvantage that it is long."

If the committee's suggestions are followed the church general council will have the two new creeds published in service books with the Apostles' Creed of the fifth, century and the fourth-century Nicene Creed.

The Nicene Creed was updated for Roman Catholics by the church in June 30, but his version was not intended for use in side-by-side-spaced typewritten pages.

Another United Church committee is recommending that the general council make arrangements for 37 superintendent-bishops—something the United Church has had since it was founded in 1925.

Parcel says the likely merger with the Anglican Church of Canada, the committee on bishops says in its agenda:

"Their exists throughout the church a widespread and deeply felt need for some kind of pastoral supervision and guidance that a bishop might give."

The Anglicans have 50 bishops in Canada. The United Church proposal calls for 37 synods cutting across present conference lines to create pastoral areas.

The new officials would be called superintendent-bishops instead of bishops because they would not represent a new and distinct order of ministry.

They would be drawn from superintendents of home missions, administering sacraments, ordaining ministers, visiting congregations and serving as advisers on church councils.

Community Asks Negro to Stay

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — "We will try, as Christians we pride, to overcome the prejudice and bigotry shown them on so many occasions."

A Negro auto-worker and his white wife took down the "for sale" sign in front of their house after the above message, addressed to them, appeared in a full-page newspaper advertisement signed by 1,750 persons.

"We're reconsidering our plans," said Corado Bailey, who moved into this industrial suburb of Detroit with his white wife and their two children about a year ago.

When they first arrived, a crowd gathered outside their house, and police were assigned to prevent incidents. Rocks were thrown through windows, racial slurs were shouted and several attempts were made to set fire to the house.

The Baileys continued to be the target of harassment, mainly by teen-agers.

Mrs. Bailey said: "It was especially hard on our daughter, Pam. She's only 8. She doesn't understand what it's all about and has been upset by it all."

This spring the Baileys decided to move and a "for sale" sign was posted on their front lawn.

Shortly thereafter, the newspaper ad appeared urging them to stay on.

Containing names of persons who signed petitions circulated in churches in the area, the ad was printed in three newspapers.

"Recognizing that our full support has been lacking, we feel that their leaving would be a tragedy for our community," the ad said.

"We will try, as Christian people, to overcome the prejudice and bigotry shown them on so many occasions. We want them to be our neighbors. . . .

"We pledge we will dedicate ourselves to overcome the dread disease of racism which affects our American society, so that all may live in the dignity and equality which God and our constitution declare as the right of every man."

The ad also said the signers wanted the Baileys to be a part of the opening up of Warren to all people, of whatever race, nationality or creed.

The Baileys live in an upper-middle-class neighborhood where the houses range upward of $25,000-$30,000. Warren, a mushrooming suburb where the population has grown from 89,000 in 1960 to an estimated 175,000 today, has two or three other Negro families.

After the newspaper ad appeared, more than 50 persons telephoned the Baileys or rang their doorbell to lend their voice of support.

Some brought their children with them to play with Pam.

"And this has been repeated to play in their homes—this has helped her an awful lot," said Mrs. Bailey.

Red China Recognition Predicted

TAIPEI (Reuters) — China News, an English-language newspaper published by the nationalist Chinese capital, predicts Canada's Prime Minister Pearson will soon recognize the mainland Chinese regime based in Peking.

The newspaper described Trudeau in an editorial as "an individualist, a new leader who delights in kicking over the traces."

It adds that the Formosa regime should not refuse to face such a difficult problem "pressed by Mr. Pierre Trudeau's ascension to the seat of power in Canada."

It says a Canadian decision to recognize Peking would not be the end of the world but "still a considerable setback for the Chinese reverse that should be prevented if that is humanly possible."

OFF THE RECORD — BY ED REED — MR. TWEEDY — by Ned Riddle

Chinook Coming

Banff Fire at Crucial Stage

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Some 200 men worked all night Friday to construct an 8,000-foot fireguard they hope will stop a giant forest blaze 17 miles west of here today.

Heavy bulldozers tore out trees and levelled the ground, creating a clear path up to 50 feet wide across the Altrude Valley through which part of the fire was advancing east toward the Trans-Canada Highway.

On the step slopes of the valley, where it was impossible to use machines, the work was done mostly by professional Indian firefighters flown in from northern Alberta to battle the blaze that was set off by lightning in British Columbia's Kootenay National Park Tuesday night.

While work progressed on the fireguard on the southeast side of the Banff-Windermere Highway, about 100 other men started mopping-up operations on the northeast side of the road where the fire was declared under control.

Intermittent showers and cool temperatures Friday helped firefighters, but the weather office said a Chinook from would bring warm, dry air into the area tonight.

Friday's temperatures of 55 above zero compared with 85 Thursday provided a big boost to firefighters.

Steve Kun, superintendent of Banff National Park, said if firefighters were unable to stop the advance of the flames today, the situation could become "crucial."

He said he hoped to have the blaze under control before the weather turns hot again.

Water bombers, grounded earlier Friday by low clouds, roared off during the afternoon, hitting hot spots. The bombers, carrying 200-gallon loads of a chemical-water mixture, were in operation again today.

The fire has grown roughly four times in size—to 6,000 acres—since it swept into Banff National Park Wednesday. In its three-mile sweep into Alberta, the fire passed directly across Storm Mountain Lodge, but the 12-unit resort facility which was evacuated Wednesday, was still intact.

Water bombers doused the immediate area of the $50,000 lodge Thursday and Friday.

About 100 soldiers from Calgary and another 50 firefighters from the Lesser Slave Lake and Fort Vermilion regions in northern Alberta bolstered crews Friday, and some 70 students and hippies who were recruited from the Banff areas shortly after the fire started were released from fire duty.

"I'm glad they got rid of the hippies," said David Favrier, a firefighter from the Lac la Biche, Alta., area. He said while the hippies were on duty they were lazy and "all they did was yap."

Pure Heroin Picked Up By Customs

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. customs officials said Friday they found $4,000,000 worth of pure heroin taped to the bodies of a pretty schoolteacher—and her hairdresser companion when they landed at Kennedy Airport on a flight from Rome.

Authorities said the two Argentine women were "undoubtedly couriers" for perhaps the largest heroin smuggling ring in the world.

Stanley R. Spinola, supervising customs agent, said the arrests were part of a series of members of a heroin ring located in South America, Italy, France and Canada. He said more arrests were expected.

The two women were charged with illegal importation of heroin and held on $100,000 bail each.

Sharp Says Food Ready For Biafra

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sharp said Friday Canada is prepared to make "a substantial" food contribution to starving refugees in Biafra, the secessionist territory of Nigeria.

But he added such a contribution would only be made after Biafra and Nigeria agree on a method of transporting relief supplies to the war-ravaged area.

Mr. Sharp made the statement at a news conference following meetings with representatives of volunteer relief agencies, charitable organizations and church groups here.

He did not specify the amount of food Canada was prepared to contribute except to say it would be "many times more than the $50,000 grant made to Nigeria earlier this year."

Students Condemn Closed Door Study

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Western Ontario students Friday condemned Canada's university presidents for meeting behind closed doors in Ottawa Thursday to discuss "the state of unrest" on campuses across Canada.

"Their retreat behind closed doors in order to plot out their tactics is laughable," said John Yokom, president of Western's student council.

"We challenge the presidents and all concerned groups to sit down together and discuss the question in an open, intelligent manner," he said. "Retreat is defeat. It is the shortest route to violence.

"If the presidents are not prepared to discuss the problem within individual universities, if they are not prepared to honestly listen to grievances, if they are not prepared to work for constructive change, then violence must come and many universities will be destroyed."

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Bring your family if you must go anywhere today. Absence from home and your faith opens the door to a richer life. Seek new knowledge this evening.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Today may bring surprises. Wait for the first impulse to pass and then act. Business is to be avoided today. Your family and your home life come first.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Be prepared for changes of plans, but keep to your own reasons rather than those of other people. Great care in driving is essential. Deep prayer in the morning makes all the difference today.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Your best diplomacy is barely good enough today. Listen carefully, but do not promise more than restraint. Seek a loafing spot in the serenity of evening and review the day.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept 22): Your own plans are apt to run into obstacles. If you consider the reasons, you'll learn something valuable. Take advantage of any opportunity for sports today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Abrupt changes of plans are normal for but of day that no one is. Tensions are lessened by group games near home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): The natural tendency is for serious thought and decisions. But you may meet somebody important to you today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Do your share of the church services today. Plan improvements in your home. Business matters are apt to demand attention in the afternoon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Pursue single-handed ventures, particularly in the creative arts. Prepare for sudden changes, perhaps a journey.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): If you commit your resources today, you risk a big embarrassment later. Your situation continues in a state of flux, so that exact conditions are hard to know.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Let the rest of the world whirl around for a while without you. All concerned will probably enjoy the break. A hobby is best.

For July 15th

Your birthday today: You are apt to find yourself striving at first to make new beginnings for yourself or for people around you. Decisions hard decisions. Romance and speculative creativity are favored all year. Today's natives are generally enterprising people who expect the most.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): This week begins on a quiet note. Minor adjustments are made with little fanfare. See that all your moves, however trivial, are directed where you want to go.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Decisions should be thought over for another day or two. You will be glad later that you revealed nothing of your intentions.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): There are distractions in every direction today. Realize it's all a bizarre circus and stay a few steps ahead.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Patience with older people is at a premium today, perhaps involving lengthy discussions. Put off decisions. Hard work will help you through this day.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Put in a solid day's work concentrating on the details. You will see the missing parts about midday and make adjustments all afternoon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): The information of the morning is outdated by early afternoon, so let new decisions wait till later. Thrills are part of today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Misunderstandings are likely from casual talk. If you can get them squared away, the day turns out nice. Keep your talks accurate and in proper sequence.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Find out what has to be done. The right decisions are important. You will encounter little difficulty in following the right experiment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Early ideas fade. Concentrate on routine until motivation and inclination synchronize to bring a proper response.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Work on domestic chores near home today. Correspondence is helped by better conditions. Family discussions trail off into triviality with nothing settled.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): The early part of the day is disquieting. It is difficult to hold still with so much noise around. Get out and gather new information in the afternoon. Self-analysis this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Punctuate your day with many short breaks rather than several long ones. Concentrate on long-range planning. Keep adequate

Ten Year Struggle

French-speaking Teachers May Join CTF

FREDERICTON (CP) — The concept of a national teachers organization including Quebec's French-speaking teachers may become fact next year as a result of action taken at the annual meeting of the Canadian Teachers' Federation which ended here Friday.

Passage of resolutions dealing with bilingual rights for French-speaking Canadians and adoption of a report outlining reforms in the CTF constitution will lead to detailed discussions during the next 12 months on the affiliation of the 55,000-member Corporation des Enseignants du Quebec with the 160,000-member CTF.

Officials of the CTF were elated at the progress made during the four-day sessions which marked a breakthrough after almost 10 years of discussions on unity.

Dr. Gerald Nason of Ottawa, secretary-treasurer of the CTF, said the organization now would start to "hammer out the details."

Among the major resolutions endorsed was one providing for the establishment of a French language commission, to be set up in September, 1969. Meanwhile an ad hoc commission ill carry out its objectives. The commission will offer a guarantee that problems peculiar to Canada's French language teachers will be considered by the parent body.

Another calls on the CTF to develop policies and attempt to influence various levels of government concerning roles they should play in educational matters.

The CTF also adopted a bilingualism and biculturalism commission recommendation that "the right of Canadian parents to have their children educated in the official language of their choice be recognized in the educational systems."

A resolution urging the CTF to review, with the CEQ, the respective problems of the two main committees of the CTF on organizations on the federal government's involvement in education, on the elimination of economic and social inequalities in Canada, and on the concept of "dual nations," prompted some emotional debate Thursday but was passed easily Friday.

A report prepared by a three-man commission of the CTF on a national teachers organization outlined a new constitution for the CTF. The commission studied the objectives, organization, programs, operation and financing of the CTF before bringing down its recommendations.

The CTF adopted the report but tabled a recommendation that "greater emphasis should be placed on regular communication with members of Parliament. In this same vein, the practice of making annual submissions to the federal cabinet should be continued."

Miss E. F. Redmond of St. Boniface, Man., was elected CTF president, succeeding Fa. ther Conway of London, Ont. Vice-presidents are Brother A. F. Brennan, St. John's, Nfld., P. P. Fieger, Regina, and R. G. Fredericks, Halifax.

Gunman Releases Hijacked Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A babbling gunman who "knew he was making a mistake," ordered a U.S. airliner to fly to Cuba, then surrendered his gun, cried and let the plane land in Miami.

"I'm dying of cancer," the tearful hijacker told the crew.

Oran Daniel Richards, a 33-year-old forklift operator from Springfield, Ohio, was charged with kidnapping and aircraft piracy. Both are federal offences and the piracy charge carries a maximum penalty of death.

U.S. Commissioner Edward Swan set Richards' bond at $250,000 pending a hearing Monday.

Senator James O. Eastland (Dem.-Miss.), one of the 47 other passengers, said the gunman threatened to kill him. None of the passengers or six crew members were injured.

The six-foot Richards, a native of Columbus, Ga., appeared pale, but gave no hint of emotion as he was led from the cockpit of the Delta Airlines jet after it made an emergency landing in Miami. The plane—Flight 977—was en route from Philadelphia to Houston, Tex.

Eastland told reporters in Miami he encountered the Delta hijacker as he went to the plane's restroom.

Eastland said: "I heard a man say, 'I'll kill you. Get back. I'm a dying man.' So I sat down."

The senator said the gunman then turned his .45-calibre pistol on a stewardess, Elaine Hawks, and demanded access to the cockpit.

Capt. Forrest Dines of Chicago said the man entered the cockpit waving the pistol and demended the plane be diverted to Cuba.

"My engineer started talking to him and established a rapport with him," Dines said. The engineer persuaded the man to place his gun on the floor.

Flight engineer Glenn Smith said the hijacker "more or less made the decision himself."

"He knew he was making a mistake and doing the wrong thing, and I just convinced him of that," Smith said. "At times he was very rational. At times he was very irrational."

The captain said that after the gunman dropped his weapon —still cocked, "We let it lay for a little bit because we didn't want to make any rash movements."

Limited Wiretap Upheld

TORONTO (CP) — Wiretapping should be permitted by a court order in the same way a search warrant is obtained, the president of the International Conference of Police Associations said Friday.

Syd Brown of Toronto said in an interview society should worry less about the rights of criminals and more about the rights of their victims.

In an article in the current edition of The Law, the conference's magazine, Mr. Brown says police have been made ineffective by lack of support from the courts, public and government.

Man Who Shot 3 Says Self-Defence

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Bobby L. Rogers, identified by police as the gunman who killed three men in New York City, told his brother he shot in self-defence, the brother said.

The 31-year-old army veteran is in jail today after surrendering Friday to a deputy sheriff in the adjoining city of Graham and waiving extradition.

New York officials are being host to North Carolina to take custody. They expect to return him to New York Monday or Tuesday.

Rogers, a Negro, was unarmed and accompanied by his brother, Henry Rogers of Burlington, when they approached Deputy Clifton Wilkinson on the courthouse steps. They were "calm as anybody," Wilkinson said.

Henry Rogers, 35, oldest of 11 children in the family, told the Burlington Times-News: "He did it in self-defence. Some people have asked me if my brother is insane. He is not insane. He did it in self-defence."

Rogers quoted his brother as saying:

"Those people came into the building where he was superintendent. One of them put a gun against his belly. He took the gun away from the fellow and sprayed them with it.

"After he did it, he got scared and ran," Henry Rogers said.

Sheriff John Stockard said Bobby Rogers told him he had thrown the weapon away, then boarded a bus in Manhattan Thursday a few hours after the Bronx shootings. He arrived in nearby Greensboro, N.C., Friday morning and took another bus to Burlington.

Henry Rogers said his brother considered going back to New York to surrender.

"I told him not to do that, because they would kill him if he did." He did not elaborate on who "they" might be.

Bobby Rogers had been the subject of a manhunt through the slums and busy streets of New York since the Thursday night fusillade of bullets from a .30-calibre automatic carbine killed three men and left a bystander wounded.

A 13-state alert had been broadcast for Rogers.

Rogers' neighbors described him as "very calm . . . a hell of a nice guy . . . a very decent fellow . . . well liked."

Killed were Manuel Angel Figueroa, 19, Efrain Castro, 21, and Jose Rivera, 18.

Assistant District Attorney Burton D. Roberts discounted any possibility of racial conflict having motivated the shootings, which occurred in a predominantly-Negro and Puerto Rican neighborhood.

Bobby Rogers let his brother do most of the talking when he surrendered to Deputy Wilkinson.

Henry Rogers stopped the deputy and said his brother wanted "to give himself up."

"Why?" asked the deputy.

Henry Rogers answered, "Because he is the man who shot those people in New York."

CAN COVER-UP

HANLEY CASTLE, England (CP) — Housewives in this Worcestershire hamlet and its sister Hanley Swan were asked not to put garbage cans out for collection because the Queen was to pass through. Councillor Horace Firth said he didn't think it would be "a pleasant sight for her to come along and see about 100 dustbins lining the route."

Soviet Writer Defects

NEW YORK (AP) — Arkadiy V. Belinkov, a Soviet writer and literary critic long at odds with his government, has defected to the United States, with a bitter condemnation of his Communist homeland, it was announced Friday.

"I never considered myself a true subject of a government comprised of liars, tyrants, criminals and stranglers of freedom," Belinkov is quoted as writing June 20 in a letter of resignation to the Union of Writers of the U.S.S.R.

A translation of the letter was made public here by a lawyer, Robert H. Knight. He said he had been retained in Belinkov's behalf by a group of Americans of Russian descent.

A state department spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, said in Washington Belinkov and his wife, Natalya, asked for and were granted American visitors visas by the American consul in Munich, West Germany, last month. They arrived in the U.S. June 27.

Belinkov, 46, spent 13 years in a labor camp on charges of anti-Soviet writings. He says he was not a member of the Communist party. His wife, 38, worked for the state committee for radio and television.

Give A Little and We'll Talk Pay, Government Tells Postmen

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government had a special-delivery message for Canada's postal workers Sunday: Give a little, and we'll talk money.

It was a sort of pony-express missive, issued on a day when most postal workers and almost all civil servants were relaxing in preparation for the week ahead. A week which will reach a climax at 8 a.m. EDT Thursday with a nationwide postal strike unless last-ditch meetings beginning today result in a satisfactory settlement.

As the capital steamed in near 90-degree heat Sunday a spokesman for the treasury board issued a statement on the down-to-money business which added a hope for "significant progress" at today's negotiating session.

It was the first statement on the strike threat issued by the board which bargains as official employer of the postal workers.

The 24,000-member Council of Postal Unions is seeking a flat 75-cent-an-hour increase over a 14-month contract.

The postal union leaders have said that it now is too late to call off the strike machinery even if progress is made at today's meeting.

The government side refuses to go along with this and Prime Minister Trudeau said at a news conference Friday there is "no inevitability" to a strike until it takes place.

Sunday's treasury board statement said the government would be prepared to move quickly on the pay issue if union negotiators were prepared to accept the recommendations of the conciliation board and "to make a significant adjustment . . . in their salary demands."

If the government means what it says, and the union "gives a little", it will be the first nose-to-nose confrontation over wages.

Today's meeting resulted from a council request to Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the public service staff relations board. The strike deadline followed the council's rejection of a conciliation board report. The board, headed by Prof. Andre Desgagne, made no specific wage recommendations. It suggested the parties go to mediation on wages.

The 75-cent-an-hour wage demand amounts to an increase of just over 27 per cent for postal clerks ranging the maximum $2.75 an hour. For those earning less, the increase would be up to 39 per cent.

Money, however, might not get the government off the hook. Union leaders have said that working conditions, too, must be improved. William Houle, co-chairman of the council, has said several times the government has virtually ignored recommendations on working conditions made by two judges and a royal commission during inquiries in past years.

Cauouette Demands Parliament Convene

CAP - DE - LA - MADELEINE, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, leader of the Ralliement des Creditistes, has called for a special session of Parliament to deal with the threatened postal strike.

Mr. Caouette, said the dispute between the federal government and 24,000 postal workers should be submitted to compulsory arbitration.

"Nobody has the right to deprive 20,000,000 Canadians of mail service," Mr. Caouette told reporters.

During the next session, the Creditistes would support amendments to labor legislation which would substitute compulsory arbitration for strikes and lock-outs in labor relations in fields under federal jurisdiction.

Quinte's Heat Haze May Last for Days

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

The host's on. So's the humidity.

You can even see the Quinte district sweltor.

The region lies wrapped in a heat haze which may not lift for days, the weatherman predicted today.

The forecast came after a weekend that saw town dwellers melt into the countryside, seeking shade and cooling breezes as temperatures soared close to the 90s.

The exodus built to a peak Sunday, leaving Belleville a city of deserted streets and empty houses.

It also put a space premium on beaches, picnic and camp sites — almost anywhere a shady nook or cranny could be reached by car.

Crowds flowed in a steady stream into district provincial parks. Local lakes and waterways buzzed with boats and bobbed with swimmers.

Despite the upsurge in activity there were no serious mishaps — on roads or water.

A few events went ahead as scheduled, to draw crowds despite the heat wave.

On the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve, close to 3,000 spectators and Orangemen thronged the Indian fairgrounds for the annual orange walk.

In Belleville, a soap-box derby drew a small number of entries but enthusiastic spectator response, despite soaring temperatures.

Scenes of most of the action however, were the district's provincial parks.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Warm and humid air coursing northeast from the upper reaches of the Mississippi will maintain typical July heat wave conditions throughout the lower lakes until at least mid week. A somewhat cooler air mass arrived over northern Ontario from the Prairies Sunday. Disturbances moving along this front will occasion periodic outbursts of thunderstorms around the upper lakes during the next 48 hours.

Beer Strike May End, Too

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's drought drought showed signs of easing today as negotiators in the 24-day-old brewery shutdown met again, reaching for a settlement which would restore the province's beer supply.

David Lewis, New Democratic Party member of Parliament for York South and chief union negotiator, said Sunday night "some main hurdles were passed" during weekend meetings.

Mr. Lewis said negotiators broke into smaller groups Sunday to work out problems related to individual members of the industry.

Robert Woolvett, spokesman for the breweries involved in the strike-lockout, said full scale negotiations were to resume at 10 a.m.

However Mr. Woolvett was not as optimistic as Mr. Lewis. He said: "Serious bargaining is continuing."

A union spokesman hinted earlier that the workers would compromise on demands for a $1.25 an hour increase over three years. There was also speculation that the brewing industry would change its 95-cents-a-hour package offer. Wages under the old contract ranged from $2.57 to $3.51 an hour.

The dispute began June 21

Trenton Workers End Strike

By BOB AVERY
(Staff Reporter)

TRENTON — The 21 striking members of Trenton's public employees are back at work today after deciding on Saturday to give up the idea of a job security agreement.

The strike lasted for three days and culminated on Friday with what could have been a permanent opening of the town's swing bridge.

But after a meeting with the mayor and council on Friday Local 799 decided not to swing the bridge and to call off the strike.

They were seeking guaranteed employment without fear of being laid off.

Council says layoffs have never happened before and this is reason enough to believe they will not happen in the future.

This was enough for the others as they signed a memorandum of settlement on Saturday, when 300 workers at the Toronto plant of Molson's Brewery (Ontario) Ltd., members of the United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers, walked off their jobs.

The industry replied by locking out workers at Carling Breweries Ltd., O'Keefe Brewing Co. Ltd., John Labatt (Ontario) Ltd., W. J. Hyatt Ltd., Canadian Breweries Transport Ltd. and Brewers Warehousing Co. Ltd.

Unaffected in the dispute are Doran's Brewery in Northern Ontario and Formosa Springs brewery near Owen Sound.

Ontario's brewing industry, which produces almost 40 per cent of all beer made in Canada, sells about 4,000,000 gallons a day. Consumption in the province is 26.5 gallons a year per adult.

3-year Pact Is Compromise

OTTAWA (CP) — Workers today re-opened the St. Lawrence Seaway after accepting a 19-per-cent wage increase agreed over three years. It ended a costly strike begun June 21.

The first of some 270 ships immobilized or trapped in the inland waterway began moving within hours after the bulk of the 1,250 striking workers approved a three-year contract Sunday.

At Montreal, the St. Lambert lock, most easterly lock in the Seaway system, opened at midnight Sunday.

The iron-ore carrier Quebec owned by the Papachristidi Line, inched through the lock westbound at midnight.

The 720-foot vessel headed a line of 26 ships waiting to move to the heart of the continent through the system.

A Seaway Authority official said the waiting ships stretched from the St. Lambert lock downriver to Quebec City, a distance of more than 100 miles.

Extra payroll cost to the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, the government arm that operates the inland waterway, is estimated at $2,000,000 during the life of the contract. It expires Dec. 31, 1970.

Catholics Start Mercy Flights to Biafra

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) — Caritas, the international Roman Catholic relief organization, has begun a series of 36-hour mercy flights of food and medicines into breakaway Biafra, Radio Biafra reported Saturday night.

The radio, quoting an announcement in the Ibo-held town of Owerri by Father Patrick Durgan, general-secretary of Biafra Roman Catholic relief services, said Caritas already had distributed 220 tons of relief supplies inside Biafra.

There was no immediate comment on the reported Caritas flights by the Nigeria federal government, which has ordered its air force to shoot down any planes flying into the breakaway region without federal permission.

The radio also reported that the Biafra Development Corp. soon will take over a refugee camp at Aba, one of the main secessionist centres close to the southeast civil war front.

It broadcast an appeal to Biafrans to visit the camp—reported to contain about 600,000 displaced Ibos—and take home one starving child each.

A growing number of deaths continue to be reported from areas in an around beleaguered Biafra.

Pollution Closes Five Quinte Area Beaches

Pollution has closed five Quinte district beaches to swimming, and others may soon be posted by the public health department.

Already posted as unsafe for swimming due to high bacterial count is Belleville's inner harbor, the Bay of Quinte off the government dock and South George St. park, the beach at Deseronto and Stoco Lake at Tweed park beach.

Public health officials here will know by the end of the week if the water at Zwick's Island is still safe for swimming.

"So far, the Moira River counts have been fairly good," Lloyd Ellington, public health inspector, said this morning. "High water levels have resulted in a fast flow in the Moira and helped to keep the count down."

Water in the lagoon at Fry park, recently taken over as a swimming hole by children, has not yet been tested.

Because the provincial government has no regulations governing pollution at bathing beaches, the Hastings public health department used the recommendations of the Ontario Water Resources Commission to decide when water is unfit for swimming.

When two consecutive samples of water show a total coliform bacteria count at over 2,400 per millilitre the area is posted as unsafe for swimming.

Coliform bacteria are found in the intestines of humans and animals and indicate pollution from sewage.

Algae, which turn the water green, are no menace to public health, but are dead now being washed up on district beaches.

Growth of algae is encouraged in warm, shallow bodies of water such as the Bay of Quinte, by a high phosphate content in the water.

In this district the phosphates come from industrial wastes, and to a still greater extent from run-off from fields where chemical fertilizers have been applied.

Council to Hold Special Session

Belleville city council is officially recessed for the summer holiday period but you would never know it from the length of the agenda for this afternoon's "special" meeting.

The special meeting was originally called to deal with two or three specific items including authorization for the execution of cost estimates and submission to the Ontario Department of Highways for approval of the West Bridge Street reconstruction.

But instead of the intended two or three items, the agenda has been expanded to 28 items covering a wide range of subjects.

The under call for the reconstruction of West Bridge Street appeared in the press last week.

Soapbox Derby Huge Success

The biggest littlest racing event of the year maybe didn't draw as many entrants as the organizers hoped Saturday.

But the Belleville soapbox derby compensated for its light entry list with heavy spectator enthusiasm.

The derby, run by Belleville's Rood Angels car club, drew seven contestants to the starting post atop Catherine Street Hill.

The single event evoked a sparky response from the scores of youngsters who turned out, to cheer their champions along the route.

Winners were Richard Sharpe, 13, in the senior class and 11-year-old Brian Allore, in the junior entries.

Club officials blamed a combination of holiday weekend and a lack of parental support for the light entry of contestants.

Quinte Heat Could Stay Days

At Presqu'ile where attendance has dropped this year, the park's popularity soldenly soared as an estimated 1,000 people bid for camping sites. Another 600 sought out park beaches.

"It was the busiest weekend of the season — by far!", says park superintendent Ralph Tippell.

Volume of traffic into the four provincial parks in Prince Edward County also rose with the mercury.

By last night total admissions for the weekend were 43,900 at Outlet, Sandbanks, North Beach and Lake-on-the-Mountain parks.

However, overall season attendance was still below 1967 at this time — blamed by park officials on cooler weather and a pileup of dead fish along the Lake Ontario shoreline.

On the Trent Canal, traffic also stepped up through the weekend.

By Sunday, lock workers had admitted 363 boats into the system this season — about a 30 per cent increase over the 271 craft at this time in 1967.

Areas closer to Belleville — Oak Lake, Crowe Lake at Marmora, Moira Lake at Madoc, Stoco Lake at Tweed — also drew the best-boaters, as did the shaded picnic tables of Belleville's Zwick's Island park.

In the northern townships, the forest fire hazard was still rated medium, despite the intense heat. However, provincial government forestry officials already have had a record fire loss this year — more than 1,000 acres burned, compared to 670 acres for all of 1967.

At Canadian Forces Base Trenton, the duty forecaster today said current swelter spell will last until at least mid-week.

Maximum temperatures should continue in the high 80s.

Fringe benefits will cost the government another four per cent. They include increases in extra pay for evening and overnight work, four weeks' vacation after 14 years' service instead of 20, and an 11th annual holiday —Boxing Day.

Negotiators for the seway authority and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers produced the settlement in a weekend resumption of talks that collapsed last June 30.

The two-day Ottawa session amounted to classic hard-nosed bargaining. The union produced 11 settlement packages, the seaway authority 10 under the watchful eye of William Kelly, a federal labor official serving as an informal mediator.

Finally, one was found acceptable and presented to the strikers who gathered in halls in six seaway communities to ratify it. Seventy-two per cent of those voting favored it. It required only a simple majority to pass.

IN MEMORIAM

MOLEAT — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Norman Moleat, who passed away July 15, 1966.

Dad, Mom, we are now sharing.
Our hearts are filled with pain,
Our hearts were almost broken,
When you were called away.
But when we say our sharing,
We think of you with love,
And though you're not forgotten,
To suffer that again.
— Sadly missed and mourned by mother, father, brother, Doug and sister-in-law, Doreen and Joyce.

ADAMS — In loving memory of a very dear husband and father, Robert David Adams who passed away July 15, 1967.

Dad, you left us one year ago,
And found an empty place
In hearts that love you much,
And now your tired face,
Is one we can't forget,
Your memory is our keepsake,
God's garden must be beautiful
For he chose the best.
— Sadly missed by his wife Thel May and family.

A Mohawk band celebrating the Battle of the Boyne isn't as incongruous as it might seem. The Tyendinaga Orange Lodge is the oldest in Hastings County and its Indian members were proud hosts for annual parade that drew Orangemen from around Eastern Ontario Saturday.

1,000 Mark Glorious Twelfth

DESERONTO — In weather warm enough to make an orange peel, followers of King Billy drummed up a glorious-ly warm Glorious Twelfth near here Saturday.

Orangemen from around Eastern Ontario gathered at the Tyendinaga Mohawk re-serve to celebrate the Battle of the Boyne by marching stol-cally through sweltering sun-shine.

The event drew 35 lodges — including Canada's oldest Or-ange organization at Brock-ville — to liven the Mohawk fairgrounds with flying colors and the furious drumming of traditional Orange fighting songs.

The turnout of close to 1 000 lodge members and spectators brought enthusiastic response from leading lodge members who saw it as a denial that Orangery was fading out across Canada.

"There are some individuals who claim the Orange Order is dying," James Breen, of Kingson, junior deputy grand master of Ontario East lodges, told the throng. "But from the crowd assembled here today it's very wide awake."

Mr. Breen, like other speak-ers, emphasized the need for a united Canada, but generally the speaches were a subdued far cry from former days, when the Glorious Twelfth evoked tones of anti-Catholic militancy.

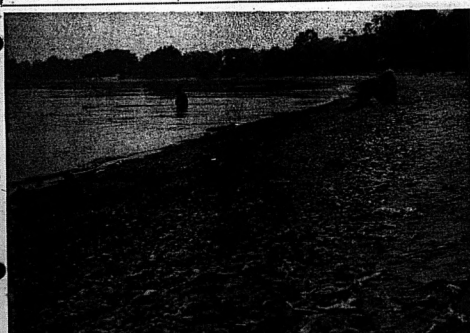
Mr. Breen said Canada must be united "from coast to coast with "special rights" for none.

There must be "no special status for any part of Can-ada. We must all be treated equally," he said.

"Keep this Canada of ours Protestant. Give the other side their equal rights," he said. "But no special privileges. None whatever. We must be on an equal basis — and no special status for the province of Quebec."

Similar sentiments were echoed by Godfrey Barr, im-mediate past grand master Ontario East.

"Whether it's Protestant or Roman Catholic we want one, united Canada," he said.



"But, "we don't want a French Canada," he added. "We want a Canada that is equally French and English together."

"They (French-Canadians) are our neighbors and we must get along with them."

Mr. Barr believed the Can-adian who doesn't speak Eng-lish is a second-class citizen.

Later he explained, he had no objections to bilingual-ism but every Canadian must be able to speak English which should be the common language of the country.

Thomas Davison, of Ottawa, deputy grand secretary of On-tario East, called the 1000 battle at Ireland's Boyne riv-er between the Protestant King William and Catholic King James, a victory for "re-ligious liberty."

The odor of dead and decaying fish is causing problems at parks along the Lake Ontario shore-line. Here at Wellington the fish have piled up to record levels during the past few weeks.

Dead Fish Piling Up at Parks

PICTON (Staff) — Dead fish and fair sized crowds compet-ed for space at Provincial Park beaches on the weekend.

Dead fish, shad or ale-wives, are continuing to pile up on the beaches, said a spokesman at the Outlet Provincial Park.

The spokesman said that crowds were too thick on Sun-day to allow raking of the beaches, during the day. Crews worked all day long on Saturday he said.

Eighteen men were at work on the beach. Hand rakes must be used he explained. Larger rakes, towed by the three Park owned tractors are ineffective in gathering up the fish.

The spokesman did not pre-dict how long the situation would continue. On shore breezes, that could change at any time, have been respon-sible for blowing the large numbers of fish onto the beach.

Building to Be Ready

Plans for Fair Taking Shape

Belleville Fair is now less than a month away and presi-dent Cam Burnett and his fair board directors are working on the final touches for the five day show scheduled to get underway on August 13.

One thing is certain. Fair goers this year will see changes in the old exhibition grounds.

In fact with the new dis-play building, which by fair time will have replaced the old Commodore's and Manu-facturers' building, fair goers will hardly recognize the place.

Not only will there be a new $100,000 display building, but at least two of the existing buildings will see a change in use.

And the agricultural build-ing is having new fluorescent lighting installed, replacing the old fashioned, inadequate-cent bulbs.

The new display building, which will double as a recre-ation centre, is rapidly tak-ing shape and every assurance is given that the structure will be ready for the fair open-ing.

The brick walls of the 100 by 120 foot structure are nearly completed and the 30 pre-stressed concrete roof beams will shortly be swung into place. A concrete floor will be poured prior to the fair opening.

This year the cheese and butter exhibit will be in the Junior Farmers building where the enclosed display room and refrigeration equipment for-merly in the Manufacturers' building has been installed.

And the Junior Farmer building will also serve as the exhibition grounds dining hall. A kitchen is being in-stalled in the building for the convenience of area Women's Institute groups who trade-formerly serve meals during the Belleville Fair.

There will also be changes in the cattle show department.

The enclosed cattle barn, formerly used by horse Hol-stein cattle, is being turned into a coliseum. The floor area will be paved with asphalt, bleachers will be erected, and the building will be used for cattle shows.

Each of the breeds will be allotted a special day for their cattle shows, one of which will be held during the evening hours.

In the agricultural and flower building workmen are now installing incandescent lighting which will improve the illumination. Also in the agricultural building a special glass enclosed display area is being provided for exhibits in the domestic sciences depart-ment.

Fairgrounds Building Takes Shape

Workmen are seen closing in east wall of the new fairgrounds display and recreational building. Structure, with floor area of 100 by 120 feet, will be ready in time for Belleville Fair.

Wilfred Forestell Wins Competition

Wilfred A. Forestell of Mad-doc township is the winner of this year's field crop competi-tion sponsored by the Madoc Agricultural Society. Mr. Fores-tell scored a total of 86 points.

Harold Chambers of Stirling was the judge.

Other winners in the con-test were as follows: Rae-burn Robinson, 85, Allen Ketcheson, 84; Kenneth Hol-land, 83, Joseph Foley, 82; Philo Harris, 81, Arnold Em-pey, 81; Sager Brothers, 80, Donald McKinnon, 77 and Allan Thompson 76.

The winners will receive a cash award from the fair board.

TRAIN ON LAKES

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Okanagan and Skaha lakes in the Okanagan Valley are to be used as sites to train hovercraft pilots. The pilots eventually will operate the craft, which skims over the surface of water, on the coast.

Life of Challenge

Dissatisfaction if not downright boredom with: "the good life" seems to permeate all sections of society today. It affects both adults and children. Fortunately not everyone finds it necessary to take refuge in the sort of neurotic behavior talked of so much these modern days. Marijuana . . . the new morality, these are only for the few.

Others take a more positive look at the situation and decide to do something useful, something that is rewarding for themselves as well as people less fortunately endowed in life.

Fine examples are the 1,000 professional people, from nurses to agriculturists, whom the Canadian University Service Overseas is sending this year to countries in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean.

One is Ruth Heron, who was crippled 15 years ago by polio. Although confined to a wheelchair, Mrs. Heron, and her husband, will teach in Tanzania. The Montreal couple, who have a 22-year-old son, were dissatisfied with suburban life and "the niceties of life."

Another is Dick McGachie, who is leaving a firm of financial management consultants in Calgary to go to Tanzania with his wife and their three daughters, aged 8, 11 and 14. Here is Mr. McGachie's revealing comment on why he and his family are going to rough it for a while:

"We were bringing up three automatic consumers with television for eyeballs. They thought that money grew on trees and that their father must live in the branches. We are going to get all the advantages of being immersed in a different culture at a very basic level."

There must be many others in Canada who harbor similar sentiments, but for one reason or another must make the best of the situation in hand. It could be they are better staying where they are. To go away to a life of challenge overseas and find it rewarding, spiritually if not financially, would likely render a return to suburbia, at the end of their contract, well-nigh intolerable. For them it is better the devil they know than the one they do not.

What Next?

It could happen only in America's frenetic, gun-toting society — three off-duty police officers, one of them a detective, engaging in a gun duel on the Bronx freeway.

The incident occurred when one of the men stalled on the freeway. A second officer — a probationer — got out of his car and an argument ensued resulting in the shooting of the latter. The detective, coming on the scene ordered the first man to drop his gun, but was himself shot at. Returning the fire he hit the patrolman in the chest.

This was followed only a day or two later by the shooting in New York city of three Puerto Ricans.

Yet if shootings and killings in the United States continue (20,000 gun fatalities and 100,000 wounded last year), some strange things occur in Canada as well. There was the mass murder of a Saskatchewan farm family last year by a lone gunman since pronounced insane, and only the other day a Toronto hospital intern was shot and wounded by a woman patient.

Just as eccentric was the police ban on any statements on the incident by the hospital authorities. Granted that any statement would have been better made after police investigation, but to suggest that any prior statement constituted "contempt of court" is stretching things a bit.

The woman alleged to have fired the shots was pregnant. Some hours later she gave birth to a child. Here too the police stayed the hospital permission to disclose even the child's sex. If the police and the law are to serve the public best they would be better avoiding such absurd decisions as this. The child's sex is really not the business of the courts. However, to refuse the Press permission to publish such information is questionable.

Student Jobs

Up Brantford way two girls from Paris district high school have solved the summer job problem. Linda Gee and Kris Cesnaulis are remaining in school — but not to study.

The girls are spending the summer getting books ready for the fall term. About 5,000 old books have to be checked and repaired, then sorted and added to 3,000 new ones. They end up in 600 shopping bags with a student's name on it.

Linda and Kris will not be among them, however. They are going to the University of Toronto to study sociology and philosophy respectively.

Cabinet Solidarity

Will Trudeau Get Away with "Mailed Fist" Policy?

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—Every once in a while, the mailed fist shows through Prime Minister Trudeau's velvet glove.

Its last appearance was in an after-cabinet chat with reporters Monday. He disclosed that he just warned ministers in his newly-created cabinet that they must observe the traditional cabinet rules governing solidarity and secrecy.

His tone was light and bantering, but the message was clear. The delinquents will be allowed one mild mistake. The second one will not be tolerated.

In other words, he left the impression that cabinet ministers who disagree publicly with government policy or who leak cabinet information will be dismissed.

Last April, soon after he took over as prime minister from Lester Pearson, he held a press conference that ministers who break the cabinet solidarity rule will not be ministers "long at all."

And last Friday, announcing his post-election cabinet, he said at one point that he will have no hesitation in changing cabinet appointments if a minister does not perform as well as he should.

These recorded instances seem to indicate that Mr. Trudeau has the determination to brook no recurrence of the breakdown in cabinet unity solidarity that occurred during the Liberal leadership race which he won.

In that period, the national medical care program, government policy approved by Parliament although not yet in effect, became an issue among cabinet ministers seeking the leadership. The plan began operation July 1.

Disagreements on government policy are easy to pinpoint. But Mr. Trudeau may find it more difficult to crack down on disclosures of information from cabinet.

Mr. Trudeau himself tells reporters, as he did last Monday, something about cabinet affairs did, even if only in a general way.

So where do you draw the line? Is it proper to discuss one side of cabinet what was discussed inside without saying what decisions have been reached?

Or does Mr. Trudeau seek absolute secrecy? If he does, that will raise implications about the public right to know at least something about what cabinet is doing.

So it remains to be seen just how far Mr. Trudeau's hard line will be carried. And whether the mailed fist remains in velvet or more drastic form than it has so far, producing action as well as words of warning.

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

More than one Ontario family fortune in this century has been based on the profits of rum-running in the palmy days of U.S. prohibition.

Now the rum-runners are back, in modest fashion, and operating in the reverse direction because of the beer shortage in Ontario.

The water barrier between Canada and the United States is narrow in a number of places and there is nothing much the Canadian police can do to stop those willing to take a chance of hustling a boatload of beer into Ontario.

They'll nab the odd offender. Last weekend the Mounties picked up a small load in Sarnia and seized 77 dozen cans of U.S. beer. The boat operator has been charged.

These are early days in what may become a beerless summer. The police on the scene there will be more and better-organized efforts to meet the drought if the strike continues.

This first sign of how some Ontario people intend to fight the strike should be just another hint to the obtuse people at Queen's Park who are dithering about the question of importing U.S. beer for public sale, if they don't start doing it legally they are sure there are those who will take a chance to make a profit by engaging in the illicit trade.

And just as in prohibition days the sympathies of many lawabiding citizens will be with the lawbreakers.

Port Hope's Downtown Plan

Peterborough Examiner

With astonishingly little fuss or furore, Port Hope's town council has approved a plan aimed at revitalizing the community's downtown area. The scheme, endorsed by council's committee of the whole Monday, envisages a large multi-level parking complex off the main street, and the creation of a downtown shopping mall. While costs have yet to be determined, Port Hope Mayor Michael Wladyka seems confident that the new developments will not die on the drawing board and downtown merchants can hardly restrain their excitement.

Previously council recognizes the urgent nature of urban renewal. Unless proper parking facilities can be provided to service the downtown area, shoppers will desert downtown merchants in favor of the shopping centres that are sprouting up around every town and city in North America. The effect would be to leave the city centre storefronts, ancient office buildings and sub-standard apartment buildings. In many of our larger cities, the pattern has already appeared and almost no community — Peterborough included — is without warning signals.

With planning director Terence Priddle's official plan being rushed to completion by the end of the year and traffic and urban renewal studies expected shortly afterward, Peterborough will soon be in a position to tackle the problem of downblight. Hopefully, council will move swiftly to stop the drift of store-owners away from the centre of the city.

UK View of Soviet Policy

Sunday Telegraph, London

A variety of reasons can be advanced to explain the Russians' decision to opt for talks on nuclear defence systems. There is, of course, the ruinous expense of the anti-ballistic missile screens which are the latest phase of this deadly competition — expense which would prejudice Mr. Kosygin's hopes of a consumer goods society in Russia as well as President Johnson's hopes of a Great Society in America. There is Moscow's growing preoccupation with Russia's four-thousand-mile border with China as a threat potentially greater than the nuclear armory across the Atlantic. But whatever the reason for agreeing to these talks and however tricky they may prove in practice, the nuclear doves on the Kremlin's spires have, for the time being, triumphed over the hawks.

Yorkshire Post

For all their fine words, the Russians are not to be trusted. Russia's aim still is to weaken the American guarantee to Europe, split the allies, isolate West Germany and if possible turn Europe into a potentially non-nuclear theatre of operations because they have overwhelming conventional superiority at a high state of readiness in Europe.

Wiretapping Aids Police

Ottawa Journal

Attorney General Wishart made an entirely sensible statement in the Ontario Legislature on the use of "bugging" devices.

He first recognized that there should be a federal law restricting the use of wiretapping and any electronic snooping gear to policemen armed with a judge's warrant for each particular case to snoop. The new Minister of Justice should give such legislation high priority.

But Wishart properly defended the policeman's right to use bugging as "an absolutely necessary tool to effective law enforcement, particularly in our continuing battles with the organized criminal."

Some flaming civil righters want to deny even to police the advantage of this modern method of surveillance out of a misguided fear of an Orwellian age. There must of course be protection against promiscuous use of wiretapping, just as there is against police search of a man's home. But it would be as softheaded to deprive the law of this new technology as to say that police use of fingerprints was an invasion of privacy.

Angry Ottawa

Rideau River Beach Pollution

Ottawa Journal

Ottawa Board of Control put on a show of righteous anger over the further shocking news that the whole Rideau River beach system from Mooney's Bay to the Ottawa River may be closed down because of increasing pollution counts.

But the board's fury — which every citizen shares — does not whitewash the city of Ottawa for allowing such a deplorable situation to develop. The beaches are, after all, Ottawa's. The river flows through the city. Wherever and whatever the source of the pollution, Ottawa had and has an abiding responsibility to keep careful watch on the river.

Why was this dangerous situation allowed to happen?

Ottawa from the mayor down to the recreation and the health departments must at once find off the answer to Nepean, the Ontario Water Resources Commission, the Province of Ontario or any other convenient scapegoat. Perhaps all are at fault — but that includes Ottawa.

Because Ottawa was negligent in not foreseeing the problem, and in not realizing its severity once it appeared, our people and children are watching a polluted stream and not swimming at city beaches in the summer of 1968.

The record should show that as well as the anger displayed at Board of Control.

Voluntary Tax "Act of Desperation"

Montreal Gazette

Canada, like the United States, is fast becoming an urban society, with a greater and greater proportion of the population concentrated in the cities. Already, Canada's two largest cities comprise populations larger than most provinces, larger than some whole regions.

There has to be a re-allocation of tax fields in recognition of this and the development and this can only be done from the top. The Federal government must make arrangements to help the provinces so that they can help the cities.

The problem has been stated before. It must continue to be stated until permanent solutions are found. Stop-gap solutions, such as Mayor Drapeau's alternative "voluntary tax" are essentially temporary, and are themselves an example of municipal desperation.

Iwo Jima Again Jap Territory

The Montreal Star

The return of Iwo Jima to Japan after 23 years of United States occupation is more than a symbolic gesture of friendship between two former enemies; it is a reminder of the futility of war.

Now the island has been hauled back in a simple ceremony; it is not so long ago that the valor of those of both sides who died on that lonely outpost (only we say it is lonely, whether any piece of real estate is worth such a toll. The island was needed heavily on jazz, and especially pop, as decadent and dangerously Western. Now Komsomol has swung around, and the electric guitar whines and twangs in the youth - manned combos of Soviet-land. There is even less frowning on Beatle haircuts.

This doesn't mean Soviet young people are primed to revolt. But they've been hit by pop music and the Mersey beat on the Voice of America and the BBC, and they admire it mightily. The Wall Street Journal tells of a hot spot in Novosibirsk, Siberia, called the Eureka Youth Club, where the Louis Group (drums and three electric guitars) play Beatle songs and Russian ballads.

It's a calculated Moscow policy—to modernize its youth organizations. The Pioneers (ages 10 to 15) are adopting some Boy Scout trappings, such as campfires and merit badges. The Komsomols have Saturday night dances and excursions to other countries (mostly the Communist bloc). There are still political lectures and undertones of strict supervision.

Unlike some countries, Soviet youth does not teem with unrest. Student troubles mainly among elite intellectuals. But youth is acquiring a taste for the Western beat, and if "the beat goes on" who knows where it may end?

Children Barred From Flats

Peterborough Examiner

In that would seem to be in direct contravention of the Ontario Human Rights Code, parents of small children are being discriminated against in almost every city in the province.

In an amendment to the Code that became law last year, it was declared to be illegal to "deny to any person or class of persons occupancy of any commercial unit or any self-contained dwelling unit". Yet apartment - owners openly advertise that they will not accept children.

Jazz, Pop, and All Popular in Russia

Christian Science Monitor

"If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

Such is the sentiment of Komsomol, the Communist youth organization for older teen-agers in the Soviet Union, on this groovy subject of "pop" music. Well so long ago, Moscow frowned heavily on jazz, and especially pop, as decadent and dangerously Western. Now Komsomol has swung around, and the electric guitar whines and twangs in the youth - manned combos of Soviet-land. There is even less frowning on Beatle haircuts.

Language Issue

New Brunswick Ruling

Montreal Star

Specialists in constitutional law may debate at length on the merits of the decision made last week by three justices of the New Brunswick supreme court, who ruled that the province has no jurisdiction to enact legislation respecting the use of language in criminal court proceedings. Condemned laymen will conclude that wherever the issue is fundamental it should be possible to conduct judicial proceedings in French in a province where 35 percent of the population is French speaking, the largest minority of any province, more important than the English minority in Quebec.

When the New Brunswick legislature this year approved in principle a resolution that both English and French be official languages in the province it was doing no more than correcting an injustice which is widely recognized.

Two Belleville Teenagers Hitch-hike to Mexico

"What was our motivation? Simple. People said we could not do it."

But they did. They hitchhiked their way to Canada's west coast, through the United States and Mexico, travelling a total of more than 9,000 miles.

The two trekkers, Douglas Johnston, 19, and David McMaster, 18, both of Belleville, started out from here on June 12, returning home exactly one month later.

Along with a fierce desire to hitchhike to the west coast and back, the boys had a few other things in mind. They wanted to find out more about the real meaning behind people, but most of all, life.

"When we started out," related Douglas, "everyone said we needed $1,000 at the very least. But we started with $70 each, and we wouldn't have changed that for anything."

By their first day, they made the Manitoba-Ontario border where they were involved in a car-truck collision. "Both vehicles were a total wreck . . . it was enough to turn anybody back," smiled Doug, "but we kept on going because we were determined to make it."

The well-tanned, healthy looking pair looked all the better for their journey. They were especially enthusiastic about the province of British Columbia and their ride through the Rocky Mountains.

Picked up by a Mountie in Brandon, Manitoba, they rode all the way to Vancouver with him.

"When we came to the Rockies, he told us we could drive if we wanted to," laughed Doug. "while we were driving, we saw some really beautiful country, with an unbelievable abundance of wildlife." Arriving in Vancouver after four days on the road, they stayed a week. "It's a lovely city — swimming, skiing all year round," added David.

On accounting their adventures across the U.S. border, both boys emphasized hitchhiking was extremely difficult. "Canada is 100 per cent better hitchhiking country," asserted David.

On their first night in the States, in Eugene, Oregon, they slept under a picnic table, and of course, it rained. Their next stop was San Francisco, where they stayed for two days. Actually, this had been their prime target from the beginning.

They had always wanted to see how the hippies lived, and what it all added up to. So, they stayed with a group of hippies in a small centre called Watsonville, outside of San Francisco, for a total of four days.

Asked to describe what it was like, David remembered it this way: "There was marijuana all over the place, and acid (hippie term for the hallucinatory drug, LSD) in bowls everywhere." What did they think of the hippie way of life?

Both said flatly, "we don't agree with it." Reasons like living off other people, having a moral standard next to nothing, always on drugs and afraid to face reality was the "why" of it.

Los Angeles was synonomous with smog and an expensive cost of living. From here, the pair dipped into Tijuana, Mexico, to find a city which they described bluntly as a "dump." Temperatures of 130 degrees forced them to head back to the U.S. where it was cooler.

Their travels took them through Tuscon, Arizona, to Las Cruces, New Mexico, where they had to ask for shelter in a jail cell for the night because of the snakes.

The unique thing about hitchhiking in Texas is that you rarely get anywhere, especially if you have long hair. "I'm sure glad we had haircuts before we left — we heard of one guy with long hair being jailed and fined $300," said David.

After Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentuky, by July 8, the pair found themselves in Lima, Ohio. Here they stayed with a colored family. Both agreed that all colored people that they met were, in their words, "nice to us." The only problems they had to contend with was the hostility of the white community.

Did they come back with any conclusions? "Ontario and British Columbia are the best provinces; and Canada is the best place to be. I guess we were lured by that old saying — the grass is greener on the other side of the fence. . ." but, Doug continued, "it is not."

Are their travels to end here? Not on your life — in August they are off for the east coast of Canada to see more country. "It's been a great summer," David remarked. But one gets the feeling that for some people, it's only beginning.

In Spite of Handicaps . . .

Three crippled children, at Merrywood-on-the-Rideau, a camp for crippled children, show there is a chance even for the handicapped. The umpire is Billy Palmer of Brighton — Larry VanNorman of Belleville and and Gary Latindre of Plainfield fill the spots of catcher and batter.

TAX REDUCTIONS for all Home-owners & Tenants in Ontario

To ease the burden of municipal and school taxes, the Ontario Legislature has established a system of residential property tax reductions.

The system is designed to give all householders—both home-owners and tenants—the benefit of an annual tax reduction. The reduction amounts to an average of 12½% of the taxes.

Your own local municipality and the Department of Municipal Affairs will keep you informed concerning these tax reductions.

HOME-OWNERS

Your local municipality will determine the amount of the tax reduction and subtract the amount of the reduction from your 1968 tax bill.

TENANTS

You are entitled to receive the benefit of a tax reduction allowance if you are a tenant in a separately assessed house or apartment. Every such tenant should receive an allowance from his landlord before December 31, 1968.

LANDLORDS

Your local municipality will reduce realty taxes by the amount of the tax reduction applicable to each separately assessed house or apartment. You are required, by law, to pay each tenant the full amount of the tax reduction allowance that applies to his house or apartment.

Details concerning the system of tax reductions will be published in a further notice in this newspaper within the next week.

Scottish Nationalist Narks About Home Rule for Scotland

LONDON (AP) — Winifred Ewing was a noted narker in Glasgow before she became the only Scottish Nationalist in the House of Commons.

"And now that I'm at Westminster," she says, "I mean to keep on narking."

To nark is to nag, scold, annoy or irritate. Mrs. Ewing, a vivacious blonde, narks mostly about home rule for Scotland. She has managed to irritate some members of Parliament and her election victory annoyed Prime Minister Wilson's Labor party.

Unquestionably, the slim and charming Winnie Ewing, a lawyer by profession and the mother of three children, has made enemies as well as friends at Westminster.

To many members, she is a refreshing, witty personality who knows how to wear smart clothes and knows how to speak. London Scots recently chose her Scotswoman of the Year.

To others, notably to quite a few Scottish Labor members, Mrs. Ewing, 38, seems similar to an omen of doom.

Her astonishing victory in the Labor stronghold of Hamilton in last November's by-election means that no Scottish Labor seat is safe from the Nationalists at the next general election. And the Labor government depends on those Scottish Labor seats.

"At the next election the Scottish Nationalists will contest the 71 seats in Scotland," says Mrs. Ewing. "We need to win only 36, which I am sure we can do, and that will be an overwhelming mandate for Scottish freedom."

In Commons and out Mrs. Ewing argues that the Scots have fewer jobs and get lower pay than English workers and points to "the dreadful scandal that 45,000 of our best Scottish citizens emigrate every year."

She tables more questions than any other member of Commons. One day she asked 63. Her aim is to elicit official answers that she claims will prove the Scots would be better off running their own affairs.

Steward Ewing, her husband is an accountant and university lecturer.

"He is absolutely behind what I am trying to do," she adds.

They have two boys, age 10 and four and a daughter, seven.

UCW MEETINGS

KEDNESVILLE UCW

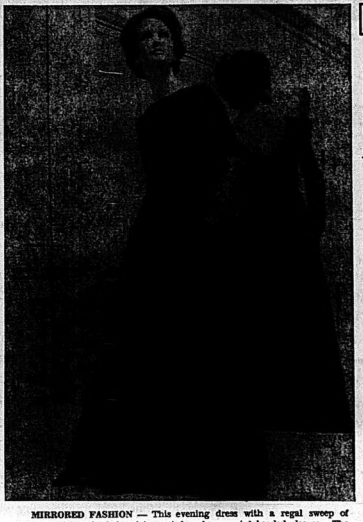
The Church Manse was the scene of the regular July meeting of the Kednesville UCW with Mrs. Morris McLeod as hostess, and president, Mrs. Clarence Vanclief presiding.

The minutes were read and approved, and regular business was discussed. This was followed by a minute's silence in memory of a most devoted member, Mrs. Herbert Pulver, who recently passed away.

The meeting had a Japanese theme, and the room was decorated with several articles from the east — including fans, china dishes, and a scrapbook with Japanese article; as well as kimonos modelled by two of the members.

Guest speaker was Mrs. H. Harrison from Prideland, and the topic of her speech concerned duties connected with her position as Secretary (Presbyterial officer) of Citizenship and Social Action.

She explained to the members the many interesting challenges which she faces each day. It is her duty to study community problems — of senior citizens, children and young people. Nationalistic interests, human rights, the status of women, demonstrations riots, as well as concern about the Eskimos and Indians — are all a part of a routine day's work.



Mrs. Harrison emphasized that it is necessary for UCW members to take active part in community affairs; and to bring to the attention of the public exactly what is happening in world affairs. She concluded her speech with the poem "Doorways to Devotions."

Her audience found her talk motivated by such enthusiasm and energy, that, in thanking her, Mrs. Clifford Smith declared her part of the program as "a treat of a lifetime." Mrs. Leon Ward presented Mrs. Harrison with a cup and saucer as a token of thanks.

Mrs. Ralph Stafford gave a reading about an all-girl chorus group of entertainers in Japan; and also conducted an interesting contest about flowers, the winners of which were Mrs. Vivian Green and Mrs. H. E. Law.

Thanks were extended to all who had a part in the program — with a special thanks to Mrs. M. McLeod for kindly opening her home.

The meeting closed with the serving of a Japanese style lunch.

Softly Tailored, Flaring Dress New Outlook for Autumn Wear

ROME (AP) — Softly tailored, flaring clothes that are flatteringly feminine without being fussy drew applause Sunday for the Italian-American team of Ogalbene-Zendman at the Italian fall and winter shows.

Skirts were about two inches above the knee, and bolero-length suit jackets revealed snuggly-belted high waists. Following the trend set Saturday, apricot, black, white, grey, scarlet and black - and-white combinations were favored colors.

The designers ignored trouser suits, prevalent in earlier shows. Their women are very ladylike. As in other houses, rich lame brocade come in for evening, but there is no extravagance in style or cut.

A new material which imitates wood grain in wool made several attractive outfits. Real marble was used for buttons and buckles, and again big rhinestone buckles sparkled on dressy numbers.

Scarves are riding a new wave of popularity, Ogalbene-Zendman poll them through a small gold ring at the neckline. They add to the informal feeling of the fashions.

Some fitted coats flare from wide pleats at mid-hip, and others are slim and tunic length, showing just a few inches of matching skirt. Round high necklines take à small rolled collar. Waist seams are often curved, and pocket flaps get stitching detail. Two color combinations are in again, with some coats color-divided at the high waistline. Cape effects appear on both dresses and coats.

The Shades of Rita Hayworth bobs, with out-size flat berets perched on the back, completed the "forties kick."

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — A 28-year-old Hungarian woman was sentenced to 5½ years in prison for trying to acquire NATO secrets. The woman, identified as Henriette Hingyi of Budapest, was arrested last October after an investigation of her activities by Italian counter-espionage.

Mother Needs a Change Away from the Children

By DORIS CLARK

4630
SIZES 7-15

Dear Doris: I've been telling my husband I would like a break from the kids oftener than about once a year!

He cannot understand this. He thinks that when we go out everyone should go. When I suggest going out alone he asks why do I want to get away from them, don't I love them any more? He thinks that's why there is so much family delinquency these days; because parents want to get away from their children.

I'm Canadian and he's European. I'm 25, he is 27. Our children are 14 months and three years old. I am not working outside the home. — Wishing For a Break

Dear Wishing: I've got news for him: Overprotected children can become delinquent, too! It would be good for all of you to cultivate a little apartness. There is no fear of your neglecting your little ones.

You could enjoy them more if they didn't represent a ball and chain to you—not to mention that two married people need times together alone, and away from responsibilities, for the express purpose of staying in love.

It hasn't occurred to him that while he is getting the diversion of work every from home every day, you are stuck with unending routines. We all need change.

* * *

Dear Doris: The man I am going with wants me to marry him. We have been going together for two years. He is 22, and I am 20.

What worries me is that he seems to be setting such hard and fast rules already. He said that my parents weren't going to visit us and he probably wouldn't let me visit when I wanted to. My folks have been more than good to him.

It really hurts me when he talks about my relatives and tears them down. I never talk about his family like that. Am I being unreasonable?

Dear Unreasonable: Not according to me. There are States in the Union to the south of us which consider that to belittle in-laws is grounds for divorce. It is termed mental cruelty.

It might well be. A person who truly loves, cares about what is dear to his beloved. Wouldn't dream of cutting her off from her family.

In my book, he is the unreasonable, unloving one.

* *

Dear Doris: I love a boy very much and he says he loves me too. I know he would like to ask me to marry him but he just can't seem to get the courage to ask me.

If he does finally pop the question I was wondering?

(1) What side should father walk on bride?

(2) Does bride need a wedding gown if she's got a nice suit or dress?

(3) Does the wedding need to be big? — Not Sure

Dear Not Sure: Is your motto "Be Prepared"?

(1) The clergyman decides this. The right arm is often thought to be more convenient since the father then steps to the left to stand beside the mother.

(2) Not a single thing but the groom!

(3) No.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Baby Sitter: "Jenny started to cough about lunch time. I didn't know whether I should call the doctor, and I couldn't reach you."

Mother: "We were out in the boat for two hours."

Even a responsible teen-ager may run into situations where she needs the advice of an experienced adult. If her parents will not be available, leave the number of a reliable friend or neighbor you know will be home.

If you have a teen-age baby sitter, check with her parents to see if they will be available in case of emergency, especially if you might not be near a telephone when you're out.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

MELROSE W.I.

On the 27th of June a special meeting of the Melrose W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Long; with the 41 Club girls in attendance.

The girls, members of two clubs, showed articles made in their project, "Accent on Accessories," and gave a display of their record books.

Mrs. Earl Badgley and Mrs. Dewayne Doyle attended the training school in Stirling and had charge of Club No. 1; Mrs. G. Stratton and Mrs. Gencja were leaders for Club No. 2. Both leaders and club girls are to be congratulated on the excellent work they are accomplishing through home economics.

Of the 16 girls registered in the two clubs, 16 completed the course. Miss Susan Lauder gave a commentary on the work covered — relating the high points the girls had learned from their leaders.

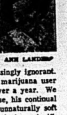
Another training school will be held the third week in August at Stirling and Melrose W.I. will sponsor the girls who are interested in this training.

Members of Melrose W.I. made a donation of $10.00 to each of this fall's clubs to help defray expenses.

Melrose W.I. has supported girls' work for sometime and is pleased to report that five of the community girls have won provincial honors, namely: Barbara Wiser (home economist in area-free); Janice Mastellar; Judy McLaren; Leslie Genje; Cheyanne Pascoe.

Items of business dealt with included a response to the request for a donation to the Recreation Committee of Tyendinaga Township for continuing the summer swimming lessons and accepting an invitation to cater to a wedding in August.

Program convener, Mrs. Jack McLaren chose as her topic, "The Yankee Trader and the family." Several readings were given on the subject and all agreed on the importance of this institution.



The auction sale of articles (made, sewn or grown) was held; lively bidders made this an exciting part of the program. The serving of refreshments prepared by the lunch committee were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

Ann Landers

Son Marijuana User; Parents Heartbroken

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll start from the beginning and tell you my story in as honest a way as I know how, although my heart is broken and my spirit is crushed.

Our 15-year-old son was picked up with three other youths (all older) for smoking marijuana. (One of the boys was pushing it.) The teen-agers were taken to the Juvenile Section of the Los Angeles Police Department for questioning and my husband and I were called.

ANN LANDERS

My husband is a professional man and we are considered responsible members of the community. When the police questioned us, it dawned on me that we were both embarrassingly ignorant. We knew nothing of the symptoms of the marijuana user although our boy had been smoking for well over a year. We ignored the boy's drowsiness, his runny nose, his continual thirst. We didn't notice his dilated pupils, his unnaturally soft voice and his "I don't care" attitude. We attached no significance to his strange sleeping habits. (Some nights he'd walk around the house till 3:00 a.m. Other nights he'd retire at 7:00 p.m. and sleep until noon the following day.)

Had we done more reading on the subject we would have known that our son's behavior was not normal. Please print this letter, Ann. If we had seen one like it we could have obtained some help for our son before he wound up in trouble with the police. — L.A. HEARTACHE.

DEAR L.A.: The symptoms you describe are not always so pronounced in marijuana smokers. My consultants have suggested that perhaps your son was sniffing a little glue and using a few Bennies. Your letter should serve to alert parents to abnormal behavior patterns, however, and I thank you for writing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As I write this letter it is raining hard: I see two cardinals, a red-wing blackbird, several sparrows and a finch feeding outside my window. I've cancelled my plans to go shopping because the birds have told me it will rain all day.

Before you decide I am crazy, please let me explain. When I first shared my theory with friends and neighbors they thought I had goose bonkers, but they have tested it out and now they know my theory is correct.

People can learn a great deal from birds and animals if they observe them closely. Mother Nature has a way of warning her furred and feathered friends against impending danger. If it is raining and the birds continue to feed and don't take cover, it means the rain will last all day. If the birds disappear when the rain begins it is a sign that the shower will be dried and the sun will come out soon. It never fails.

I hope you will publish my letter, Ann. It will help your readers plan their day. — GRAND FORKS, N.D.

DEAR GRAND: The weather forecasters have given me so many bum steers I am perfectly willing to place my faith in the birds. — Thanks for writing.

Confidential to WAITING FOR YOUR O.K.: Sorry, I can't give it. Your husband's secretary should travel under her own name. Your husband ought not try to chisel a few bucks out of the airlines by resorting to this cheap gimmick. This goes for hotel rooms, too, in case he has some other "money-saving" tricks up his sleeve.

German Chocolate Cake Requires Five Eggs

By MARY MOORE

When two readers ask in the same mail for German Chocolate Cake I have to act. Mrs. B. said, "... cake is sold all over in the bake shops." Betty E.: "... it seems there is a mix out for German Chocolate Cake ... we can't find a recipe for it in the cookbooks."

In Austria this is known as an Sacher Torte and is deservedly famous. I made it yesterday. The recipe I am giving calls for five eggs. If you want the big traditional cake you will have to double this recipe and bake it in three eight or nine inch layer cake pans.

GERMAN - AUSTRIAN CHOCOLATE CAKE

(Sacher Torte)

Batter:
6 eggs-yolks and whites separated (see below)
1-3 cup butter (first amount)
6 tbsps. sugar, divided
6 oz. (3 squares) semi-sweet chocolate, melted, and somewhat cooled
¼ cup sifted cake flour

Frosting:
1 square (1 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate, melted
¼ cup cold butter (second amount)
1 egg yolk leftover from batter — see below
¼ cup icing sugar
1 tsp. instant coffee powder (optional but recommended)

Filling: 1-3 cup apricot jam

To make batter separate egg whites from egg yolks. Beat egg whites should be in large mixing bowl. Pour of the egg yolks should be in another large mixing bowl. One egg yolk should be reserved for frosting. Beat the five egg whites with 3 tbsps. of the sugar until very stiff. Without washing beaters beat four of the egg yolks with butter (1st amount) and remaining 3 tbsps. sugar until very light. Beat in melted and somewhat cooled chocolate. Gently fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and flour until just smoothly blended. Turn into two buttered 8" diameter Teflon pans or layer cake pans lined on bottom with buttered wax paper. Bake on centre rack in oven at 325 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 37 min. Let stand in pans two min. then turn out on cake racks to cool.

When cool place one layer on cake plate, spread with apricot jam, cover with top layer and spread with frosting made by stirring ¼ cup hard butter into melted square of chocolate to cool it then adding remaining egg yolk, icing sugar and coffee powder (if used). Beat very well with rotary beater. Spread frosting on sides, then top of cake. If you have time chill this beautiful cake for the frosting sets and slices to perfection when cold.

This is one of the finest cakes I have ever made. Be sure to try it and clip and file the recipe under Cakes — Party.

Glen Gore-Smith of Winnipeg, undergoing the transformation, says the style is contemporary and right for his age. The barber says he tries to push the style for men with thinning hair. Problem Continues

ABC Network Examines Riot

NEW YORK (AP) — One year after the city of Newark was wracked by a disastrous riot and causes were examined on ABC Sunday by eight persons affected by the disorders.

Frank Reynolds, was host for the program, Newark: Anatomy of a Riot.

If the people who participated in this program were representative of Newark, as they appeared to be, it seems that Newark has learned much from a riot that killed 26 people and left sections of the city in ruins.

The same lack of understanding, the same bewilderment, the same calcified viewpoints that evidently contributed to the riots were openly displayed. It made for exciting television, but it didn't say much for the future of Newark.

At one point, as the accusations and recriminations mounted, Donald Malafronte, administrative assistant to Mayor Hugh Addonizio, said: "We are in some sort of tragic dance here, where we eat each other and berate each other and hate each other and curse each other."

None of the participants could agree on the root causes of the riot.

Morris Spielberg, president of the Springfield Avenue Merchants Association, laid the blame on the "unsensitivity" of city hall. But Malafronte snapped that it was the merchants, not the city government, who were insensitive.

Negro panelists complained of storekeepers overcharging for shoddy goods. Robert Curvin, former chairman of the Newark chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, said the "horrible relations between the black and the police which still exist to this day," had to be considered.

He said that Negroes, who make up 52 per cent of the population, had to have more power in the city government.

Warren Copeland, a young Negro who lost his right leg during a bullet wound he said was inflicted without reason by a policeman, said, "I just hope there is hope for us."

The program was the third in a series of six in ABC's Time for America. The fourth, Freedom and the Police, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. EDT today.

Par-5 Tells Tale

Gary's Eagle Cooks Casper's Goose

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) —When Gary Player and Billy Casper recall the 1968 British open golf championship the 14th hole is sure to figure in their recollections.

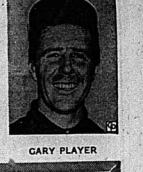
For Player, winner of the tournament, it will be a pleasant memory.

For Casper, holder of a one-stroke lead after the third round, the memory probably will cause him to flinch.

Player, 32-year-old South African, shot a spectacular eagle on the 14th and carded a one-over-par 73 for a 289 total and the $7,500 prize money that goes with the open championship.

Casper, of the United States, hit his drive out of bounds on the same hole and finished with a two-over-par 74. It was one of a series of disasters—most of them involving putting— that cost him his lead. He finished with a six-over-par 78 and a 292 total for fourth place.

It was anybody's title until the 14th, when Player hit a three-wood shot four feet from the cup on the par-five hole and knocked in the putt to move into a two-shot lead that he held to the end.



"That did it—that did it," Player said after winning his second British Open title. He won his first British title in 1959. His last major victory was the U.S. Open in 1965 when he picked up $20,000 in prize money, compared with the relatively modest proceeds from the British Open. Moreover, the British title is rich in prestige and fringe benefits are estimated at $100,000.

Bob Charles of New Zealand, winner of the 1963 Canadian Open, and Jack Nicklaus of the United States, the pre-tournament favorites, finished in a tie for second with 291 totals and each picked up about $6,500. Bob Nicklaus and Charles were neck and neck with Player until the 14th hole when the tough little South African had his sensational hole.

Casper still had a chance even after the 14th but also took a six on the finishing hole and saw the title slip from his reach.

Nicklaus shot a 73 and Charles a 76.

Al Balding of Toronto had the only par round Saturday—a 72 —and finished with a 296 total and won about $1,225. He was the only Canadian left in the tournament after Al Johnston of Toronto missed the 36-hole cutoff. He had rounds of 74, 76, and 74 to go with his final 72.

Commercial Play

Stinsons Stump Belvedere

An outfield error on a first-inning single spelled the downfall of Belvedere Hotel Saturday, as the Commercial League leaders were shaded 1-0 by Stinson's Construction.

The win edged the Stinson squad within two points of second spot, and put their season's record at eight wins, seven losses. The loss was only Belvedere's fourth, against 11 league wins.

A two - out single by Stinson catcher Lyle Thompson did the damage. When Belvedere's Bob Lloyd dropped the ball and it got past him, Thompson scampered all the way around the bases for the game's only run.

Scotty Reid hurled for Stinson's, throwing a four - hitter at the Hotelmen, and not walking a batter. He fanned six in ending a three - game winless streak for the builders.

Belvedere's Wayne McConell only gave up three hits, but it was his mates' lone error that counted. McConnell issued four free passes and struck out five.

Don Smith, Lyle Wannamaker, catcher Cliff Hineman, and Bob Lloyd each contributed a single to the losing Belvedere cause.

In addition to Thompson's crucial first - inning safety, Peter Fleming and shortstop Kenny Generaux added singles for the Stinson side.

The winners stranded seven base - runners, while five Hotelmen were left on base.

Stinson's now trail second - place City Hotel by a pair of points in the Commercial League standings. The Hotelmen— hot of late — now sport a 9-6 record.

Saturday night's win also kept Stinson's a step ahead of the Black Diamond Cheesemen, close in pursuit with 14 points to the builders' 16.

The weekend Stinson - Belvedere game was a postponed affair rained out last Tuesday, and now brings all league play up to date. Each of the six league entries has now played 15 games.

Sports In Brief

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Brilliant pitching by Bob Domick carried Richmond Hill to a berth in the Canadian softball championships in St. Catharines this October. Domick won five games in the two days and allowed just four runs as the Richmond Hill won a five-team double knockout tournament to decide the Ontario Amateur Softball Association's championship representatives.

If the thought will make you any cooler in the midst of our muggy July, National Hockey League players will be taking to the ice Saturday evening, Oct. 12, in the season's Canadian televising debut.

And some words of cheer for the "Hockey Night in Canada" faithful: the CBC is embarking on a policy of giving all Saturday night and play-off games coverage IN THEIR ENTIRETY.

Missing the first half-hour of the television tradition wasn't always a loss for even the most avid hockey buff.

But there were times that those 30 unbelievable minutes contained some of the best action in the game. It's annoying to have a 1-0 cliff-hanger come on the air, and to sit through the last two periods of the game without seeing a goal scored.

Even those video-tape re-plays can't fill the breach, particularly when the electronic gremlins foul up Ward Cornell's desperate attempt to show home viewers what they've missed.

It's not likely that the extra 30 minutes will win or lose the CBC any viewers, anyway.

During the 1967-68 NHL season, the fifteenth for "Hockey Night in Canada," the Saturday night encounters drew an average four million Canadians to their fine-tuning dials.

And for those of you who enjoy watching a peach-complexioned Johnny Bower, or a mauve-trussed Jean Beliveau, color coverage will be made available for all CBC games.

* * *

Not to be bettered by these scheming CTV broadcasters, the CBC has also landed Canadian Football League television rights for coverage of no less than 18 grid-less tussles this season.

In all this will involve 14 regular schedule Saturday CFL tilts, and four play-off games, including the Grey Cup.

(Incidentally, for those who like to plan ahead, this year's clash of the eastern and western CFL champions will be in Toronto on Saturday, Nov. 30. Toronto is always neutral ground as far as the Grey Cup is concerned.)

First opportunity for Canadian viewers to see the bodies grind comes August 10 at 8 p.m., when Montreal opens the Canadian grid season at Hamilton.

Those CBC folks are sure aiming to please.

Woman Carries Torch

MEXICO CITY (AP) — For the first time in history of the modern Olympic Games, a woman will make the last dash through the stadium and light the Olympic torch with a flame brought from Mount Olympus.

The Mexicans, hosts for the Summer Games in 1968, have chosen Norma Enriquets Basilio Solele, a 20-year-old hurdler, as the Mexican athlete whose lighting of the torch will be most symbolic of the spirit of the Games.

The Mexicans are adding other fillips to the torch ceremony. After a land voyage in the hands of runners through Greece, Italy and Spain, and a boat voyage with a brief stopover in the Bahamas, the Olympic flame will arrive in Vera Cruz harbor.

The Organizing Committee said that for the first time the flame will then be carried by a swimmer. On Sept. 29 the destroyer Durango will anchor 850 metres from the dock and 17 swimmers will be needed to carry the torch to land in relays.

Double of $111 At Fairground Trots

By CLAUDE D. TICE

The season's track record was broken twice during Saturday's nine heats of trotting at the Fairgrounds.

Molly Van, driven by Guy LaHush, won the fifth race in 2.10 3/5 but the driver came right back with Rosedale Cal in the eighth heat to win in 2.10 2/5.

Reg. Boily, who drives for the Wannamaker Stable from Consecon, was a double heat winner with Golden Chief in the second and a good payoff of $11.40. This horse combined with Polaris Missile in the first gave the bettors a nice double of $111.40. Boily came back with Katrinka Wann in the third for yet another win.

Johnny Hunthack of Kingston was also a double winner with Dolly MacMir and Our Lady Byrd while Kingston's Bobby Sleeth gave a fine exhibition of driving when he teamed R. B. Dillon to second place behind the winner, Rosedale C in the eighth heat.

Gordon Irvine and his son Gordon, who purchased Penn's Lightning in the States this spring saw their horse win his first heat in this country. These local owners really enjoy their hobby. Al Vance, one of the better drivers on the circuit, teamed the horse to victory in 2.17 4/5.

It is not often that a horse can work his way through a tough field but Hi Acres Direct took the sixth heat in 2.15 2/5 for a new driver, Pat McCarthy of Newboro.

Humid weather failed to keep 1,568 patrons from the track, and $22,346 was poured through the mutuels. (See Page 8 — for results.)

NFL Owners Agree To Pay Extra $3 Million

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — A pair of bargaining-table gentlestands—one by the club owners and one by the players—involving a pension dispute are ended. The National Football League is ready for football again.

The 16 club owners agreed Sunday night to pay almost $3,000,000 in 1968 and 1969 for pension benefits.

It was the last of 21 points to be settled in negotiations between the owners and the NFL Players Association, which began last March 19.

A deadlock on the pension issue threatened to disrupt preseason training which begins in earnest this week, upset the exhibition season and cancel the College All-Star Game.

Detroit Lion guard John Gordy, president of the NFL Players Association, said under the new pension plan a 30-year veteran will receive $1,600 a month at the age of 65.

This compares with $775 monthly under the old agreement and with $1,132 a month for 10-year veterans under the American Football League pension plan.

Benefits for five- and 15-year veterans under the new NFL plan, which Gordy said was retroactive to 1959, were not available.

After a meeting of about 4½ hours at a midtown hotel, the agreement was announced at a news conference by Gordy and NFL President Arthur Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns.

A joint statement, read by Modell, said:

"Under this agreement, the 16 pro club owners will contribute a total of $3,000,000 for the years 1968 and 1969 for pension benefits, administrative costs and the cost of a joint study to be conducted in anticipation of the merger of the NFL and AFL pension plans by 1970.

"It is estimated that administrative costs will amount to $144,000 and that the joint study will cost approximately $60,000."

No commitment was made by the owners, either expressly or by implication regarding pension contributions beyond 1968 and 1969, the statement said.

THE CAR BUYER'S PROBLEMS

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR A USED CAR BARGAIN?

Good. It's perfectly possible to find one. All you need is a little patience and some common sense knowledge — mostly of what to avoid.

Bear in mind that what you are seeking to buy is UNUSED mileage or life left in the car. Since the odometer reading is usually altered, this is often the least reliable of the ways to judge car value. In any case, high mileage does not always mean excessive wear.

Much more important is how the car has been cared for. Was the oil, filter and lubrication changed regularly? Was the car in a wreck? Was it driven carefully? Serviced regularly?

Quality new car dealers know the success of their new car franchise depends on personally reconditioning their used cars. They are more likely to guard their reputation for reliability by selecting only sound used cars for resale in the first place.

Belleville dealers retailing used cars traded in by their customers should be able to check the service record of the car from their own shop records and personal knowledge.

If a car carries an unusually low price, ask yourself WHY? Used car prices vary considerably according to condition. If a car was not worth reconditioning, it might be resaleable for the dealer to sell it cheaply without loss. But it could prove far costlier to you in the end.

My, That NL Pitching

Houston Hurler Has 18 Red Nightcaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's the pitcher's year. They've been saying it all along. And now Don Wilson comes along and makes another big point for the case, matching a couple of strikeout records.

But the opposition has some dandy points, too—such as Hank Aaron, Billy Williams and Richie Allen.

Wilson tied the modern major league records of 18 strikeouts in a nine-inning game and eight in a row Sunday as Houston whipped Cincinnati 6-1 in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

And now, for the opposition, we give you:

—Aaron, who ended a week of frustration by belting his 500th homer—a three-run shot that carried Atlanta past San Francisco 4-2.

—Williams, who unloaded a tie-breaking grand slam—his fourth of his career—in a give Chicago a 6-2 conquest of Pittsburgh.

—And Allen, who had a homer in each game and six RBIs as Philadelphia's breezed past New York Mets 8-3 and 9-2.

Rampaging St. Louis held on to its 9½ game lead by stopping Los Angeles 5-1, and the Astros took their opener with the Reds 5-4 in 10 innings in other National League activity.

Wilson, who pitched a no-hitter against Atlanta last summer, struck out called third strike past Johnny Bench to end the game and equal the record, set by Cleveland's Bob Feller exactly 30 years ago and matched by Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax in both 1959 and 1962.

Wilson said he was aiming for the record after the third inning, and when Bench "came to bat, I was saying to myself, 'Please don't rain.'"

Rain alerted the field all afternoon, and there was a downpour after the final out.

Don fanned the side in the first three innings, but issued a walk to Alex Johnson with one out in the first. The eight straight strikeouts tied the modern record set by Max Surkont of Milwaukee in 1953 and tied twice since.

The all-time record of nine was set in 1884 by Michael Welch of the New York National League club.

"I knew it was gone as soon as I hit it," said Aaron of the 400-foot blast over the left-center field fence that made him the eighth player in the majors to reach the 500 level.

"I'm glad I hit it off a guy like (Gets-hander) Mike McCormick, who won the Cy Young award last year," recalled 34-year-old slugger. "It might be a little tainted if it came off some third or fourth-line pitcher."

The victory went to rookie Ron Reed, 9-4, who had a shutout going until the eighth.

Allen delivered three runs with his 17th homer and a double in the opener with the Mets, then picked up three more RBIs with a two-run blast and a sacrifice fly in the nightcap. Johnny Briggs also had two homers for the Phils in the second game.

St. Louis' Larry Jaster, who has scored eight of his 30 career major league victories against Los Angeles, blanked the Dodgers on five hits before running into a last-inning jam.

Jaster, 7-4, gave up a second inning single to Bob Bailey, but then retired 17 men in a row. However, Los Angeles loaded the bases with two out in the ninth and reliever Wayne Granger walked in a run before his replacement, Joe Hoerner, retired the last man.

The Cards combined doubles by Julian Javier and Curt Flood and Mike Shannon's sacrifice fly for a 3-0 lead in the first. Shannon hit his 12th homer in the fourth.

Chisox Sweep Double With Lopez Back at Helm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Lopez is back in business —and so is the American League pennant race.

Of course, one has nothing to do with the other—Senor Lopez and his Chicago White Sox are 18 games removed from first place—but they're both nice to have around.

Manager Jim Lemon of Washington had a hunch what was coming when he said to Lopez before Sunday's action, "I just lost three straight to the new manager in Baltimore; what are you going to do to me?"

The answer was a double-header sweep—7-2 and 8-5 in 10 innings—as the White Sox celebrated the return of Lopez as manager.

Elsewhere, Detroit lost to California 7-3 and saw its league lead sliced to two games as second-place Baltimore beat New York Yankees 6-4, Cleveland topped Minnesota 6-3 and the surging Boston Red Sox rallied to knock off Oakland 5-3.

"That was a nice way to break in," said Lopez, who resigned following the 1965 season after nine years as White Sox manager. He came out of retirement when Eddie Stanky stepped down Friday.

Chicago won the opener on Jack Fisher's three-hit pitching and the slugging of Tommy Davis, who batted in two runs with a first-inning double and two more with a triple in the second. Frank Howard whacked his 26th homer for the Senators.

A three-run rally tied the score in the seventh inning of the nightcap and the Sox won it in 10th-inning singles by Gerry McNertney, Wayne Causey and Luis Aparicio.

A week ago, Detroit was threatening to make a joke of the pennant race. But the Tigers have lost four of five since the All-Star break while Baltimore has won four in a row under new skipper Earl Weaver.

California's Vic Davalillo homered off Earl Wilson and Rick Reichardt cracked a two-run homer before the first inning was over.

A double by Davalillo and Don Mincher's single produced another run in the first and Bobby Knoop stroked a two-run single in the fourth as the Angels ran up a 6-0 lead.

Baltimore smashed 13 hits, including a two-run homer by Bogy Powell, but needed a strong relief job by Eddie Watt to subdue downcast Yankees.

The Yanks trailed 6-1 after seven innings but Roy White hit a two-run homer in the eighth and ninth-inning singles by Jack Gibbs and Bobby Cox knocked out Dave Leonhard. Watt fanned pinch hitter Bill Robinson and, after Horace Clarke singled home a run, also struck out Mickey Mantle and White. The Orioles trail Detroit by only six games in the all-important loss column.

Top Archers Meet Here

Carol Armstrong shot a confidence-building 1007 round at an invitational archery meet at Zwicki's Island Sunday. The belleville bow-woman, Canada's defending women's titlist, joined 52 of the top male and female archers in the province for yesterday's meet, a warm-up for next week's Canadian championship in Regina.

Carol's free-style score was out of a maximum 1440 points. No Canadian woman archer has ever shot 1100 in tournament competition.

Another Belleville entry, Eileen Donaldson, scored a 968 for a third-place finish on Sunday's free-style (with sights) women's competition.

Top free-style shot in the men's division yesterday was Toronto's Otto Lehmacher, with an 1,149. Lindsay's Don Jackson was his closest competition, shooting a 1097 round.

Roger and Marilyn Godin of the Belleville Archery Club placed fourth and second respectively in their bare-bow (no sights) classes.

Leads Cash Parade

Calm Alvie Heads Pack at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three days of calm, consistent shot-making led Toronto's Alvie Thompson to the $6,000 Manitoba open golf championship Saturday and put him in the lead financially on the Canadian pro tour.

Thompson, a 32-year-old Vancouver native, opened Thursday with a par 72, shot a 70 Friday and conquered the rain-dampened Bel Acres 6,720-yard course with a 71 Saturday.

His 54-hole total of 213, three under par and seven strokes ahead of his nearest rivals, gave him the Carling Cup and $1,200 first prize money which brought his winnings this year to $4,145.

Thompson went into the final round with a one-stroke lead.

He said his next stop is the Minnesota Classic, to be played this week at St. Paul.

"I'll keep playing as long as I can keep winning."

Nick Mickoski of Winnipeg took the amateur honors. He was one under par after the second round but a 78 on the final 18 holes gave him a 225 total.

Bill Wakeham of Victoria and Bill Wright Jr. of Edmonton were each good for $675 in second place with 220 totals, Ken Fulton of Tyrll, B.C., and Jim Hiskey of Falls Church, Va., were one stroke behind at 221, each winning $400.

Wright, who carded the tournament's best round—a sizzling five-under-par 67 Friday—and Fulton were only one stroke behind Thompson going into the final round.

Fulton remained in contention until the 12th hole, a long par five, but never recovered after taking four penalty strokes.

First-round leader Dave Gumlia of Minneapolis, Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver and Regina's Len Harvey were grouped at 222. Each took home $275.

Defending champion Moe Norman of Toronto, a three-time winner of the Manitoba event, complained of the greens and said the course was "the worst I've ever seen." He opened with 74 before shooting successive 76 rounds for a 226 total.

Norman, who went into the tournament as the pro tour's leading money winner, collected $140 for his efforts.

Olympic Drug Decree

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The medical commission of the International Olympic Committee proposed Sunday that any athlete taking "non-alimentary substances affecting normal performance" should be disqualified at the Mexico City Olympic Games.

The commission named three particular groups of products falling into this category:

1. Amphetamine, ephedrine and similar substances.

2. Stimulants for the central nervous system, such as strychnine.

3. Anesthetic narcotics, such as morphine, methadone and similar substances.

Urine tests will be made on the first six finishers of events to be chosen by drawing of lots on the morning of the competition. Other finishers will be selected for tests, also by lots.

Team chiefs will demand a second test within 24 hours of the announcement of any positive analysis.

If an athlete taking part in a team sport is banned for taking dope, then the rest of the team is also disqualified from that event. But they can still compete in individual events.

The proposals have to be approved by the full IOC congress which meets before the Olympics.

French Trotter Wins

A "Lame" Roquepine Repeats In Roosevelt International

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — They said Roquepine was lame and that the queen of the trotters from France would have trouble in her attempt to win the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot for the second straight year.

What a laugh. If the seven-year-old mare had any trouble with her left front leg it wasn't evident as she won the 1968 renewal of the global spectacular in impressive fashion Saturday night.

Driven by Jean-Rene Gougeon, Roquepine trotted on the outside of Sweden's Kentucky Fibber, a length or so behind in second place, until the last 100 yards. Then she drew out with authority under mere hand-urging to win by a length.

Now that she has demonstrated her soundness, owner Henri Levesque of France, is hopeful that his mare will be more fortunate in the $40,000 Challenge Cup at Roosevelt Raceway Friday night before returning to France.

Roquepine won the Challenge Cup last year, but was disqualified and placed sixth for interference.

Levesque would like to have Roquepine become the world's No. 1 money-winning trotter. To date she has earned $921,205. The retired Su Mac Lad of the United States heads the all-time trotters list with $985,095.

Gathering in Holland

A number of Dutch costume-clad children at the YMCA day camp take part in the Dutch section of "International Day." The girls drew lots as a prelude to participation in one of yesterday's games.

Hawaiian Girls and Games

A group of girls at the YMCA day camp decided on Hawaiian costumes for "International Day" at the camp. Here they play one of the games in the German area of the camp.

First YMCA Day Camp Over--Second Starts Today

Approximately 250 children are taking part in the YMCA day camp program this year, and the "Y" has an agenda that will keep them all beppy.

Already half over, the day camp is held for four weeks every year. This is the fourth year that it has been held in Belleville.

The camp works on a day-to-day system. The children meet at the YMCA building at nine o'clock and usually leave for home by 4.30 in the afternoon.

In previous year the camp was held at Oak Lake where the children stayed until the duration of the holiday fun.

The first two weeks of the day camp saw 131 children in attendance for the planned four-week. About 125 more will attend the second camp starting Monday.

Many of the children are referred to the camp by welfare agencies, school principals and other interested persons.

The United Community Services has helped a great deal in the project. Under UCS impetus a number of private persons have agreed to drive some of the children to and from the camp.

The non-profit venture hopes to break even this year. According to Glen Hawthorne, in charge of the camp, about 90 children are needed to break even.

Highlights of the two weeks of activity are the bus trips and swimming at the YMCA building and various parks throughout the Quinte area.

The day camp youngsters journeyed to Upper Canada Village, the Codrington Fish Hatchery, Presqu'ile, Outlet and Sandbanks parks, Stoco Lake, the Marmora mines and the Willis Metcalfe Museum in Prince Edward County.

The first group's two weeks of activity came to a close yesterday with an abundance of fun and costume.

Entitling their last day "International Day", the children dressed in costumes representing such countries as France, Holland, Mexico and Germany.

Still in an international flavor the children participated in olympic games in the afternoon.

Plans for the next two weeks include another visit to Upper Canada Village and the Bowmanville Zoo. The children will also stay overnight at Vanderwater Park.

Banff Fire Under Control, Mop-up Work Is Now Underway

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Mopping-up operation of the largest forest fire in a Rocky Mountain national park in more than 20 years moved ahead today in an area 17 air miles west of here.

The fire was brought under control Saturday night and fire-fighting duties by about 280 men were confined today mostly to hot spots inside and outside the 6,000 acres of spruce and fir that were scorched.

Four water bombers roared into action briefly Sunday, attacking minor flare-ups with 350-gallon chemical-water loads, before they were released last in the afternoon. Six other water-carrying aircraft used in fighting the blaze which ringed mountain terrain.

In British Columbia's Kootenay National Park last Tuesday night, were released Saturday.

The fire, started by lightning near Marble Canyon, four miles west of the B.C.-Alberta border, burned over an area about seven miles long and up to two miles wide as it advanced east into Banff National Park to within three miles of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Steve Kun, superintendent of Banff park, said the mop-up could last as long as three weeks, depending on weather. He said if the weather remained favorable, the mop-up could be over by Wednesday.

The weather in the area was cool during the last three days and firefighters got a big boost from intermittent showers after the flames had approached to within a 100 yards, returned Saturday and said the lodge is again open for business. It was saved by water bombers which heavily doused the immediate area.

Guests were told to leave Wednesday. The lodge was the only settlement in danger.

About 110 soldiers from the Fort Garry Horse and the Royal Canadian Mechanical and Electrical Engineers, who were assigned firefighting duties Thursday, are scheduled to return to Currie Barracks in Calgary Tuesday.

The services of 125 professional Indian firefighters flown in from southern Alberta, were retained and Mr. Kun said they will stay in the area as long as is necessary.

Mountain Lodge and Marble Canyon and imposed a speed limit of 30 miles an hour.

The Banff-Windermere Road will be patrolled at night in case fires breaks out again.

The owners of Storm Mountain Lodge, evacuated Thursday after the flames had approached to within a 100 yards, returned Saturday and said the lodge is again open for business. It was saved by water bombers which heavily doused the immediate area.

West End, Cozy In Minor Soccer Weekend Wins

West End downed General Bakers 1-0 Saturday in the PeeWee loop of the Belleville Minor Soccer Association while Cozy Grill served up a 7-0 score to Uptown Billiards in the Bantam division.

The FeeWee game Saturday saw West End taking the offensive throughout the game with Gorman, the General Baker goalkeeper, holding the defence steady and keeping the score low. Keith Parry finally collected a goal for West End in the final four minutes of the game.

John Thompson dominated the Cozy Grill scoreboard in the Saturday Bantam contest with five of the seven winning goals for his team. Kevin Reide collected the other two for the 7-0 win.

Greek Army Officers Detained

ATHENS (AP) — A score of high-ranking Greek Army officers arrested by the military-supported regime early last week are being detained in national police headquarters in Athens, a reliable source said Sunday.

Most of the officers were rounded up 24 hours prior to the release of the regime's draft constitution by which the monarchy's prerogatives would be greatly reduced.

Their arrests in Athens followed a roundup of more than 20 civilians in northern Greece for allegedly plotting against the regime.

The arrested officers had backed King Constantine in his abortive attempt to topple the military junta last Dec. 13. The 28-year-old king fled to Rome and self-exile the next day.

Government spokesman Byron Stamatopoulos said last Wednesday the officers were arrested because of "unlawful activities." No formal charges have been filed against them.

Holy Rosary Wins

EOBA Peewee Majors Take Weekend Two

The Belleville Holy Rosary Peewee Major A EOBA nine took 3-0 and 9-0 shutouts on Saturday and Sunday against Ajax and Bowmanville, respectively.

Belleville took the first game behind the no - hit pitching of Tom Coughlin who issued only two walks. Belleville scored their 34 runs on 20 hits while playing errorless ball.

C. Satchler started for Ajax and gave up 24 runs on 14 hits before being relieved in the third by R. Paul.

Top Belleville hitters were Coughlin with a homer and three safeties, and G. Forster with four hits.

The game was called after five innings.

Ron McTaggart started the Sunday Bowmanville game for Holy Rosary. He struck out six, walked three, and allowed a single by Bowmanville's Masterson.

In the bottom of the second inning, Ross Wagg received Belleville's first run on a single, an error, and two passed balls.

P. Molaski and R. McTaggart scored in the top of the third for Belleville.

In the third inning, the Bowmanville coach got into an argument with umpire Don Dolan on a call by the official. He must have lost it, because the irate coach pulled the entire Bowmanville team off the field and forfeited the game to Holy Rosary.

Members of Local 221, United Association of Journeymen, Plumbers and Gasfitters, voted Saturday to accept the recommendation of their negotiating committee on the latest offer from the Kingston Builders' Exchange.

The agreement includes a three-year contract granting a 55-cent-an-hour increase over the first year with 50-cent increases in each of the two remaining years.

Under the old agreement tradesmen received $4.01 an hour. The new agreement expires April 30, 1970.

To Your Good Health

Cancer Starts With Just One Lump

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: In a recent physical examination the doctor found that I have several small cysts in both breasts. He said surgery would not be necessary unless the cysts became large. Is it possible the cysts would become malignant? If so, how would a doctor know unless they are removed and examined? Should all cysts be removed regardless of size? Mrs. K. G.

The mere fact that the doctor found several cysts is significant. It is characteristic of such cysts to appear in several locations—if they are going to appear at all.

Cancer, however, does not as a rule develop in clusters. Cancerous growth starts in one place and then spreads, and it is only late in its development that it begins to scatter new cancers throughout the body tissues.

Therefore, a doctor is relieved when several of these cysts appear, rather than a single lump being found. The single lump may be cancer and ordinarily is removed and examined microscopically. The cluster or scattering of lumps indicates cysts.

There is, I concede, always the remote coincidence that cancer might also just happen to start at the same place a cyst forms, but it is such a long coincidence that removing every cyst would hardly be warranted. The cysts do not tend to become malignant.

By somewhat the same line of reasoning, the answer to your last question is no, there is no purpose in removing all cysts regardless of size. A cyst is merely a clogged or plugged gland, and the breast tissue, containing many tiny glands, is therefore an area where cyst formation is relatively likely.

If the cyst remains small and is not painful or otherwise annoying, there is nothing much to be gained by removing it. If the cyst becomes large enough to be uncomfortable or painful, that is the time to remove it.

Trying to remove all cysts can become an unwieldly task. If a woman happens to have characteristics that tend to cysts formation, removing the cysts may very well mean that more will appear later.

The general rule is to remove them if they are troublesome, otherwise not. If any unusual signs indicate that a cyst might be harboring a cancer, then of course prompt removal and microscopic examination is very much in order. But that very seldom is the case.

An X-ray of the breast (mammogram) may be of value in this instance.

Dear Dr. Molner: We are pupils in a junior high school and have gym right after lunch. In gym we do mats, horses, ropes, rings, etc. Should we eat a complete lunch to give us energy or a light lunch so as not to get indigestion? — B. M. B. and S. E. C.

A light lunch is better. Eat a large breakfast and you will have all the energy you need by early afternoon.

Professional athletes do this — eat long enough before a game so their bodies have absorbed the energy content of the meals, but they are not hungry.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was of the opinion that leukocytosis was cancer of the blood, but by friend says I am wrong. Will you explain what this disease really is? — MD.

It isn't a disease. It is an increase in the white blood cell count. This may or may not be a result of disease. Chief causes of it are pus-forming infections and leukemia. It may also occur during pregnancy, menstruation, and extensive muscular exercise.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Brazilian Girl Miss Universe

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A 5'9½" Martha Vasconcellos of Brazil woke up early Sunday and began her reign as Miss Universe of 1968 with an order of orange juice, coffee, toast . . . and an unimpressed room service waiter.

"No charge — cash," demanded the hotel waiter as he handed the tab to Martha's hostess, Lourdes Olivs.

"But this is Miss Universe," Mrs. Olivs said.

"Sorry, Orders. Cash."

Miss Brazil, 20, a willowy first-grade teacher from Salvador in the Brazilian state of Bahia, recovered from a Saturday afternoon headache to win the crown.

Martha reversed the tradition of crying after her victory by breaking down when she was named a finalist, and then complaining that she was thirsty after being rushed by photographers and reporters.

Miss Curacao, Anna Maria Brasfield, 21, and Miss Willemstad, also a first-grade teacher, was first runner-up and will take over as Miss Universe if Miss Vasconcellos is unable to serve for any reason. If so, she would become the first Negro to wear the crown.

The other runners-up, in order, were: Miss Finland, Leena Marketta Brusila, 22, a Helsinki decorator; Miss Venezuela, Peggy Espy, 18, a Caracas student, and Miss U.S.A., Dorothy Anstett, Kirkland, Wash.

Canada's entrant, who was among the top 15, was Nancy Wilson, a 19-year-old student from Chatham, Ont. She is Miss Dominion of Canada, a blue-eyed blonde, with measurements of 36-24-36. She plans a nursing career.

She celebrated her 19th birthday while here. She will represent Canada in beauty contests in Australia, England and Japan.

The five-foot-eight, 130-pound Miss Brazil, whose statistics are 36-25-36, complained all during the pageant rehearsals that she was sleepy.

For the year, Miss Vasconcellos is the property of Miss Universe Corp. for rent for $1,000 a day. At the end of the year she insisted she will return to her country, marry, and go back to teaching.

Half Million Awarded In Suit Over Demerol

NEW YORK (AP) — A child who was reported to have suffered brain damage partially as a result of an injection of Demerol that his mother shortly before its premature birth has been awarded $500,000 by a Brooklyn jury.

The verdict was returned against Mount Sinai Hospital following a seven-week trial.

The key issue in the case was the use of the drug Demerol, a synthetic substitute sometimes used to lessen pain during labor, and whether it was safe to administer it in the case of a premature birth.

An allegation of negligence against the obstetrician, Dr. Joseph J. Rovinsky, was dismissed by the jury.

In the original complaint, charges indirectly related to the use of Demerol, such as improper after-care of the infant, were mentioned.

The jury did not state any grounds for its decision.

The child, who will be seven years old next month, is unable to speak and allegedly has the mental capacity of a three-year-old.

Strictly Personal

Dictionary Just Scoreboard

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It is interesting — to me, at least — that most of the letters I receive about my columns on the use of words refer me to some dictionary or other as evidence that I am "wrong" in my definitions and distinctions.

But a good dictionary is no more a guide to good usage than a telephone directory is a guide to good addresses. The Yellow Pages can tell you where to find a good shoe shop is better than any other.

Most dictionaries (especially in America) follow the current of contemporary speech; if most people say "disinterested" when they mean "uninterested" the dictionary will list "disinterested" as a second-way form of "uninterested," even though they are quite opposite words in their original meanings.

A dictionary, on the whole, is a scoreboard, not an umpire. It shows the "decision returns" on the usage of words and when enough people confuse "masterly" and "masterful" most dictionaries will give up the fight against the confusion and list them as synonyms — though, again, their original meanings were quite different.

It is of no use to cite a dictionary for anything but the most obvious and elementary spellings and definitions; it is a reflection of public taste and tendencies, not a bastion of good or proper usage.

Now, says the modernist and libertarian in language, how can you call any usage "good" or "proper" when the language is continually changing, and when it is the living speech of people that determine what is "right" or "wrong" and not the dead laws of strict grammarians?

Well, we old fogies answer, it seems to us that good usage should be able to meet three basic requirements: accuracy, clarity, and distinctiveness. As Mark Twain put it long ago: "The difference between the right word and the almost-right word is the difference between lightning and the lightning-bug."

I don't care, for instance, whether anyone says "who" or "whom" in a sentence. There is no logical or meaningful reason for "whom" in English, as there is in the Latin accusative. And grammarians who wag their fingers at "who" as an object merely weaken their own case for good usage — as do the antiquated prigs who still object to a preposition we end a sentence with.

But there are hundreds of other cases in which usage does make a difference, in accuracy, in clarity, and in distinctiveness. Most important of all, the more different words we have for things that are similar, the more precisely are we able to explain and illuminate our ideas. Good usage leaves nothing to chance, to hope, or to fancy — it says what should be said in the only way that cannot be misconstrued.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For July 16

Your birthday today: The year ahead is likely to be filled with delicate adjustments between conflicting urges. Legal affairs and new opportunities for earnings tend to claim increased attention. Today's natives have the ability to be diligent and, usually, have the wisdom to avoid flagrant display of superficial personal distinctions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Try for reconciliation today. Your effort is apt to bring rare results. Changes in income property are favored. After the daylight hours, leave serious business aside.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Imaginative strivings are favored today. Your temper is near the surface. If you must sulk, wait until evening and solitude to do it.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): It seems to you that nobody is going fast enough. Impulsive moves are strongly unfavorable. Try for satisfying diversions which need a fresh approach.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): This is one day to rely on your own personal resources. Disregard tensions and proceed to help in the good. Personal projects are favored this evening.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): The day brings an increasing level of noise and distraction. Grin and bear it, which is easier if you have not scheduled serious matters. Relatives are to be treated well this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your work goes better, but not your personal relations. Money is beginning to use, not to squabble over. Relax and co-operate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You must wait for things to move rather than force issues. Watch your money today. Give yourself time tonight to figure out better plans.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Overt manifestations of your feelings distress the people you would rather never embarrass. It's better to stay aloof until your serenity returns.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Helpful influential breaks are near at hand. Tolerance is advocated; many around you are apparently sensitive or calloused.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): The day is great for creating strange spectacular effects. Personal relationships dwindle in a day like this.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 19): It's a do-it-yourself day if you want to get things done. Your reactions may be slower than normal, so use care in driving. Be generous to younger people this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 — Mar. 20): Contrary people fill the day. Your correspondence is delayed. None of this has anything to do with your own actions. Take a moderate course.

Your Car

If You Drop to Road Shoulder Take It Easy Driving Back

By RAY STAPLEY

You are driving along the highway at 60 mph and to the left or right side wheels of the car suddenly drop onto the shoulder. Your reactions in the next few seconds are frequently the deciding factors as to whether or not the car goes out of control.

The common causes of this problem are driver error, a strong cross wind or perhaps the vehicle beside you passing over. Once the shoulder the tires throw gravel against the undercarriage and the resulting noise causes many drivers to panic and swing violently in an attempt to get back on solid pavement. The front of the car darts back at too great an angle and the sudden manoeuvre causes the rear wheels to spin out and you are right into a hideous skid. In the past month I have investigated three accidents in which there were a total of six casualties. In each case the car dropped onto the shoulder and skidded out of control. This needless slaughter could have been avoided had the drivers been trained to cope with the situation. The rules are quite simple, and usually, providing there is no panic, you are quite safe on the shoulder regardless of the noise and angle of the body of the car.

Here is what to do. Just stay on the shoulder, decelerate, steer straight ahead and avoid sudden braking. If possible, don't brake at all until speed drops to around 50 mph or less. Then if the shoulder is almost flush with the pavement and traffic permits, steer slowly back onto the solid surface. When the shoulder is considerably lower than the asphalt, if space permits, pull right over and stop, wait for traffic to clear and start from scratch.

According to my accident files, skids that have their beginnings on the shoulder are one of the greatest causes for cars suddenly darting across the road or median into oncoming traffic.

Most drivers either give it no thought or feel they are capable of handling a skid — until it happens. Since most of us have not been trained in the art of skid control, why should we feel we can make like Sterling Moss when trouble arises?

B.P. Canada Limited operates a Skid Control School on Bronte Road near Oakville, Ontario. I have taken this one-day course and would suggest that drivers who are not sure of their ability to deal with skids should do likewise. The first 10 minutes on the track will convince the average driver how much there is to learn about skid control.

A reader recently contacted me regarding a vibration problem he was having with his two-year-old car. It seem she had noticed wear on the inside of the front tire treads and had taken the car to an alignment specialist where a front end alignment was recommended, plus tire rotation and front wheel balance. Right after this work was done a vibration developed at higher speed.

I suggested he return to the repair shop and ask them to check the balance of the rear tires. It turned out that they were unbalanced and the vibration disappeared after correction. My reader was not aware of the fact that rear tires could cause this problem. Since there was no vibration before the work was done, it seemed odd to him that it would start right afterwards. The spare tire was not used during rotation so the same four tires remained on the road wheels. Nevertheless, for some strange reason an unbalanced tire that may not show up before rotation can cause vibrations when placed in another area.

When trouble develops in the front end, it is surprising how frequently the car is carefully aligned, tires are rotated, front wheels only are balanced but no thought is given to the rear wheel assemblies.

When wheel balancing, it is wise to balance both the rear wheels, particularly when trying to pin-point a high speed vibration. Remember, just a one-ounce unbalanced condition on either road wheel develops a 12-pound hammering action at 60 mph, which wears tires and suspension components.

Viet Cong Once Again Proves Strength of Guerrilla Tactics

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist command's ability to mass elements of four divisions around Saigon underlines once again the weakness of Southern allied tactical intelligence and the enduring strength of guerrilla warfare tactics.

Despite massive firepower, helicopter mobility, numercial superiority and computers, the Southern allied command has been forced toward the medieval strategy of pulling back to defend the city's gates.

The Southern allies have the equivalent of some nine divisions in the Saigon region and along the major infiltration routes leading to the capital. But they have not been able to find and destroy a significant Viet Cong formation, either on the way to Saigon or in their pre-attack positions.

Some 15 Viet Cong battalions are reported within 15 miles of Saigon. One highly-placed South Vietnamese source says some 1,000 guerrillas have infiltrated the city itself despite the ring of defending troops and hundreds of police checkpoints.

The establishment of a vastly strengthened capital military district command is a tacit admission that the Viet Cong cannot be stopped before they reach Saigon.

During the two previous attacks this year, some 4,000 Viet Cong managed to penetrate the city in February and about 1,200 in May and June. The Southern allies were caught flatfooted in February but they had ample warning of the May offensive.

Mountains of intelligence on the expected "third wave" attack is in Southern allied hands, but the vital details of just where individual Viet Cong units are holed up are not part of it.

One U.S. source said lagging intelligence has resulted in B-52 strikes as much as a day behind enemy movement toward the capital. The Stratofortresses are supposed to destroy the Viet Cong regiments before they can get into position for an attack.

Most tactical intelligence apparently comes from electronic and photographic devices and the like, most of them carried by plane.

Due to past demonstrations that U.S. and government troops cannot prevent Viet Cong regiments from moving through the countryside, reports on guerrilla movements from villagers has dried up significantly, one source reported.

The villagers face multiple problems if they help. Southern allied troops may attack their village, causing widespread damage. Or the helpful villagers may be betrayed and executed, along with all their families. Viet Cong punishment for informers is swift, brutal and final.

Thus the old Viet Cong strategy of swimming their fish through the waters of the people remains as fundamentally sound as ever. That 1,000 of these fish can swim undetected in Saigon itself shows that the strategy works as well in the cities as in the countryside.

Southern allied ground units also are severely hampered by new restrictions on the use of artillery and air power around Saigon.

The extent of the restrictions is a military secret. But the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands are reported to feel the restrictions are necessary to prevent widespread devastation in and around the city that would alienate the people.

If government pomises to protect the capital cannot be kept after two earlier offensives succeeded in punching through, the crisis in confidence will deepen greatly.

The South Vietnamese are turning their criticism increasingly on the U.S. for real or imagined failures of their allies. Even a partially-successful third attack on Saigon this year, regardless of Viet Cong casualties and success in repulsing it, would increase sentiment for ending the war on whatever terms the Communists will grant.

Quinte urbanites melted into the countryside as temperatures soared to swelter point during the weekend. Thousands opted for countryside and cool water—like Oak Lake area.

Rival Red Guards Mobilize at Canton

HONG KONG (AP) — Rival Red Guard factions in Canton are mobilizing their forces for a pitched battle likely to turn southern China's largest city into "a bloody slaughterhouse," travellers returning from the mainland say.

The report Saturday coincided with other signs that China is again shuddering with civil disorder.

The travellers said relatives in Canton told them to leave the city as soon as possible because East Wind and Red Banner guard organizations are preparing for battle.

Created by Mao Tse-tung, Chinese Communist party chairman, to keep his rivals in check, the Red Guards ran wild last summer, fighting regular army units and warring among themselves in contests of zeal. Canton was one of the primary areas of trouble.

In Wuchow, 130 miles west of Canton, anti-Maoist forces were reported by Radio Moscow to have taken over the city last

Another report reaching Hong Kong told of rival Red Guard units using hand grenades, rifles and light machine-guns in nightly battles in the Wuhan industrial area, about 1,000 miles inland from China's coast.

"The fights are extremely bloody, bashing the streets with blood and many of both sides are being killed," said a letter received here from Wuhan.

Chinese Nationalist intelligence sources reported that an anti-Maoist organization composed of Red Guards now is operating on Hainan, the big island off South China.

Accounts of plots against Mao also are in circulation. One newspaper, a Red Guard publication in Canton, said a top-ranked air force general was arrested for trying to smuggle President Liu Shao-chi out of China and set up a government in absentia to overthrow Mao.

Rockefeller Highly Optimistic Talks of Nixon on His Ticket

NEW YORK (AP) — For a man waging a tough uphill fight Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York takes a highly-optimistic view of his chances of winning the Republican presidential nomination—even to the point of talking privately about forging a Rockefeller-Nixon ticket.

Rockefeller has startled a few confidants in recent days by speculating on the possibility that Richard M. Nixon, his chief rival for the nomination, might wind up instead as his running mate.

In one such conversation, the governor said a lot of people think a Rockefeller-Nixon pairing would make the strongest ticket and that they think it will turn out that way in the convention.

The governor points out during such discussions that there is a rather ambiguous provision in the U.S. constitution attempting to bar selection of a president and vice-president from the same state.

The solution, he suggests, is that either he or Nixon would have to move out of New York state—and that Nixon would be the logical one to move.

Rockefeller publicly has ruled out any prospect that he would run for vice-president. Privately he says he could not play second fiddle to Nixon, or anyone else.

In presuming, however, that Nixon would be willing to settle for second place, Rockefeller illustrates the attitude he brings to his quest for the presidency —that he is the best the Republican party has to offer and that it just has to recognize this.

In the nearly 11 weeks since he entered the competition against Nixon, Rockefeller has travelled more than 5,000 miles to carry his message into 42 of 50 states. He makes it 43 today, going into Indiana to begin a midwest tour.

He has enjoyed large crowds, partly at least because of good planning by his expert advance men, and his audiences generally have responded well to his hustling campaign style.

The governor and his strategists say they are pleased with the way that phase of the campaign is going—the object being to arouse popular support that will be reflected in public opinion polls and influence convention delegates or the party leaders who control them.

In another, more critical part of his strategy, Rockefeller has talked personally with the delegates in nearly all of the states he visited. He tells them in these closed-door sessions that he's the man who can win big in November and carry state and local candidates to victory with him.

There have been no measurable switches from Nixon to Rockefeller as a result of this tactic, but Rockefeller says he never asks for immediate support.

"I tell them," he said, "that I want them to know they have an alternate, if and when they decide they need one—maybe on the second or third ballot."

And this is the essence of Rockefeller's victory plan at the moment.

World's Churches Unite in Service

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Nearly 2,000 participants in the World Council of Churches general assembly transformed this Swedish capital city centre into a huge place of worship Sunday with an open-air service that included a dialogue in many tongues on social issues of the world.

Delegates later returned to Uppsala, Sweden, where the council's fourth assembly, beginning final deliberations today, takes up recommendations of urgent action in several secular and ecclesiastic fields.

Surrounded by skyscrapers and department stores, worshippers packed a sunken plaza whose subway station is known as a hangout for dope pushers and delinquent youth. A large, plain wooden cross stands at one end.

Hundreds of delegates, observers, youth participants and stewards walked in procession to the plaza behind Ernest Payne of Britain, the council president. Hundreds of tourists and Stockholm residents also attended the service.

"Our world is crying for trustworthy statesmen who would put men above machine, humanity above technology," said Dr. Soritua Nababan, general-secretary of the National Council of Churches in Indonesia, in the main sermon.

"Nations are looking for men who can be trusted not to cheat them by lies and false promises. The younger generation is thirsty for trustworthy leaders who won't laugh at them and shove them but who trust them as signs of renewal, signs of hope."

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the council's American general secretary, told the worshippers:

"The churches' problems of evangelism is not so much better communication as it is more Christ-like living."

Nobhig that God has "called us peace-makers," Blake asked: "Why don't we then do more for peace in Vietnam? What can we do to reconcile white and black in South Africa?"

It was an echo of calls for stronger church action heard from many participants at Uppsala, 40 miles north of here, where delegates also will hear this week a proposal that churches should make a deep study of the non-violent strategies of revolution" and social changes.

Ontario to Fight Quinte Pollution

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

TORONTO — A concerted effort to clean up pollution in the Bay of Quinte will be launched by the provincial government, Dr. R. T. Potter, MPP Quinte, said today.

Dr. Potter said an all-out effort has been promised to seek a final solution to the problem.

He said the undertaking was given by Energy and Resources Minister J. R. Simonett this morning.

Dr. Potter's talks with the minister followed the Belleville physician's call for stricter anti-pollution measures during a budget debate in the Legislature yesterday.

Coincidentally, while Dr. Potter was delivering his remarks, Hastings County health authorities had banned swimming at three locations in Belleville and one in Deseronto. Water content at Zwick's Island park also is being tested and a report is awaited before the weekend.

Tests will decide fate of Zwick's Island beach, now popular retreat of city dwellers: See first page, second section.

Dr. Potter said he used newspaper reports of the health crackdown to emphasize the problem to Mr. Simonett.

Heat Marks Set

TORONTO (CP) — It was hot in most places in Ontario Monday, but at Canadian forces base Borden near Barrie, it was hotter than it has been for 21 years.

The base recorded a high of 94 degrees for July 15, six degrees warmer than the previous mark of 88 set in 1937.

In North Bay, the temperature was 85 degrees, two degrees more than record 83 in 1941.

High temperature records also fell in Earlton, Wiarton and Muskoka which had stood since 1953.

Earlton recorded an 89-degree high, Wiarton 86 and Muskoka 90.

At Killaloe, 25 miles southwest of Pembroke, the temperature climbed to 91 degrees, eclipsing the record of 87 set in 1958.

Toronto International Airport had a high of 89 degrees, equalling the record of 1962.

And the weatherman doesn't see relief in sight.

Some Like It Hot, They're Holidaying

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

Summer '68 is peaking and — depending where you are — the Quinte district will continue to bask or bake in its heat waves for a while longer.

If you're on vacation — like workers at some major Belleville plants — the weather's ideal. If you're still tied to a job it means oven-like urban living.

Temperatures will continue to soar into the high 80s until the latter part of the week paced by heavy humidity, the weatherman predicts for the Quinte area.

No record has been reached here — the high for this time of year is 91 degrees set in 1953.

But the averages are still high. Yesterday the mercury looped 88 at Canadian Forces Base Trenton. At Tweed, forestry officials recorded a high of 90 for the second time since July 1.

The continued hot spell is making conservation authorities nervous. The forest-fire hazard was rated high today as the Quinte countryside continued to bake under the high summer sun.

Rain is badly needed to reduce the threat. Since April 1,073 acres of forest have been burned in the district's northern townships.

But it's in the built-up areas like Belleville where discomfort is worst.

There's little escape from the heat which soaks through sidewalks and walls by day, and radiates by night.

The five-day forecast for the area says the hot spell may ease Thursday or Friday.

Major city industries now on vacation are Northern Electric, Mead Johnson and American Optical.

Another CF-104 Lost in Europe

ZWEIBRUCKEN (CP) — A Canadian pilot bailed out with minor injuries when his CF-104 Starfighter plane crashed Monday at Winterbach, West Germany, during a training flight.

Pilot Capt. V. G. Gerden, 25, of St. Catharines, Ont., used his seat ejector to escape when the plane crashed on open land. He was in hospital for examination of his injured back.

It was the 35th CF-104 loss for Canada's NATO air division in Europe. Gerden is attached to 427 Squadron, 3d Wing.

Czech Attacks Red Pact

PRAGUE (CP) — A leading Czechoslovak general launched one of the strongest public attacks on the Warsaw pact here as leaders of Russia and four of its allies sent a top-secret letter to the new liberal government in Prague.

Col. Gen. Vyclac Prchlik, head of the Czechoslovak Communist party's defence department, condemned the alliance's organizational structure and called for a revision of the command system to give Russia's allies greater participation.

He made his criticism at a press conference here Monday night at the end of a day which saw Soviet troops resume their departure from the country after a brief delay.

Many of the troops—here since the Warsaw pact exercises ended June 30—have left, but at least one detachment is not scheduled to go until Sunday.

Czechoslovakia was not represented at a meeting in Warsaw Sunday and Monday at which Communist party leaders from Bulgaria, Hungary, East Germany, Poland and the Soviet Union—including party chief Leonid Brezhev and Premier Alexei Kosygin—decided to send the secret letter to Czechoslovak leaders.

Arms-runner Delivers Relief to Biafrans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A handful of Superconstellations operated by an Americans arms runner has flown more than 300 tons of food and medicine to the starving Biafrans since March. But at least 200 tons a day are needed now, one group of missionaries estimates.

The four-engined Lockheed propeller-driven craft are owned by Henry Wharton, 51, a German-born U.S. citizen from Miami, Fla., who has been actively involved in ferrying arms to the Ibo tribesmen of eastern Nigeria.

Representatives of two large West German charities supplying aid to Biafra were reported to have offered today to co-finance the purchase of more modern planes for Wharton's fleet if he promised to use them for humanitarian purposes only.

Wharton's flights, alternating between runs of guns and butter, are the only way to get significant amounts of food and medicine to Biafra.

"We don't care how the stuff gets there, so long as it gets there," said a priest of the Irish Holy Ghost Order, which handles Caritas-contributed supplies to Biafra. The Irish priests are in the same Libbos hotel where Wharton maintains his headquarters.

Mail Embargo Times Are Set

OTTAWA (CP) — The post office department has announced an embargo on all first-class mail for out-of-town destinations effective at 5 p.m. local time today.

In an announcement Monday, the department said that in view of the nationwide postal strike threatened for 5 a.m. Thursday, embargoes will go into effect today on all classes of mail.

The last hour in which to mail letters intended for local delivery will be midnight tonight local time.

At 1 p.m., an hour after an embargo started on some classes of mail, no official word of the embargo had been received at the Belleville Post Office. All classes of mail were being received as usual.

The embargo on second-, third- and fourth-class mail is effective at noon local time, five hours earlier than the first-class embargo.

Second-, third and fourth-class mail consists mainly of newspapers, magazines, other printed matter, and parcel post. The embargo on newspapers will not be imposed until 5 p.m. local time.

"As the embargoes will affect mail to and from other countries, as well as Canadian mail, arrangements will be made with other postal administrations for the necessary co-operation in the curtailment of their despatches to Canada," the statement said.

Postal Strike Looks Certain

OTTAWA (CP)—A national postal strike appears almost inevitable after some 12 hours of concentrated mediation Monday failed to produce a settlement.

The parties resumed their last-ditch efforts today to prevent the strike which is scheduled to start at 5 a.m. EDT Thursday, but union spokesmen say there no longer is time to call off the walkout even if a satisfactory government offer is forthcoming.

Judge Rene Lippe of the Quebec Provincial Court, a mediator called in Monday to help the parties settle their differences, said in an interview early today "we will resume talks Tuesday —early."

He declined to comment on whether there was any progress Monday. He spent most of the day shuttling between hotel rooms occupied by negotiators for the 24,000-member Council of Postal Unions and the treasury board, which bargains for the federal government.

William Houle, co-chairman of the council, told a reporter Monday night the government still had made no firm wage offer. Government negotiators declined any comment on the talks.

First Casualties

H. W. Barrigan, supervisory letter carrier, sorts advertising handbills now piling up at Belleville Post Office. The "householders," received yesterday and today, are subject to a seven-day time allowance on delivery and will not get into the mail before the strike deadline Thursday morning.

Beer Talks Resume

TORONTO (CP) — An improved offer by the brewing industry was the basis of resumed talks today aimed at settling the 26-day-old strike by 2,700 workers.

"We're at the stage where we'll have to wait and see," said Craig Hamilton, an industry spokesman.

"We've been negotiating so long that it won't take too much time to decide whether we settle or break off negotiations," said David Lewis, New Democratic MP and labor lawyer who is chief negotiator for the brewery workers' union.

Prince Edward Presses Wolf Bounty Proposal

PICTON (Staff) — The Department of Lands and Forests has refused support for a Prince Edward County proposal that wolf bounties be increased.

The county has sought increased bounties since May. In April councillors were informed by county auditors that the county rate of payment for wolf pelts at $75 was contrary to the Ontario Wolf and Bear Bounties Act.

According to that act, a maximum of $25 can be paid for wolf pelts.

While reducing payment here, councillors decided to press for new Ontario legislation, increasing the bounty.

A brief was submitted to the Department of Lands and Forests.

A reply was presented yesterday at county council.

Signed by C. H. Clarke, Chief of the Fish and Wildlife Branch of the department, the reply commented that the bounty system "does not provide control over problem animals."

While frowning upon the bounty system in general, the letter was explicit in its disapproval of varied bounty rates.

"Variations in payment . . . encourages fraudulent practices by those taking wolves. The county paying the highest bounty is most apt to be paying for wolves that were not killed in their jurisdiction."

Mr. Clarke singled out Prince Edward for comment. He noted than an autopsy conducted on a coyote purported to be killed in the county, revealed the remains of porcupine quills in the animals stomach.

At the time Prince Edward was paying "considerably higher" bounties than any of its neighbours, "where porcupines are common."

Said Mr. Clarke, "It gives one cause for thought, particularly when porcupine damage is known in Prince Edward County."

Council decided to investigate its alternatives. A brief may be submitted to the Department of Municipal Affairs.

County Protests Against Strikes

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County will speak up on a matter that has been disturbing many Canadians.

son urged that council formally voice its objections to the many strikes that are taking place across the country.

Councillor Donald Thompson urged that council formally voice its objections to the many strikes that are taking place across the country.

"I think that it is a shame that a few hundred men can tie up the needs of a country," said Mr. Thompson.

He pointed out that now that the seaway strike has been settled, grain elevator operators wait out is pending.

The threatened postal workers strike will slow up needed cheques, while the breweries strike has cut heavily in country throughout the province said Mr. Thompson.

"The whole economy can be tied up by strikers. There should be some form of compulsory arbitration," he urged.

Warden Gordon Demorest agreed saying, "I don't know what can be done but if we don't try we won't get anything."

It was decided to send letters to Premier John Robarts, and to Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau presenting formal protests on behalf of the county.

Council Petitions For Road Signs

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County will petition the department of Highways for signs, announcing the county, on Highways 2 and 401.

County councillors pointed out yesterday that there are no signs on the highways designating the county this time.

In contrast to the smaller signs, that would merely announce the county, a large billboard on Highway 401 at the western end of the county will be erected.

Reeve Robert Boyce, said that the groundwork for the signs has been completed.

It is hoped that a second sign can be erected at the eastern approach by next year.

A Belleville horse, Starheart Liberty, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Morley Smith, topped the parade division at the Kingston Charity Horse Show at Kingston last weekend.

Miss Pat Steele rode the American saddle bred parade horse in the event, which saw horses from the United States, Quebec and Ontario competing.

As well as winning the trophy for top horse in his division, Starheart Liberty won the $100 parade stake class at the show.

Horsemanship Trophy

It takes two good men to handle the prize the Belleville Fair is offering the Gymkana games champion of Western Day at the annual exhibition in August this year. Fair board president Cameron Bunnett and director Art Corfield hold the impressive trophy.

Student Group Didn't Get Off the Ground

Belleville's students' council for summer activities never got off the ground.

Formed in response to a survey by Moira Secondary School student Stephen Hunter, the council held five meetings, with steadily diminishing attendance at each one.

In his survey conducted in May, 91 per cent of the 303 students questioned by Mr. Hunter said that they will not return to Belleville after they finished their education because of lack of interest in the council for summer activities.

Purpose of the latter was to organize sports tournaments, rallies and dances during the summer months.

"Part of the trouble was that the council's proposals duplicated activities already carried on by our recreation committee," said Lloyd Williams, who with Mrs. Wilma Summers of the recreation committee staff attended the meetings.

"The poor attendance at the meetings indicates youth's lack of interest in its own welfare," he added. "They expected us to do everything for them, and at pre-war prices."

Sixty-four percent of the 345 students who intend to leave Belleville listed community apathy, among other reasons, as one factor in their leaving.

Student response to council meetings was also apathetic. Eleven attended the first meeting, and six attended the second meeting to make plans for activities and set up sub committees.

Of the six people who attended the third meeting, only two had been at the previous meeting. Four people were at the fourth meeting to hear reports from people appointed to seek information on activities of interest to students.

At the fifth and final meeting only two students, in addition to Stephen Hunter, showed up.

Ontario Fights Pollution

"I told him the people in Belleville have reached the end of the line, and that effort has got to be cleaned up," said the MPP. "We've got to have our youngsters can't swim in that bay."

"They (department officials) are going to make a concerted effort to clean up the pollution."

Government experts will be sent to the Belleville area to make "a concerted effort" in attacking the problem, said Dr. Potter.

Yesterday, the MPP called on the minister in the Legislature for a stepped-up antipollution program by the provincial government.

"The department can't be too stringent in enforcing the regulations — indeed, I believe the regulations need tightening up," he said. "If we're to accomplish our goal, we must be very definite and strictly enforce existing legislation.

Dr. Potter said it was insufficient to require a municipality to build a plant removing only 65 per cent of public sewage because of the local government expense.

(Belleville now operates such a disposal system — known as primary treatment. A secondary treatment system now is being planned).

"I suggest it is just as effective to suggest that a man being shot at by 100 bullets and missed by 65 of them is in good condition," criticized Dr. Potter. "The result of the 35 per cent pollution of our water can be just as lethal."

"May I suggest to the honorable minister: "Let's get cracking on our pollution problems."

Budget Is Well in Line With Last Year's Totals

PICTON (Staff) — From all appearances at the halfway point of the fiscal year, Prince Edward County council budget is well for 1968.

All expenditures at this time seem to be within range of the totals budgeted for the entire year. Most in fact, have dropped in varying degrees from expenditures made at this time last year.

Of the $57,375 total budgeted for child welfare, $42,633 has been spent to date. However, it was explained yesterday at county council that payment is being made three months in advance to ensure that welfare officials have adequate money on hand to cover salaries and other costs as they arise.

General welfare costs have increased over last year. To date, $108,134 has been expended, as compared to $91,874 at this time last year. A total of $208,987 has been budgeted for the year.

Of the $131,224 budgeted for the county home this year, $61,480 has been spent thus far, almost exactly half. That figure is down almost $13,000 from similar expenditures at this time last year.

One seemingly glaring case of misbudgment to be explained. While $2,000 had been budgeted for the administration of justice, to far this year, $14,125 has already been spent.

However, justice costs were taken over by the provincial government earlier this year. County payments will be refunded.

A heavy toll of accidents this year, has run workmen's compensation far above the budgeted figure. While $500 in compensation costs were anticipated, the amount spent has already reached $1,900.

On the other side of the ledger anticipated revenues are somewhat below normal.

While it was expected that $367,968 would be received by the end of the year, to date, only $139,112 has been taken in.

The bulk of this amount comes through grants for the county welfare organization and the county home for the aged.

For the county home $46,282 of an anticipated $105,252 has been received, while $73,040 of the expected $160,265 in welfare grants has been received.

A rink of Anne Averill, Ellie Smith with her husband, Orlo Smith on the head end won three games but were outshot, by a Brighton rink of Lorne Lockwood, Nora Lockwood with Art McConnell as skip, who were high scorers.

Another Belleville rink of Vera Wannacott, Pearl Carey with Lyle Carr as skip won the one-game high. The two-game high score was won by a Trenton rink of Ken Peacock, Rachael Ormshaw with Horace Ormshaw as skip.

A local rink of Kay Fuller, Grace Clapp with Bill Fuller as skip won three games but not enough to figure in the prize money. The other skip was Corrigan with Vera Tassel, Phyllis Graham with Percy Graham as skip.

In the report on the mixed trebles in Canadian Bowler on Wednesday it was stated that a local rink of Vera McIntosh, Grace Clapp with Vera Wonnacott won two games but not enough to figure in the prize list. Sorry, Vera and his partners won the second two-game high score.

The Zwick's Island Locomotive May Be Joined by Caboose

City council is agreeable but it will be up to the city parks board to make the final decision on whether a caboose is wanted to round out the vintage railway display at Zwick's Island Park.

At yesterday's special meeting council voted for the agreement between the Canadian National Railways and the city covering the loan of the old locomotive and a caboose be approved.

But the matter of the caboose being added to the Island display will be subject to the approval of the parks board.

Mayor R. J. Scott said he had been informed by CN Rideau Area manager Harry Faal that a caboose was now available for the display, but the question immediately arose as to whether there would be sufficient interest to warrant adding to the locomotive display.

Alderman Donald Williams said he favored the idea although the matter of a caboose had never been officially discussed by the parks board.

He felt the matter should rightfully come before the parks board.

"What would be the advantage of a caboose at the Island?" asked Alderman Enos David. "I wonder how much interest there would be?"

Mayor Scott replied that the caboose display would be symbolic of railway days for many local railway workers.

"After all Belleville is a railway town," he said.

Miss Heather Mills, Bank of Montreal teller in charge of silver, inspects the depleted stocks of rolled coinage in the bank's vault. City banks are rationing silver to customers and in some cases giving change in nickels instead of scarce dimes and quarters.

'Jackets Off' At Council Meeting

With the temperature crowding the low nineties it was "jackets off" at yesterday's council meeting and as could be expected the discussion ultimately got around to air conditioning.

The subject was raised by Alderman Enos David who said it wasn't reasonable to expect high salaried executive staff to sweat it out in stifling offices and still concentrate on the job at hand.

Under such conditions the efficiency of staff workers could only be sharply reduced, he said.

The alderman said he had checked prices and the estimate was that individual window type air conditioners for city hall offices could be installed for approximately $4,000.

Mayor J. Russell Scott pointed out there was no money in the 1968 budget for air conditioning, but suggested the alderman again broach the subject at next year's budget meeting.

Free 'Rodding' Service May Be Discontinued

Free once a year rodding of private drain connections, now provided by the city works department may be discontinued.

This was indicated at city council yesterday when alarm was expressed over the rapid rise in costs for the rodding service now paid for out of the general rate.

The feeling was that residents requiring the service should pay.

Under the terms of the present bylaw the work department provides one free rodding of sewer connection per year with property owners paying for subsequent service.

But if the four year interval from 1964 to 1967 the cost of this service jumped from $8,477 to $21,494 and some councillors feel it is time to call a halt.

Mayor J. R. Scott pointed out that the public utilities commission no longer provide free pipe thawing service and in view of the rapidly increasing costs for rodding wondered if this free service should also be discontinued.

He suggested that a minimal charge of from $10 to $15 for each rodding might be reasonable.

The matter of sewer lateral maintenance was referred to the city manager for a recommendation as to a reasonable rate for the service.

Mailmen Ready For Strike

TRENTON — Trenton's postal workers, along with those all across Canada, will go strike at 5 a.m. Thursday morning.

Said Gerald Jackman, president of the Trenton Postal Workers Union, "It is impossible that the strike could be called off now so we're ready for it."

Mr. Jackman said pickets would be set up at the post office building. All of Trenton's 12 letter carriers and 17 clerks will take part in the strike.

Cheques will be delivered if, as Mr. Jackman put it, "the government will allow our clerks in the building to sort the mail."

Postmaster G. Hanna has a different view.

He says, "Although I am only assuming this, I don't believe cheques will be delivered."

"This is a legal strike and we should go all the way," he added.

The postmaster pointed out there had been very little guidance from Ottawa" in this matter.

And if Trentonians won't get their cheques bill collectors will take a beating.

James Page of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission said "We are planning no added manpower to get correspondence to our clients.

"We expect to wait until the strike is over", he continued, "but I know of no emergency measures planned by the Public Utilitie."

And anyone that has small debts to be paid through Trenton's ninth division court--fear not.

A spokesman for the court said, "the strike will severly handicap us here, operations will slow to a crawl."

Up to now mail handled by the Trenton Post Office has been "average" according to Mr. Hanna and he believes "people will stop mailing today."

Bus Service Extension-- Cost Could Be $2,500

Extension of the city bus service to serve the Adam St. area and the city's north end industrial park district would add between the transit commission's deficit by another $2,500 this year, Belleville city council yesterday through a report from the Belleville Transportation Commission in a request to investigate the possibility of extending bus service to serve new industries in the north end industrial park area.

The report indicated the cost of the proposed bus service would be $13.50 per day with an estimated loss of $2,500 on a year's operation.

Only 12 persons working at the new plants would require transportation and the transit commission did not feel it could recommend a bus service for such a small group of people.

And apparently there is no demand for bus service in the St. Paul Street area where it had been suggested there may be plant workers requiring public transportation.

The suggestion that public transportation might be required for the Adam Street and St. Paul Street area had emanated earlier this year through city council.

City and Government Agree On Price of OSD Land

Belleville city council and the Ontario Government Department of Public Works has given its agreement regarding the purchase price of 14.9 acres of Ontario School for the Deaf property but it will be up to the city parks board to decide if the deal is complet.

The agreed upon selling price of the property was not disclosed but is a compromise between the $2,000 per acre asked by the provincial public works department and appraisal figure of $1,500 per acre originally offered by the city.

Alderman Richard Ellis objected to city council making the decision on the property and contended that was the prerogative of the parks board.

He wasn't too sure that the parks board had used for the property.

But other parks board members on council said the city manager had been authorized to negotiate the purchase price of the property.

"If the parks board doesn't want it, we can easily sell it," said Alderman Donald Williams.

The plan of the parks board would be to develop the property as a parks and recreational area, possibly in co-operation with the school board.

Easter Monday A Holiday --So No Parking

City merchants and thousands of other people don't deserve the day but Easter Monday is nevertheless a legal holiday.

And to the satisfaction of one local motorist charged with parking meter violation it has been ruled so by the court.

Last Easter Monday close to 300 motorists received meter violation tickets in Belleville. They all paid put one who contested the charge in court.

He won his case and now city council has moved to clarify the statute so that meter tickets will no longer be inconvenienced.

The instruction on city parking meters states that it is not necessary to pay parking dues on "Sundays and holidays" but with Easter Monday not generally considered a holiday, the violation tickets were issued.

Yesterday, to clarify the situation, city council passed a new bylaw which spells out the days on which the meters are not operative.

The days spelled out are New Years Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day, or any other day declared as a holiday by the government of Canada or the government of the province of Ontario or the municipality."

Industrial Park Gets Metal Plant

The city's northeast industrial park area is to acquire a new metal fabrication plant which within three years could employ up to 10 or 15 persons.

Yesterday city council accepted offers from two firms for the purchase of one acre lots in the industrial area--one of them from the metal fabrication firm and the other from a transport company desirous of constructing a new and larger warehouse.

Belleville Industrial Commissioner Ray Brown told council the two firms would be welcome additions to the city's industrial family.

The metal fabrication firm wishing to locate in Belleville is owned by William A. Bailey of Brigden. He will build a 1,600 square foot plant.

The transport company owned by Gordon McIvroy of Belleville will construct a warehouse with a 1,000 square foot area.

Through Postal Strike

UIC Payments to Continue

Belleville are recipients of unemployment insurance benefits will not be inconvenienced by non-delivery of their cheques as a result of the postal strike scheduled to commence on Thursday.

Cecil Hisner, manager of the local Unemployment Insurance office said today that alternate arrangements have been made for delivery of cheques with pick up and distribution points to be set up at Belleville, Picton, Trenton and Bancroft.

The pick-up stations will be set up commencing on Friday, July 19, and will be manned by department representatives each Monday and Friday from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. as long as the postal strike lasts.

Claimants are advised to bring their report forms to the pick up centre in their area on the Monday following the reporting period shown on the form. Claimants should then report back on Friday to pick up their benefit warrants. All claimants will be required to bring identification such as social insurance cards.

Pick-up centres will be located at Room 228, Federal building, Belleville; the Picton county building council chamber; room 304 Federal building in Trenton, and the municipal building at Bancroft.

Mr. Hisner said that all correspondence should be delivered or brought to the above mentioned centres rather than be deposited in mail boxes.

Silver Shortage Acute in City

The jingle of coins in the pockets of the affluent may soon be a forgotten sound.

Not to mention the jangle of dimes in pay telephones and the clunk of tickets in parking meters.

Belleville, like the rest of the country, is suffering from a shortage of silver coins.

As a result banks are rationing the amount of silver they give their regular customers and suggesting non-customers go elsewhere to fill their silver needs.

Store cashiers are asking change on their purchases.

Head offices of the chartered banks notified their branches of the expected shortage about a month ago, and the silver situation has been tight for two or three weeks.

R. G. Smith, assistant manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce on Front St. says he is getting about one-third of his silver order from head office. In a normal week his bank requires from $3,000 to $4,000 in coinage.

"So far, we have enough nickels to meet our needs," he says. "Quarters and dimes are in short supply."

Glen Tweedy, accountant at the Bank of Nova Scotia, says he has received silver from head office to date although in common with other bankers in the city he has had to initiate limited rationing to conserve his supply.

"We are now getting about one-half the silver we order," he reports. "We turn down some people who request more silver than we think they need."

A. D. Cameron, manager of the Bank of Montreal on Front St. has had to refuse Americans who ask for large amounts of silver from his bank.

"This is one of the causes of the shortage," he says. "Americans take large sums in silver across the border where we hear, they melt it down. The price of silver is much higher in the United States and there is a shortage of the metal there."

In Mr. Cameron's opinion, two other factors account for the shortage.

"Coin collectors' demands for coinage has had quite an effect on the supply," he says.

"The normal production of silver coins has been cut down as the mint in Ottawa gears up to produce silver coinage with a higher percentage of nickel," he adds.

"When the mint begins turning out the new nickel coinage, the American blackmarket in our silver should stop," comments Mr. Smith of the Bank of Commerce.

He looks for an easing of the situation in August.

In the meantime, he admits the shortage could shake up the economy.

City shopkeepers confess they have no idea how they will cope if the supply of silver drops off further.

Metered devices such as telephones and vending machines will be hard hit.

"Who knows," says Mr. Smith, "maybe the city will have to call a moritorium on parking meters!!"

Boston Lawyer Represents City

Boston lawyer John H. King, has been named to represent the city of Belleville at a Massachusetts court hearing in respect to the Sills Estate and the Belleville General Hospital.

The forthcoming hearing in the Boston court is an application for partial distribution of the Sills estate of several million dollars to which the Belleville General Hospital is a beneficiary.

Under the terms of the will of Charlotte E. Sills, who died in January, 1961, the Belleville hospital is to receive five fifteenths of the estate now being held in trust until after the death of surviving annuitants.

Also under the terms of the will Bridge Street United Church is to receive one fifteenth of the Sills estate.

Asphalt or Concrete-- That's the Question

A matter of money could determine the type of pavement to be used in the reconstruction of Front Bridge Street hill.

The choice will be between asphalt paving and concrete with a feeling by some that concrete might be best for the job.

Tenders will be called for both types of surface but the Ontario Highways Department will pay grants only on the lowest price.

At yesterday's special meeting of council, Mayor J. R. Scott said prices would be asked for both asphalt and concrete following which the project would be reviewed by council before a tender award was made.

The suggested closing date for the tenders is August 7.

Dog Pound Situation Discussed by Council

Should the Ontario Humane Society be expected to pay rental for the city-owned dog pound at the Belleville fairgrounds until its new animal control headquarters is ready some time next year?

This is the question which a special city council committee will discuss with the Humane Society before that organization takes over dog catching duties in the city on September 1.

Council yesterday gave permission for the Humane Society to use the present dog pound until the Society's new quarters are available.

Alderman Richard Ellis raised the question of rental for the present dog pound, noting that until the Society had its own quarters it could not provide the services covered in its agreement with the city.

Under the agreement the Humane Society will provide animal control services in the city at a per capita fee of 50 cents, on the basis of the present population of 23,000 the service will cost the city approximately $16,500 annually.

This is close to double the present cost, but the society will provide 24 hour service as well as other services.

City manager J. R. Reynolds said the Society was looking at sites for its new dog pound both inside the city and outside the city.

The hope of the Society is that ultimately the town of Trenton and the townships of Sidney and Thurlow will be interested in joining the service.

The World Church

With society and its mores changing almost daily, in a world of sit-ins, kiss-ins and love-ins and young people in ferment, it is not surprising that the traditional church occasionally finds itself at a loss.

Certainly the world is moving too swiftly, and with apparent unconcern for matters spiritual, for the church to adhere too rigidly to old patterns of thought and ceremonial.

That the church senses this urgency and need to become more closely involved with life as it is, with the problems that face people every day of their time on earth, is evident from the deliberations of the World Council of Churches meeting in Uppsala, Sweden.

Sweden ironically is often held up as a Godless society, not only because of liberal attitudes to human relationships, to love and marriage, but because of the fact that Swedes by and large are not a church-going people. And yet, Uppsala is a good choice for such a meeting. The city, about an hour's journey from Stockholm, is one of the oldest university cities of Europe as well as a leading centre of the Lutheran church.

In this Scandinavian city, in a country which boasts one of the world's highest living standards, conference delegates were told the churches must look beyond the affluent suburbs and launch a new missionary movement into the ghettos of the poor.

The subcommittee on urban and industrial mission, pinpointed the problem well when it noted that Christian congregations are middle class — white collar workers and business people — with the number of secure people disproportionate to the poor, whose participation "is desperately needed."

This applies the world over, the report said, adding that it is no longer enough to assume people will come to the church. Rather, the church must go after "the workers, the new poor, the decision makers, the planners and the technocrats."

It is a problem churches everywhere recognize but for one reason or another have been unable to fulfill. Like any other organization the church is limited by the extent of its resources, including manpower. Ideally, church members, the laity, and various organizations fill the gap. And in this swift-moving world, the need is great, both spiritual and material. The Swedish conference has served to place emphasis on this.

P.M.'s Political Past May Come Under Diefenbaker Microscope

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Just in case anyone still might be asking — yes, former Conservative Prime Minister and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker is going to work "with and for" Robert Stanfield.

Cheerfully, even enthusiastically, or why would he have used the phrase "with and for?"

Which means, of course, that if the fierce old warrior nursed any resentment over being driven, howling in protest, out of the party leadership, he has got over it. Finally!

It was put to him, straight and stark, at his press conference the other day.

Would he, the biggest federal political winner of all time — he still glories in the golden afterglow of those stunning 208 seats won in the 1958 landslide — be prepared to serve Robert Stanfield, the man who replaced him and so "calamitously" lost the election?

The words "serve" and "calamitous" — his very own term for the election loss — were ured with the obvious intention of firing up the old Diefenburner.

But the safety valve on the Diefenbohler was in good working order, and keeping his cool. Old Thunderhead did not explode.

The actor in him came out.

He looked positively astounded that anybody should wonder.

"Certainly," he beamed beatifically. "Of course, I am prepared to work with and for the leadr.

"There is just no question about it. That is not hypothetical. That is factual.

"I am a party man, remember."

Relaxed and exuding the disarming aroma of sweet reason he lolled back to enjoy the impact of his soft words on an astonished audience who had expected something hard.

Lulled, his questioners went back to the hailing.

And this time the bear in him came out.

What, they asked him, did he think of Stanfield's "calamitous" campaign, and could he, had he still been leader, have done any better.

He would have done it "differently," he growled.

But "different" isn't necessarily "better."

It would not have been in the "personl sense" of making an issue of Prime Minister Trudeau he went on, softly.

But "any man seeking to become prime minister must expect a most careful examination of his principles and ideals."

This had been "glossed over."

Then out came the sharp-clawed Diefenbaker in the man — it had been "glossed over" he snarled, because many of those in his news conference audience had become Trudeau "sycophants."

There had been no "sycophancy" by press, radio or television in his prime ministerial day, he recalled, the bitterness of his tone clearly signalling it was a hurtful memory.

He had been under the microscope all the time, and it was his deep conviction that his faults and failings had been magnified.

Perhaps, he had heard of the night, during his decline and fall as prime minister, when a national TV-radio newsman had leaped to his typewriter, rolling the parliamentary press gallery with the war-cry: "to work men, we have a government to destroy!"

Now, it was all behind him.

But for the new prime minister, the microscope still was to come.

And if nobody else got around to peering through it at the Trudeau phenomenon, then guess who would?

Right the first time.

He has not publicly proclaimed in so many words that he will be asking the questions about Mr. Trudeau's background that he himself has complained "should have been but weren't asked."

He does not have to write it in the sky.

For on his desk are piled hundreds of letters from concerned people all across Canada who have asked those questions and have not heard answered because it was all given instant dismissal as "hateful."

The oddest thing of all about that so-called "hate literature" was its initial circulation.

It first appeared in any volume at all, in, of all the strangest places, the Liberal leadership convention.

Think about it.

Alcohol, Drugs and the Courts

Vancouver Province

Most people strongly feel that drunken driving deserves severe punishment. Most magistrates and judges share the attitude, and generally act on it. But how severe the punishment they mete out usually depends on the circumstances of individual cases. Only in the worst cases, usually involving habitual driver-drinkers, do drunken driving sentences match those for marijuana.

For marijuana offenders there is much less flexibility. The Ontario Court of Appeals recently upheld concurrent sentences of nine months definite and six months indefinite on a 19-year-old youth convicted of marijuana offences.

Another 19-year-old appeared in court there recently, but the "drug" in his case was alcohol. The youth was the unlicensed driver of a car that crashed into a guard rail, killing two young passengers. He had twice before been convicted of driving without a licence. He was fined $200.

Spotlight on National Defence

Ottawa Le Droit—In the last three years, few Canadian newspapers have criticized as overtly as has Le Droit our national defence system, the sole advantage of which rests with its ability to keep several thousand young people . . . from swelling the ranks of the unemployed. However, it is not national defence in itself that we criticize, but the unjustifiable importance it is given. . . .

It is hard to explain how a little country like ours engages to pay the great expenses involved in keeping thousands of soldiers, their wives and their children, in foreign countries, when, from all sides, people are crying out that we are living beyond our means. We could economize so much if we had not launched ourselves, partially at least, into the nuclear armaments game. What savings we could have made had we not yielded to vanity and engaged in costly military research—for example, the now-defunct Velvet Glove or the abandoned Avro Arrow airplane project. It is from this point of view that we consider defence burdensome and useless.

But no matter how useless it is, as long as it confuses every citizen must contribute financially through his taxes. Given this, it is hard to understand how Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec, Robert Bourassa, financial critic of the provincial Opposition, and Rene Levesque, leader of the MSA, can say that Quebec should not contribute financially to the national defence budget.

Last we heard, Quebec still was part of Confederation and it would be unacceptable for its inhabitants to lay down their share of the collective financial burden as it involves defence. Should Quebec's political leaders head an interprovincial movement to force the central power to reduce its defence spending, well and good. But if they persist in demanding at the end to Quebec's contribution to defence spending, then they are nothing but saboteurs.

"Neutralist" Laos A Thorn In Flesh of U.S. Forces Fighting Reds in Vietnam

Toronto Star Syndicate

Laos is the keystone country of the entire Indo-China peninsula. It borders on every nation of the region — Burma, China, North Vietnam, Cambodia, South Vietnam and Thailand.

Without Premier Souvanna Phouma's tongue-in-cheek neutralist policy the Vietnam war couldn't have lasted as long as it has. North Vietnam wouldn't have the Ho Chi Minh trail threading through Laos and forking into South Vietnam at as many points as the Communists choose. The northern invaders infiltrate men and materials past the narrow (29 mile) demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam.

Since Laos became nominally neutral in 1962, Communist forces every year have pushed into areas of the countryside during the December-April dry season. They've collected "taxes" from and propagandized the peasants and generally shown their contempt for Laotian forces and the government. In the past few years, the Communist forces pulled back when the Monsoon rains began, to wait till the next dry season.

In 1968 the pattern has been different. The Communists have not pulled back, the propaganda has increased and there's been stiff resistance to Laotian troop operations designed to break up the,invaders' troop concentrations.

There's speculation in military and diplomatic services throughout the world that the Communists are building pocket strongholds for future aggression in Laos and trying to lure the already thin-spread United States forces further from their main concern in South Vietnam.

Some observers see the stronghold buildup as preparation for the Geneva Laos will come under discussion at the Paris peace talks between North Vietnam and the United States. True neutralization of Laos is the only way the U.S. can hope to cut off and extinguish the Ho Chi Minh trail in the South. The more Communist troops in South Vietnam, the greater the bargaining power North Vietnam has at the Paris conference.

Beach Blight

The problem of dead fish is a universal one on the shores of the Great Lakes. Quinte area residents are familiar with the situation at The Outlet and other stretches of sand where the lake gives up its pungent cargo.

Attendance has been down at The Outlet this year, but not only because of fear from fermenting fish but to cool weather in recent weeks. This year's increase in park dues — from $5 to $10 — for the season is another factor which must be considered.

Down in Port Hope even the children on school vacation are shying away from the beach. There are reports of only meagre attendance there of late. A 17-year-old girl complained that the beach was dirty — and always, there was that smell. As if that were not enough, there was algae in the water and it was "squishy" underfoot.

It is enough to make the young people start dreaming of far away places. One thinks of the great beaches of Northern Europe, Scandinavia and the southern hemisphere — and closer to home, the Caribbean. Where the ocean makes lonely landfalls far from the industrial scene and the conditions that give rise to pollution, that is beach life at its best.

Inflation Still Around

What price inflation? Hastings County Council knows the answer — to its embarrassment.

The Council's road committee believed sufficient funds were available in five-year estimates allocated by the Department of Highways in 1965. Now it has discovered the estimates already have been fully committed to development already underway.

County engineer Peter Anderson says construction costs far outpaced original estimates. Allowance had been made for higher costs only to find it was still inadequate.

In one instance estimates for replacement of a bridge in Tyendinaga township were revised to $90,000 — some $20,000 more than the original budget. Muskeg found under the site has to be excavated and filled.

Today in History

Czar Nicholas II of Russia and his family were shot to death 50 years ago today—in 1918—in the cellar of a house in which they were imprisoned. The Communist soviet of Ekaterinburg decided to execute the royal Romanov family when it learned the Czechoslovak legion was advancing in its direction. Ten years later, Mrs. Anna Anderlahovsky, a refugee, claimed to be Anastasia, youngest daughter of Nicholas, but her claim remains in dispute among Russian exiles.

1931—Emperor Haile Selassie proclaimed Ethiopia's first constitution.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—French forces stood firm east of Reims as Germans advanced towards Epernay from the Marne in severe fighting on the Western Front. French and American troops regained the Marne heights; Austrian commander-in-chief von Hetzendorf was removed from command.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the Canadian 1st Division struck deep into central Sicily, capturing strategic town of Callagrone and Grammichele; Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt gave Italy an ultimatum — surrender or be blasted out of the war; advancing Russian forces in the Orel sector hurled back 11 German counter-attacks.

Ministers Will Work Harder

Brockvil'e Recorder and Times

Prime Minister Trudeau, himself a former civil servant, wants his ministers, the elected representatives, to plan, set policy and run the government departments and not the civil servants. He is apparently planning many changes but he doesn't plan any ruthless cutting of staff. There is already a freeze on hiring and the government services are likely to remain pegged at about 400,000 people for some time. What the prime minister really wants is a smoother operation, more efficiency, and above all, more control of department policy and operation by elected representatives responsible to the electorate.

Thousand Islands Bridge Marks 30th Anniversary

Watertown Times

To the younger generations in northern New York it may seem that the Thousand Islands International Bridge has been there forever. But there was a little older, it hardly seems possible that the bridge has been in use for three decades.

Conceived by undaunted and confident engineers in the late 1920s, constructed during the late 1930s; the dream of a bridge here was realized with its dedication Aug. 18, 1938. Now comes a 30th anniversary rededication.

Has the bridge lived up to expectations? Yes — and more! It has helped the economy of this region and adjacent Canada tremendously. It has promoted the free exchange of trade. It has early surveys traffic engineers predicted the maximum number of vehicles annually would be 400,000. The 1,000,000 figure for one year was reached in 1956. Last year, with 1,300,000 passengers and 14,500,000 vehicles have crofsed the bridge to Canada.

There is every reason for confident belief that the future of the Thousand Island International Bridge is even brighter.

John Diefenbaker's Role

Trois Rivieres Le Nouvelliste — The old lion from Prince Albert, John Diefenbaker, has not finished haunting those who stepped over his last fall. Now, while the Progressive Conservative party led by Robert Stanfield roels from its humiliating defeat June 25, Mr. Diefenbaker savors his personal victory by trying to prove that his detractors were very wrong in preferring Mr. Stanfield to himself. . . . But we must . . . admit that the Conservatives were right in rejecting Mr. Diefenbaker. . . . It is extremely unfortunate that he did not understand that the time for his retirement had come. Instead, Mr. Diefenbaker preferred to display a peevish reticence to even to fight a rearguard action against his own party as the result that he contributed directly to Mr. Stanfield's defeat.

The Progressive Conservative party must rediscover as quickly as possible a true unity of action and thought, for if not it will be doomed to defeat. Mr. Stanfield is aware of this gap and that is why he has called for a national policy-making conference for his party in the fall, in this case leaving aside the stated opinion of Mr. Diefenbaker.

Andrew Brewin and David Lewis Want NDP House Leadership

OTTAWA (CP) — At least two men will fight it out to succeed T. C. Douglas as the New Democratic Party's parliamentary leader.

Stanley Knowles, NDP MP for Winnipeg North Centre, said in an interview Monday that Andrew Brewin (Toronto Greenwood) and David Lewis (York South) have indicated they will try for the job.

Mr. Knowles, who said he won't be in the contest, said others may enter. The decision will be made by the party's parliamentary group of 22 at a Winnipeg meeting next Sunday.

While remaining as national leader, Mr. Douglas relinquishes the parliamentary leader's post because he lost his Commons seat in the June 25 election. He is expected to retire as national leader within a year.

Mr. Knowles said it would be wrong to suggest the important parliamentary post will become a launching pad for somebody who wants to succeed Mr. Douglas as national leader.

The disposition of the party caucus is different, Mr. Knowles said. The caucus does not wish to give anybody an inside track in the leadership contest that will develop later.

Neither Mr. Lewis, 59, nor Mr. Brewin, 60, have leadership aspirations, Mr. Knowles said. Both have said so and there seems to be a feeling the big job should go to a younger man.

Besides the "friendly ballot" to decide a parliamentary leader, the caucus will also choose other caucus officers, Mr. Knowles, 60, said he will seek only to retain his dual post of party whip and House leader.

Socreds Lose 3 In BC

VICTORIA (CP) — The opposition Liberals and New Democrats upheld their strength in British Columbia's Social Credit-dominated legislature Monday in three byelections.

The Liberals retained seats in urban North Vancouver-Capilano and Oak Bay with ease while the NDP held off Social Credit to win rural Revelstoke-Slocan by a handful of votes.

Leaders of all three parties saw the bright side in the byelections, called to fill vacancies caused by resignations.

"It was a good fight by the Social Credit candidates in all three ridings," said Premier W. A. C. Bennett. His party's candidates ran second in the three races.

"It's always hard to win byelections, especially when held by opposition parties," he added.

The Liberal victories in North Vancouver-Capilano and Oak Bay were described by the former B.C. Liberal leader, Ray Perrault, as proof of a Liberal resurgence federally and provincially. The Liberals would be a clear alternative to Social Credit in a future general election, he added.

In Revelstoke, where the NDP candidate squeezed past the Social Crediter, NDP Leader Robert Strachan saw a heavy Social Credit defeat in the results.

"He made an all-out attack here," said Mr. Strachan in referring to Mr. Bennett. "Even so, the people stood up to his demands and refused to be blackmailed."

The byelections left unchanged house standings—Social Credit 32, NDP 17, Liberals six.

Lawyer Allan Cox, 41, the Liberal candidate, had no trouble taking Oak Bay, a suburban area of Victoria. He got 7,877 votes to Peter Pollen's 4,671 for Social Credit and 653 for Mira Yarwood of the NDP.

Electrical engineer Dave Brousson, a Liberal, won with ease in North Vancouver-Capilano, a Vancouver bedroom area. He got 5,561; Peter Robinson, Social Credit, 3,087; Sydney Simons, NDP, 1,261; Charles Maclean, Progressive Conservative, 453, and Communist James Benyon, 36.

It was a tough fight in interior Revelstoke-Slocan, a constituency with a heavy labor vote.

Trade Unionist William King of the NDP won the vote in a see-saw battle with Social Credit's Bert Campbell, publisher of the weekly Castlegar, B.C., News. With 55 of 59 polls reported—the outstanding polls were small and scattered—Mr. King had 5,432 votes to Mr. Campbell's 2,267. Liberal Frederick Delacherois, a locomotive engineer, had 456.

Oak Bay was vacated by Liberal Alan Macfarlane, who resigned to become a judge. Mr. Perrault resigned his seat in North Vancouver-Capilano to run, and win, in Burnaby-Seymour federal constituency June 25. Randolph Harding of the NDP vacated Revelstoke-Slocan to run, and also win, federally in Kootenay West.

The byelections—the last provincial election was in September, 1966—came on the heels of a May 31 byelection in Vancouver South, where the NDP took a Social Credit seat with relative ease.

Over-all, Social Credit's share of the popular vote in the three constituencies remained about the same as it was in the 1966 provincial election.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Dear me, I always seem to get in the wrong line."

Daniel Johnson Leaves Hospital

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson, who suffered a mild heart attack July 4 that forced him to set aside his heavy work load and rest in hospital, left the Quebec Cardiology Institute in suburban Ste. Foy Monday.

A statement issued by the premier's office said:

"His physical condition is excellent. He will continue his convalescence for several weeks at a resort in Quebec."

But while Mr. Johnson, 53, appears to be making a successful recovery, health problems still plague the Union Nationale cabinet.

Acting premier Maurice Bellemare, suffering from an internal hemorrhage, was admitted Sunday to hospital in Grand'Mere, about 25 miles north of Trois-Rivieres.

However, Mr. Bellemare, the labor minister, said Monday in a telephone interview from his hospital bed that he will issue from the institution in time to preside at a cabinet meeting here Thursday.

"Tell the people it's nothing serious," Mr. Bellemare told a reporter. "Say I will be out in a couple of days. I'll get my pants on tomorrow morning and start signing letters."

He said he went to hospital when he started coughing up blood, but the trouble—the torturing of a small stomach vein —was "nothing serious."

Mr. Bellemare, 56, became acting premier Friday when Justice Minister Bertrand, the original acting premier after Mr. Johnson became ill, left on a nine-day holiday.

Canadian Lake Carriers Place Losses In Seaway Strike at 10 to 12 Million

MONTREAL (CP) — The 32 member companies of the Canadian Lake Carriers' Association, operators of 200 Great Lakes vessels, are estimating their losses in the wake of the just-ended strike of 1,250 seaway workers at between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 to date.

But the shipping companies, port administrators and officials of the St. Lawrence Seaway claim the direct effects of the 24-day strike settled Sunday night will continue to be felt for at least a week and that losses to shippers will rise.

Losses to operators of oceangoing vessels were not known.

As the seaway came back into operation at midnight Sunday night, seaway workers began handling the downstream traffic of more than 250 vessels trapped in the lakes during the strike and the upriver movement of almost 100 vessels which had waited below Montreal.

About 20 ships moved up and down through the St. Lambert locks in Montreal during the first 12 hours after the locks opened.

Montreal, where ship traffic this season has been sluggish, appeared to be moving into a boom in the final week of the strike in contrast to talk of disaster in Great Lakes ports where longshoremen were being laid off.

But most of the ships that were anchored in or just outside Montreal harbor during the work stoppage were bulk carriers whose cargoes could not have been moved economically to Great Lakes ports by alternative methods of transport.

So it was only in the last few days before Sunday's settlement that ocean-going ships were reported waiting for wharf facilities and shortages of longshore gangs became acute.

At this time of year—a slack period between spring and fall peaks in business volume—the port normally handles 40 to 50 vessels a day.

But Guy Beaudet, Montreal port manager, said in an interview Monday the port's revenue from the 50 to 60 extra vessels it handled during the strike would be about $150,000—"peanuts" for a port the size of Montreal.

As the strike progressed, there was a problem in the shortage of longshore gangs. On one day the port was short 62 gangs and these shortages led to delays in ship turnaround.

Fewer than 2,500 of Montshoremen were actively engaged when the strike began.

This number did not increase significantly during the course of the strike because of continuing disagreement between the International Longshoremen's Association and the Shipping Federation of Canada over the size of work gangs.

Lineup at Montreal

Freighters near Montreal lie at anchor waiting to clear the St. Lawrence Seaway Monday after settlement of the 24-day strike by seaway workers. More than 350 vessels were tied up waiting to move through the Seaway. The strike was settled in Ottawa Saturday night. (CP Photo)

Allies Likely to Annul Order For Breaking Up Krupp Empire

LONDON (AP) — U.S., British and French authorities are nearing agreement to annul a 15-year-old Allied order for dismantling the multi-billion dollar Krupp industrial empire in West Germany.

Their imminent decision, reported by British sources Monday, results from a West German request for cancellation of the Allied decree on grounds that it no longer is relevant.

Alfried Krupp, who headed the giant coal and steel empire until his death last July 30, was convicted 21 years ago by the Allied war crimes tribunal as an engineer of slave labor.

The Krupp family also was identified with Germans who helped finance the rise of Hitler's Nazis.

The Allied powers ruled in 1953 that the enterprise must be dismantled as a means of preventing the development of a new German war potential.

Diplomats at the three Western powers—who have been meeting in Bonn—now have devised their governments that the Krupp concerns have been radically reorganized and that all control and ownership has passed out of the hands of the family. That idea has been accepted by Washington, London and Paris, the informant said.

Wills Acquits Constable

KINGSTON (CP) — Donald Baldree, 36-year-old provincial police constable from nearby Westbrook, was acquitted Monday of driving while intoxicated. He was charged after an off-duty accident May 7 when his car struck a pole on a Kingston street.

Three doctors testified Baldree suffered a severe neck injury and displayed symptoms of a post-concussion state shortly after the accident.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills of Belleville said it was the duty of the Crown to prove intoxication beyond any reasonable doubt and this was not done.

Two Brothers Freed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Magistrate F. K. Jasperson ruled Monday there was not enough evidence against two brothers charged with non-capital murder to send them to a higher court for trial.

Donald Elliott, 27, of Amherstburg, and John Elliott, 19, of Windsor, were charged with the non-capital murder of 16-year-old Bonnie Jean Norris, who was found stabbed to death in a ditch 20 miles south of Windsor May 3.

Mr. Jasperson said most of the Crown's evidence was circumstantial, no motive had been given and the murder weapon used had not been found.

Dief in Scotland

KILDONAN, Scotland (CP) — John Diefenbaker, continuing his tour of the Highlands, Monday unveiled a plaque dedicated to George Bannerman, his great-great grandfather, and to all the Selkirk settlers who emigrated from this little community more than a century ago.

Quebec Needs More Babies

QUEBEC (CP) — French-Canadians had better produce more babies if they want to survive in North America, says a private organization devoted to the preservation of the French culture.

In a 40-page pamphlet entitled The Crisis of the Quebec Birth Rate, the Council on French Life in America suggests that the provincial government should adopt a new family policy and give bonuses to productive parents.

To combat a fall in the provincial birth rate from 142,000 births in 1959 to fewer than 100,000 in 1967, the Quebec government should send a delegation to France to study methods used there.

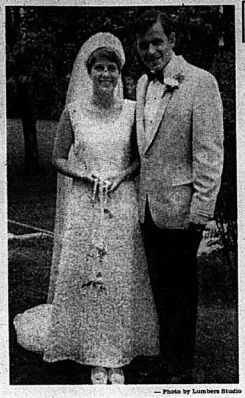
Club Activities



VICTORIA WILLING WORKERS

The July meeting of the Victoria Willing Worker group was chaired by president, Mrs. Roy Wetherall, with Mrs. Frank Townsend acting as hostess.

Several matters of business were discussed. A community picnic is to be held at the Ameliasburg Park on Sunday, August 11. Also, the U.W.W. members and families are invited to a pot luck dinner at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Calnan on Consecon Lake on August 20.

Mrs. Sidney Fox had charge of the study, which in this instance was the Holy Land. Mrs. Fox explained to members about the great amount of excavation and research work being done there. Pre-flood records have been found, as well as beautiful pottery, mathematics tablets and many other relics which revealed an astonishingly advanced civilization and a cultured society.

The meeting closed with Mrs. Townsend and committee serving lunch, after which a social time was enjoyed.

Successful Living

Student Sees Seven Years of School Ahead of Her

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Here I see my friend Josie dropping out of school and taking up a course in hairdressing. Very soon she'll be making money.

Meanwhile my family are insisting that I keep on at school and go to university. I can see at least seven years ahead of me before I can get going at anything. Then I'll get turned out like just another cog in a machine and I'll probably end up a frowsy housewife.

After that I'll die and nobody'll care what I did. — Depressed.

Dear Depressed: Well. That is disposing of you fast.

Whatever you decide you can do, you'll do it better with all the education you can absorb. This is true whether you mend bodies or draw pictures or raise children. And the years do pass.

Listen to this:

"Education is not something that is done for a student or to a student. It is no laying on of hands, no pouring in of information. It is what the student does for himself.

"Teachers can help; so can an atmosphere of devotion to things of the mind, but ultimately the problem is utterly the student's. If he would be an educated man, then he must give his best effort to the often discouraging task of disciplining his mind to the point where it is an effective mechanism, knowing full well that the trained mind is the most powerful instrument in the whole world." — Charles W. Cole, President, Amherst College.

This is quoted in the 1965-72 edition of You and University, a publication of The Guidance Centre, U. of T. College of Education.

* * *

Dear Doris: I have my elderly mother-in-law living with me. She is getting senile and very hard to manage.

She will not let me out of her sight, doesn't want to take a bath, etc. It is beginning to get on my nerves, as she is a heart patient and this 24-hour vigil is a bit too much.

She has a daughter who wants nothing to do with her, so it has all been left up to me. I should also say I have two young children and a teenager so have plenty of work. — Old Age Problem

Dear Problem: It comes natural to us to respect the ideas of those who are older.

But here there is a change in personality. We can no longer count on your mother-in-law to behave like a sensible adult. Think of her as a child, and without saying so to her, handle the day-to-day routines as you would those of a child.

You expect her to bathe, and will help her. You expect her to let you out of her sight, and promise her a little treat if she manages by herself till you get back. Help her occupy those tedious long hours.

Get the help and ideas of a public health nurse or visiting nursing service; a nurse can assume authority. What how she does it and take a tip from her.

* * *

Dear Doris: Do you have anything in suitable household jobs for different ages? I thought Parents Magazine had something 12 or 13 years ago but can't find it. — Pot Boiler.

Dear Pot Boiler: No, I don't. One mother I know handed her girls dishes to dry and put away at age two or three. Another won't send her boy downtown by himself at age 12.

Would readers who have worked their way through this like to share their ideas about matching tasks to ages?

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Good Recipe for Currant Jelly

By MARY MOORE

I was blue — not from cold for it was a deg.; not from depression for I was happy. It was black currant jelly that boiled over a little when the telephone rang at the wrong moment. But it jelled beautifully in the jars. Then I cleaned up.

To dedicated jelly makers I want to deliver one admonition: do not alter jelly recipes. Remember that the tests I make and that manufacturers' researchers make are the result of many trials (and errors). The finished approved recipe should be adhered to.

BLACK CURRANT JELLY
(Six 8-oz. or Eight 6-oz. Jars)

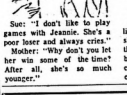
1 quart black currants (about 4½ to 4¾ cups)
3 cups hot water
1 cup water (second amount)
1 box, plus 4 tsps. powdered pectin (Certo crystals)
5 1-3 cups sugar

Wash black currants in colander. Drain. Turn into large saucepan, add 3 cups hot water and bring to boil, cover and simmer 25 min. Line colander or large strainer with triple cheesecloth or double old cotton tea towel and strain currants and juice — preferably overnight. Put pulp into saucepan, add 1 cup water and bring to boil, covered, and simmer 25 min. Strain through colander as above into first amount juice, for about 4 hours. Discard pulp. Measure juice. I had 4 cups.

Bring juice to boil, add powdered pectin and boil, stirring one minute. Add sugar and boil hard, stirring, one minute. Remove from heat and pour into sterile jam jars and seal with clean melted paraffin and cover with lids. Label.

RED CURRANT JELLY
(Without added pectin)

1 qt. washed red currants, stems on (5 cups)
1 cup hot water
1½ cups sugar



In enamel or stainless steel kettle pour hot water over red currants, bring to boil and boil gently, covered, 15 min. Line colander or large strainer with triple cheesecloth or double cotton tea towel and drain several hours or overnight. Measure. I had 2 cups. Bring to boil and boil 5 min. Add sugar and boil until when tested for jelling from edge of metal spoon two drops tend to form and merge. Pour at once into sterile jelly jars and seal with clean melted paraffin, cover and label.

Dinner Menu

Chilled Vegetable Juice; Baked Whitefish Fillets; Tartare Sauce; Buttered Celery and Peas; Fluffy Boiled Rice; Fruited Jello; Coffee.

Sue: "I don't like to play games with Frankie's a poor loser and always cries."

Mother: "Why don't you let her win some of the time? After all, she's so much younger."

Mother: "Jeannie is too little to play games that take skill. Here is an easy game that depends on luck. It will be fun for both of you because you'll have more equal chances."

Ann Landers

Doctors Human Beings; Also Make Mistakes

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was surprised that you made reference to the surgeon who took off the the wrong leg by mistake. The medical profession doesn't like that kind of publicity.

ANN LANDERS

Several years ago my wife was in the hospital for a minal dior operation. The morning she was scheduled for surgery, a physician walked into her room and said in his cheeriest voice, "You certainly don't look like a woman of 66." My wife replied, "I hope I don't. I'm 45." The doctor gulped and stammered, "Uh, I must have the wrong chart here." He left and returned a few moments later with the correct chart.

Heaven only knows what would have happened if the mistake had not been discovered. The woman whose chart the doctor held may have been scheduled for a gall bladder operation of a thyroidectomy. I'm writing to alert you to the fact that doctors are not God. They are human beings who make mistakes, just like everyone else, and it pays to check on them. — HUSBAND OF A NEAR-VICTIM.

DEAR HUSBAND: Thank you for your letter. I knew before you wrote that doctors are no' God and they make mistakes like everyone else. I have expressed those very sentiments in this column on numerous occasions.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I accepted a job with this organization eight months ago today. A woman I met here impressed me as extremely bright and friendly. I liked her at once. Now the problem:

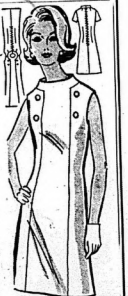
This woman has worn the same washable two-piece corduroy outfit every day since we met. She is not hard up financially. Her husband has a top-notch position and she also makes an excellent salary. I have been to their home and seen several dresses hanging in her closet. When I asked her why she never wore them she replied, "They are too large. I used to be quite heavy." I offered to give her the name of my alteration lady but she said, "It wouldn't be worth it."

The woman is neat and clean, but can you imagine what that corduroy suit looks like after being worn every day for eight months? I do believe the dear lady will wear that suit to her grave. Would she be offended if I presented her with a decent dress in her size? — WACO.

DEAR WACO: Save your money. Your friend has a psychological thing going with that corduroy suit and she will continue to wear it until it falls off her back. Be thankful that she is a neat and clean and don't make her hang up your problem.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you tell me please what the duties of a minister's wife are? When is she supposed to find time for her own family and the activities she considers fun and not obligations? I've asked this question of several friends who are married to ministers and they don't know the answer. Do you? — DAWN TO DUSK HELPMATE.



DEAR DAWN: This problem is one you ought to talk over with your clergyman.

* * *

Confidential to HOOT OWL: Of course you can't sleep nights. You sleep days. Drag your carcass out of bed in the morning and fix breakfast for your family. Perhaps if you were a self-starter your husband wouldn't have to be a crank.

The Belleville Juniors and the Batawa Braves are leading the junior soccer league and tempers flared Monday as both teams fought for the winning goal.

The Belleville Juniors took the early lead on a goal by Joe Iasenza in the first half. The Belleville team captain scored on his own rebound from a penalty shot.

Batawa came back midway through the second half when Borcv Mitrovich followed up a shot blocked by Belleville goalkeeper Don Tomas with a goalmouth rebound kick to even the score.

Hatzic Dike Breaks

Water rushes through a break in the Hatzic dike during the Frazer Valley floods of 1948. The Frazer River waters smashed through a CPR roadbed which forms the main dike, washed out a main highway and covered 12 square miles to a depth of 15 feet. Before the flood waters receded, 50,000 of the valley's 87,000 acres were under water. (CP Photo)

Busloads of Children Attended Shrine Club Circus

By GEO. H. CARVER

The police car moved slowly through downtown Toronto streets.

Escorting the car was a six-man motorcycle detail of the metropolitan police force.

Two ahead, two abreast and two in the rear.

Ontario Provincial Police corporal Jim Anderson and a constable rode in the front seat of the car.

In the rear sat a stockily-built baldheaded man.

The motorcade was given the traffic right-of-way through downtown Toronto.

Curious people lined the streets as the escorted car moved slowly downtown.

A woman darted out from the crowd to get a closer look at the rear-seat occupant.

He suddenly pointed a finger at her and she fled to the safety of the sidewalk crowd.

"You," said Corporal Anderson over his shoulder, "are quite a celebrity. These people figure you are another Al Capone."

"Perhaps," said his constable buddy, "we had better handcuff you to make it look realistic."

"Perhaps," said the rear-seat rider, "you had better give me your gun to make it look more realistic".

Downtown the crowd grew thicker. It pushed over the pavement as the escorted car drew near Maple Leaf Gardens.

It was one of the outstanding and funniest experiences of my newspaper life.

I was the guy in the back seat and the police car in which I was riding was leading a fleet of buses carrying Shrine Club crippled kiddies to the famous Morton Shrine Circus in the ML Gardens.

Some six or seven buses carried the crippled kiddies of the Bay of Quinte District. Included were retarded children from the area.

The OPP car led the parade and was met at the eastern limits of Toronto by the motorcycle escort.

Some distance separated the police car from the leading bus. Toronto people could not see the bus parade, nothing but a police motorbike escort riding herd on an OPP car with a suspicious-looking character in the back seat.

We drew a halt outside the Gardens while a crowd milled around looking with some surprise when the "prisoner" of the back seat was helped out by OPP officers and allowed to go his way.

Then the buses arrived and the crowd situation was cleared up. .

In those days I covered practically all the Shrine Club crippled kiddies functions — parties, Christmas celebrations, trips to the Fair camping.

Prior to leaving Belleville on the circus trip, my OPP friend Corporal Anderson invited me to ride in the rear seat of the police car.

I wasn't too fussy then, nor am I now, about riding in a bus, so I gladly accepted the invitation.

So for once a newspaper reporter became a celebrity if only for a short time.

Trenton

Boat Business Increases - - Fewer Tourists Visit Area

TRENTON — Despite bad weather, and rising park costs tourist businesses in the Trenton area seem to be holding their own.

Perhaps the biggest attraction in the area is the Trent waterway which, according to a spokesman at Lock No. 3, is handling "more boats than ever."

The total number to pass through the first lock was 363 boats as opposed to 271 at this time last year. Also 60 boats from south of the border had been lifted through the locks.

"Most of them that come through appreciate the scenery here," said a spokesman, "and we have lots of regular visitors that keep coming back."

But there are two sides to every coin.

Motel and hotel owners in the Trenton area were only a few exceptions that business has dropped off this year.

One owner attributed last year's increase to Expo.

"We're going to have to come up with something to get the Americans back," another said.

Another motel owner put it this way:

"Last year they came to see Expo so they didn't really see this part of the country but if they did they would come back."

The Trenton Chamber of Commerce says "everyone is staying home to rest after last year."

The C of C reports a drop in the number of visitors from the west and the U.S. while the influx of visitors from more nearby areas has kept in tune with that of last year.

What many consider to be the areas top tourist attraction, Presqu'le Park, reports a drop in the number of visitors.

Pitching—George Brunet, Angels, hurled a five-hitter and ended a personal six-game losing streak against Detroit as California beat the Tigers 4-0 and sliced their A m e i c a n League lead to 6½ games.

But this weekend was reported to be the busiest of the season.

Ralph Tippett, Park Superintendant, reports that 1,000 people came to the camp sites on the weekend while on Sunday alone approximately 600 hit the beach.

But there has been an overall drop from last year.

Mr. Tippett attributes the decrease to the weather. He says that the rising costs have had little effect on the out of town tourist trade.

"We have never had complaints about our prices from people outside this area", he said.

"It is only the local residents who believe the price is too high."

Zwick's Beach: Not Big, But Bustling; Suddenly a Recreation Must

Zwick's Island--A Recreation Oasis

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Bilingualism may have posed its political problems.

But personally, it has paid off for a 19-year-old Bellevillian.

Roemary Soden soon is off to France on a 10-day trip with most expenses paid. Which — in any language — is A-OK!

The teenage daughter of city councillor Kenneth Sodra is one of 19 young Ontario residents selected to participate in a program sponsored by the French government.

They will travel in three groups between now and September, touring regions of France to gain direct knowledge of varying aspects of French life.

The young Canadians are recruited from all fields of endeavor in which problems of "vital importance" to youth are emphasized.

Rosemary, who will leave Aug. 4, is currently an honors economics student at York University's Glendon College.

But her French - language proficiency predates her university day.

She first began learning French while at Nicholson Catholic College in Belleville. She became sufficiently fluent by the end of grade 12 to participate in a student - exchange visit to Quebec.

She first heard about the possibilities of the visit to France some time ago when the Department of Education's youth and recreation branch was assembling the tour in collaboration with the French consulate general.

Then came the political upheavals in France and she was sure the whole trip was off.

"Then I heard two weeks ago they were going to send me after all," says Rosemary. "I was pretty thrilled.

The tour, besides a stay in Paris, will take in the Avignon international youth festival. The big event brings 300 delegates annually from more than 40 countries.

Rosemary, fond of sailing, will mix the sport with language brushups in the interval.

After the visit it's back to Glendon and two more years of studies.

And then?

Rosemary, an Ontario scholar, would like to enter "some field of radio journalism."

Water--But for Waders Only!

If pollution tests close Zwick's Island shoreline, there's still the park's wading pool. But it's for youngsters only — like this three-year-old. Adults, like his mother, would be without facilities for cooling summer dips now provided by adjacent beach.

City recreation officials are keeping crossed fingers this week over Zwick's Island Park.

The minor case of trepidation results from hot weather and health tests.

The tests have been run by Hastings County health officials on beach water at the island recreation centre and results are expected toward the end of the week.

Already water pollution has closed five other Quinte district swimming areas — three of them in Belleville.

Anxiety of recreation authorities is underscored by the obvious public success of the park.

Officially opened last year its routine role was obscured by the novelty of newness and Centennial year hoopla.

This year, the island park really came into its own, blossoming as a shaded retreat offering both passive and active relaxation.

For the first time too, its beach realized the full potential of a prime location on the Bay of Quinte. The sandy strip put an ideal finishing touch to the park's facilities.

For years, it had been predictably posted as unsafe for swimming by health authorities. Last year was the first time the ban was found unnecessary.

This summer, the beach has been a hive of activity — and not only on weekends.

Daily, the area has been a lively scene for tourists and city residents.

Attendance soared, a life guard was posted at the spot and recreation officials have plans to moor a boat there for possible emergencies.

The surrounding Bay water has been regularly tested since summer started.

"The results were good until last week," Dr. C. R. Lenk, Hastings County health officer said today.

"We had a pretty good reaction up to this point" agreed Lorne Williams, recreation commission administrator.

However, he added, continued warm weather could cause the situation to change. An adverse test result would bring chagrin to recreation officials, admitted Mr. Williams.

The beach is only one unit in the park's recreation complex.

Zwick's also has a wading pool, but this is only for younger children.

For older youngsters, teenagers and adults the beach has been an ideal location.

Its availability also has been a happy circumstance for many city families unable to make it to the bigger beach areas of district provincial parks.

"It would be a tremendous disappointment to these people," says Mr. Williams.

Canners Work Full Blast

DAVID LEES
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — The manager of an area canning factory miserably outlined the ancient problem of farmers, and of all who have anything to do with growing yesterday.

"If the hot weather doesn't let up the peas are going to be hurt," he said. Then in the next breath, "tomatoes are coming along poorly, we need more hot weather."

On the whole however, the growing season has been kind to area farmers.

Homer Walters, manager at the Baxter Canning Co. in Bloomfield said that the company is working full blast processing peas.

The yield and quality of the crop is good he said, the major problem at this time, is just keeping up with the harvest.

Crews are working all out at the plant, sometimes for as much as 15 hours per day. A lot of peas get processed that way.

Mr. Baxter said that from the time the peas arrive at the plant, are unloaded, shelled, and cleaned, less than 15 minutes has elapsed.

From the original harvesting to the final canning, usually less than an hour is required, he added.

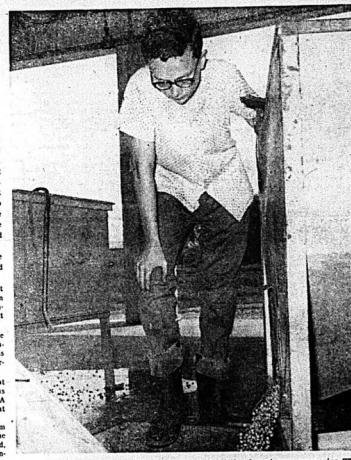
Processing of peas began June 30, and will likely be completed sometime during the first week in August.

The next major crop to be processed at the plant will be tomatoes.

That crop has been poor this year, said Mr. Baxter. Too much rain, and not enough warmth during the early spring have cut down on the quality he said. He noted that if hot weather continues the crop could be a good one.

The Cherry Valley Canning Company, has just begun work on raspberries. That crop, said manager Don Walker is a reasonably good one.

What is needed at this time, he said, is more moisture.



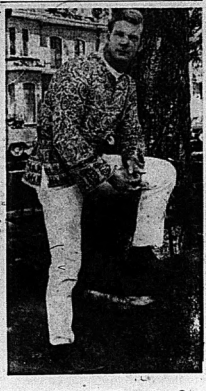
Cherries will be processed possibly in three weeks. The crop is poor. Cold weather during the blossoming period prevented proper, and complete pollination he said.

While rains, and cool weather covered most of the county, one corner enjoyed fair weather throughout.

Mrs. Gwen Owen, manager of the East Lake Canning Company, said the area had been fortunate weather wise, resulting in a good crop of raspberries, and what looks to be a strong if somewhat late, production of tomatoes.

In contrast, Hyatt Canners, at Cherry Valley, face a poor growth of the vegetables.

Tomatoes are going to be very late and very small said a spokesman for the company.



Shipments of peas are arriving throughout the day at area canneries. The crop is said to be a good one although other crops have done poorly. Beginning the canning process is Neil Shillingden at the Baxter Canning Co., Bloomfield.

Less than an hour is usually required to convert peas in the pod, in the field . . . to peas in the can, in the plant. Dennis Rutter, at the Baxter Canning Co., Bloomfield, keeps a watch on his end of the production line.

Stamps Are Serious Already

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders settled down to serious business Monday night while five other Canadian Football League teams experimented wildly at quarterback.

Peter Liske, Calgary's all-Canadian quarterback last season, threw three touchdown passes to direct the Stampeders to a 30-11 exhibition victory over Montreal Alouettes.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, using two quarterbacks, managed a 24-22 victory over British Columbia Lions who employed three signal callers.

Two quarterbacks helped Edmonton Eskimos to a 24-13 triumph over Winnipeg Blue Bombers who auditioned three quarterbacks.

Liske tossed touchdown passes of 10 yards to Pat Claridge, 29 to Terry Evanshen and 26 to Gerry Shaw. He completed 12 of 20 aerials for 150 yards.

Ben Woodson ran three yards for the other Calgary touchdown, and Larry Robinson kicked four converts. The Stampeders' other two points came on a safety touch when Montreal quarterback Ed Buscell was called for intentionally grounding the ball behind the Als' goal line.

A crowd of 17,000 in Montreal saw the Alouettes pick up 10 points in the second quarter on a 16-yard pass to Dave Lewis from quarterback Carroll Williams, a 37-yard field goal by Jim Long and a 61-yard punt for a single by Lewis, in the last minute of play. Lewis added an 81-yard single.

Williams was good on eight of 15 passes for Montreal while Buscell completed three of seven.

The victory left Calgary undefeated in three preseason games. The Alouettes have won one of two starts.

Ted Gerella accounted for British Columbia points with four field goals, a single and convert. Bob Hoskins dropped Hamilton quarterback Bill Redell in the Ticats' end zone for a safety touch. Pete Ohler, the best of three signal callers scored the team's only touchdown.

A crowd of 14,500 in Hamilton saw Al Smith, Dave Fleming and Willie Bethea score Ticat touchdowns. Tommy Joe Coffey booted three converts and a single point.

B.C. used Hank Schiehtle, Paul Brothers and Ohler at quarterback while Hamilton employed Joe Zuger and Redell.

About 5,000 fans at Winnipeg saw the Bombers lose their third straight exhibition game. Edmonton has two wins in three starts.

Edmonton touchdowns were scored by Don Lisbon, Art Perkins and quarterback Charlie Pullen who ran 72 yards for the final Eskimo score. Peter Kempf converted all three and added a 25-yard field goal.

Butch Pressley ran seven yards for Winnipeg's only touchdown while Pierre Guindon kicked two 28-yard field goals and a convert.

Frank Cosentino played most of the game at quarterback for Edmonton, but Fullon created plenty of excitment in his brief appearance.

Winnipeg coach Joe Zaleski alternated John Schneider and Luther Selbe. Ralph Schoenfield appeared briefly late in the game.

Cementmen Rocking Belvedere's Leading Boat

Belvedere Hotel is finding Commercial League sailing not so smooth these days. The league - leaders dropped their second straight loss last night, this time to fifth - place Point Anne by a 4-2 count.

Saturday, third - place Stinson's Construction had taken some wind out of the Belvedere sails with a 1-0 win.

Last night's loss, combined with Saturday's defeat, leaves the Hoteimen with an 11-5 mark and 22 points. Point Anne moved into a tie with Black Diamond for fourth with the win. Both teams have 14 points with Black Diamond having a game in hand.

The initial scoring in Monday's game at Point Anne came from the home team in the fourth. Belvedere pitcher Wayne McConnell sent Rick Rosebush to first bit by a pitch, then moved him to second a he hit Gerald Maher with another pitch. With two men on, Wayne Brown tagged a double to move Maher to third and score Rosebush.

Belvedere came back in the fifth with two runs. Bob Lloyd got on through an error, then came in on Rusty Garvin's double. Garvin moved around on a single by Dale Duvall.

That out it at 2-1 for the Hoelmen moving into the Point Anne half of the fifth. But the Cementmen poured it on with two runs in their turn at the plate.

McConnell seemed to be having trouble with his control again after hitting two batters in the fourth. He walked Larry Fraser, the lead-off Cementman in the fifth, then fanned catcher Dave Akey, only to walk Jim Horwood.

Rosebush's single moved Fraser home and Horwood to second. Horwood came home later in the inning on a pick-off play that caught Rosebush napping for the second out.

That made it 3-2 for Point Anne going into the sixth. The Belvedere nine collected two hits in the top of the sixth, but couldn't bring a man home.

In the bottom of the sixth, the Cementmen picked up a little insurance as Gerald Maher hit a single, stole second, then came home on a double by Point Anne pitcher Jamie Hunter.

Winning pitcher, Hunter allowed two runs on seven hits while walking none and fanning five. McConnell allowed four on five with three walks for the loss. He also hit three batters with pitches. The Hoteiman hurler fanned eight.

The Cementmen were led at the bats by Rosebush, Hunter and Brown with RBI's. Hunter, Brown and Fraser had doubles for Point Anne while Rosebush and Gerald Maher had singles.

Garvin and Duvall picked up the Belvedere RBI's. Garvin and D. Smith had doubles while Hoteiman went to Duvall, Cliff Hineman, Lyle Wannamaker and Paul Goodfellow. McConnell also collected a single.

In an experimental mood a few years back, researchers at a Toronto television station decided they'd test how well Canadians could identify some of the famous in their midst.

A dozen photographs of renowned Canadians in all fields of endeavor were flashed on the screen, and 1,000 viewers were asked which of the 12 they could identify by occupation.

That was one of the few popularity polls Gordie Howe has ever lost, coming in a respectable 88 per cent second to a fellow by the name of Lester Pearson.

Mr. Howe is just that well known.

This is one of those few athletes whose names have become synonymous with their sport. Howe has done for hockey what Stan Musial did for baseball, or what Stanley Matthews did for soccer in Great Britain.

And that's to prove that you can be the best there is, and still be a nice guy.

And nobody in their right mind will argue that Gordie Howe, for the past 20-odd years, hasn't been just about the best on skates. In fact, most hockey buffs, including one Bobby Hull, will tell you right off he's the best ever.

The "nice guy" end of things?

Well that's what the disarming gentleman from Floral, Saskatchewan will be doing in Belleville tomorrow.

Combining business with pleasure, Gordie is currently on his fifth annual Cross-Canada junket for the Eaton Stores chain.

Toy thousands of Howe fans in the communities he visits, it's maybe a once-in-a-lifetime chance to see "Mr. Hockey."

And it's Belleville's turn tomorrow!

Gordie is scheduled to touch down in the harbor by seaplane in the afternoon, and will invite a siege of autograph hounds with a 3.30 appearance at Eaton's Front St. catalogue office.

And if plans go as scheduled, Mr. Howe will make some occupants of Belleville General Hospital's children's ward the happiest little kids people around.

Joyce Game

Batting Battle Seen

A battle for EOBA batting honors will be just one thing in store for those who attend tomorrow night's senior baseball game at the Fairgrounds between the Belleville Joyces and Kingston Lakeview Centennials.

Larry Mavety was batting at a .459 clip as of official EOBA July 1 statistics, but the hefty Joyce catcher has stroked at least half a dozen safeties in the last couple of games to keep the pressure on Kingston's Guy White.

White sported a .500 average July 1.

Tomorrow night's game, getting under way at 8 p.m., will also see the frustrated defending all-Ontario titlists from Kingston try to down the Belleville seniors for the first time this season.

The Joycers have had the upper hand in three meetings to date, even managing to beat Kingston 9-7 on their home field Sunday without the services of mound stalwart Bill Latchford.

Belleville's EOBA squad now boasts a 9-3 won-lost record, good for first place in the loop standings.

Tomorrow night's tilt will be the second-last chance for city fans to see the Joycers in action at home before they enter playoffs.

Trent League

"Shud" Leads Senior Attack

By JERRY HOFF
Staff Writer

Pitcher "Shud" Ethier led Belleville's senior softball team to their third Trent Valley League win last night, slamming a sixth inning fly ball to centre to score three runs, and fashion a 3-2 margin over Trenton's Carm's Cleaners.

Ralph Plane and Carl Boomhower added a triple and a double respectively in the eighth to bring the final tally in the game to 5-2.

The win puts Wood's Construction seniors at 3-6-1 for the year.

The Trenton nine established a 2-0 lead over the locals on runs scored in the second and third.

Vickery of Trenton scored after reaching first with a single, then coming home on a triple by Barker. Trenton's McAlpine tallied the other run when Vickery collected an RBI on a third - inning triple.

The locals were scoreless until the sixth. Then Boomhower and catcher Larry Mavety got on and Ethier slammed a long fly ball at Trenton's centrefielder McAlpine who chased it while Ethier and his mates touched all the bases.

Carl Boomhower led off the other Belleville rally, this one in eighth. He slugged a triple, then came home on Plane's double.

Second baseman Joe Clapp poked a hard grounder to Trenton shortstop Garrett and the Trenton infielder decided that Clapp at first and then Plane at home sounded good.

He made the throw in time to pick up the out at first, but Plane found those softball baselines shorter than the hardball distances he was used to, and scored easily.

Mavety closed the inning with a single.

Trenton came back for their last chance in the top of the ninth, but Clapp was right there on the ball, catching two pop-ups and scooping up a ground ball to retire Trenton one-two-three.

Boomhower started out on the slab for the locals, but was relieved by Ethier in the third after allowing Trenton's two runs on five hits. Ethier allowed no runs on ten hits over the rest of the route.

Paul Wannamaker of Trenton also allowed five runs on nine hits in taking the loss.

Allen's Heavy Bat Keeps Phils Clicking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richie Allen's heavy bat—42 ounces—powered Philadelphia Phillies to their seventh straight victory since the All-Star break.

Allen hit two homers, good for three runs, as the Phillies beat New York Mets 5-3 Monday night.

"His uses a very heavy bat," says Phillies' manager Bob Skinner, "but he's so strong he can still whip it through the zone."

In the seven games since the All-Star game, Allen has collected 15 hits in 30 at-bats, five homers and 14 RBI. This spree has lifted his season average to .314, with 20 homers and 53 RBI.

In other National League games, St. Louis Cardinals topped Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2, Chicago Cubs edged Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 in 10 innings and Atlanta Braves beat San Francisco Giants 4-2. The Houston at Cincinnati game was postponed because of wet grounds.

Allen homered in the first inning with Tony Gonzales on base and with bases empty in the fourth to give the Phillies a 3-0 lead. He later added a single.

Leading 3-2, the Phillies wrapped up the game in the ninth by scorin gtwice on Tony Taylor's single and consecutive doubles by John Briggs and Clay Dalrymple.

Mike Shannon's two-run homer, tied the game and pinch hitter Phil Gagliano's single in the winner as league-leading St. Louis won its fifth straight and lead Los Angeles to its fifth consecutive loss.

The key hits by Shannon and Gagliano came in a four-run seventh inning that was climaxed by Lou Brock's RBI double.

Los Angeles took a 2-0 lead when Jim Ledebrve singled home one run and Willie Davis tripled and scored on an error.

Chicago pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., sent Pittsburgh to its 10th straight loss by driving in a run with a two-out single in the 10th.

The losing streak equals the longest in the Pirates' modern history. The all-time club record is 23 straight in 1890.

Jenkins, 8-9, fired a six-hitter.

Pittsburgh scored in the fourth when Maury Wills doubled and scored on Matty Alou's single. The Cubs tied it in the fifth on Dick Nen's triple and Randy Hundley's single. The winning run was set up when Hundley was hit by a pitch and advanced to second by an infield out.

Tigers Drop 4th Since All-Star Break

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Detroit Tigers look back they'll see Baltimore Orioles looking ahead to this weekend and next.

The Tigers lost Monday night for the fourth time in five games since the All-Star break, bowing to California Angels 4-0. Their American League lead was chopped to 6½ games as second-place Baltimore clobbered New York Yankees 8-2.

Elsewhere, Cleveland Indians nipped Minnesota Twins 4-3, Oakland Athletics bombed Boston Red Sox 12-5 and Chicago White Sox downed Washington Senators 3-2.

Tiger Stadium should be jumping this weekend when the Orioles arrive for a four-game series. Detroit visits Baltimore for a three-game set the following weekend. In all, the two teams have 13 games left against one another.

Jim Fregosi and Aurelio Rodrigues backed George Brunet's five-hit pitching with two-run homers as California blanked Detroit and swept a two-game series. The Angely managed only three hits but two of them were the homers, both coming with two out.

In the third inning, Vic Davalillo got the Angels' first hit off Mickey Lolich, a double, and Fregosi lined his ninth homer over the fence in left.

Lolich appeared to be out of the fourth inning. But Al Kaline, playing first base, dropped a throw for what would have been the third out and Rodrigues sliced his first homer of the season over the right field fence.

When Earl Weaver took over as manager of the Orioles five games ago, he said his club was not out of the race. All five games later and the Orioles and the Orioles are making Weaver look good.

Baltimore collected only nine hits Monday night but seven different batters drove in the runs. Frank Robinson knocked in the first with a triple and scored on Boog Powell's bunt. Frank scored again on a sacrifice fly by Brooks Robinson and the Orioles added three runs in the sixth.

It should be noted, however, that the five triumphs under Weaver have been against the Senators and Yankees and Baltimore is 20-2 against those two teams under the combined Hank Bauer-Weaver leadership.

Duke Sims' two-run homer in the third helped Cleveland—only 3½ games back—build an early four-run lead and the Indians needed it as Mike Paul and Stan Williams put down a late Minnesota rally to preserve Sonny Siebert's 10th victory. It was the Twins' 12th loss in 15 games.

In Bisley Shoot...

Burly Sergeant Wins Rifle Title

BISLEY, England (CP) — A burly sergeant from Cochrane, Ont., gave Canada her first win Monday in the opening stages of the 99th annual Bisley shoot for the Commonwealth's top marksmen.

Sgt. Alton S. Laycox of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Guards, won the Kinnaird Trophy event for service rifles at 200 yards.

In the seven-shot firing, Laycox, an army veteran of 14 years, registered 33 out of 35 to nose out D. Lython, a civilian from the Bury Muzzle-Loaders Club of Lancashire, who had 32.

The trophy, commemorates the late Lord Kinnaird, who was 1887-1922 secretary of Britain's National Rifle Association, host to the 1,300 competitors.

Laycox triumphed over shooting conditions described by old Bisley hands of "atrocious" to take the Kinnaird against a field of Commonwealth military shots and British servicemen who have been competing there for the last 10 days in other events.

Normally, several of the 60 entrants in the Kinnaird score the possible but Monday the figures were lowered by the poor visibility—with the sun chasing in and out of clouds—and a twisting wind moving quickly between three and 12 miles an hour.

In a snapshooting event during the day—the Sitting-Laycox and Cpl. Ken Fleming of the guards, from Lindsay, Ont., managed to tie for 18th in a list of 264 entrants. They shot 47 out of a possible 50 at 200 yards.

Title "Fight"

Boxer's Backers Threaten Court Battle

EDMONTON (CP) — Backers of Canadian featherweight boxing champion Billy McGrandle of Edmonton say they will go to court to keep his next title fight in Edmonton.

Mitch Klimowe, the boxer's manager, said Monday night it was simply the location of the fight, not the money involved, which was forcing the backers to take this stand.

Klimowe was replying to a statement by the president of the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation Sunday that McGrandle would have to sign a contract to fight Rocky MacDougall of Sydney, N.S., by 6 p.m. today.

CPBF president Sam Ermen of Moncton said the fight would have to be fought in the East and, if the contract was not signed in the allotted time, McGrandle would forfeit a $1,000 bond and his title would be declared vacant until he appeared before a federation committee.

"We have fulfilled our obligation to fight Rocky MacDougall," replied Klimowe. "A reasonable amount was offered, plus two airfare and all expenses to fight in Edmonton on July 31.

"His manager turned us down and wanted the fight in the East. This seems quite strange that a challenger should demand the site of a fight.

"McGrandle has done nearly all his fighting in Edmonton and the Edmonton public, who have supported him, deserve to see any title match."

Klimowe said MacDougall's backers had offered McGrandle only $100 more to fight in the East, but said this wasn't the issue at stake.

Winner In "22" Flat

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — It's official now: Vootrekker is the corrected time winner of the transatlantic yacht race.

The 50-foot ketch sailed by South African Bruce Dalling finished second in the over-all race to Englishman Geoffrey Williams and his 57-foot ketch Sir Thomas Lipton.

But Vootrekker was declared the corrected time winner with a time of 21 days, 19 hours and 51 minutes. The South African yacht's actual elapsed time was 26 days, 12 hours and 42 minutes.

Four boats still to be heard from in the event which began at Plymouth, England June 1 include the Amistad, an American yacht sailed by B. Rodriquez, and the Goodwin II, a Swedish yacht that radioed the coast guard at Halifax, on July 10 that it was running out of water.

The Swedish Embassy reported that water was brought to the skipper, A. Mattson, on that date and he has not been heard from since.

Was Local Sports Scene Not in Award Drama?

By GEO. H. CARVER

"I noted" said a senior member of the Grey Thatch Bowl Lawn Club, "that when the centennial medals were being flung around, athletes and men prominent in sport were given the cold shoulder".

"With the exception" he added, "of Peg and Jane McCutcheon, the city's figure-skating sweethearts."

"I have no fault to find with the selection made by the powers-that-be, but why were those connected with athletics who have done a top job in putting this city in provincial, national, international and world headliner left out?"

"I agree" said another. "Take men like Jack Carson, 'Mr. Baseball' hereabouts and throughout Ontario, who though physically handicapped has devoted his life to the diamond sport. He was president of the Ontario Baseball Association for two years after serving many years as a member of the executive, became president of the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association, and currently is the president of the city's Joyce senior baseball squad."

This city has sent as many if not more sports-minded men to the presidential chair of provincial sports organizations than any other community of its size in Canada.

The district can take a bow, too, Doug Patterson of Stirling 'Mr. Minor Hockey" is a past president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

Jack Devine rose from the director's ranks of the Ontario Hockey Association and is its current president.

Don Lee, who nurtured softball here for years, is a past-president of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association. The "senator" Harry Rollins has been the OASA honorary president for, lo, these many years.

Gerry Hyde, who was honored with a centennial medal, is a past president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association.

Other sports figures like Cliff Belch and Jim Tebworth have been honored with executive positions in softball.

Ken Carr Brant, owner, manager and coach of the Apollo Barbell Club of this city, has twice been named Canada's national coach of its weightlifting team. He has taken his proteges to two Olympics, the world championship in Teheran, and to British Empire Games in Kingston, Jamaica and Winnipeg.

Individual athletes have added to the lustre of this city's proud sports achievements since the turn of the century.

There's Vern Goyer, all-round athlete, who did a stint in the navy in world war two, and later became famous in hockey, football, baseball and softball. Vern played with the Toronto Argonauts after discharge and did a 55 - minute stint as a lineman in a Grey Cup game.

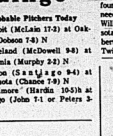
Goyer is a member of a famous Belleville athletic family. His father and uncle were prominent in hockey and baseball, Vern starred in senior hockey here for years as did brother Leo. The famous "Gillmill" will not soon be forgotten.

Let's go back. There was the famous Walt Gerow who took CNR baseball teams to Ontario championships. There was the late Bill Green and Dave Winters and Eddie Thomas of early hockey fame. Eddie took his 1936 Redmen to a provincial championship.



To name a few of this city's outstanding athletes there is "Toots" Holway, "perhaps the first localite to make the National Hockey League. Football-wise there were Jim Follwell, Wally Hilton and Gary Schriebel. Prominent in early baseball were the Mills brothers "Penny" and Harry, Stan Hagerman, "Doc" Blakely, Al Meagher, senior that is; the Indian Jack Williams and a dozen others.

And never forgotten by hockey fans will be the late Bill Cook, who was Mr. "Junior Hockey," here for years. Bill brought junior hockey here and devoted his off-business life to it.

Since so many people were honored with centennial medals and sports was overlooked the writer would suggest that the committee on "awards" institute a Belleville Hall of Fame.

How about it Mr. Mayor?

U.S. Government Rakes in Huge Profits From Coinage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government has been cashing in huge profits from coinage since it replaced silver with copper and nickel in hard currency.

This profit, called seigniorage, shot into the hundreds of millions of dollars the last three years. It is expected to exceed $500,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

Seigniorage is the difference between the face value of a coin and the cost of the metal from which it is made.

Metal in a quarter, for example, now costs the treasury department about one cent but the coin goes on the government's books as 25 cents, thus yielding 24 cent profit.

During the fiscal year which ended last June 30, seigniorage ran to about $300,000,000 but it rose above $634,000,000 the year before when the treasury hirned out coins in record numbers to overcome a shortage.

The reduced profit expected for this year results from the cut in the number of coins made because the shortage has eased.

The windfall profits began with the Coinage Act of 1965 which took all silver from dimes and quarters and reduced the silver content of the half dollar to 40 per cent from 90 per cent.

This reduced the cost of coinage metal to the treasury.

In the past, profits from coinage went into the government's books as added revenue just like tax collections.

Now it is figured as a means of financing the federal deficit. Seigniorage represents cash in the treasury's hands and reduces the amount of money the department must borrow to pay the government's bills.

The least profit comes from the Kennedy half dollar, the only U.S. coin still being minted containing silver.

The treasury figures its profits on the half dollar at about 22 cents while it makes more than 9½ cents on a dime and about 4½ cents on a nickel. A cent produces a profit of three fourths of a cent.

Seigniorage on the half in this case is figured at a price of $1.29 an ounce—the price at which the Treasury redeemed paper certificates backed by silver until the deadline last June 24.

At the current market price of about $2.38 an ounce, the profit on a half dollar would be 60 cents more because of the higher cost of the metal.

The joint commission on the coinage came on Monday with two possible cures for one of the treasury's biggest headaches—how to get rid of $2,500,000 in silver dollars stashed away in a basement vault.

The commission decided to set up a committee to work out a plan for disposing of the rare coins fairly. Most of the cartwheels were minted in Carson City, Nev., in the 1890s.

The committee will look into the feasibility of:

—Selling the silver dollars at their retail price in the coin market.

—Selling the silver dollars at retail value of $75 each to coin collectors.

—Conducting a test auction of about 150,000 coins.

The coins have an estimated

Growth Did Not Cause Bone Disease

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 16, recently had an attack of osteomyelitis. He is 6 feet 4 and seemed to grow tall overnight. Could this have caused the osteomyelitis? Now that we have such good antibiotics, what are the chances of the disease crippling? — Mrs. G. S.

Osteomyelitis is an infection of the bone. His sudden growth did not cause it in any way.

These bone infections can be caused by various germs. Staphylococcus aureus bacteria losis germ getting into the bone, sometimes other germs making bone or an infection somewhere else in the body.

Identifying the type of germ is important. There are excellent drugs for suppressing TB infections; if germs of the "coccus" types are involved, then the antibiotics developed to fight them would be used instead.

In some stubborn cases debridement (surgical removal of the infected bone) is necessary, allowing new bone to fill in afterward. This is not required, of course, if treatment destroys the infection.

With present methods of treatment, crippling is doubtful, but would depend on the location of the infection. If the bones of a joint were involved it might prevent movement. Even treatment of the joint, but crippling is unlikely if the infection involves only the long bones.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a gout be cured or just controlled? Can women get it as well as men? Apparently I have it in my knee. Please send me your booklet, "Gout, the Modern Way to Stop It," for which I enclose 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, envelope. — Mrs. J. V.

Women can get gout, although it is more common in men by a ration of 20 to 1. And while the last of the big toe is afflicted in about 90 percent of all cases, it can appear in many other parts of the body instead of the toe or in addition to the toe.

It is not yet possible to "cure" gout, that is, to change a person's metabolism so that the tendency to store up uric acid is basically corrected, although some researchers hope it will become possible someday.

For the present, special medications are extremely effective in helping the body discharge uric acid or alter its formation so as to prevent undue buildup. And if you can prevent uric acid from reaching high levels, in most cases it is thus possible to prevent the miseries associated with gout attacks.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter has what the doctor calls a fatty tumor just below the knee. The doctor says, "Just forget it." Does this kind of tumor ever cause serious trouble? Does it ever run into cancer? — Mrs. M. M.

Your doctor gave you good advice: Just forget it. These lipomas, or "fatty tumors," are quite common and harmless.

If such a tumor is so located as to be unsightly, it can be removed by simple surgery.

Or if a fatty tumor becomes so large as to be a nuisance or to interfere with normal activity because of size, again the answer is that it can be readily removed.

But so long as a fatty tumor is not bothering you, just let it alone.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: What does rust-colored sputum indicate?
— A. P.

It indicates blood. The source and cause should be investigated immediately.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices slipped in light, mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. All four major indexes posted small losses.

In industrials, Falconbridge fell to 104, Neon Products to 20¼, CPR 1¼ to 20¾, Domtex off ⅝ to 9¾ and Canron ⅜ to 19.

Silverwood Dairies A gained 1¼ to 21¾, United Westburne ¾ to 10¾, Seagram ⅛ to 19⅛ and Zenith Electric 40 cents to $3.70.

Monarch Fine Foods picked up ¼ to 12. The company said it will make an initial distribution to shareholders of 15 cents following the purchase of Monarch's assets by Lever Brothers of Toronto.

Shareholders are expected to receive a total of about $12.50 a share, of which $10.50 will be subject to income tax. The stock will be delisted July 17.

BACM Industries jumped 1½ to 17. Shareholders approved the acquisition of Standard Holdings Ltd. and Gulfstream Developments Ltd.

Sogemines was unchanged at 14¾. The company plans to buy control of BACM this month.

In golds, Dome Mines ⅛ to 61 and Camflo 5 cents to $4.70. The price of bullion dropped sharply on the London free market. The Canadian Superior Oil lost ¼ to 46 and Dome Pete 1 to 62.

On index, industrials were off .16 to 170.16, golds 1.66 to 195.85, base metals .19 to 106.49 and western oils .48 to 210.38.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 753,000 shares compared with 695,000 at the same time Monday.

The market closed Monday with small gains over a wide front. However, volume was the lightest for nearly three months.

Brokers thought the rally which started early June might be reviving after a pause last week. They said the financial outlook was still favorable.

Advances outnumbered declines 277 to 226, and all four major indexes were up.

In industrials, Leigh Instruments rose 2¼ to 24, Falconbridge ¼ to 104¾, Calgary Power ⅝ to 23¼ and Alcan ⅛ to 24¾.

Among the heaviest traders, Revenue Properties jumped 1⅝ to 34, Seaway Multi-Industries and Wood Dairies A 1¼ each to 14¾ and 20¼, Interprovincial Steel ⅝ to 6¼ and Walasco 35 cents to $2.60.

Newly-listed Block Brothers closed at 16¼ after touching 17 on sales of 4,115 shares. The Vancouver-based firm acts as a holding company and financing medium for a real estate group.

Prince slipped ⅛ to 8¾ after $5.12 after touching a 1968 high at $5.62. It is the largest shareholder in Churchill Falls (Labrador Corp., which has just raised $25,000,000 from a rights issue to help develop the Churchill Falls hydro-electric project.

In base metals, Hudson Bay Mining gained 1¼ to 57¼ and Denison 1 to 80. Granges Exploration gained ⅝ to 10 kinds of credit for which it has figures, including department and insurance policy loans.

The total of these 10 on March 31 this year was $6,103,000,000 compared with $6,103 000,000 at the end of December, 1966. This compares with $5,736,000,000 at the end of March, 1967.

Fifteen months earlier, the Banks had 40 per cent of the business, and the sales finance companies 19 per cent.

New Wild Rice Industry Shows Big Potential

LA RONGE, Sask. (CP) — Five years of government research in this northern Saskatchewan area have created a $20,000-a-year wild rice industry that may have big potential for future growth.

Wild rice, a North American delicacy in great demand at dining-out spots in centres like New York and Las Vegas, has been grown in Manitoba for years.

In the 1930s, some Manitoba rice was sown in various northern Saskatchewan areas by the provincial natural resources department, but no effort was made to harvest or develop it.

Then in 1953, provincial officials, with federal co-operation, revived the project as part of a program to develop employment opportunities for Indian people in northern Saskatchewan.

The 1967 harvest was almost 27,000 pounds of rice, which was sold to Manitoba processors for $20,000 and brought $13,500 in wages to native workers.

District agricultural representative Don Nellsen says the 1968 harvest this fall should include some production from three newly-seeded.

He says that if development continues, it will have to be given soon to the possibility of establishing a processing plant in a northern community.

Total annual production of about 100,000 pounds and expenditure of about $75,000 would be required to set up a processing plant on a sound economic footing, Mr. Nellsen says.

To promote further development of the industry, the provincial government has budgeted about $17,500 this year.

Wild rice sold on the retail market for $2.50 to $5 a pound in 1963. In recent months the price has been rapidly increasing.

Newly-harvested rice in the "green" state is worth about $1.25 to $1.40 a pound, and it is better to be eaten with game, particularly wild duck.

In northern Saskatchewan, the seeding program and research studies are carried on by the government, and harvesting is carried out by a variety of enterprises working under government permits.

One such permit-holder is La Ronge Industries, an organization set up to promote jobs for Indian people.

Chartered Banks Increase Number of Personal Loans

OTTAWA (CP)—The chartered banks have increased the amount of their outstanding personal loans by more than 24 per cent in the last 15 months.

In the same period, the amount of credit extended by the sales finance companies has declined.

Officials here say this contrast is the result of the more energetic advertising that the banks are doing for their personal loans.

But more generally, the officials add, there is greater realization now that borrowers with adequate credit ratings can get money more cheaply at a chartered bank than they can at a sales finance company.

With interest, service and other charges included, the average cost the individual borrower 10 to 12 per cent. Finance companies go to 24 per cent.

The chartered banks only went into the personal loan plans in a big way after the wood Dairies A 1¼ each to 14¾ and 20¼, Interprovincial Steel ⅝ to 6¼ and Walasco 35 cents to $2.60.

Newly-listed Block Brothers closed at 16¼ after touching 17 on sales of 4,115 shares. The Vancouver-based firm acts as a holding company and financing medium for a real estate group.

Prince slipped ⅛ to 8¾ after $5.12 after touching a 1968 high at $5.62. It is the largest shareholder in Churchill Falls (Labrador Corp., which has just raised $25,000,000 from a rights issue to help develop the Churchill Falls hydro-electric project.

In base metals, Hudson Bay Mining gained 1¼ to 57¼ and Denison 1 to 80. Granges Exploration gained ⅝ to 10 kinds of credit for which it has figures, including department and insurance policy loans.

The total of these 10 on March 31 this year was $6,103,000,000 compared with $6,103 000,000 at the end of December, 1966. This compares with $5,736,000,000 at the end of March, 1967.

Fifteen months earlier, the Banks had 40 per cent of the business, and the sales finance companies 19 per cent.

Consumer credit granting is not a matter of special federal government regulation, except for a new law requiring credit grantors to make plain to borrowers the real cost of interest and service charges.

The chartered banks have always been able to offer unsecured personal loans, and do so —though for some customers they want some security.

The Bank of Commerce started a plan in 1936 by which individual borrowers could pay off their debt on monthly payments including principal and interest charges. After the Bank of Nova Scotia started a similar plan in 1939 all the chartered banks joined in.

The personal loans of the chartered banks included in the DBS report on consumer credit are only a part of the banks' total lending, which at the end of March this year totalled $12,181,000,000, compared with $10,457,000,000 at the end of December, 1966.

ANAF News

The No. 49 Ladies' Auxiliary has a visiting committee that calls on some of its past members who are now guests at Hastings Country Manor and while there make it a point also to visit any veterans residing there.

A few weeks ago they were told of a lady who was ailing, they heard of a gallant old veteran who had been awarded the Military Medal, 1914-15 Star, General Service and Victory Medals in World War I and the CVSM and 1939 Militia War Medal in World War II. It seems that he had clever hands and was very interested and had heard that it would cost at least $15 to have them all framed.

It was one of his chief wishes to see our medals once more but, at that price, could not afford it.

Ladies' Auxiliary Alice Storms saw the old veteran and promised that, if he would entrust his medals to her, she would do her best to see that his wish was fulfilled. He gave her the medals and another member of the Auxiliary volunteered to do the work at Belleville.

In the necessary material, that is, ribbons and bar.

Then came the Duke of Edinburgh Unit was asked to get the material ordered for the medals. This ordered in a simple thing and was, up to a point. One ribbon seemed to have vanished. All Auxiliary Stores and QM Stores were contacted.

The ribbon was asked for through this news. Private individuals who might possibly have any of this ribbon were asked and CJBQ's "Why Not Call" was requested to put out an SOS for this ribbon. A Trenton lady, listening to the program, thought that she might have some put away that belonged to her father's medals.

She found it and called the number mentioned over the air. Wishing to write a letter of appreciation, the ribbon donor was asked her name. It turned out that she was a sister of the Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment who had taken the Regiment into action—he was killed in Sicily in 1943.

The lady was quite pleased to find out that she was helping out an ex-member of her brother's Regiment. The ribbon was duly received and is now being mounted with the rest of the medals and President Storms and other members of the Auxiliary will be very happy to take them up and gladden the brave old veteran's heart.

The Ladies' Auxiliary wish to express their appreciation to all those who assisted in this project.

Chairman of the sick committee is Comrade Chas. M. Bone and S. Cherry are still in room 241, Belleville Hospital.

Those going to the summer picnic are asked to be at the Market Square in plenty of time so the buses can get started on time.

Healing Substance...
Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has announced a healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly! It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and helps shrink those tissues. It reduces inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and greatly relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief often occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This healing accomplished with new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection when it is applied directly to the affected parts.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Shirt-Sleeved MLAs Lambast Ontario's Liquor Restrictions

TORONTO (CP) — Air temperatures across the province reached the 90s Monday, members of the Ontario legislature discarded their jackets, rolled up their shirt sleeves, and began lambasting Ontario's liquor laws.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon led the attack on operations of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario and the Ontario Liquor Licence Board by suggesting the province's minimum drinking age, now 21, should be reviewed.

He was supported by Pat Lawlor (NDP—Toronto Lakeshore) who said the law on under-age drinking would make it an offence for a 21-year-old husband to serve a drink to his 19-year-old wife in their apartment, and another law would ban the transport of homemade wine between the maker's home and cottage.

He also complained about the monopolistic position of the Brewers' Warehousing Co., provincial distributor of native-brewed beer, the "company union" for employees of the line, our control-board, and policies toward listing of brands in LCBO stores.

Mr. Lawlor said the government has consistently refused to order an inquiry into allegations that a Conservative fund-raiser sought money from Melchers Distilleries Ltd. with a promise that the donation would ensure the listing of two Melchers products.

Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) criticized differentials in beer prices that discriminate against Northern Ontario.

Mr. Sopha said that during the current beer strike the only beer available in the province comes from small breweries at Sudbury and Formosa. The price at Sudbury was set by the LCBO at $5.05 a 24-bottle case, 24 cents a case more than that for the Formosa product.

Earlier, nine New Democratic Party members led a dress rebellion that led to approval for Tuesday of taking off their jackets in the house except on formal occasions.

The nine appeared after the luncheon recess in shirt sleeves.

Ten Conservatives and two Liberals voted against the motion while 42 members approved it.

Monday was the first day of Premier Robarts' plan to speed up the Ontario legislature session, the longest in history, by five-day weeks of 10 a.m.-to-midnight sittings. In other business:

—The government defeated by a vote of 38-to-28 an opposition attempt to wipe out $1,800,000 in planned government assistance to the horse racing industry. Mr. Nixon had moved that the budget of the Ontario Racing Commission, of which the government grant program was a key part, be reduced to a token $1.

—Study figures released by Treasurer Charles MacNaughton indicate the population of the Lake Ontario economic region east of Toronto is expected to reach 572,300 by 1986, an increase of 63 per cent in 20 years.

Ontario Will Have to Pick Up Bill for Economic Equality

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario taxpayers must understand they have the primary responsibility as Canadian citizens to meet the financial requirements of the federal government's proposed equality of economic opportunity policy, Robert Nixon, leader of the provincial Liberal party, said Monday.

The province's continuing pressure on the federal government for a larger share of federal revenues caused by balanced growth the provincial government's acceptance of a responsibility in shaping economic disqualities among the provinces, he told the legislature in debate on the treasury department estimates.

Mr. Nixon praised Premier Robarts' attitude at the Confederation of Tomorrow Conference at which Mr. Robarts suggested a fund of $20,000,000 be established to achieve economic equality, especially in the Maritimes.

The federal program will be in effect within three years and would be financed by corporations as a responsibility "not to lead our citizens into a feeling of being penalized as a result of the situation elsewhere in the nation," Mr. Nixon said.

Noting that Treasurer Charles MacNaughton in introducing his estimates had repeated Ontario's position that it needs more revenue from the federal government, Mr. Nixon said this is not good enough as a position to be taken by Premier Robarts when he attends the federal-provincial conference expected this year.

"How he and his advisers can on the one hand piously hope for a federal fund in excess of $1,000,000,000 to accomplish economic equality of opportunity and at the same time exert all of the pressure . . . to have a bigger share for Ontario remains a mystery," he said.

Mr. Nixon said Ontario has its own program for achieving economic equality within its borders but these must be balanced with "our responsibilities as Canadian citizens which come ahead of our responsibilities as citizens of Ontario."

Mr. MacNaughton said Ontario will continue to press for a greater share in progressive tax fields because, while the province is ready to play its part in resolving the disparity among the provinces, "the time has arrived to take another look at the extent to which the revenues of Ontario may be needed to provide for the development of this province."

James Breithaupt (L—Kitchener) later asked why regressive tax increases were chosen to bolster this year's Ontario budget.

Mr. MacNaughton said provincial revenue sources are almost restricted to regressive taxes. Even those tax increases which went into effect this year were not enough to raise the revenue required, he said.

Because progressive tax sources are virtually denied to the provinces, Ontario must continue to press Ottawa to consider the tax needs of three levels of government in unity "not in isolation," Mr. MacNaughton said.

MLAs Get Pensions Earlier

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario legislature will become eligible for early retirement pension payments after five years' service instead of the previous 10, under amendments to the Retirement Allowances Act introduced Monday.

Members contribute six per cent of their $8,000 annual indemnity and cabinet ministers six per cent of their $12,000 annual salary to the retirement plan.

If they retire at age 55 with five years' service in the legislature, they can collect an annual allowance of 75 per cent of their contributions but not more than their annual indemnity or one-half a cabinet minister's salary.

Retirement allowances cannot be collected while a person is still a member of the legislature, the House of Commons or Senate, or is employed in the public service or a Crown agency.

Those who cease to be members before becoming eligible for allowances are entitled to a refund of all contributions with six-per-cent interest.

Consumer Index Will Be Revised

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics hopes to introduce the first part of a two-stage revision of the consumer prices index later this year, and complete the task early next year.

An announcement said the current index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, will first be revised in an arithmetical way to reflect price changes since 1961.

Then, the basis of the prices survey—the buying habits of average urban families—will be brought up to 1967 from the present standard, 1957.

The bureau had hoped to make the revision this mid-summer, but staff difficulties—the shortage of experienced statisticians, and lack of senior personnel in the prices division—has made this impossible.

On the basis of 1949 prices equalling 100, the consumer price index now stands at 154.7 for June. The index for 1961 was 129.2.

A straight arithmetical conversion would make this year's June index 119.6, though the bureau says there will be some refinement in the conversion it makes to the new 1961 base.

The bureau has been converting many of the other indexes of basic economic trends to the 1961 base.

The target group for the current index is composed of families living in cities with over 30,000 population, ranging in size from two adults to two adults with four children, and with annual incomes which ranged in 1957 from $2,500 to $7,000.

The family expenditure pattern is the so-called basket of goods and services representative of what the target group families bought in the base period. The basket was revised in 1957 to bring it into line with family spending patterns prevailing then.

The consumer price index now is based on a survey of about 300 items in the basket. The more thorough revision of the index the bureau is planning for next year will reflect 1967 spending patterns.

Republics Can Be Repressive

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Antics with Semantics:

Right - wingers are fond of pointing out that the institutional form of the United States is a "republic," not a "democracy" — while conveniently ignoring the fact that the three most repressive governments in the world today are also "republics": Russia, China, and Spain.

It is equally true that the word "democracy" — even though it lacks any of the political liberties we would consider indispensable for the proper use of that word.

Throughout Europe, political labels are nearly meaningless in terms of what they truly stand for: "liberal" parties may be on the right; "Christian Democratic" parties may be neither Christian nor democratic; "socialist" parties may be anti-Marxian; and "conservative" parties may be to the left of what is called "liberalism" in America.

Our own political labels of "liberal" and "conservative" are likewise historically misleading. For a "liberal" in the classical, old-fashioned sense was a believer in laissez-faire and freedom from government interference — which is now considered the "conservative" position in American politics.

Incidentally, "left-wing" and "right-wing" are wholly accidental terms, and have nothing to do with positive or negative implications; it so happened that in some European legislative bodies, the more progressive group of delegates sat to the left of the presiding officer, while the more conservative group sat to his right — and this nomenclature has been transferred to modern times.

"Liberty" of course, is perhaps the most widely used (and misused) of all political words; our "Sweet Land of Liberty" implies individual freedoms above all else, but as used in Nazi and Fascist anthems, "liberty" meant the freedom of the national or racial group to expand and overcome other racial or national groups, and to suppress a collective, rather than individual, virtue.

As Prof. Mario Pei, the linguist, points out, modern political terms are usually semantic smokescreens: we have "pacification" used in connection with the destruction of defenceless towns; "liberation" for immediate bombings followed by forcible occupation; "transfer of populations" for mass deportations; and "elimination of unreliable elements" for imprisonments and summary executions without trial.

Indeed, one of the great new fears of modern man is "logophobia" — the fear of being labelled with a certain word, which deeply influences our public statements and private conversations.

Wire-taps Link 2 Magistrates to Man with Criminal Record

TORONTO (CP) — Wire-tapped telephone conversations introduced as admissible evidence at a judicial inquiry Monday have linked two Toronto magistrates with Vincent Alexander.

The inquiry, ordered to investigate the "behavior or misbehavior" of magistrates Fred Bannon, 34, and George Gardhouse, 60, was told that Alexander has a criminal record of five indictable offences ranging from shopbreaking to auto theft.

He is free on bail awaiting trial on two charges of breaking and entering.

Mr. Justice Campbell Grant of the Ontario Supreme Court ruled the taped conversations admissible and brushed aside charges that police had committed a criminal act in wiretapping the phone of Alexander.

He said they were admissible because the general interests of the public ever-ruled other considerations.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart ordered the inquiry and relieved the two magistrates of their duties June 18, pending the outcome of the investigation.

The series of 21 conversations, obtained between March 21 and May 27, included five between Alexander and Magistrate Bannon and another between Magistrate Gardhouse and Alexander.

The others, edited from 60 hours of wiretapped conversations, were between Alexander and other acquaintances, discussing various court cases and the possibility of money being paid to arrange light sentences.

Lawyers representing the magistrates said they had been instructed not to object to wire-tap evidence.

David Humphrey, Alexander's lawyer, sparked the procedural debate by insisting evidence obtained "by a trick" should not be allowed.

Mr. Humphrey said making the telephone conversations public might ruin Alexander's chances of a fair trial when he appears in the fall. The inquiry took a bizarre turn earlier when Magistrate Bannon resigned.

A letter of resignation to Mr. Wishart read to the inquiry said:

"It was indiscreet of me to have continued to associate, after my appointment in December, 1967), with Mr. Vincent Alexander.

"A lawyer's relationship with a client may in some cases be impersonal, but in others may develop into a friendship which it is difficult abruptly to terminate on one's appointment.

"My decision in resigning is not to be taken as meaning that I wish in any way to restrict the scope of the public inquiry which is about to begin. . . ."

In one conversation with Alexander, Magistrate Bannon suggested a lawyer for a woman charged with a narcotics offence, and told Alexander he was trying to find out which magistrate would be sitting on the case.

Leftist Military Coup Topples Iraq's President, Exiles Him

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Tuesday) — A leftist military coup d'etat in Iraq has toppled the regime of President Abdel Rahman Aref and expelled him from the country, Baghdad radio announced today.

A "revolutionary command council" has taken over all executive and legislative powers in the country.

Iraq's borders, airports, ports and railway services were shut down and an indefinite curfew clamped on the country as of dawn today, the radio said.

Baghdad radio reported Aref had been expelled from Iraq to join his family in exile, but it did not specify to which country he went. Speculation was that it was Turkey.

The government of Premier Taher Yahya also was dismissed, the radio said.

One communique read over the radio said the takeover was bloodless.

Later Baghdad radio appealed to first aid workers to report immediately to their posts.

Moving fast to consolidate their control over the country, the new leaders dismissed Iraqi Air Force commanders Maj.-Gen. Jassam Mohammed el Shahiri and Brig. Mahmoud Ereim, commander of Iraqi forces stationed in Jordan, Baghdad radio said.

Col. Mustapha el Naqib, who was appointed in Ereim's place, broadcast an appeal to Iraqi troops in Jordan to support the revolution.

Baghdad radio broadcast telegrams from the commanders of three of Iraq's five armies, sessions pledging allegiance to the new rulers. They were commanders of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd divisions.

The radio did not identify members of the revolutionary council, but reported messages of support were pouring in from military units all over the country.

Baghdad radio said Aref's regime was one of "corruption and illegality run by a bunch of illiterates who divided the country into feudal sections for their personal enrichment."

The new revolutionary council pledged "to carry on the struggle against Israeli aggression to the end."

It said it had come to power "to defend the revolutions of July 14 and March 8."

The July 14 revolution overthrew the monarchy 10 years ago.

March 8, 1963, marks the day when the left-wing Baath Socialist party overthrew the regime of the late dictator Abdel Karim Kassem.

But the Baathists were later overthrown by Aref's late brother, President Abdel Salam Aref. All political parties were then banned in Iraq.

Recent reports from Baghdad, however, said a Baathist network loyal to the Syrian government was uncovered and 84 members arrested.

A radical leftist section of the Baath party governs in Syria.

The radio announced Chief of Staff Maj.-Gen. Ibrahim Feisal al Ansari also had been pepsioned off.

A communique accused ousted government leaders of "sharing the responsibility of the Arab defeat" in the last year's war with Israel.

Iraq's new leaders said the ousted regime "disregarded army needs and followed a ruthless and superficial policy on Palestine."

Their failure to take any measures towards solving the problem of the Kurdish rebels in northern Iraq, the new council said, had led to the "freezing of the biggest part of Iraq's army in the north and depriving it of the honor of contributing to the struggle against Israel."

About one-quarter of Iraq's 8,000,000 people are Kurds. In 1966, the Kurds ended fighting in the mountains under an agreement that while giving them greater recognition would keep them in a united Iraq. But the Kurds accused the government of failing to respect its undertakings.

The council promised to take "great measures for the settlement of the Kurdish question in a wise manner that would ensure national unity."

The Kurds are seeking an independent state.

Toronto Mother, Tots Are Beaten to Death

TORONTO (CP) — The stabbed and beaten bodies of a mother and her three young daughters were found Tuesday night stacked on the basement floor of a tumble-down house in a midtown slum area. The husband has been charged with non-capital murder.

Homicide detectives said Yves Roland (Maurice) Raymond, 32, did not make a statement after his release from hospital late this morning. Police said he suffered from lodine poisoning, which was self-inflicted.

Dead are Raymond's wife, Victoria, 24, and his daughters, Anne, 6, Cecile, 4, and Lucille, 4 months.

A coroner's autopsy said that all the victims had suffered skull fractures.

The mother was supine on the floor, police said, and the bodies of the three daughters had been stacked across her chest.

Detectives said a hammer, knives and garden tools were found scattered on the floor. They said the implements apparently had been used in the slayings.

Neighbors said the Raymonds lived in the building about three weeks. The neighbors believed they moved to Toronto from Timmins, Ont.

The home where the victims lived is in a blue-collar neighborhood of low-rent families.

Next door neighbor Barbara Anne Murphy, 29, described the start of a backyard quarrel she saw through her window.

"The kids were playing at the holes where the fence posts were to go for the fence around the yard," Miss Murphy said.

"Then a man came out and began arguing with her (Mrs. Raymond)," the neighbor said.

"Then he just went berserk and started to hit her," Miss Murphy added. "He beat her something awful."

Police said they found blood spatterings in the backyard and concluded that the beating started there and ended in the basement with a nude Mrs. Raymond lying on her back and her three daughters sprawled face down across her body.

Mrs. Merle Hainning, the landlady, said the apartment had been rated three weeks ago.

Two More Torrid Days Ahead

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

There's no shelter from the sweltter as summer slowly simmers the Quinte district in a peak heat wave.

At least two more days of torrid temperatures and high humidity are in the offing.

Today, forecasts placed the burning point in the warm weather pattern late Friday or Saturday, when thunderstorms may herald cooler times.

Temperatures yesterday climbed to an official high of 88 in the Belleville-Trenton area and are expected to reach the same mark today.

Probably the warmest spot in the district was Tweed, where a high of 92 was recorded yesterday afternoon.

The sustained hot spell is having its public effects.

New Heat Records Set

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If you like your weather hot, try Central and Eastern Canada.

That was the message today from the weather office as Ontario and all points east prepared to sweat out the third day of the heat wave while the West was looking for the sun.

At the Canadian Forces base at Bordes, near Barrie, the temperature climbed to 96 degrees—eight degrees above the previous high for the day set in 1959.

Also reporting record highs: Sault Ste. Marie 90, North Bay 88, Wiarton 87, Muskoka 85, Killaloe 92, and Toronto International Airport 82.

In Belleville, water restrictions will be enforced, public utilities officials announced today.

Watering of lawns and gardens will be curtailed to specific times, starting immediately. (For details see page 3).

Workers in air-conditioned city offices can continue to produce impervious to the outdoor sweltter.

However, the heat finally got through to one work centre yesterday.

Civil servants in the revenue department's taxation division worked at their desks as usual yesterday as the temperature inside the city federal building slowly mounted.

By 2 p.m. it had reached a broiling 94 degrees. Most department personnel were allowed to go home.

Belleville Cafe de la Molra Balladeers

Patrons of the new "Cafe de la Molra" yesterday were entertained by Garry Gibson, 18, enrolling in university in the fall, and Marlene Jenkinson, 20, a Carleton University student. Both students are part-owners of the cafe which is designed to give other students work during the summer.

Water Supplies In U.S. Strained

CHICAGO (AP) — A sweltering heat wave withered much of the eastern two-thirds of the U.S. today and overtaxed power and water facilities in large cities as perspiring residents sought relief.

The Weather

Synopsis: It will continue very warm and humid over southern Ontario for next few days. Thunderstorms, mainly confined to the southwestern counties Tuesday, will be more widespread today and Thursday, also warm unsettled weather will take effect across northern Ontario today. However, some cooling can be expected in those regions Thursday along with a few scattered thunder showers.

Beer Workers Vote Today

TORONTO (CP) — Beer will be back in southern Ontario in a matter of hours if brewery workers vote today to end a 27-day work stoppage.

Spokesmen for both the brewing industry and the union representing 3,000 workers expect ratification of an agreement reached early today.

Approval by seven locals of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America would end Ontario's soda shortage.

Robert Woolvett, spokesman for the brewing companies, said: "Most retail stores will open within 24 hours of ratification."

The settlement was announced by union negotiator David Lewis at 1:40 a.m., 18 hours after union and industry officials sat down for their fifth meeting since bargaining resumed Friday.

Mr. Lewis told reporters he had "no doubt the settlement will be ratified."

Details of the settlement was not announced, but Mr. Woolvett said the brewing companies improved on their previous position in the dispute to get a settlement.

Settlement came in the midst of a threat-provoking heat wave.

Mr. Lewis' announcement came 27 days after 300 members of the union walked out at a Molson's plant here, jumping a strike deadline by three days.

No More ALE

OLYMPIA, WASH. (AP) — There will be no SEX or SIN or ALE, GIN, RUM or BYP on the state of Washington's highways next year, the vehicle licence division of the state motor vehicle department announced Monday.

The division said it has been going over its vehicular vocabulary with a fine-tooth comb so that plates will not be a source of embarrassment.

Two Picton Hotels Are Raided by Police

By DAVID LEES, Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Police raids have put the beverage rooms at the Globe and Rickarton hotels here out of business.

Picton police chief, George Pitt, announced yesterday that 120 cases of Quebec beer were seized at the two hotels.

Both hotels will be charged under the Liquor Licence Act and under the Liquor Control Act. Another police spokesman said that a number of charges under each act could be laid.

The raids took place between three and four p.m. Monday.

Norman March, manager of the Rickarton, said that he felt badly about the incident, but added "at least we kept our boys employed for a while."

Arthur Black, of Belleville, owner of the Globe Hotel, could not be reached for comment.

The sympathies of the town seem to be with the two hotel operators. One downtown merchant said: "They (the provincial government) certainly can't control what they're losing their sales tax, because they wouldn't be getting any anyway, if the hotels were out of business."

Mr. March said that tourist operators in the county have expressed their regrets at the closure of the two hotels.

"Many feel that while we were in business, we were helping out the industry," he said.

Offer Made To Postmen

OTTAWA (CP) — Postal union negotiator Romeo Mathieu said today he refuses to believe it is impossible to prevent a strike of postal workers scheduled for 5 a.m. EDT Thursday.

Mr. Mathieu made the comment to a reporter as he went to inform mediator Judge Rene Lippe of the union reaction to a government wage offer made Tuesday night.

Mr. Mathieu said the union reaction to the offer, the details of which were not made public would be made known later.

Judge Lippe told reporters just before 3 a.m. he hoped to resume mediation talks at 10 a.m. He had no comment on whether any progress had been made during the latest talk marathon which began at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Earlier, spokesmen for both the 24,000-member council and the treasury board, which negotiates for the government, declined to comment on reports that a wage offer had been made.

The council has sought a flat 75-cent-an-hour increase over a 14-month contract. The treasury board had made no wage offer up to Tuesday.

A conciliation board produced a 10,000-word report on the dispute last Wednesday but made no wage recommendation.

On the basis of other recent government wage offers, the treasury board is expected to make the postal workers an offer in the area of a 10-per-cent increase.

A council spokesman told reporters early today he expected there would be developments by this afternoon. He declined to elaborate.

Other unions sources said Tuesday that almost two days of mediation had dealt mainly with broad issues rather than specifics.

William Houle, council co-chairman, said in an interview Tuesday: "Nothing can stop a strike now."

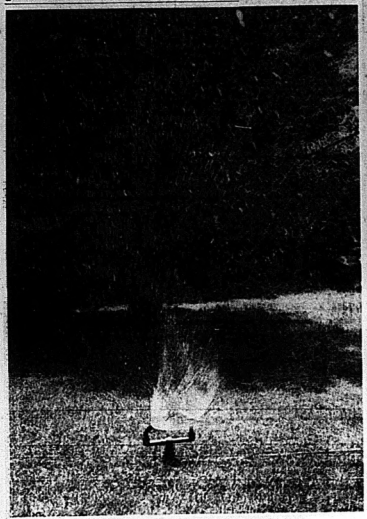
Czechoslovakia Defies Kremlin, Clinging to Liberal Policies

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new Communist leaders defied the Kremlin and other orthodox Communist governments Tuesday night and said the country will continue on its liberal course, with the full support of the people.

The Czechoslovak Communist party presidium met to discuss a letter from the Warsaw conference of the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria. Their leaders met Sunday and Monday because they fear the liberal ferment will spread.

The Czechoslovak presidium said it will prepare a reply in the next few days. In an interim communique, it said it was aware that opponents "are active and trying to misuse the democratization process against the party and against socialism."

Alexander Dubcek, the new chief of the Czechoslovak party, refused to attend the Warsaw meeting and proposed instead that he and his colleagues hold a series of bilateral meetings with the various Communist leaders.



The Czechoslovak presidium's communique said it agrees in principle to a consultative meeting of a group of countries but wanted preliminary separate consultations.

The Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka meanwhile reported that additional Soviet troops have left the country. It gave no numbers.

Earlier, Czechoslovak intelligence officers acknowledged that only 1,500 of the 16,000 troops moved into the country for the manoeuvres in June had left. The latest reported Soviet promise is that all will be out of the country by Sunday.

It appeared unlikely that the Soviet troops would move against Dubcek's government, but the Russians seemed to hope their presence would encourage the followers of Antonin Novotny, ousted by the Dubcek faction earlier this year as president and Communist party leader.

Novotny has made two secret trips to Moscow recently to plead for Soviet help in returning the country to orthodox communism, reliable informants said.

Easy With That Sprinkler!

Watering Restrictions Are Now in Effect

Take note of the days and times that you use that water sprinkler!

That's the warning from the Belleville Public Utilities Commission office which this week posted that lawn and garden watering restrictions are again in effect.

It's all because of the sudden heat wave and the vastly increased amounts of water moving through householders' taps.

Utilities manager E. L. Burnham, said that with the 90 degree temperature, more than seven million gallons of water was pumped at the city filtration plant on Monday and this was expected to increase as the heat wave continued.

Lawn and garden watering times as set by the utilities commission are from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. and from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. — and for only one half of the street at one time.

Householders with odd numbers will be permitted to water on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and those with even numbers on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

On Sundays, everyone may water, but again only at the times specified above — not at any time of the day.

"Cafe de la Moira" Attracts Number of Belleville Patrons

The student owned "Cafe de la Moira" opened yesterday to serve Front Street patrons throughout the summer months. The cafe offers coffee, tea, cold drinks and pastry. The purpose of the project is to offer employment for students attending university.

City Plants Close For Vacations

The annual holiday period will be eating into local plant production schedules from now until after the civic holiday.

A telephone check with local industries reveals that plants take different views regarding holidays — some shut down operations completely, while others continue operations with plant workers staggering their vacation periods.

Northern Electric is the first local plant to close for the vacation period with workers starting their two weeks holiday this week.

This weekend, Stewart Warner, Stephens Adamson, Union Carbide, the Pullman section at Mead Johnson, and International Hardware will get into the vacation act with plants to re-open following the civic holiday weekend.

Deloro Stellite Black Diamond Cheese and Wilson Concrete don't close their plants with workers staggering their vacation periods according to seniority.

Cedardale Tree Surgeons Get Contract

Cedardale Tree Surgeons have been awarded the 1968 Belleville tree trimming and removal contract.

The amount of the tender, the lowest of three bids received by city council, was $6,123.

Other bids from Davey Tree Expert Co. and from McInroy and Maines Construction Ltd. were for $8,741, and $16,620.

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton has been awarded the contract for surface treatment of streets. The McFarland bid at $7,850 was the only tender received.

City Welfare Recipients To Pick-up Cheques

Welfare recipients covered by the Hastings County Welfare Department will receive their welfare cheques regardless of the postal strike.

County Welfare Administrator Reginald Tucker said today that cheques for the second half of July were in the mails on Monday and should now be in the hands of welfare recipients.

And special arrangements have been made for delivery of later cheques should the postal strike continue on until the end of the month or after.

In this case, Mr. Tucker said that Belleville welfare recipients would be asked to come to the office to pick up cheques. If for health reasons, any recipient is unable to come to the office, they will be expected to contact officials by phone for other arrangements.

Welfare recipients in the county will have their cheques delivered privately by department field workers.

Mechanic Killed In Mishap

A Wallbridge man was killed yesterday morning when he was struck by a car in the garage at Trudeau Motors Ltd., a police spokesman stated today.

Jack Beckwith, 56, of Wallbridge died in Belleville General Hospital after being pinned between two cars in the garage for repairs. The mishap occurred at 11:30 a.m.

According to Deputy Police Chief Harold Reid, Mr. Beckwith, an employee of Trudeau Motors Ltd. was working on an automobile.

As he bent down in front of the car a second vehicle, being driven down a ramp by Norman Crozier of RR2, Ameliasburg, pinned Mr. Beckwith to the other car after its brakes failed. Mr. Crozier is also an employee of Trudeau Motors.

Police Seek Person With Big, Big Lawn

Police are investigating a robbery which saw 70 lawnmowers taken from Belleville Auto Electric Ltd. at 84 Grier Street early last night.

According to Deputy Police Chief Harold Reid the lawnmowers are valued at an estimated $3,000.

Deputy Reid,explained that the mowers were taken from the repair shop at Belleville Auto Electric at about 7:30 last evening.

Police believe the thieves used a key as there was no sign of forced entry and the owner of the establishment, Frank Daniels of 35 Rosewood Avenue in Belleville, had his keys taken from his car earlier yesterday.

The robbery was discovered after six lawnmowers were found along Grier Street by passers-by. They had fallen from a truck as the vehicle mounted a hill.

The people discovering the lawnmowers took them to the office of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Other police departments in Ontario have been alerted for the thieves, Deputy Reid said.

NO MORE LOCUSTS

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The New Hampshire legislature repealed a law that provided payment of $1 for every basket of Rocky Mountain locusts collected. One observer said: "Nobody has brought in any Rocky Mountain locusts since 1911."

Wellington Tackles Dead Fish Problem

WELLINGTON (Staff) — Wellington will tackle its befouled beach in earnest Thursday.

Reeve Robert Boyce said that a bulldozer would be employed in an effort to rid the beach of dead, rotting shad.

The beach has been cleaned four times this year already he said, the last effort being made Monday.

However the fish have just continued to come floating in.

In addition to the bulldozer, two men and a tractor will be at work on the beach, said Reeve Boyce.

The fish are making the beach at Wellington almost useless for swimming. In addition to the shad piled on the beach, oils from the dead bodies are spreading in the water.

The situation is grim. Officials at Provincial parks say the problem is the worst encountered in the last ten years.

More is yet to come however. Jack Christie, director of the Ontario fisheries station said the death rate of the fish will not reach its peak until August.

Picton Accidents -- $1,550 Damage

PICTON — Three accidents in Prince Edward County yesterday and this morning resulted in property damage totalling $1,550.

Wilfred James Burrus, 20, of Consecon St., Wellington, was involved in an accident with a car driven by Linda Margaret Channell, 17, also of Wellington, yesterday.

Damages to the Burrus car were $450 and to the Channell car $350. The mishap occurred on Consecon St., Ontario Provincial Police investigated.

The OPP also investigated an accident on Big Island involving a dump truck driven by Donald Potter, 32, Demorestville. Police say damages totalled $400.

In a mishap this morning at the intersection of Bridge St. and Union St., Picton, damage was done to two cars and a house.

In a collision involving a car driven by Arthur Osborn, 63, of R.R. 1, Picton, and a small European model car driven by Colleen Fawcett, Picton, $200 damage was done to the Cahoon car and $100 damage to the Fawcett box.

The bus went on to hit a house owned by Morley Breakenridge at 11 Union St., resulting in $50 damage to the house.

Fast Trip Back To London For Hitch-hikers

On the hitchhike trail, adventure is where you find it. So is bitter disappointment.

Two young hitchhikers — headed for California — yesterday packed up their troubles in their kitbags and headed from Belleville back home to Western Ontario.

The return was a voluntary gesture for 20-year-old Paul Stanton.

For his 19-year-old companion, Allen Darbishire, it had grimmer implications.

His eyesight stricken by poison ivy, Allan had to be led aboard the Toronto - bound train by his friend.

Their quest for adventure started months ago in London, Ont.

Allen, a cadet on the city's police force and Paul, a mover employee, mapped a hitch through the U.S. to California and maybe Mexico.

Allen took leave of absence from the force until January and last week both youths faced out onto the open road.

Between them they had about $100, but they hoped to subsidize their junket with odd jobs.

Everything went smoothly at the beginning. Their first hitches shuttled them across Ontario and by the weekend dropped them at Outlet Provincial park near Picton.

Saturday night, the young hitchhikers slept among the sand dunes flanking the park's beach. The next day, Allen noticed his face was puffed.

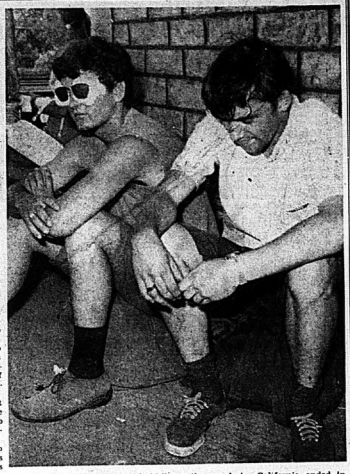
It continued to swell around the eyes for the next 24 hours. Monday both hitchhikers were worried about the signs.

They decided to head for the nearest major centre in case Allen's condition worsened.

They trekked to Belleville, and stayed Monday night in a city hotel.

Yesterday morning, their fears were borne out. Allen's condition had rapidly worsened to the point his vision was impeded.

They immediately went to Belleville General Hospital, where Allen was given injections and his eyes covered from glare.



Worse, the doctor told him his sight could have been damaged and he may have to wear glasses, claims Allen.

Their trans-continental trip ended right there. Both youths headed for the CNR station and spent what was left of their ready cash buying tickets to London.

Today, an official at Outlet Park said it was impossible for the young hitchhiker to have contacted a poison ivy reaction in the park area.

The park is sprayed for two to three weeks before it opens each year, while spraying is repeated if the plant is discovered during the season.

"I don't think he could catch it from being in here," he added.

Labor Council Claims Free 'Rodding' Necessary

The Belleville and District Trades and Labor Council has come out in opposition to city council's proposed bid to eliminate the one free rodding per year to clear plugged sanitary sewer laterals.

Under present policy the city public works provides one free rodding per year, the cost being paid out of the general rate.

Labor council president Ray Bradshaw in a press release today said that residents of the older East Hill and West Hill sections of the city are plagued by tree roots disrupting sewer lines and in many cases the trees are on adjoining or city owned property.

Even under the present policy residents are required to pay for rodding service after the first call even though the condition did not originate on his or her own property.

"We feel that elderly people cannot afford an increase for this service, and many of our lower paid people cannot afford an extra burden," said Mr. Bradshaw.

With salaries and wages down the list according to a recent government survey, and one third of the city's working people earning $3,000 or less, the local labor council is asking city council to reconsider the proposal to eliminate the free sewer rodding service.

Costs Rise Again

With the mail strike imminent, and inconvenience and additional financial loss the order of the day, it is disquieting to learn that the cost of living continued to increase in Canada between May and June.

An Ottawa report says consumer price indexes advanced in all ten provinces with one-month increases ranging from .1 per cent in Montreal to .8 per cent in Edmonton and Calgary.

The cost of food and housing advanced in all cities except Montreal where food prices declined and Vancouver where housing costs dropped slightly. Clothing increased everywhere except Montreal where costs remained unchanged.

Meanwhile the inflationary trend shows no sign of abating. The 19 per cent increase in wages to the Seaway workers is further evidence of these swinging economic times. Is there no way of slowing things down effectively? Warnings about over-spending have been numerous and the Government itself has cut down on many projects. The public however carries on largely unheeding, and it may be asked, is the public to blame for inflation? Or, is labor to blame because of frequent wage claims? Or are we all simply at the mercy of the economy itself — a wage-cost spiral that has become part of our way of life and which feeds itself on mathematical forces outside the control even of the Government.

The Summer Scene

On hot steamy days the word "recreation" is synonomous not so much with exercise as with a seat in the shade or a swim at the nearest beach, if one can be found that is not polluted.

Inland on such a day it is oppressive and dry dust from gravel roads clings to the earth. Yet there are rewards for anyone who cares to browse around these secondary routes.

Just off the highway north of here, on an unmarked road, there is the village of Hallowway where outside one farm dwelling a Union Jack flies and a dog barks its concern at the passing, rather incredulous, stranger.

Further along a Maple Leaf outside another farm restores some semblance of normality. However, as so often is the case, the color is fading and while inner patriotism may blaze the outward appearance disappoints. Driving on through this complex of undulating roadway the weekend explorer finds himself in terrain unlike anything he is accustomed to in the immediate city area. There are shady banks of trees reminiscent of the British Isles, handsome vistas from atop steep slopes, sudden encounters with the railroad, churches and schools — buildings that have stood for a century or more. Then all of a sudden Stirling is ahead and the landscape once again is familiar.

It is all off the beaten track, this strange, unmarked countryside. There are few if any road signs, but anyone can follow his nose. And here, what's this? The railroad again — and a hut identifying Madoc Junction.

A fellow may have been farther afield in his day, but Madoc Junction on a hot sultry afternoon in July has its own fascination. And you can find it — and other spots you will not find on every map — by just driving off into the wild blue yonder.

Gangs Cool Down

The power of example is an admirable characteristic. An instance of it that could be applied beneficially to restless young people everywhere comes from Glasgow.

Always a tough town, with its mixed population for more than a million, Glasgow lately has been the scene of increasing attacks against the police and welfare.

Into this ugly situation strode British pop singer Frankie Vaughan, and the word is that following a meeting with their leaders he has persuaded members of four of Scotland's toughest gangs to lay down their arms.

His action was sufficient to tip the scales in favor of a police "disarmament" amnesty. Vaughan also promised to give the young thugs money for a youth centre.

Turned over to the police was an astonishing assortment of weapons including bayonets, hammers, razors and meat cleavers.

Peace to War

Peacetime devices for firefighting are being adapted for use in the war zones of Vietnam. Dubbed the Saigon "bucket brigades," one method consists of fibreglass containers developed by the U.S. department of agriculture to fight forest fires. With a capacity of 450 gallons each, the "buckets" will be slung beneath helicopters and used to put out fires caused by Viet Cong rocket attacks and other fighting.

Harold F. Linder

LBJ Picks Leading U.S. Banker for Ottawa Post

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—The man President Johnson has nominated as new U.S. ambassador to Canada is by turns a hard bargainer and a tough taskmaster, and then a charming host and wine connoisseur who enjoys the company of the younger set.

Harold F. Linder, 57, never lets either side of his nature interfere with the other.

As the son of a well-to-do New York City family, Linder as a young man set himself a strict training course in the world of business. By the time he was 38 he had amassed a big enough fortune that he could "retire," to devote much of his talents to philanthropic work and government service.

Through the years he has been one of the larger contributors to the Democratic party.

Johnson nominated Linder Monday as successor to Ambassador W. Walton Butterworth, career diplomat retiring in September after almost eight years in the Ottawa post and 40 years in the foreign service.

Linder now is president and chairman of the Export-Import Bank and his appointment still must be confirmed by the Senate.

When Linder graduated from Columbia University in 1919 he set out on a five-year "internship in business," studied production and cost work in New England shoe factories and textile mills, did trading and brokerage in raw commodities and handled credit investigations for a New York bank.

Then he helped organize Cornell, Linder and Co., a firm engaged in industrial reorganizations and investments, and soon became president. In 1933 he became a partner in an investment banking firm and five years later was ready to "retire." Until his appointment as president of the Export-Import Bank in 1961, he had engaged in philanthropic activity primarily concerned with the assistance of refugees from Poland and Austria. He also served as deputy assistant and then assistant secretary of state for economic affairs from 1951 to 1953.

On the side he kept his hand in personal and family business and was director of a half-dozen companies.

Although Linder, a stocky man of average height and greying hair, and his wife are not social butterflies of the Washington set they enjoy entertaining and Linder likes to mix representatives of the younger set with older guests at his dinner parties.

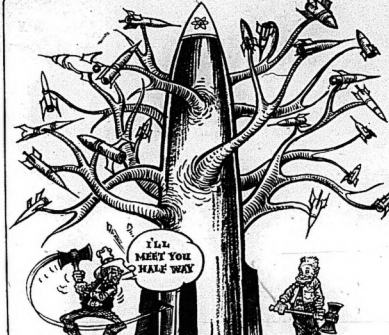
He is said to have a fine wine cellar although he does not drink hard liquor and has adopted the pipe in his attempt to give up cigarettes.

He is soft-spoken and precise. "He is not an emotional man," says a veteran of the press corps here who has attended several of Linder's rare press conferences, at which the correspondents are usually served a fine dinner.

His favorite relaxation is fishing and when time permits he flis in a trip to Canada to try the salmon streams. Over a period of years he has visited all sections of Canada, says an associate.

"He sets high standards for himself and for those who work with him and he expects everyone to live up to those standards," said one who has observed Linder for some years. He can be severe, of course he has got something off his chest the matter is closed and forgotten.

Although he generally avoids the limelight, he was thrust into it last summer in what was certainly the most notable uproar during his years as head of the Export-Import Bank, a government agency that provides insurance, guarantees and loans to help U.S. trade abroad.



Congressional critics howled that "Ex-Im" loans were being used to finance arms sales to less developed countries. They also said that through third party countries, bank funds were indirectly supporting trade in Communist countries.

From the start Linder protested that various congressional committees had no enforcement of the arms sales arrangements and that there was nothing secret about them. The system was changed.

He also fought for more liberal terms for trade with East European Communist countries but lost that battle.

When it was all over Congress, in a remarkable tribute to the integrity of both Linder and the bank, extended again the life of that institution and increased the bank's lending authority to $13,500,000,000 from $9,000,000,000.

But the rule against trading with any country that trades with North Vietnam was enforced, leaving Yugoslavia as the only Communist country eligible to do business with the bank.

Reconciliation Process In Need of Overhaul

Ottawa Journal

The end of the St. Lawrence Seaway strike is the best labor news this country has had in months. Most important of all, the settlement is apparently as non-inflationary as any new wage contract can be these days.

But when is this country going to shake off the madness that allows strikes in essential public services to become almost a routine procedure in getting a new contract?

Strikes should be passing into the discard as a relic of old and unenlightened days of management and unions. Instead, this summer in Canada they have sprouted like bad weeds.

The report of the conciliation board established to recommend solutions in the dispute between the postal workers and the Public Service shows how pathetically imperfect instruments of reconciliation remain in this country.

The board says bluntly:

"It was clear that neither party was prepared to engage in meaningful bargaining on wages either before or during the conciliation proceedings."

No one wants to see any group of workers falling behind the general prosperity. But if every union makes unrealistic demands upon the economy, then the whole country will fall behind together.

Salaries, in the public service should be kept within what the country can afford. Every increase of one per cent across the whole Public Service costs the treasury of Canada $11,000,000. In addition higher public salaries put pressure on the private sector and feeds the inflationary psychology.

Speaker Circuit

Peterborough Examiner

Instead of encouraging thoughtful discussion by bringing in speakers of varying views, our service clubs often invite addresses from men whose staunch, ultra-conservative pronouncements can do nothing more than convince the the members that they have been right all along. Many intelligent men belong to service clubs and their good works are well known but if service club members are truly interested in the dissecting of our problems — and we suspect that they are — let them bring in a few speakers who favor radical change, who are not solely connected with preserving the status quo.

Avoid Trees In Storm Situations

Windsor Star

An old and tested piece of advice that has served well for many went like this: "Never stand under a tree during a thunderstorm." The trouble is that every year some people scorn it or simply forget it, despite all the reminders.

Further evidence of the adage's wisdom was provided again this week. A man stood under a tree on Peche Island and when a bolt struck he was stunned and knocked to the ground. Lightning follows its own fixed laws and whoever transgresses them is asking for trouble.

Community Planning Needs Imagination

Washington Evening Star

The municipal government of New York has just issued a plea to builders in Fun City to get away from the endless and unvarying gray of Gotham sidewalks and throw in a little color from time to time and perhaps an occasional design based on something other than the square and rectangle.

The idea is excellent, overdue and applicable to all our cities, including Washington.

Poured concrete can be easily be made bright and cheerful as grey and glum. It's a matter of adding the right pigment at the right time. It doesn't cost very much and the change could make a world of difference in your urban life.

It is only in fairly modern times that the city underfoot has become so drab. Roman pavements were fashioned of intricate geometric designs, sometimes enhanced by trompe l'oeil three-dimensional effects, sometimes made enchanting by appropriate scenes of hunting and fishing or life as lived among the gods.

In modern Rome and Florence the cliffscape pavement designs of Michelangelo may still be seen. The visitor to Rio de Janeiro or to the new arena of the Mexican Olympic games can see a few of the possibilities for modern pavements made to delight the eye and make walking a pleasure.

Washington architecture is just beginning to show an encouraging sign or two of breaking out of the concrete and glass box convention. Our builders, too, should reconsider what is underfoot as well as what is overhead and get busy now to make this a noble and pleasant city from the ground up.

"Stop-Go-Stop" Policies Plague the UK Scene

Peterborough Examiner

A diagnosis of the causes of Britain's ills by the Brookings Institution, an American institution, is of considerable importance in Britain but it also has relevance in Canada and, to a lesser degree, the United States. The post-World War II difficulties of the United Kingdom, states the Brookings study, have been based on the overriding desire for high levels of employment and balance of payment imbalance.

The British government in attempting to maintain an equilibrium between these two has had more than 20 years of stop-go-stop policies which have not only worsened the investment climate but also drawn attention away from basic problems associated with massive failure to reform the education system and not enough emphasis on the shift from pure science to applied technology. (Britain has at last moved from valuing the humanities rich in theory exercise is acceptable. Little social value, however, is placed on engineering and therefore applied technology suffers.)

Brookings destroys the myth perpetuated by popular opinion that the public sector of the British economy is the dominant force. However, the point is made that there have not been enough programs which give good fiscal guidance so that growth rates may be sustained in the public sector. Again this is the fault of the stop-go-stop approach to controlling the economy.

It is a timely reminder for Canadians and our continental neighbours, the Americans, that the stop-go-stop difficulties of the British economy is not a purely British disease. Canadians may have to look at the housing industry to realise this. Should business a moratorium be permitted to flourish in Canada as it has in Britain no amount of "stop-go-stop policy" making will overcome the inherent difficulties of inefficiency.

Three Days In Prison For Girl, 16

Toronto Star

Magistrate T. R. Begora of St. Catharines wanted to teach a 16-year-old girl "a lesson" when he sent her to jail for three days for stop-lifting an 89-cent package of eye shadow.

Wouldn't the shame of being caught and convicted in court have been punishment enough for that sins of theft?

One lesson the girl may have learned from her experience is that the law, in the hands of some magistrates, has little to do with justice.

It was only a small crowd on the 18-coach CN special that dropped off students on interprovincial exchange program in Belleville yesterday. Inside, the train was thronged with close to 1,000 young people from Quebec and Ontario, trading two-week bilingual visits.

Exchange Students Visit City

The year's biggest train trundled the happiest passenger load into Belleville yesterday.

It paused briefly to drop a handful of youngsters then pulled out for the next westbound stop.

The scene was repeated through the day at nearly every major community between Montreal and Toronto as the 18-coach train lumbered across two provinces.

Aboard the interprovincial special were exactly 968 young passengers, all participants in the 1968 Quebec-Ontario student exchange program, sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

Both provinces were equally represented.

The train was carrying Ontario students home from a two-week Quebec stay, bringing with them their French-speaking participants in the program.

The Ontario students now reciprocate the vacation by entertaining their newly-found Quebec friends for a similar period.

The stay of 13 Quebec students in Belleville will be supervised for the council by the Belleville Jaycees.

This afternoon Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott was scheduled to officially welcome the visitors at city hall. Afterwards, a tour of local industries was planned, followed by a cookout at Presqu'ile provincial park.

Public Utilities Commission linesmen work on new poles installed at the southwest corner of Bleecker Ave. and Bridge St. East. Poles were moved this week to permit rounding of corners.

Curves Rounded Off On Bridge Street

Corners on Bridge St. East will be rounded off during repaving of the street this summer.

Public Works and Public Utilities Commission crews have moved hydro poles on the south-west corners of Bleecker Ave., Foster Ave. and Dufferin Ave. this week in preparation for the re-construction.

Some of the sharpest corners in the city are on Bridge St. East, and traffic flow on the main artery is always considerably as cars brake to negotiate the turns.

Widening of the turning radii at these corners has long been advocated by city police.

Landscaping Changes Could Cost $25,000

Whose responsibility is the landscaping of land area between lot lines and curbs on residential city streets?

At the present it seems to be sort of a no man's land with no one assuming the official responsibility.

Where local improvements are being installed it is not the policy of the city to fill, top soil and sod this area. The subdivider's agreement does not require the subdivider to do the work and in many instances the householder does not feel that he should be expected to do work on city property.

The end result in some newer sections of the city is varying degrees of conformity and householders who take pride in the appearance of their properties are complaining.

The matter was before city council this week with a proposal which if acted upon could solve the problem.

The only sticker was the matter of cost and the entire question was tabled for later consideration.

The proposal set forth by city manager J. R. Reynolds and the city engineer is for the land area between lot lines and curbs on residential streets to be filled, top soiled and sodded with the cost to be assessed on a local improvement basis — 60 per cent by the owner and 40 per cent by the city.

It was here that council decided to take a second look. The estimate was that the cost to the city could amount to $25,000 per year.

Council referred to the city planning board a request from the Canadian National Railways Athletic Association, seeking to purchase a portion of Hambly Street north of their present building. The Athletic Association wants the property for expansion purposes at Club Canara.

Traffic Still Confusing As Sewers Installed

Traffic in the lower bridge area will be confusing a little while longer.

The street has been changed around again to allow the installation of storm sewers.

The north side of the bridge has been closed and two-way traffic has been re-routed to the south side of the structure and Bridge Street West.

James Street has been completely closed except to residents of that street.

According to Inspector Ralph Blatchford of the Belleville city police the length of time of the new re-routing is not yet definite.

No special traffic policemen will be stationed in the area.

Propeller Slashes Teenager

A Belleville teenager was severly slashed by a boat's propellor near Rossmore yesterday.

Belleville General Hospital officials said Kevin Gardner, 14, of 32 Greenlown Avenue, was admitted to intensive care suffering serious chest, arm and leg lacerations.

The boy was believed injured when he fell from the boat near the Prince Edward County shoreline of the Bay of Quinte, although full details were not known. Provincial police at Picton said they had no report of the incident but would investigate.

Teens Respond To Art

Belleville's young people have responded well to art and ceramics classes sponsored by the Recreation Committee.

This morning, 29 young people between the ages of 13 and 16 began art classes under the direction of Mrs. Meg Pederson.

The classes will be held every Wednesday morning for five weeks.

Thirteen teenagers registered Monday for the ceramics classes, conducted Thursday afternoons by Mrs. Audrey Davies.

The Recreation Committee is offering classes in batik for adults for the first time this summer. Seven adults registered for the Wednesday afternoon classes to be directed by Mrs. Pederson.

The tennis classes for teenagers, held twice a week at the former Quinte Skating Club and St. Andrew's church courts, were oversubscribed. A waiting list is being compiled for a possible second series of lessons.

Recreation officials also reported a good attendance at the tennis lessons for adults, held once a week at Zwick's Island.

Mail Must Go Through

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wondering how you'll get your mail if the postman goes on strike Thursday?

A lot of it you won't get, but:

—If you're an alderman in Kingston a policeman will drive up with it;

—If you're in Winnipeg a metre reader may bring along your hydro bill;

—If you're disabled and on welfare in Toronto you'll have your cheque delivered to you;

—Or you could be lucky and live in Northern Ontario. Some post offices there do not belong to the strike-threatening Council of Postal Unions.

Elsewhere, it's going to be tough to get correspondence through—except for restricted government services or through steps taken by big business to rent United States post office boxes.

The strike threat continues strong with little progress reported in negotiations between the treasury board and the CPU, which represents 24,000 workers across Canada.

Meantime, the post office department began imposing embargoes on all mail in anticipation of the strike.

The federal government prepared early to ease the impact of the strike. The health and welfare department already has mailed out 1,400,000 post-dated old age security and Canada Pension Plan cheques and 2,900,000 family and youth allowance cheques.

In Kingston, city hall says it has arranged to have committee agendas and personal mail to aldermen delivered by police cruiser.

Doctor Suggests Sterilization For Indian Women

TORONTO (CP) — A Vancouver doctor strongly recommends a wider use of sterilization for Indian women in British Columbia, especially older women, with several children when contraceptive measures have failed.

Dr. W. D. S. Thomas says many deaths caused by post-delivery bleeding could be avoided if women with five children were sterilized after their 35th birthday.

Dr. Thomas, an obstetrician and gynecologist at Vancouver General Hospital, studied the case histories of 26 Indian women who died in childbirth from 1955-65. The findings are published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

He says 25 of the 26 deaths could have been prevented and in 19 cases, the women herself was responsible.

"The high incidence of patient responsibility reflects the frequent refusal of the Indian woman to seek medical aid even when she is in serious trouble."

While the Indians made up 2.4 per cent of the province's population in 1965, they had 5.7 per cent of the babies and 16.1 per cent of the maternal deaths in those 11 years.

Only three of the 26 women had pre-natal care. Having a baby is taken for granted because they have always had their babies delivered at home with the help of the husband or a native midwife.

Dr. Thomas says every effort must be made to control the fertility of Indian women. Their birth rate was 34.6 in 1,000 compared to 17.3 for non-Indians in the province in 1966.

Tickling Obsession Upsets Youngsters

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me what to do about an uncle and aunt who have no common sense whatever. Our young children [illegible] visit to go to their home. They hide when this aunt and uncle come to our place. The reason — they tickle the kids until they are in tears. I am a very ticklish person myself and I hate it. I have begged my aunt and uncle to please leave the kids alone but they say the kids love to be tickled and I shouldn't deprive them of this fun.

Last night both children ran and hid when this aunt and uncle appeared at the door. Uncle found them and began the tickling routine. The children ended up crying as usual and I had a difficult time quieting them to sleep. Please tell me what to do. — NOT LAUGHING.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR NOT: Don't Ask — instruct your aunt and uncle to keep their hands off your children. There's something sadistic about their behavior and you should not allow it. If, after you have told this old couple in a firm manner not to touch the children, they persist in tickling them, take the youngsters to another room when they come to visit and keep them there till the ticklers leave.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few weeks ago I noticed a letter in your column from a reader who had epilepsy and found herself severely discriminated against. Much of the discrimination is encouraged by archaic state laws. Would it shock you to learn that in some states epileptics cannot marry without submitting to sterilization? In some states an epileptic cannot receive a driver's licence even though his epilepsy has been completely under control for years. Workmen's compensation and other benefits are often denied to epileptics.

In North Carolina we recently revised our laws concerning epileptics and we are extremely proud of it. Our legislators have since been working with the National Epileptic Council to help revise the laws in other states. There is no reason in this day of modern medicine for a state to penalize the epileptic or treat him as a mental incompetent.

A word of encouragement to those states who have yet to change the archaic legislation on their books might be very helpful, Ann. Will you give it? — CHARLES H. TAYLOR, STATE REPRESENTATIVE.

DEAR MR. TAYLOR: My hat is off to the state legislators of North Carolina. I hope your letter will serve as an inspiration for other states to move forward and follow your example.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This problem may seem like trivia to you but it's a pain in the neck to me and I need some advice. My husband and I own a small apartment building. We have three automatic washers and dryers in the laundry room. Mrs. Whatsername is in the laundry room almost every day at "prime time" — from 2 till noon.

Monday she laundered 16 shirts. Tuesday she laundered 10 more shirts. This woman is divorced and has a 19-year-old living with her. I've never seen this kid in anything but turtle-neck sweaters so I'm sure she is doing laundry for another man or two. Maybe three.

We don't care about the social life of our tenants but Mrs. Whatsername's hogging act is making the other folks mad. Help us. — CLIFFDWELLERS.

DEAR CLIFF: Post a schedule in the laundry room, assigning specific hours to specific tenants. If Mrs. Whatsername needs the machine beyond her allotted time she should be told to use it at night.

Which Is Which?

Phyllis Diller, standing next to a clothes tree with a woman's yellow-flowered hat on top, commented: "I hope this thing doesn't talk because nobody will know which is which."

Corned Beef Blintzes Suitable for Buffet

By MARY MOORE

Afterthoughts kept flitting through my mind. The corned beef blintzes Shirley and I made for dinner at her house seemed so appropriate for a buffet table I thought you would be interested in them for your parties.

They were easy to lift and serve and full of lovely flavor and to cap it all could be made in advance. As you know, blintzes are Russian pancakes and will remind you of French crepes. They are easy to make. Don't they sound ideal for summer cottagers?

CORNED BEEF STUFFED BLINTZES

(Twelve 5", serves 6)

Filling:

One 12-oz. can corned beef, flaked (room temperature)

2 small eggs

1 small onion, grated

½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce

¼ cup milk

Blintzes:

(Thin pancakes)

4 small eggs

1 cup plus 2 tbsps. milk

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour

¼ tsp. salt

¼ cup melted butter or margarine or oil

Topping:

Canned tomato sauce and dairy sour cream

To make Filling beat eggs with fork, add flaked corned beef, onion, Worcestershire sauce and milk and blend. Set aside.

To make Blintzes, in beater bowl beat eggs well then add flour and salt and about ¼ cup of the milk and beat hard until perfectly smooth. Gradually beat in remaining milk and the butter or margarine or oil. Using a measure that will hold 2 tbsps. of this thin batter pour into 5" lightly greased frying pan and fry one blintz at a time, turning over when bottom is pale gold and cooking other side until dry. It does not have to be gold. Or cook on ungreased griddle. (We cooked three at a time on my electric griddle.) This amount makes 12. Transfer blintzes to plate to hold them until you are ready to fill them.

About three-quarters of an hour before serving time, spread a rounded tablespoonful (about 1-12 of total amount) on each blintz and neatly roll up. Place open side down on large shallow buttered baking dish in two even rows. Spoon canned or homemade tomato sauce over half of them; spread dairy sour cream over remaining half. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 20 min. or until thoroughly heated through and bubbly. If for dinner serve two to each person. If for a buffet table when other entrees are provided allow one per person.

You are going to like these corned beef blintzes and they are economical.

Boy Friend Plans to Come Back to His Girl "Some Time"

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I am 17 and my ex-boy friend is 18. He broke off with me for no special reason, but he told me he would come back to me again some time. I still love him.

Do you think I should take him back? I go out with other boys, but I still can't get him off my mind. Whenever I see him, my heart flips for him.— Miserable

Dear Miserable: Take him back! If and when he deigns to turn up!

All depends on how you feel about him by then. I'll bet you will be flipping over some other type a year or so from now. Play it cool.

• • •

Dear Doris: My husband is unbelievably lazy. He was brought up in a home where work was looked down upon.

Against his family's will, and because of my encouragement he left his father's hardware store and entered the real estate field. He is bright and his personality is delightful.

Now he's thinking of leaving the real estate because of lack of self-discipline and organizational ability. This is the story of his life. He says he's bound for failure. I've tried everything to help him. — Worn Out

Dear Worn Out: A living example of the fact that personality isn't everything! It is a crime when parents fail to help a youngster of promise to grow up into a capable functioning man.

Those all-important early years were devoted to indulgences, and without some habits of discipline, he cannot organize himself or anyone else.

It is lucky for him that you have faith in him and are willing to proceed to raise him. Gradually put responsibility in his hands. Let him know what you expect and what you believe he can do. Praise him when you can.

Be willing to settle for a salaried job until he finds his stride.

• • •

Confidential to Can't Take It: The more sophisticated the person, the less he worries about what the other person thinks if he wants a very small amount of alcohol or none at all. Any good host resists the urge to put on pressure, and makes it easy to ask for a soft drink instead.

And here's a tip: If you think you will be offered a drink on an empty stomach, nibble food first. Take a drink of cold milk and a bun before you leave for the party.

• • •

Confidential to Mixed - Up Teeners: Better get over that crying jag and put those phoney Romeos out of your minds. Your so-called friends are rude, inconsiderate, completely selfish — and dynamite!

They can ruin things for you if you let them.

Grow up a little and widen your horizons.

WEDDINGS

FOSTER — MILLER

Rev. W. Lamb performed the double - ring ceremony in Holloway Street United Church Belleville on Saturday, July 6, at 11 a.m., when Cheryl Lynn Miller, daughter of Mrs. Elrena C. Miller, Belleville was united in marriage to Allison (Alan) James Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Foster of Ottawa. Angus Macleod, church organist played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Miss Norma Jones of Ottawa.

Given in marriage by her uncle Al Walker of Trenton, the bride wore a full length A-line gown of nylon sheer over satin having three - quarter length sleeves and flowing train. The Empire waistline was accented with a fringe of crocheted lace as was the hem of the dress. A white satin and velvet rose headdress adorned with seed pearls was caught to a four - tier bouffant veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of red, pink and white rosebuds.

Miss Suzanne Lowther, Belleville as maid of honor wore a full length gown of blush rose nylon chiffon over taffeta with the Empire waistline enhanced with a mulberry velvet ribbon woven through a band of matching rose crocheted lace. Her headdress consisted of a mulberry velvet ribbon and tiny colored flowers. She carried a nosegay of red and white carnations centred with red roses. The bridesmaids Miss Joan McConnell and Miss Arlene Gill, both of Belleville were identically attired to the maid of honor and carried nosegays of pink and white flowers.

Vernon Foster of Ottawa attended his brother, while the ushers were Brian Smith of Belleville and Graham Clarke of Ottawa.

At the reception in the Tops Motel, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a rose pink crepe dress with matching lace bodice, pink organza flowered hat, white accessories and a corsage of red Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a soft sea mist crepe dress with matching lace coat, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Kaquenday and other points in northern Ontario, the bride donned a navy and white crepe dress, white accessories and carried a long stemmed single rose.

On return the couple will reside at 268 Poplar Plains Road, Apt. 1006, Toronto 7, Ontario.

Idea Man of External Affairs, Norman A. Robertson, Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — Norman A. Robertson, 64, who won a reputation as a brilliant idea man in a 35-year career with the external affairs department, died in hospital Tuesday of a lung infection.

His was twice undersecretary of state in the major government department, twice served as high commissioner in the United Kingdom, was ambassador to the United States and chief negotiator for Canada during tariff-cutting talks among the world's industrial nations at Geneva.

He retired in 1965 and went to Carleton University to head a new school of graduate studies in international affairs.

Born in Vancouver, Norman Alexander Robertson studied at the University of British Columbia and went to Oxford University on a Rhodes Scholarship.

A voracious reading appetite kept him abreast of many fields outside his main one of external affairs for Canada. Associates gave him credit for coming up with many suggestions for policy or action in such diverse fields as communications, atomic energy, peacekeeping forces and trade.

Mr. Robertson joined the external affairs department in 1929, a year after his marriage to the former Yettie Welling, a Dutch girl.

By 1941, he had risen to undersecretary of state, the highest civil service post in the department.

He held the post until 1946, then was sent to Britain as Canadian high commissioner, where he stayed for three years. He returned to Canada and was appointed clerk of the privy council under the St. Laurent administration.

In 1952, he started his second stint as high commissioner in the United Kingdom, remaining until 1958. He was back in Canada again as external undersecretary from 1958 until 1963.

His next appointment was as chief Canadian negotiator at the Geneva tariff talks, his last civil service position before his retirement.

Lester Pearson, who joined external affairs a year before Mr. Robertson and was prime minister when Mr. Robertson retired, said at that time:

"I have long been associated with Norman Robertson and, like everyone else who has known him, I have marveled at the quality and range of his mind.

"He is one of Canada's most able, most experienced and most respected public servants."

One senior civil servant said Mr. Robertson sparked "most of the good ideas which have come out of external, even out of Canadian governments, since the 1940s."

Besides his wife, Mr. Robertson is survived by two daughters, Judith of Ottawa and Mrs. J. R. Houston of Toronto.

A funeral service has been set tentatively for Friday but details remain to be arranged.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Neophites almost always respond to injustice by, "I'll take you to court." Because of the complexities of legal proof, justice often is more easily achieved by indirect means.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: What good is a guarantee if it means nothing? When I bought my house in 1965 I was given a guarantee in writing that my house was free of termites. Two years later I discovered that not only is the house swarming with termites but there is also termite damage.

With my guarantee in hand I went to see my lawyer. He researched, interviewed witnesses and told me that I had no case. He says legally I have no way of proving that the termites or termite damage existed in 1965 at the time the guarantee was issued.

As I'm about to sign a $400 contract with another company I keep looking at the guarantee and saying, "Oh law, where is thy sting?" — Mr. E.

ANSWER: Many have learned that it is one thing to have the law on one's side, but it is something else proving it beyond a shadow of a doubt. This incident illustrates why prudent people say, "A lawsuit is like heavy artillery — it should be kept in reserve posing a constant threat and used as a last resort."

From experience I can vouch that there is a more effective way to validate the guarantee than by a lawsuit. If the termite guarantee was issued because the mortgage company or the bank required it, then I would complain to that institution.

To retain good will or to avoid complaints, the mortgage company might use a persuasive argument which run something like this: "We are not sure of the legal aspects of the case but if the guarantee of your company means anything then we will not accept any more certificates of guarantee from your company." Since the issuance of termite guarantee certificates has become a rather lucrative business, a company will make good on its guarantee although there may be some question of its precise legal standing.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: What recourse does a tenant have against an unscrupulous apartment manager? At least several times a week, when I am out, he goes through my closets and personal papers. Not too long ago when I unexpectedly returned and caught him, he dismissed his unusual conduct with the statement, "It's my job to find out everything about the tenants."

I've complained to the real estate office where he works, but I'm ignored. — Miss H. G.

ANSWER: The standard approach to a question of this type would be to advise the reader to examine the lease to determine her rights or to move to an apartment where the manager is less snoopy. From experience I know this is not the best answer.

This lady should make it a point to personally see the owner or president of the real estate firm. When he finds out, he will be eternally grateful to this woman for telling him about this sick manager. Apparently the complaint desk has classified this woman as a "chronic complainer," and is ignoring the situation.

I am sure once his employer finds out about the actions of this manager there will be no necessity to go further. He might even reward our correspondent with a very favorable new lease (I've known this to happen).

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I saved my money and became a property owner. I've just made a settlement on a $20,000 house. Simultaneously the tax collector sent me greetings in the form of a $226 tax bill. Isn't that a lot of money for the privilege of being a property owner? — Mr. L. P.

ANSWER: No, it is far less than the average. A study recently released by the Census Bureau shows that the median real estate tax is $295. The three highest cities in the U.S. (on a $20,000 house) are Trenton, N. J., with $692; Newark, N. J., with $812; and Worchester, Mass., with $775. The three lowest cities are Montgomery, Ala., with $108; Mobile, Ala., with $152; and Greensboro, N.C., with $160.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: In my new house I am going first class. When everybody is shoveling snow off their driveways next winter, I'll be sitting in my living room watching, because mine will have heated pipes in it which will melt the snow automatically. I'll continue dreaming if the cost is right. Nobody has the slightest idea — do you? — Mr. H. S.

ANSWER: A self - melting driveway with radiant heat is an excellent idea, but it is not cheap. With steel pipe the cost is about $2 a square foot, with copper pipe it's about $2.50 a square foot, and with wrought iron pipe it runs about $2.75 a square foot.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Six Charged With Theft

GUELPH (CP) — Six persons, including four Windsor residents, were remanded to Aug. 13 when they appeared in magistrate's court Tuesday charged in connection with a $17,000 theft June 26 at Mount Forest, about 45 miles northwest of here.

Charged with breaking and entering are Daniel and Georgina Sourbuk, Ralph John Bennett and Nelson Vincent, all of Windsor, and Michelle Quinn and Robert Brian Bailey of London, Ont.

About $10,000 worth of men's and women's clothing and $7,000 in cheques were stolen June 26 from two Mount Forest stores.

Golfers May Ride In Georgia Event

MACON, Ga. (AP) — More than 200 golfers have entered the Georgia amateur golf championship which starts Thursday, and the big question is: Who's riding?

The Georgia Amateur Golf Association voted to allow golf carts for the first time in a major tournament in Georgia.

Letters from golfers throughout the U.S. indicate it is a first anywhere.

The association said one reason golf carts are being permitted is because of a shortage of caddies.

Arnold Blum, 46, the only five-time winner of the tournament, says any player in the championship flight should walk or he should stay out of the tournament.

Blum and some other top players will be watching to see who rides and who walks.

Henry Carter of Athens, secretary of the state association, said he is convinced that eventually golf carts will be permitted in professional tournaments—possibly within three years.

U.S. Seizes Canadian Coins

CHICAGO A(AP) — U.S. customs officials reported Tuesday they seized more than two tons of Canadian silver coins with an estimated value of $10,000 at O'Hare International Airport during the weekend.

None of the coins was flown into the United States directly from Canada, but from U.S. border points. Officials are holding the coins to make certain they were transported into the U.S. legally.

Some of the coins probably were to be melted down for their silver content, customs agents said. There are several smelters in Chicago.

Officers of Inland Vessels May Tie Up Fleet by Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Gilbert Gauthier, president of the Canadian Marine Officers Union, said Tuesday a strike by the 1,200 officers in the union could come late in August if talks this week with the Canadian Lake Carriers Association prove fruitless.

A strike by the union would paralyze Canada's 200-vessel inland fleet and halt wheat and iron ore shipments through the St. Lawrence Seaway system.

Mr. Gauthier said in an interview that his union's contract negotiations have not been affected by the just-ended 34-day strike of 1,250 seaway workers.

"I've taken a sounding among the membership and they're willing to take strike action if it comes to that."

Both the union and the association have been negotiating since April for a new contract to replace the one that expired June 1. A strike had been set for mid-July before it was announced that talks will resume here Thursday.

Mr. Gauthier said that if nothing is accomplished this week, the dispute may move before a conciliation board and that strike action would be delayed until late August.

The main dispute with the 32-member association revolved about language used in the proposed contract.

It gave management a lot of room for interpretation and manoeuverability and placed the union at a disadvantage, he said.

Talks under a government conciliation officer broke down a month ago with both the union and the association blaming each other for the collapse.

The union has said there is disagreement over wages, pensions, statutory holidays and vacations.

Mr. Gauthier said Tuesday there is also a welfare clause and three other less important clauses which could boil over if this final four points are not settled this week.

No Inquest

SIMCOE (CP) — Police said Tuesday no inquest will be held into the drowning death Monday of Linda Voortman, 8, of nearby Aconster.

The girl was swimming with her sister and a friend when she disappeared in Lake Erie off Long Point.

Jobs Await Rubber Workers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Employees out of work because of the closing of Firestone Industrial Products Ltd. in Lindsay, Ont., will be welcome in Windsor.

A spokesman for Canada manpower said Tuesday the organization is ready to assist rubber workers at the Lindsay plant which ceased production Monday, throwing about 250 men out of work. Company spokesmen said the closing of the plant was forced by economic problems and a strike threat.

At the Windsor mwnpower centre, officials said jobs could be found for some of the workers in local auto plants and feeder plants.

Windsor automotive firms are asking for job applicants and unemployed Windsor residents with the qualifications are hard to find.

Cowan Seen As Man to Beat

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener's Gary Cowan was the favorite at the Ontario amateur golf championship opened today at Scarborough Golf and Country Club.

Cowan, winner of the 1968 Ontario Open and runner-up in the Amateur last year, has won the title only once, in 1964.

He is facing tough competition from men like Nick Weslock of Brantford, a six-time winner, and North Bay's Morland brothers, Bill, who won in 1963, and Dave, who took the title in 1960.

Ian Thomas, 19, of London, Ont., Ontario junior champion in 1965, said Cowan "has to be the favorite."

"If he's hitting the ball well and his wedge is working for him, he should shoot a 66 or 67."

The par-71 layout runs through 6,772 yards of gullies, narrow fairways and high greens. The 151 golfers began teeing off at 8 a.m.

Ian, attending Miami University, Ohio, on a golf scholarship, said the greens are good and the ball holds well.

"I wasn't getting any more than a 10-foot roll on my wedge shots," he said, discussing his practice round Tuesday.

The weather could be a strong factor in the first round of the 54-hole championship.

Temperatures are expected to climb into the low 90s and even higher in some of the gullies of the rolling course.

The Ontario Willingdon Cup team will be decided Thursday after totalling the first 36 holes of the Ontario Open and the first 36 holes of the Amateur.

The four low-aggregate scorers over the 72 holes will win places on the team competing for the Canadian championship in Edmonton Aug. 3-4.

Cowan leads after the two rounds of the Ontario Open with a total of 136. He is followed by Ben Kern of Toronto, 140; Peter Hutchison of Hamilton, 141; Gus Blair of Toronto, 143, and John Ellison of Toronto, 144.

Grouped at 146 are Peter Turner of Toronto, Thomas, Stu Hamilton of Brampton, Westlock, Eric Hanson of Toronto and Dave Allewell of Owen Sound.

Wants PGA

Jack Seeks End to Drought

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, trying to retain his reputation as one of golf's best pressure players, heads into Thursday's start of the 1968 PGA tournament hoping to end almost a year of frustration.

Although he hasn't won a tour title since last fall, Nicklaus still ranks as the man to beat on the 7,096-yard "Pecan Valley course.

His bid for victory will be challenged by 167 touring pros and club professionals on the par-70 layout.

Top contenders include Billy Casper, top money winner on the tour this year, U.S. open champ Lee Trevino and Dave Stockton, who has two tournament victories this year.

But defending champion Don Januray said the heat and the shaggy rough around the narrow fairways will be the biggest challenges.

Temperatures in the 90s are likely throughout the tournament.

Nicklaus, runnerup in the U.S. Open and the British Open this year, has been fighting an erratic driver all season. He always has fared well in the four preseason tournaments, which also include the Masters and the PGA.

Except for 1964, he won at least one of the Big Four every year since he turned pro, claiming the PGA crown in 1963.

Casper has won four tournaments this year and pocketed $130,185.

Most of golf's big names are in the field; with the exception of South African Gary Player, last week's British Open champion, and Argentina's Roberto De Vicenzo.

Arnold Palmer, who has never won the PGA title and whose last triumph in a prestige tournament was at the 1964 Masters, appeared optimistic about his chances after a practice round Tuesday.

Julius Boros, Bobby Nichols, Dave Marr, Al Geiberger, Jerry Barber, Jay Hebert, Bob Rosburg, Dow Finsterwald, Lionel Hebert, Doug Ford and Sam Snead are among the former champions in the field.

The winner of the 72-hole tournament which ends Sunday will collect about $30,000.

This week's sports blooper above and beyond the call of duty goes to the New York public relations staff of Spain's Iberia Air Lines.

Excited to find Bobby Hull and wife Joanne about to board one of their Spain-bound flights, the Iberia ad-men hustled up a photographer, and rushed out a publicity photo with the caption:

Need we say more?

Well, hockey never was a Spaniard's cup of Madeira!

Speaking of blunders, a Bowmanville peewee baseball coach really outdid himself over the weekend.

With his team trailing Belleville's Holy Rosary EOBA entry 3-0, the visitor's coach apparently took exception to a local umpire's decision.

When he didn't get his way, the irate Bowmanville pilot did a fine bit of example-setting, pulling his team off the field, and forfeiting the game 9-0 to the locals.

Oh, to be EOBA president for about 38 seconds — just long enough to inform the gentleman that coaching 10-year-olds doesn't require behaving like one.

On second thought, no 10-year-old baseball player I know would act so childish.

Ganging Up on Gilbey

Stinson's Construction pitcher Scotty Reid and battery mate Lyle Thompson converge on Black Diamond Cheese outfielder Jack Gilbey in a Commercial League softball game last night. Gilbey scored on the play, but it wasn't enough, as Stinson's overwhelmed the Cheesemen 9-3 at the Alemite.

Commercial Play

City Sneaks Upward; Stinsons Stay Close Behind

City Hotel gave a practical demonstration at the Alemite last night of how to put a plan in action.

The plan is the Hotelmen's current bid for top spot in the hectic Commercial League softball race, and last night's result was a 14-2 drubbing of the on-again, off-again Brant's Body Shop entry.

To complete the demonstration, City hurlers Gerry Genereaux and Bob Davenport combined for a no-hit performance. The other half of last night's doubleheader would have made an ideal duel for third place, but Stinson's Construction didn't see it that way, belting the Holoway brothers and Black Diamond Cheesemen 9-3.

Last night's win was the third straight for the City crew. Helped by a pair of losses by first-place Belvedere this week, City are now just two points in back of the league leaders. And the two league hotel entries are due to clash tomorrow night.

The Citymen made last night's Brant game a one-sided affair from all angles.

In the first place, they teamed two pitchers to stop the cellar-dwelling Brants without a hit. Gerry Genereaux started for the winners, giving up a third-inning unearned run, walking one and fanning three Brants. Bob Davenport came on the fourth, allowing a seventh-inning Brant tally on a pair of walks but preserved the City no-hitter.

And in the second place, the bustling City nine mustered a mighty 18-hit attack off Brant hurlers Gary Matier and Mark Sheridan.

Leading the way at the plate were second-baseman Bob Wannamaker with a pair of singles and a double; right-fielder Moe Hawkins — ditto; third-sacker Doug Hall and Tom Coolen — a trio of singles each; and City shortstop "Pug" Kellar, who contributed a double and triple.

Genereaux, Green, "Shiner" Murray, and McLeod also hit safely for the winners.

Matier lasted 2½ innings on the Brant dish, yielding six runs on eight City hits and a pair of free passes, while striking out two.

Mark Sheridan, this time on the receiving end of a no-hitter after throwing one a few weeks back against Stinsons, completed last night's Brant loss. He was charged with the remaining eight City runs on 10 hits, walking two and fanning five Hotelmen.

As if they had bigger things in mind, City stranded another 10 runners on base!

STINSONS — 9

BLACK DIAMOND — 3

Stinson Construction jumped off to a four-run, six-hit start in the first inning of their Black Diamond game, and coasted home with a 9-3 win.

Their win, coupled with a 1-0 upset of league - leading Belvedere Hotel Saturday, left the builders in third, only two points behind City Hotel, and four back of Belvedere.

Four consecutive first - inning hits by centrefielder Rick Locke, catcher Lyle Thompson, third - baseman Jack Whiting, and pitcher Bob Boyle drove Cheeseman starter Sonny Holoway from the mound.

Brother Don came on in relief, but gave up another pair of safeties to Stinson first - sacker Paul Stinson and left - fielder Bob Tomaso which gave the builders a 4-0 edge by the end of the first frame. The winners added one fourth inning tally and four more in the final frame.

In all, the Stinson squad collected 10 hits, including three by lead-off man Rick Locke, and two each by Thompson and Stinson.

Winner Bobby Boyle was charged with one Black Diamond run in the first, and another in the sixth, when he was relieved by Scotty Reid, who gave up the third Cheeseman tally on one hit.

Boyle was tagged for four Black Diamond safeties.

First baseman Jack Francis, third - baseman Wayne McTaggart, right - fielder Rick Denard, and left - fielder Brian Smith each contributed one safety in the losing Cheeseman cause.

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)— Stewards at Fort Erie race track have notified the Ontario Racing Commission that a urinalysis of a horse which ran last Wednesday showed traces of phenothiazine, a tranquilizer drug. The test was carried out on Parkside, a three-year-old gelding which ran third in the first race at Fort Erie July 10. Parkside, owned by Joseph Corentino of Toronto and trained by Joe Braithwaite, was disqualified and placed last. Edwin Gorman, ORC supervisor of racing, said the test on Parkside was taken at random after the race. Each winner of a race and two others chosen at random are tested each day.

TORONTO (CP) — World and Olympic ski champion Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., said Tuesday she has definitely retired from competitive skiing. "To go back would be anti-climatic," she said. "To win you really have to want to, and I've achieved my goals." She made her remarks at a news conference, where she announced she will sign a year's contract with General Motors of Canada to promote the company's products, particularly sports cars.

FORT ERIE (CP) — The executive vice-president of The Jockey Club Ltd. said Tuesday night that public relations director Trent Frayne will be leaving the Jockey Club. John J. Mooney refused to say whether Frayne was resigning or being fired. Mooney said that no one is being considered for Frayne's position at present. Frayne was not immediately available for comment.

When Club Prexy Says "Jump", Twins Ask: "Is 5th Spot High Enough"?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Minnesota pitchers got the word to start running for their money Dean Chance wasn't caught standing still. And neither were the Twins' hitters.

Joined by a pre-game blast directed at the pitching staff by club President Calvin Griffith Tuesday night, the Twins erupted for six first inning runs and went on to crush Boston 12-3 behind Chance's six-hitter.

The victory—only the third for the Twins in their last 12 games —sent them from seventh to fifth place in the American League standings.

Detroit's Denny McLain breezed to his 12th victory, tops in the majors, as the front-running Tigers blanked Oakland Athletics 4-0, ending a three-game losing string and holding their 6½-game edge over second place Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles topped Chicago White Sox 4-2 for their seventh successive victory. Cleveland Indians nipped California Angels 2-1 in 10 innings and New York Yankees swept a twi-night twin bill from Washington Senators 4-0 and 4-3, in other AL action.

Griffith, convinced that an out-of-shape pitching staff was responsible for the Twins' recent tailspin into the second division, ordered more running for the hurlers.

"Our pitchers have got to get their legs in better shape," Griffith said. "How many pitchers have we had go nine innings recently? I can't remember any for a long time."

Chance then went the route with ease, backed by an early inning barrage that sent three Boston pitchers scurrying for cover before Jim Lonborg finally stilled the Twins' bats. All 12 Minnesota runs were scored in the first four innings against loser Gary Bell and relievers Bill Landis and Jerry Stephenson.

Tony Oliva's two-run triple and a two-run homer by John Roseboro were the big blows in the first inning burst. Oliva doubled home a run in the second and Rich Reese and Rick Renick contributed two-run singles in the third and fourth, respectively.

McLain scattered eight hits and struck out nine while running his unbeaten string to nine games—all full-route jobs. The Detroit ace, 12-2, did not permit an Oakland runner past second base.

Al Kaline slammed his fifth homer against loser Chuck Dobson, who was clipped for eight hits and all four Detroit runs in the 3 1-3 innings he lasted.

Andy Etchebarren's fifth homer sent the Orioles in front to stay at Chicago and right-hander Jpm Hardin shackled the White Sox on six hits. The victory was No. 6 without a loss for Earl Weaver, Baltimore's new skipper. The loss was the White Sox' first in four starts under new pilot Al Lopez.

Larry Brown's run-scoring single in the 10th carried the Indians past the Angels after Joe Azcue's double off reliever Bobby Locke started the winning rally. California rookie Tom Murphy had held the Indians to three hits over the first nine innings. Stan Williams was the winner in relief of Sam McDowell.

Bad Luck Due Cards? Everybody Knows But Them

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis Cardinals may chuckle all the way to the World Series over those persistent reports that they are overdue for a reversal of fortunes.

Lou Brock was the hero Wednesday night as the Cards whipped San Francisco's slumping Giants 6-1. Nelson Briles picked up the victory on a three-hitter.

It was the sixth straight for the Cards, who've been beaten only once in 14 games this month.

Brock delivered three hits, two runs, two RBI and three stolen bases as St. Louis held on to its 9½ game lead over Atlanta Braves who defeated Houston Astros 6-2.

Pittsburgh Pirates ended a 10-game losing streak by stopping New York Mets 3-2. Chicago Cubs snapped Philadelphia Phillies' winning streak at seven, 4-3, with Glenn Beckert's 11th-inning double, and Ron Fairly's grand slam homer guided Los Angeles Dodgers past Cincinnati Red 9-2 in other National League activity.

Brock was hit by a pitch in the first inning, then stole second before eventually scoring on Mike Shannon's sacrifice fly.

In the second, Brock's two-run single broke a 1-1 tie. He then stole second again and came in on Curt Flood's single.

Willie McCovey's 22rd homer produced the Giants' lone run.

Pittsburgh relied on Jerry May's two-out two-run double in the seventh to end its tailspin.

May's decisive blow came for a long time.

Chance then went the route with ease, backed by an early inning barrage that sent three Boston pitchers scurrying for cover before Jim Lonborg finally stilled the Twins' bats. All 12 Minnesota runs were scored in the first four innings against loser Gary Bell and relievers Bill Landis and Jerry Stephenson.

Tony Oliva's two-run triple and a two-run homer by John Roseboro were the big blows in the first inning burst. Oliva doubled home a run in the second and Rich Reese and Rick Renick contributed two-run singles in the third and fourth, respectively.

McLain scattered eight hits and struck out nine while running his unbeaten string to nine games—all full-route jobs. The Detroit ace, 12-2, did not permit an Oakland runner past second

Everyone knows who drinks Seagram's Mellow 83

Retired sea captains, that's who.

It's funny what you hear about Seagram's Mellow 83. Like, it's the whisky for old fogeys. Or, only retired sea captains drink 83. We know different. All kinds of people are drinking 83 these days — and for the best of all reasons. They like the mellow, mellow way it tastes. Who are these individuals? Well, they weren't born in 1883. And they certainly weren't born yesterday.

Sensitized Hands React to Little Soap

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: A year ago my hands became sensitized while cleaning. I used a cleaning fluid mixed with a very small amount of water. Now, foolishly I used no gloves.

Next day I awoke with tight, sore dry skin on my hands.

Now no detergent, bleach, or strong soap can be used without my hands becoming extremely tender; in there soma product or treatment to touch on the hands? I can't always reach for the rubber gloves or carry them around on visits. — Mrs. R. R.

A good many women have had to turn to the use of rubber gloves because their hands became sensitive to soap or detergents — dishpan hands. The skin, once so sensitized, reacted thereafter to much smaller exposure to soaps and detergents than had been the case before.

With so many new beneficial products daily appearing on the market, they are naturally more products to which somebody will be sensitive. It isn't that these new products are "worse." They come on the market because, in one way and another, they are better, so people want to use them. It is simply that, with more chemicals in use, there is a mathematically greater chance of a person's encountering something which will bother him — but not bother others.

The manufacturers are quite aware of this, and obviously it is to their benefit to keep the risk of sensitivity as low as possible. Indeed, I am somewhat surprised (and pleased) that trouble has been kept as low as it is. Without care, it could have been far worse.

So it behooves anyone, and especially those with sensitive skin, to keep contact with cause detergents, bleaches, polishes, and other such products at a minimum. Use gloves — and protected contact with such materials when you can.

Once sensitization has occurred, quite slight contact with the offending material can cause trouble, and sometimes slight contact with other materials which in the past were innocuous. The one thing that may help, and is very much worth trying, is one of the various lotions which contain silicone. Applied before doing housework, this type of lotion often provides enough of a protective coating to prevent soreness. But don't demand too much of this coating! Keep exposure to a minimum.

If this does not suffice, then gloves are the answer.

There is little if anything in the way of medication that will "toughen" the skin. Indeed, any medicinal product carries the risk of making things worse instead of better.

Dear Dr. Molner: When one has congestive heart disease and is taking digitalis and water pills, is it permissible to take a daily glass of beer, one to one and a half ounces of whisky, dry gin or three times a week, and go in bathing? — N. B. G.

Yes, within limits, for everything except the beer. Avoid that in your case. And, of course, do not overdo the exercise to a point at which it causes distress. This is a vigorous exercise program for a person with congestive heart disease.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend told me that sleeping on hair mattresses helps brain tumors. Is this really true? — M. L. W.

Certainly not. It may irritate your scalp or make you restless, but that's all.

* * *

Note to Mrs. F. T. N.: The danger in eating uncooked beef is the possible presence of the beef tape worm. It is impossible to tell by looking at the meat whether it is infected. Cooking destroys the worm if present — so I say play safe and cook.

Afraid of Being Kidnapped

Marine Deserter Says He's Shadowed

VICTORIA (CP) — A 21-year-old Canadian who admits deserting the United States Marine Corps during a tour of duty in Viet Nam said Tuesday he is afraid of being kidnapped by Washington States to face a desertion charge in a military court.

Jack Joseph Normandeau of Victoria said in an interview he bases his fear on the presence of two strangers who appear to be shadowing him here.

Born in Calgary and raised here, Normandeau said he joined the marines in Seattle in June, 1957.

"I wanted to see for myself what it was like in Viet Nam," he said. "I wanted to see what the Americans were accomplishing."

He said he enlisted with the provision he could leave the marines if the corps agreed. He said he applied for release last winter but was refused.

Mr. Normandeau said he went to Viet Nam with the 3rd Marine Division last December, serving as a radio operation. In June he left leave in Honolulu. From there he boarded a plane by using his Canadian passport for flew to Vancouver. Then returned to his parents' home here.

Mr. Normandeau said that soon after his return the U.S. government sent a letter to his parents asking them if they knew his whereabouts to advise their son to return to the U.S. where a prison term awaited him.

He said the letter was turned over to Victoria lawyer John Kozak, who is representing him. The lawyer has written to Prime Minister Pindeau, asking for his opinion on the matter, he said.

Mr. Normandeau said that about two weeks ago two men in business suits called out to him in front of his home.

"They said: 'Hey Jack, we want to talk to you,' " he said in the interview. "I never saw them before, so I went in the front door and out the back and kept on going."

His brother Danny said that three times in the last few days he has seen a stranger parked near the house, apparently watching it.

Mr. Normandeau said he goes out of the house "but I stay in company with people I know." "I'm afraid."

He said he was disappointed by the Viet Nam experience, and the Americans are not "accomplishing anything."

"They're not winning the war. They're not winning the people.

"They don't know who they're fighting. You can't distinguish the civilians from the enemy.

"The Vietnamese who farms by day picks up his gun and starts shooting after dark.

"They (the Americans) don't care who they kill."

Ontario Is Hardest Hit by Nation-Wide Pollution Problem

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sewage and industrial effluents from Canada's major cities are killing fish and driving bathers away from previously pure and popular waterside recreational areas.

Canada, with more fresh water per capita than any other country in the world, is facing the problem of policing this resource and keeping it pure.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that Ontario, with more than two-fifths of the nation's population and a major part of its heavy industry, is experiencing most of the water pollution problems.

In Ottawa, pollution in the Rideau River has forced the city's medical officer to close two popular beaches in the central section of the city. Three other beaches and two swimming pools filled from the Rideau may also have to be closed if a solution is not found quickly. City engineers say emergency measures to improve sewage treatment and disposal in an upstream township may check the pollution.

So bad is the pollution that Jehovah's Witnesses may be forced to hold baptismal ceremonies in a swimming pool instead of the river during a convention Aug. 9-11.

Although Lake Erie suffers some of the worst pollution in the province, an Ontario Water Resources Commission spokesman said much of the lake is unpleasant to swim in but not unsafe.

However, Kent County health officials, responsible for about 48 miles of Lake Erie beach have put a temporary ban on swimming in the Morpeth area, about 30 miles east of Chatham. The ban has forced about 80 young girls attending a United Church of Canada summer camp to move 10 miles away to Blenheim for swimming instruction.

In Guelph, a three-foot foaming head of dense froth has covered the Speed River and forced the closing of all swimming areas fed by the river.

In New Brunswick, residents of Centreville drew international attention last week when they dammed the Presquile River to protest pollution of the river by two industrial plants at Easton, Me.

The Presquile was once a thriving trout stream, but Centreville residents say nothing lives in it now. The carcasses of thousands of fish which died in the polluted water are being treated with lime to destroy large numbers of insect larvae infesting the area.

The New Brunswick water authority has been waging anti-pollution campaigns for almost 10 years with most of their efforts and almost $8,000,000 spent on the St.-John River.

The Quebec health department has closed three beaches in the Quebec City area and the provincial government has set up a commission to study jurisdiction of water resources.

Roger McDonald, Saskatchewan's pollution control engineer, says his province is not in a serious position. Beaches were closed two years ago because of pollution in some of the major rivers, but now it is minimal.

In Alberta, a lands and forests spokesman said many of that province's major pollution problems stem from oil companies.

"There have been cases of oil being dumped from trucks just because it's a simple way of getting rid of it," he said.

In British Columbia, Victoria is embroiled in a controversy over the dumping of 6,350,000 gallons of raw sewage daily into the surrounding Pacific Ocean. A number of city beaches have been made off limits for swimming.

The lower Fraser River around the Vancouver-New Westminster area has also been a recent target of controversy with pulp mills dumping effluent into the sea and some 20 outlets of raw sewage.

Only Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Manitoba report little or no hazardous water pollution ruining recreational and pure water resources.

Brockville Publisher Dies

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Findlay Barnes Maclean, president of the Recorder Printing Co. and publisher and editor-in-chief of The Recorder and Times, died Tuesday in Kingston General Hospital. He was 50.

Mr. Maclean had been in critical condition in hospital since July 8 when he suffered a brain hemorrhage in his office.

He had been publisher of the newspaper since Oct. 24, 1958, following the death of his wife, the former Helen Graham. Mrs. Maclean had obtained the paper following the death of her father, Senator G. P. Graham.

Mr. Maclean came from a well-known newspaper family in Toronto, where he was born. His grandfather was W. F. (Billy) Maclean, publisher of the old Toronto World.

Mr. Maclean is survived by his second wife, the former Margaret Baker of Toronto, a daughter, Victoria Maclean, a step-daughter, Mrs. David Taylor and a step-son, Hunter Grant, all of Brockville.

There were no immediate details on funeral arrangements.

Playground Activities

On Thursday, July 11, Avondale and O.S.D. Playgrounds held a Pet Show at Avondale Playground. Approximately 40 children showed up for the event.

The pets were classified under dogs, cats, strange pets and stuffed animals. Numerous prizes were awarded for specialized categories such as dog, best groomed cat, strangest pet, smallest pet, smallest stuffed dog and prettiest stuffed dog.

The most exciting category seemed to be the choosing of the dog with the most tricks. Ricky Grey won first prize with his dog, Ruff, performing tricks.

Karen Twiddy with her dog won second prize by having Kim perform 9 tricks.

Judged the hats, competitive games were held, as well as a freshie sale.

QUEEN VICTORIA PARK

The first special event of Queen Victoria Park was held on Wednesday, July 10. About 45 children attended a scavenger hunt which lasted for approximately two hours. The winning team consisted of the following players: Joanne Tomaso, Linda Hodges, Shirley Gulliver, Pierre Pilon, Nicole Pilon and Karen Begley.

Eight teams of approximately six players each participated. The enthusiasm was so great that a second scavenger hunt is being scheduled for the latter part of the playground season.

PARKDALE PLAYGROUND

This week was hobby week at Parkdale Playground.

HILLCREST PLAYGROUND

Hillcrest playground was busy this week with the formation of baseball and soccer teams. A practice was held for track and field events on Monday.

On Thursday the playground went on an excursion to Fry's Park. Bill Thompson found a snapping turtle, Mikel Brooks landed a large mud turtle, Berry Trice and Jeff Thrasher found a variety of snails.

Wayne Thompson topped them all with an unidentified creature. The playground is presently selling tickets on a cake to raise money for the boys' baseball sweaters.

SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL

Sir Winston Churchill held a "Krazee" Hats Day on Thursday morning, July 11. While the judges, Mark Coates, Richard Wilkie, Michael Hunt and Gilda Marshall,

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. George Cotten, also Mrs. Gary Wilson, Paul and David of Hamilton spent a week at Marble Point Lodge, Crowe Lake.

Miss Margo Reid spent last week with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Orser of Carrying Place. Mrs. S. C. Reid wes a Sunday dinner guest of her sister and husband; Margo returned home with her.

At the final service of White's United Church, Bayside, the Rev. John Banner, pastor of the church spoke on "Call to Faith". Mrs. George Bilham contributed a solo, and the choir closed the service with a final hymn.

The family of Mrs. George Cotten honored their mother on the occasion of her birthday with a surprise party at their home. The family included members from Ottawa, Belleville, Hamilton, Read, Stirling and Tweed. Following the buffet chicken dinner, gifts were opened; and the rest of the evening games of euchre were enjoyed.

Judicial Probe Continues

Vincent Alexander's Wife Says Judge Helped Arrange Bail When Her Husband Was Charged

TORONTO (CP) — A judicial inquiry into the activities of two Toronto magistrates heard a taped telephone call Tuesday in which the wife of Vincent Alexander said a judge had helped arrange bail for her husband.

The inquiry is into actions of Magistrates Fred Bannon and George Gardhouse, relieved of court duties June 18 pending results of the investigation. Magistrate Bannon, 34, sent his resignation to the inquiry when hearings started Monday.

The inquiry was told Monday Alexander had a criminal record of five indictable offences, including shopbreaking and auto theft.

Tuesday, the last of 61 taped telephone conversations was presented. The calls, edited from 60 hours of tapes obtained by a police wiretap of Alexander's telephone March 21 to May 27, included 21 between Alexander's home and Magistrate Bannon's home or office. Two calls were between Alexander and Magistrate Gardhouse.

One conversation May 15, the day before Alexander was freed on $10,000 bail on a break-and-enter charge, had Mrs. Alexander telling her mother that she had spoken to "the good guy, the Judge," and "everything is supposed to be taken care of."

The next day she told a female caller the prospects of bail had been bad "but I met that guy and he was all right."

"You know, and it hadn't been for him there wouldn't have been no bail at all."

Magistrate James Rennick, who found Alexander not guilty of a break-and-enter charge March 27, told the inquiry he had not been approached by either magistrate in the Alexander case.

The inquiry was called by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart to investigate the two magistrates' "behavior or misbehavior" with Alexander. Mr. Justice Campbell Grant of the Ontario Supreme Court, head of the inquiry, said Monday its purpose is to inform the public.

In his letter of resignation, Magistrate Bannon said he had been "indiscreet" in not ending ties with Alexander when he became a magistrate last December. He had been Alexander's lawyer.

Magistrate Gardhouse, 60, was Magistrate Bannon's law partner.

In an April 23 conversation between Mrs. Alexander and her sister, Mrs. Alexander indicated Magistrate Bannon helped finance a land deal with Alexander as a silent partner.

She said Alexander and a man named Jimmy had to raise $2,000 to finish the land deal. Jimmy got $1,000 from a stockbroker "and so do you know who Vince got?"

"Bannon. Magistrate Fred Bannon."

She said that Alexander's name couldn't appear on the contract.

"He couldn't have anything on paper with Fred. . . . It would look awful if there was ever an investigation or anything."

She said Jimmy and Alexander would each take half the estimated profits of $25,000 and split it with their backers.

Conversations between Alexander and others indicated he handled court cases, including his own break-and-enter case, postponed. They also indicated several of Alexander's associates involved in court proceedings sought his help about length of prison sentences and court dates.

Mishap Kills Wife Held as Hostage

SANFORD, Me. (AP) — Police say Ralph Goodwin, 28, held his wife hostage for more than six hours Tuesday then shot her apparently accidentally while holding a gun to her head. She died today.

Goodwin was wounded by police.

He had held a gun to his wife's head as he emerged from a house in tale to reporters. As he descended the stairs Goodwin tripped and the gun went off, police said.

Earlier, photographers had entered the house with police and took pictures of Goodwin holding the weapon to his wife's head as they sat on a couch.

Goodwin was wounded by one shot which entered his left thigh and lodged in his right side. He was taken to hospital but was not considered in critical condition.

Goodwin, an unemployed machinist from Dover, N.H., had barricaded himself inside the home of his brother after forcing his wife to accompany him to Maine.

Earlier Tuesday, warrants had been issued for Goodwin's arrest after he had held two men at gunpoint in a Somersworth, N.H., trailer camp and had fired one shot.

Goodwin said shortly before the shootings:

"I know I'm sick. I know I've done wrong, but I am not going to jail for it, that's for sure. They will take me out of here feet first."

Big War Canoe Takes Bishops To St. Boniface

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Archbishop Maurice Baudoux of St. Boniface sat down at his pocket watch and climbed out of a big war canoe.

"Less than 13 minutes," he told the six paddlers who brought him and Archbishop George Flahiff of Winnipeg a mile down the Red River Tuesday in a ceremony marking the 150th anniversary of the founding of St. Boniface.

The two archbishops, dressed in cleric costumes of the era, were retracing the last stretch of the trip made by Rev. Joseph Norbert Provencher who paddled 38 days from Lachine, Que., and founded the city.

When the archbishops stepped out of the canoe they met Lt.-Gov. R. S. Bowles at Point Douglas where Father Provencher was greeted by government officials July 16, 150 years ago.

Point Douglas now is a wharf a few blocks from Winnipeg's city hall where Lake Winnipeg commercial fishing boats load supplies.

Like Father Provencher, Archbishop Baudoux wasn't dismayed by the unexpected: the public address system which failed to play O Canada on schedule.

The archbishop waited a few minutes and then sang the song himself, in French. Other voices joined him but the French version drowned out the few English voices in the group of 50 spectators.

Then the two archbishops, Lt.-Gov. Bowles and Alderman Slaw Rebchuk of Winnipeg rode in the canoe to the twin-spired St. Boniface Basilica, about a mile upstream from Point Douglas and a few hundred yards from the junction of the Red and Assiniboine rivers. The basilica is on the site of the early missionary's first chapel.

The archbishops celebrated an outdoor mass for a crowd estimated by organizers at 1,000. They dedicated a plaque, written in French, outlining the history of the basilica.

St. Boniface ended the anniversary day with dancing on Provencher Avenue, the broad main street which was crowded with about 2,000 people.

The week of celebrations began Sunday with a parade through Greater Winnipeg. A carnival ends the festivities this weekend.

Canada, Cuba, Mexico Classed Together As "No Extra Time" Areas for Draftees

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has been earmarked with Cuba and Mexico as countries to which American youths who qualify for the U.S. draft can get no extra time in which to lodge appeals.

The U.S. selective service normally gives a young man 30 days in which to appeal against being classified 1-A and being placed in the active pool from which recruits are drawn into the American armed forces.

The time limit is usually extended to 60 days if the candidate for the draft is abroad. But a selective service official in Washington says "abroad" in this case does not apply to Canada, Cuba or Mexico.

Canada has been regarded by American authorities as a haven for U.S. draft dodgers, though the government here says it has no evidence of Immigration officers at border points might, however, turn back a draft-dodger if there were indications he was an irresponsible drifter or unsavoury character.

Draft evasion is not one of the crimes for which a person could be extradited by the United States from Canada under the current extradition treaty. And the government here has objected to FBI agents seeking draft-dodgers in Canada.

To be deported from Canada, an American on a landed immigrant permit would have to be convicted of an indictable Canadian offence or be found to have made a false statement on his application for admission.

American youths coming to Canada in large numbers to avoid U.S. military service.

Young men of draft age can get a draft classification exempting them from service during four years of university training, so long as their grades are good. But at the end of their schooling, or if they fail to maintain good scholastic records, they can be reclassified I-A.

This puts them in the active recruitment pool and requires them to be examined for physical fitness. Because of heavy demands for forces in Vietnam and elsewhere, further deferments are becoming more difficult to obtain, officials say.

Young Americans coming in Canada usually enter as visitors, and the fact that one were of draft age would not alone bar him from entry.

Florida Arraigns Man Suspected Of Three Slayings

FORT LAURDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A man police described as a stuttering drifter when he was arrested on a murder charge stood mute Tuesday as a judge entered his plea of not guilty of killing an 11-year-old boy.

Stanley Everett Rice, 25, refused to answer when circuit judge George W. Tedder Jr. asked for a plea during arraignment on charges Rice fatally shot and stabbed Nelson Williams May 11 on a canal bank west of Fort Lauderdale.

Rice, a native of Concord, Mass., also is accused in the 1966 slaying of eight-year-old Tim Trask of Findlay, Ohio, and with non-capital murder in the 1963 death of Keith Henry, 9, of Waterloo, Ont.

People Dragging Coins From Silver Market

OTTAWA (CP) — A government source said Tuesday the mint has been issuing 10 and 25-cent coins at almost three times its normal rate this year, but still has not been able to keep up with unprecedented demand.

The source said:

"This is not a normal circulation problem. As far as we can tell, people are dragging coins off the market, and that's the problem."

The Bank of Canada reported last week there are $393,000,000 in Canadian coins in circulation. The Royal Canadian Mint won't say how many coins of which denominations are currently issued, but at the end of last year there was $17.51 per head of population, totalling $361,313,635.

The mint has been 'issuing cupro-silver coins since late last year. These are half silver and half copper. Previously, Canadian silver coins were 80 per cent silver and 20 per cent copper.

Starting next month, the mint will issue nickel coins. It has had to reduce and ultimately eliminate silver because of its high cost. Silver prices have risen to the point that the silver in a coin is worth more than the coin itself.

An official of the mint said it is virtually hopeless for individuals to try to profit on the coin shortage. It is illegal to melt Canadian coins, and reputable refineries won't do it.

Because Canadian coins are an alloy of silver and copper, metallurgical problems are encountered for the inexpert person to try to retrieve the silver content.

"It's a job for a refinery, and you'd better not try to do it yourself," the official said.

"There's only one solution to the coin shortage: stop exporting, and stop melting.

"But what we're really after are those who are trying to round up coins by the ton."

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Mrs. John Shepherd, Glencoe, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wood on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Stobbard and Miss Jane Stobbart were Thursday overnight visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elgmer Rollins.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Nathan Reid and family, who received word on Sunday of the sudden death of her brother, Mr. Delmar Seale.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Atkinson, Toronto were Saturday overnight visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fleming.

MAY FLOAT HOUSES

HALIFAX (CP) — The possibility of whole cities floating and functioning in the ocean is not to be discounted, Dr. R. I. Gilbert of the Bedford Institute of Oceanography said. He said satellite cities built on planks driven into the ocean floor with special devices for wave deflection may be the communities of the future. A city for the North Sea, where there is artificial natural gas, is planned.

Legislation Passes

County Education Boards A Reality

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature completed Tuesday debate on nearly all legislation expected to be passed at its current session, the longest on record, by passing nine government bills establishing county education boards for the Ontario school system.

The bills were given clause-by-clause approval after the government majority overcame a Liberal move support by the New Democratic calling for the cabinet to provide for two boards in any one large county.

The amendment motion, proposed by Edward Good (L—Waterloo North) was supported by Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) who said two or three counties in the province are too large to have one efficient school board.

The Liberal motion was defeated 45 to 29. Only 14 of the 28 Liberals and 15 of the 20 NDP members were in their seats for the vote while 24 Conservatives were absent on the vote.

Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough told the legislature recommendations on election procedures from a select committee should overlap into the fields of municipal elections.

He told the opposition members that the legislature committee, which meets between sessions, and the Ontario Clerks and Treasurers' Association both will be conducting studies useful in improving election methods at either level of government.

Mr. McKeough agreed with Bernard Newman (L—Windsor-Walkerville) that municipal elections should be held everywhere on the same date, but said this is difficult to achieve because of staggered council terms ranging from one year to three.

Voting machines are legal in Ontario, he told Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce), but their use in municipal elections will have to be considered by the study groups, as would voting booths in rest homes and hospitals.

In other legislature business Tuesday:

1. Allen Grossman, provincial reform institutions minister, promised to investigate reports that only one guard was on duty in Halton County jail when three prisoners assaulted a fourth prisoner recently.

2. Donald Deacon (L—York Centre) told the house federal intrusion into municipal affairs will not materialize if the Ontario government moves to preserve local initiative and comes up with policies to solve problems in housing and transportation.

Mr. McKeough said his department is considering what steps can be taken to stimulate economic growth along the north shore of Lake Huron west of Sudbury.

Master Use of Land Inevitable: McKeough

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough said Tuesday a master plan for land use in the province will be "inevitable" if the provincial government decides to create a system of regional governments.

Speaking as the legislature debated spending estimates of his department, Mr. McKeough said development of a master plan is one of several directions his department would like to consider for regional governments.

But the department lacks the necessary staff to work on the plan, he said.

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) said the staff shortage will prevent the department from taking effective action toward realizing regional governments.

Mr. Pitman said the department's senior staff is badly overworked and he doubts the minister would find it easy to attract qualified planners.

"The minister hasn't got a particle of the staff that he needs," the NDP member said.

Hugh Peacock (NDP—Windsor West) asked the current status of an inquiry under the Municipal Act into land sales in Sandwich West Township before part of the township was annexed by Windsor.

Mr. McKeough said hearings by Judge Y. L. Clunis ended last spring and the last word he had was that transcripts of evidence were being prepared. However, he would look into the matter and report back to the house.

Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce) asked how much a provincial study of local government in the Lakehead area had cost.

Mr. McKeough said the inquiry headed by Toronto consultant Eric Hardy cost $65,743, of which Mr. Hardy had received $20,655 personally over a three-year period.

Allan Grossman Investigates

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, provincial reform institutions minister, promised Tuesday to investigate reports that only one guard was on duty in Halton County jail when three prisoners assaulted a fourth prisoner recently.

Replying in the Legislature to Ian Deans (NDP—Wentworth), Mr. Grossman said he ordered an investigation when he learned of the reports, which developed out of testimony at the trial of the three prisoners in question.

The minister promised to get a transcript of the evidence and to report back to the house on the findings of the investigation.

INCO Might Cut Back If Smith Report Is Instituted

TORONTO (CP) — International Nickel Co. of Canada told a legislative committee Tuesday that if recommendations of the Smith report on taxation were carried out, Inco might have to cut back on mining ventures in the province.

Company president J. T. Weir told the legislature's select committee studying the report that the recommendation of an excess profits tax was objectionable because mining companies would be the only ones subjected to it.

The recommendation suggests creation of a 12-per-cent mines profit tax on mining company profits.

However, in computing the tax, a before-tax investment allowance would be allowed equal to 12 per cent of investments in mining and processing assets.

The result, Mr. Weir said, would be that only profits in excess of a 12-per-cent investment return would attract the mines profits tax.

When John Allan, the committee's consulting economist, said that the phrase "excess profits tax" was not used in the report, Mr. Weir replied that the recommendation in effect was such a tax.

In a brief to the committee, Inco said that "converted to a pre-tax basis the report" arrived at a rate of return of 12 per cent as being normal for the mining industry."

"Based on our own experience, a before-tax rate of return of the order suggested by the report would not justify our proceeding with a major mining venture involving the commitment of our shareholders' funds."

When committee chairman, John White (PC—London South), said Inco should prove that certain mining ventures would become uneconomic if the recommendations was implemented, Mr. Weir said Inco would prepare figures to substantiate its claim.

Principle of Local Participation Distorted Says Liberal Critic

TORONTO (CP) — The principle of local participation in municipal affairs has been "distorted and thwarted" by an Ontario government practice of sending outside experts to prepare plans for longer units of government to be imposed from above, a Liberal party critic told the legislature Tuesday.

"Much more of the actual work needs to be done at the local level, with approval in principle (by the legislature) a prior framework rather than a subsequent bottleneck," said James Deacon, municipal affairs spokesman for his party.

People at the Lakehead have reacted against the Hardy report for regional government in that area because "they know, all too well, that their local expertise has not counted for enough in the preparation of a document that will irrevocably mould their future."

The 48-year-old investment dealer from York Centre, serving his frst term in the legislature, was opening debate on the $244,904,000 estimates of the department of municipal affairs.

"The people at the Lakehead at no time signed over their fundamental rights to the minister of municipal affairs, and it is right and proper that a referendum should now be held among those who will be affected by the changes proposed in the report."

"The "imposed-from-above-and-outside" pattern of regional government studies should never again be imposed on any municipality, Mr. Deacon said. The planning should instead be done by local experts and representatives working with officials of the department.

Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough said local-government studies have been completed for Ottawa-Carleton, the counties of Peel and Halton, the Niagara area and the Lakehead.

Four reports are under way: Muskoka district, Waterloo County, Hamilton-Burlington-Wentworth and Brant County.

The eight reviews cover about 40 per cent of the population of Ontario outside of Metropolitan Toronto.

The studies are not an end in themselves, Mr. McKeough said, but part of a continuing process of determining how to achieve better municipal government.

Mr. McKeough said that by 1980 the vast majority of people in Ontario will live in a environment, a situation completely different from any prevailing in the past.

Industrial Production

Canada Establishes Records

OTTAWA (CP) — Key Canadian industries established new production records in May, perhaps making certain that 1968 will be an even better year than some economists have been predicting.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued a new, up-to-date index of industrial production Tuesday, based on 1961 performance by individual industries and the country as a whole. The old index of industrial production was based on 1949 criteria.

The new index for May was a record 158.1, which, coupled with April's index of 156.8, showed a considerable spurt from Canadian industrial accomplishments in the first quarter of 1968. The previous record was set last December at 156.8, which was matched in April after a three-month slip.

The index measures the volume of output of manufacturing, mining, and the electric, gas and water utilities.

The index is the country's most important official economic indicator available on a month-to-month basis.

The gross national product in the first quarter was running at an annual rate of $64,828,000,000, nearly 4½ per cent more than in 1967 and nearly three per cent more than in the final quarter of last year.

After allowing for a one-per-cent increase in prices in the first quarter of 1968, the real gain was about two per cent over the last quarter of 1967.

But some business economists have doubted that the first-quarter GNP figure could be an accurate reflection of what happened in January, February and March.

There have been mutterings that the gross national product could not have been that good, in view of slow growth in employment, a high degree of unemployment, and the fact that the index of real domestic product rose by only one per cent in the quarter.

Shelter Exemption Grant Embarrasses Government: Liberal

TORONTO (CP) — The basic shelter exemption by which the Ontario government pays grants to relieve home-owners of part of property taxes was a recommendation taken out of context of the Smith report on provincial taxation that has proved an embarrassment to the government, a Liberal critic suggested Tuesday.

"A surprising number of electors are of the opinion that for a government to give out money in this fashion is to betray a lack of sophistication that does not sit well with its complex fiscal responsibilities," said Donald Deacon (L—York Centre).

Ontario Seizes Books of Canada Foundation Arts Agency

OTTAWA (CP) — Walter Herbert, director of the Canada Foundation—a non-profit agency engaged in promoting public interest in the arts—said today the Ontario government has seized foundation records going back 25 years.

Mr. Herbert, 67, who told The Canadian Press he has no idea why a member of the Carleton County sheriff's office invaded his agency's premises about three weeks ago, has been operating the privately-financed agency almost single-handed since 1943, under a federal charter.

"The trouble with Queen's Park," said Mr. Herbert, "began about a year ago."

"At that time we had a surprising and arrogant demand from the public trustee in Toronto" for an accounting of the foundation's affairs from the beginning of its operations.

"About three weeks ago—I think it was June 25—someone came and demanded our records. He showed identification from the sheriff's office."

Mr. Herbert said he was absent at the time and that his secretary—the only other full-time employee of the foundation—handed over the books.

Mr. Herbert, a member of the senate of Carleton University here, said: "They took a weird selection of things, including a file on Carleton's honorary degrees."

"They even seized a file I had on Canadian library associations, financial records at random, minute books and our cash box containing about $5 and some stamps."

Admittedly upset by the "arrogance of those Queen's Park people," Mr. Herbert was concerned that their action could "destroy a pretty useful sort of thing."

He described the foundation's role as that of a cultural information service, filling a demand throughout the world for information on cultural happenings in Canada.

Mr. Herbert said he also acts "on a contract basis" for the Canada Council, helping with the assessment of candidates for council grants.

He said the foundation operates on a budget of less than $20,000 and that his present salary of $8,400 a year is the most he ever took out of the agency.

Walter Herbert grew up in Edmonton and worked for several Canadian newspapers including the now defunct Edmonton Bulletin and The Free Press and The Tribune in Winnipeg before coming to Ottawa before the Second World War as secretary of the National Liberal Federation.

During the war he was assistant director of public information under the late Herbert Lash.

For several years the late Nik Cavell, at that time director of Canada's Colombo Plan and later Canadian ambassador to Pakistan, acted as foundation president.

Early today, Carleton County Deputy Sheriff C. K. McBain confirmed the seizure at the foundation offices. "I was just acting on orders of the public trustee," the deputy said in an interview.

Trudeau Shuffles Responsibilities of Five Deputy Ministers

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau shuffled the responsibilities of five deputy ministers Tuesday and named two constitutional law experts as his special advisers.

Some of the changes are the result of Mr. Trudeau's plans to weld some separate departments together and to create some new ones.

The changes:

Tom Kent, 46, was appointed deputy minister for forestry and rural development, the department to be made responsible for regional development. Mr. Kent was formerly deputy minister of manpower and immigration.

J. L. Couillard replaces Mr. Kent in manpower and immigration. Mr. Couillard, 53, was deputy minister in forestry and rural development.

H. R. Balls, 58, will be appointed deputy minister of services in a new department to handle all supply and services matters for the government.

His present position is comptroller of the treasury.

J. H. Warren, 47, will be deputy minister of industry, trade and commerce when a single department is made for those responsibilities, currently divided under the department of industry and the department of trade and commerce. His present job is deputy minister of trade and commerce.

A. W. H. Needler, 61, will be deputy minister of a new combined department of fisheries and forestry. He now is deputy minister of fisheries.

The two men appointed special counsel to Mr. Trudeau on constitutional matters are Carl Goldenberg, 60, a Montreal lawyer, and Jean Beetz, 40, another Montrealer.

Tweed Community Activities

TWEED — Mrs. Robert Martin of Fernleigh is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital, following surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Scott of Arden have just returned home after spending a month with relatives in Vancouver, B.C.

The United Church Women held their July meeting in the social room of the Arden United Church recently. Mrs. Amos Hughes and Mrs. Annie Barker served lunch.

The annual Memorial Day was held recently at Arden Cemetery, with a large crowd in attendance. Rev. Roy Speer was the minister in charge of the service.

Turner Is Likely to Split Up Amendments to Criminal Code

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister John Turner may add new provisions on bail and detention before trial to the omnibus bill of the Criminal Code.

The bill, whose amendments now range from abortion to firearms law, may also be broken into several parts to allow a clearer vote when it reaches Parliament.

"I want to make sure that an MP who is against abortion but for a tougher firearms law doesn't lose his vote," Mr. Turner said in an interview.

He said he is conscious of the difficulties a single bill may present for MPs on second reading, when the principle of legislation comes up for the vote.

At the same time, he said he does not foresee a free vote on any of the provisions, including the controversial move to liberalize abortion and homosexuality law.

"As far as I am concerned, it is a government measure, he said. "I am treating it as a government measure."

This would practicely demand that Liberal MPs, now in a majority in the Commons, vote for the provisions. A free vote allows MPs to ignore party lines.

The bill was introduced last December by Pierre Elliott Trudeau but died when Parliament was dissolved April 23 to allow the general election.

Facelift on the Forum

Rows of seats in the Montreal Forum, home of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, sit under the open sky as work progresses on the $9,500,000 renovation. When work is completed later this year, seating capacity will have been increased by more than 2,000 and a new roof will eliminate the pillars that had blocked the view of spectators.

Sniper's Assets Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ability to go for long periods without food or water, to control emotions and to kill "calmly and deliberately" and without remorse are the main qualifications of a good sniper, says a proposed U.S. Marine Corps manual.

In effect, it adds, the sniper cannot be made—he must be born.

The 240-page manual is being circulated through marine commands for comment and has not yet been adopted.

Written by Maj. Robert A. Russell of Vista, Calif., who commanded sniper teams in Vietnam, the document says that candidates for sniper training should undergo psychiatric screening to make sure they have "certain essential mental qualities."

The manual says "a proper mental condition cannot be taught or instilled by training."

Russell, now retired, told at the time he completed the manual more than a year ago that sniping is a "very personal kind of fighting—you can see the look on people's faces" when they are shot.

By this, he meant that a telescopic sight brings the face of the often unsuspecting victim close to the eye of the sniper.

Because a sniper often operates for long periods with little sleep, the manual says, he must be in outstanding physical condition.

A sniper should be a nonsmoker, the manual says, because "smoke or an unsuppressed smokers cough can betray the sniper's position and even though he may not smoke while on a mission, refreshment may cause nervousness and irritation which lower his efficiency."

NDP in Saskatchewan Meets

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's New Democratic Party begins a three-day annual convention Thursday elated at the party's showing in the province in the June 25 federal election and determination to improve its standing in the legislature.

The party took six of 11 seats in the federal election June 25, the Liberals won two and the Conservatives were reduced to five from 13 held before redistribution.

Provincially, the NDP led by Woodrow Lloyd holds 24 seats, 10 less than the Liberal government led by Ross Thatcher. There is one vacant seat. The Conservatives did not win a seat in the Saskatchewan election last Oct. 11.

Keynote speaker at the convention will be federal party leader T. C. Douglas.

Delegates will ponder a study of the provincial NDP's structure, drafted by a commission under Dan de Vlieger, a political science professor at the University of Saskatchewan's Regina campus.

The commission recommends smaller executive bodies for provincial constituencies and greater involvement of party members through creation of zones within the constituencies.

Constituency organizations have drafted more than 125 resolutions, of which almost 30 deal with health. Some condemn the provincial government for implementing fees April 15 on stays in hospitals and visits to doctors' offices.

The fees are $2.50 a day for the first 30 days a patient is in hospital and $1.50 a day for the next two months. No fee is charged after 90 days. There is also a fee of $1.50 for a call to a doctor's office and $3 for house calls.

Other resolutions propose a guaranteed wheat price of $3.12 a bushel, establishment of a commission to co-ordinate highway safety programs in the province and removal of a farm fuel tax.

New Plant At Sudbury Inside Hill

SUDBURY (CP) — Clifford A. Fielding, president of Wavy Industries, Sudbury, announced Tuesday the company is constructing a ready-mix concrete plant inside a hill near the city.

Mr. Fielding said the plant is believed the first of its kind in the world.

The hill is 135 feet high. A 60-foot-diameter shaft is being sunk from the top of the hill to link up at the base with a 20- by 25-foot concrete tunnel, more than 600 feet long.

A batch plant in the shaft will be fed raw materials from railway cars on a ramp at the top of the hill. Trucks will travel through a tunnel to receive the concrete manufactured by the shaft plant.

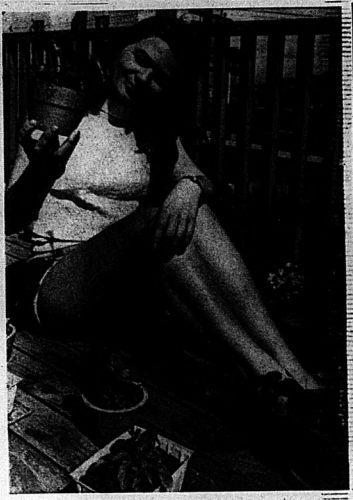
Mr. Fielding said there should be no dust or noise from the plant because of its situation inside the hill. It will replace one located in Sudbury.

Two Men Remanded

GUELPH (CP) — Two persons charged following the beating of a Guelph policeman at a roller-skating rink here last Wednesday were remanded Tuesday to Aug. 13.

Earl R. Louks, 22, of Oakville is charged with assaulting a police officer and creating a disturbance.

Richard J. Hawken, 19, of Kitchener is charged with consuming liquor while a minor and creating a disturbance.



Constable Jack Harkness, 23, said he was knocked to the ground and had his uniform and gun holster torn after he asked two members of the Flying Wheels, a Kitchener skating club, to leave the rink for tripping other skaters.

Other club members argued with the policeman. The scuffle followed the arrest of one member for using foul language.

Bail continues at $500 cash or $1,500 property for Louks and $200 cash for Hawken.

Driver Fined

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — John Henry Taylor, 34, of Uxbridge, Ont., was fined $200 Tuesday on a charge of dangerous driving. His licence was suspended for six months.

Taylor was charged after a Jan. 10 accident that killed Gerhardt Adams of Uxbridge.

Eight Canadian VC Winners in London

LONDON (CP) — Eight Canadian war heroes have arrived to join their Commonwealth comrades in a three-day reunion of those who won the highest honors for gallantry, the Victoria Cross and the George Cross.

This biennial gathering, which opens today, includes Gurkhas and Sikhs and other gallant soldiers from faraway places, brought to London by a special round-the-world RAF Comet service.

All of them will meet the Queen and Prince Philip at Buckingham Palace, lunch with the Coldstream Guards and dine with the duke and Duchess of Kent.

Among them will be these Canadian VC winners: Maj. Rev. John Foote, Cobourg, Ont., Lt.-Col. John Mahony, London, Ont., Maj. Frederick Tilston, Aurora, Ont., Charles Rutherford, Keswick, Ont., Maj. B. H. Geary, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., Sgt. Ernest (Smoky) Smith, Vancouver. Two Canadian George Cross holders who have arrived are Air Commodore A. D. Ross of Kingston, Ont., and R. E. Frost of Sarnia, Ont.

All told, about 190 of these heroes are expected at the reunion, out of a total of 294 scattered over the globe. An official of the Victoria Cross Association said the number is declining, with death taking an average of 15 a year.

Brig. Sir John Smyth, 73, association president who won the VC at the age of 21, said the average age of VC holders is over 70.

"In a few years there may not be enough left to make the long journeys," he said. "But we shall continue to hold our reunion."

The Canadians, some arriving with their wives and families, booked in at various hotels and clubs. Some planned to stay with relatives. Others back in Canada who had planned to attend were prevented by illness and family problems.

Peel Plans Regional Council

BRAMPTON (CP) — Peel County council Tuesday adopted in principle a plan to form a new regional government for the area.

The plan will be presented to council for final approval next month and then forwarded to Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough. Council will ask the province to pass legislation incorporating the county as the Regional Municipality of Peel to become effective Jan. 1.

The plan proposes a second-tier government over the 10 constituent municipalities.

This government would be responsible for capital financing of local and regional projects, assessment, arterial roads, regional planning and parks and waste disposal. These services now are the responsibility of the local governments.

The new regional unit would also have responsibility for children's aid and other services now provided at county level.

London Is Holding Diphtheria Clinics

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — For the second day in succession an emergency clinic will be held today to give diphtheria immunization to persons who may have been exposed to the disease which killed five-year-old Barbara Iles Monday night.

The clinic is being held for all those who took a double-decker bus tour with Barbara last Friday during Fortnight Festival activities.

Health authorities believe the most likely time for Barbara to have passed the germs on to someone else were the four times during the disease incubation period when she was in close contact with crowds of other persons—three visits to a city park swimming pool and her ride on the bus.

A clinic at the pool Tuesday gave immunization shots to 1,200 children who had been at the pool when Barbara was there.

Today's clinic will take both children and adults. The disease is primarily a child-killer, but adults can transmit it.

Since any germs transmitted on the bus Friday would be in the fifth day of their six-day incubation period today, and should be readily discernible, the clinic will also take nose and throat swabs.

Meanwhile, city health officials are launching a systematic search for the carrier who passed the disease on to Barbara who died at Victoria Hospital 18 hours after being admitted.

Medical officials said the situation now is a waiting game. They will wait to see if anymore children get diphtheria.

Diphtheria Cases Doubled

TORONTO (CP) — Canada has reported nearly twice as many cases of diphtheria this year as it did in 1967.

The Ontario health department's chief of epidemiology, Dr. J. S. Bell, said Tuesday that the death of five-year-old Barbara Iles of London, Ont., Monday was the 28th reported case this year.

Through the same period last year, Dr. Bell said, Canada had 15 cases.

Ontario has had eight cases this year and three deaths—one in Woodstock in May, another in Toronto in June and the Iles child in London.

Dr. Bell said he could not explain the increase.

TOOK GUNS NOT MONEY

MANILA (AP) — When Teodorico Garcia, 21, was arrested on a tip from the underworld on suspicion of a ₱20,000 payroll robbery at Quezon City in the Philippines, he had a perfect alibi. He was at the time under arrest in another suburb for illegal possession of firearms.

The dead girl's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Iles, said Barbara had not received all the immunization shots her older sisters had because she had not started school.

Parental concern, described by some as "diphtheria panic," resulted in a deluge of calls to physicians' telephone answering services.

Said one operator: "I answer for 20 doctors and the phone has been going since Monday night."

Steelworkers Are Expected To Vote 98 Pct. for Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Local union presidents say they expect 98 per cent of the United Steelworkers' membership to vote to strike against the U.S. basic steel industry.

"The companies have a shock coming," said the president of a big Ohio local. "Our guys are ready to go."

The vote, set for July 23, will be the first in history for the 450,000 union members. But it doesn't mean they will walk out of the mills when their contract expires Aug. 1.

"We are saying, quite frankly, that time is running out," said I. W. Abel, president of the union, after meeting with his top negotiating teams Tuesday.

He told a news conference that the companies still had not put any money on the bargaining table although industrywide negotiations opened June 3 in New York and have been going full tilt in Pittsburgh for more than three weeks.

"There's been some good process in some areas," he said, but none in others, especially the wage package.

"I would hope that in the remaining weeks that we could get down to the hard, factual bargaining and work out a contract," Abel said.

Abel said the union had made no concrete demands on wages. He refused to talk about the specifics of other union demands.

Steel workers average $3.71 an hour.

Not Enough Advertisers in Britain

LONDON (CP) — Lord Thomson says there are insufficient advertisers to keep all of Britain's newspapers viable.

The selling price of the papers falls short of an economic level, Thomson said in an interview published Tuesday.

The Canadian-born publisher cited The Sunday Times which he said "costs something like one shilling and sixpence (20 cents) to print."

Selling price of the paper is one shilling, or 13 cents, "and from the one shilling we charge, we receive after discounts about seven pence or eighteen pence (seven or eight cents). So every time our circulation goes up, we stand to lose money."

Thomson said that "we get only a quarter of our profits from sales and three-quarters from advertising and, as things are, there are not enough advertisers to go round and keep all the country's papers viable."

Chairman of the Thomson Organization, Ltd., which controls The Sunday Times and The Times, he said that there is "plenty of room" for both The Times and The Daily Telegraph on Britain's national newspaper market.

Thomson said another national daily, The Guardian, "is economic now that it is printed in London as well as in Manchester."

He added that "if The Guardian stayed in Manchester it could go on forever."

The interview with Thomson appeared in a pilot issue of a new weekly magazine called Campaign, due to start publication in September and aimed at specialists in mass communications.

Mrs. Deal Neal (nee Linda Runions) of Henderson is a patient in the Kingston General Hospital.

The family of Mrs. Viola Wood, of Snow Road, held a get-together recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McInnes, on Hills Lake, one mile from Plevna. It has been 16 years since they have been all together. Seven of the eight of a family were present.

Very Rev. G. A. O'Hearn has taken up his duties as pastor of St. John's Church in Perth. He succeeds Msgr. H. J. Farrell who retired recently and returned his home in Ireland. Father O'Hearn a native of Brewers Mills was ordained in 1921 and was assistant to the late Msgr. M. Meagher in Perth for nine years.

He served as pastor in Sir-ling, Toledo, Marysville, and was pastor of Picton parish before going to Perth.

George Thompson, son of Mrs. B. L. Thompson, of Tweed, a member of the Bank of Montreal staff for two years, has been transferred to the Bank's Bowmanville Branch.

Two Adults Slain

Teen-age Hostages Are Freed

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Three teen-age girls held as hostages for more than 24 hours were freed Tuesday night when police captured Edward Thompson Jr., an accused kidnapper. The father of one of the girls and the mother of another were found shot to death earlier.

Shaken and at times sobbing, the girls were returned to their homes in Roanoke, Va., shortly after Greensboro police arrested Thompson.

With pistols drawn, police stopped Thompson in a stolen car belonging to the father of one of the girls. He offered no resistance. Police found two rifles and a pistol in the car.

Thompson, 37, a Negro from Eden, N.C., was declared an outlaw by a Superior Court judge in Hendersonville June 25. This meant any citizen could have legally shot him if he disregarded an order to surrender.

He was wanted on six counts of kidnapping, three of rape and one each of armed robbery, car theft and assault on an officer. The crimes occurred in May and June near Hendersonville and Mooresville in western North Carolina. The victims in all the cases were white.

The car in which Thompson was stopped at Greensboro belonged to J. Howard Davis, 50, a Roanoke salesman whose body was found earlier in the afternoon in the basement of a house near Roanoke. Also in the house was the body of Mrs. Brewster Freeman, 50, of Roanoke. Both had been shot.

The three girls were Jo Ellen Davis, 13, daughter of the dead man; Hester Freeman, 17, daughter of the dead woman, and Mathilda Love, 13, a cousin of Hester Freeman.

A year ago this Friday, Mathilda Love's mother, her brother and two sisters died in the Hendersonville crash of a Piedmont Airlines jet. Her father had died earlier of a heart attack.

Thompson was held without bond in an undisclosed jail for security reasons.

The Davis and Freeman families live three miles apart in Roanoke. The alleged kidnapping of Davis, Mrs. Freeman and the three girls apparently took place at the Freeman home.

MUST LINE UP

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — The queue-up will soon become compulsory at bus stops on this West Indies island whenever there are six or more persons waiting for a bus. Before the enactment of the law, the House of Assembly was told of a schoolboy killed recently when a bus ran over his chest as passengers scrambled to board it.

Canadian Teachers on Exchange Are Hit by Devaluation

TORONTO (CP) — Devaluation of the British pound has made itself felt in an unexpected quarter—the pockets of Canadian teachers who participate in the one-year exchange program with British teachers.

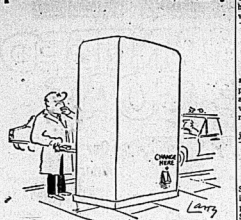
Under the program, teachers are paid by their own school boards. This means British teachers have to live in Canada on their British salaries, sometimes a third or a half that of Canadian teachers. Devaluation has lessened British currency value in Canada even farther.

Starting with the 1968-69 school year, Canadian teachers will have to contribute $500 to supplement the income of their exchange partner. Previously it was $250.

Exchange arrangements are made by the League for Exchange of Commonwealth Teachers, in Britain, and the Canadian Education Association, which has handled affairs from this side of the Atlantic since 1967.

Both parties must find arrangements satisfactory. Candidates must be 25 years old and generally under 50, with three years teaching experience plus university degree or five years teaching experience. Applications must be approved by the principal, superintendent and school board. Most Canadian boards are supporters of the program.

The first Canadian-U.K. exchange was in 1901. Since then the scheme has won increasing support from school boards, principals, departments of education and teachers.



Marion Demitsch of the Toronto office of the CEA, says a teacher taking part in the program "will be a better teacher and will be a better person."

British Columbia and Ontario appear to be the most favored provinces for U.K. teachers. Of the 34 Canadian teachers currently on exchange, 25 are from British Columbia, 26 from Ontario and three from Alberta.

Some Canadian teachers have also been on exchange with Australian and New Zealand counterparts. Technically it's a Commonwealth exchange but transportation costs and the difference in school terms in the two hemispheres have kept down the number of such exchanges.

Indications are that devaluation may also keep down numbers on the Canadian-U.K. exchange. Following devaluation, several British teachers withdrew their applications for the 1968-69 year, leaving 43 out of a possible 55 in the scheme.

Rent-A-Kid Teaches Job Responsibility

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An imaginative project, Rent-A-Kid, is providing underprivileged boys and girls in Atlanta's west end with their first experience in job responsibility.

They have performed such jobs as painting to shelling butter—beans for home canning.

The operation began recently as the brainchild of Joy Cochrane of the West End Neighborhood Service Centre.

The purpose is to provide youngsters, aged 10 to 18, who have little or no parental supervision, the opportunity to earn money for food and clothes.

The project has been so well received by the community that a second office has been opened.

Plans are being made to open several more and to keep them open during the school year on weekends.

Rev. Edward J. Dillon, Roman Catholic priest and co-director of Rent-A-Kid, said most of the youngsters participating in the project—many are school dropouts—already have begun to fend for themselves.

By providing them with the chance to earn money of their own they might be stimulated to return to school and become self-supporting citizens, he said.

General household chores have dominated the jobs accepted but no reasonable job is turned down.

The office director, Douglas Lavender, decides the fee charged for a job and whether it is dangerous or too large for Rent-A-Kid to handle.

The hourly rate is $1.35 and the youngsters are paid directly unless they want Rent-A-Kid to collect their wages for savings.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: Could you tell us something about the driving conditions on the Alaska Highway during August.

ANSWER: Since April 1, 1946, when the Canadian portion of the road was turned over to Canada, the Alaska Highway has been re-graded and widened till it ranks as one of the finest gravel highways anywhere. It was opened to unrestricted travel in 1947.

Accommodations along the Alaska Highway are being rapidly modernized. Although the basic facility remains the lodge with modest accommodations and central baths, many new, motel-type units with private baths are to be found. The logical stopping points are Dawson Creek, Fort Nelson, Watson Lake, Whitehorse and Tok, all of which have good modern accommodations.

Camping areas have been established at intervals where you usually will find tables, fireplaces, parking areas and sanitary facilities. Fire precautions should be rigidly observed, as forest fires have ravaged this area.

Highway conditions depend on the weather. During summer and early fall months the lack of moisture is a problem and in some areas traffic generates huge clouds of dust. Fortunately traffic is not very heavy. When it is extremely dry, perfect road maintenance is impossible and roughness, causing vibrations, results. Although the maximum speed limit is 50 miles an hour, 40 is less tiring. The following are some suggestions for the comfort and safety of motorists driving on the Alaska Highway.

It is unwise to attempt to drive more than 300 miles a day. Dust and dusk combine to make visibility very poor. In addition to this, accommodations often fill up early and some gas stations close in the evening. A compensating factor during the summer is the long northern day, which allows the motorist to get on the highway very early in full daylight.

Caution signs along the highway should be strictly observed. Around the curve or over the hill there may be loose gravel, equipment on the highway or another motorist approaching, causing a blinding cloud of dust. Braking should be smooth; sudden stops and starts should be avoided.

Although the summer dust cannot be conquered completely, there are a few precautions that may help. Residents of the area recommend that drivers close all windows. If the car's heater unit has a fan to draw in air, it is best to have the fan running on the cold air setting at high speed. This increases the air pressure inside the car and helps to prevent dust from entering. When another car approaches, proceed slowly, keep well to the right of the road and turn off the air fan until out of the dust area. It is wise to use the head - lights continuously while driving under adverse conditions, such as heavy dust or fog.

To avoid mosquitoes and other insects at their height of annoyance in June and July, car windows should be kept closed (leave the ventilator open) and doors should be closed as quickly as possible when getting in or out of the car. Insect repellent is a must.

The car's oil filter should be changed each time the oil is changed; the carburetor air cleaner should be inspected and cleaned at the same time.

The motorist should improvise a cover for the gasoline tank with a piece of rubber matting or inner tube as a protection against flying gravel. Clear hard plastic guards, available at any well-equipped garage in the area, will help to protect headlights from rock breakage. Cardboard or plywood coverings should not be used, since lights are often needed in dusty sections.

Rubber plugs should be fitted into brake drum openings to protect brake linings and shoes from abrasive dust wear. Windshield washers will help fight the dust.

The longest distance between service facilities is 50 miles, so the motorist is never more than 25 miles from gas and assistance.

This is not a trip for those who demand luxurious accommodation and super highways. For most, the lack of these features is more than compensated for by the rewarding adventure in northland scenery that unfolds constantly along the highway.

Alarm System Called Useless

TORONTO (CP) — Fire department officials said Tuesday the alarm system in a 72-unit apartment building owned by Ontario Housing Corp. was useless and pipes and sprinkler valves contained no water when a $15,000 blaze broke out Monday.

The fire broke out in a storage room of the eight-storey building.

Robert Adams, corporation information officer, said OHC inspectors are examining the building's firefighting equipment. The 10-year-old building was bought by OHC about two years ago.

A fire department spokesman said in a preliminary report that it appeared as if the water pipes in the building were shut off.

OHC spokesmen said they had no immediate explanation.

THOUGHTS UNHEEDED

RANGOON (AP) — The little red book of Mao Tse-tung's thoughts has proven useful to some residents of a frontier village near the Burma-China border, a Rangoon newspaper reported that some villagers throw away the printed matter in the books and use the glossy, plastic covers for tobacco pouches.

Ray Will Soon Return to U.S.

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray may be on his way back to the United States tonight or early Thursday to face trial for the killing of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray cleared the way for his return by signing a declaration Tuesday that he did not want to appeal the order for his extradition issued by London's chief magistrate July 2.

It was not known whether Ray's lawyers would deliver his statement to the home office or whether they would let the 15-day period for him to file an appeal expire this afternoon without taking further action.

In either case, Home Secretary James Callaghan could sign the order for Ray's extradition before nightfall. He would then be delivered to the U.S. justice department for the transatlantic flight.

Informed sources said the journey would be made aboard a U.S. government plane or a chartered civil jet, with Ray under heavy guard.

Ray's decision not to appeal the extradition order came as a surprise after a routine court hearing Tuesday at which he sat quietly while his British lawyers agreed to have him held in prison another eight days on charges he entered Britain on a forged Canadian passport and carried an unlicensed gun.

These were the charges on which he was arrested June 8 at London's Heathrow Airport, ending a two-month, worldwide search following the slaying of the civil rights leader April 4 in Memphis, Tenn.

Ray's lawyers had been preparing an appeal based on the contention that King's slaying was a political crime and that Ray therefore could not be extradited under British law. A hearing on the appeal had been tentatively set for June 29 even though it had not yet been filed.

His declaration saying he would submit to extradition was signed "Ramon George Sneyd," the alias on the passport Ray used and the name under which he was held in Britain.

People who talked to Ray recently in Wandsworth Jail said he consistently claimed he is innocent of the killing.

A Place for the Senate

Prime Minister Trudeau says the Senate will have a more exalted place than it had before in the country's affairs. He believes the Senate can become a more effective instrument of Canadian federalism. Senators are appointed by the prime minister with so many seats assigned to each province: 24 each for Quebec and Ontario, 10 each for Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, four for Prince Edward Island, six for Newfoundland and six each for the four western provinces.

Hi-jacked Airliner Refuels, Then Resumes Flight to Cuba

MIAMI, Fla., (AP) — A National Airlines jet with at least 113 persons aboard was hijacked by a man with a gun and hand grenade today as the plane left Houston and later landed in New Orleans to refuel for the trip to Cuba.

The plane then took off from New Orleans at 8:15 a.m. EDT and climbed to 29,000 feet on a flight to Havana.

The hijacker stayed in the cockpit during the refuelling. The man threatened to blow up the airliner if his orders were not followed.

A National spokesman identified the pilot as Capt. Sid Oliver of Miami.

The spokesman said that the hijacker went to the cockpit of the four-engined jetliner and ordered the pilot to take him to Cuba. But the spokesman said the pilot convinced the man he didn't have enough fuel for the overwater flight.

As Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and other police authorities stood by the plane in New Orleans, a fuel truck topped the tanks.

The airline spokesman said the hijacker was holding the passengers and crew during the refuelling stop.

"I don't know what you can do," said the airline spokesman.

The attempt was the ninth this year to force a commercial airliner to fly to Cuba.

It's 'In' to Adopt an Aborigine

MELBOURNE (CP)The new "in" thing among white Australians is to have an adopted aboriginal child.

"Having a black baby in the house is fashionable," says Stan Davey, director of the Aboriginal Advancement Le a gu e. "Some whites adopt black babies and treat them like pets, like poodles."

Others are do-gooders. But many get fed up after a time and farm their adopted children out to someone else.

In the state of Victoria, the government has appealed to all whites with adopted aboriginal children to take the children to the social welfare department where their future can be sorted out.

Edward Meagher, Victoria's minister for aboriginal affairs, said the adoption problem has got out of hand. His remarks followed the disclose of these facts:

—There were 200 cases of illegal adoption in Victoria in one week: some white couples were caring for up to 15 aboriginal children as well as five or six of their own; aboriginal children were being passed from family to family or living in appalling conditions.

—And there was the case of a white woman who used a solution of household bleach on a 19-month-old aboriginal baby she wanted to keep. She was trying to bleach the child white.

½—One of the most heart-rending cases concerned four-year-old aboriginal twins, a boy and a girl. They were picked up by a w o m a n who found she couldn't cope with them both so she passed one on to another woman. The children's real parents knew nothing about the separation.

What's so particularly shocking is it's all illegal. Adoptions are supposed to be carried out only through the government's social welfare department.

The adoptions are carried out, in fact, in the most off-handed way. There have been cases of white women going up to pregnant aboriginal women in the streets of Melbourne and offering to adopt the expected baby.

Why does a mother agree to part with her children?

Reginald Worthy, director of aboriginal affairs, explained:

"Because she has been conditioned to think white people always know best. You can always get a 'yes' from an aboriginal because they are afraid of trouble. They're not used to speaking up for themselves. If they do they are shouted down.

"The tragedy is that these whites are happy while they have a cuddly black baby. But when the child grows up they don't want him any more."

Strictly Personal

International Government

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When people tell me that the idea of any sort of "international government" is impossible and unrealistic — even though they may admit that war cannot be avoided on the national level — I am fond of pointing out that as early as the last century, certain aspects of international rule were already set up, to promote the common interests of nations.

First there was the Universal Postal Union. This was followed by the Telegraphic Union, the Metric Union, the International Institute of Agriculture, and many others dealing with public hygiene, transportation, literary and artistic property, the slave trade, legal protection of workers, medical and chemical discoveries, and commercial statistics.

A half-century ago, Leonard Woolf pointed out (as the British journal, "New Scientist," recalled recently) that these organizations constituted a true beginning of international government. The international trade union movement, the Inter-Parliamentary Union, and the International Polar Year, were further steps to make men in different places parts of one community.

And, since the end of World War II, there have sprung up the Food and Agriculture Organization, the World Health Organization, UNESCO, the World Bank, and International Monetary Fund, and in a host others in diverse fields of interest.

As the "New Scientist" goes on to enumerate: "The control of nuclear fuels for peaceful purposes, the regulation of broadcasting standards and frequencies, air safety regulations, vaccination regulations for travelers, machinery for the conclusion of tariff agreements . . . all these and many other practical functions of government have been willingly surrendered to international institutions."

It is quite plain, to any open mind, that the technical requirements of modern society are breaking down the barriers between nations in almost every non-political area of activity, and eroding "national sovereignty." Business and industry have themselves found that narrow national interests have less and less meaning in the modern world.

If international co-operation is necessary and desirable in all the other facets of human life, then obviously it is even more imperative in the vital matter of war and peace. It is important that we vaccinate people against carrying typhus across borders, how much more essential to "vaccinate" nations against the danger of carrying the virus of war across borders? Otherwise, we may find that we have achieved "world government" in everything except the one area that negates all the others and turns their co-operation into just a prelude to international suicide.

24,000 Postal Workers Commence Strike Today

The Last Round-Up

Mrs. G. R. Simmons, Belleville, this morning picked up some of the last mail to be sorted at the local post office.

Sixty Strike Here

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Mail sorting ground to a stop at Belleville Post Office at 5 a.m. this morning, as 60 striking postal workers walked off the job.

This morning the post office was empty, and only Postmaster Jack Smith and one supervisor were in their offices.

About six members of the supervisory staff will continue to go into the building on a shift basis during the strike to keep an eye on the mail that piled up despite a government embargo on mailing.

"We have about 15 per cent of our normal volume in the building now, and there it will sit until the strike end," the Postmaster said.

This morning persons who rent post office boxes collected the mail sorted last night. The box lobby will remain open during the strike, but no more mail will be sorted and deposited in the boxes.

James Campbell, president of the local letter carriers' union, declined to predict how long the strike would continue.

"About two days will be required after a settlement is reached for the locals to ratify the decision," he said.

"A meeting is scheduled for Sunday in Ottawa. If a settle-

Picket Lines Form

By The Canadian Press

Picket lines formed outside Canadian post offices today as 24,000 letter carriers and other employees started a national strike for better pay and working conditions.

Hundreds of workers streamed into the street outside the post office and main delivery building in downtown Toronto at 5 a.m. EDT.

Some bore placards and others circled the block in cars, shouting and blowing horns.

Picket line headquarters in Toronto were set up in a tent trailer in a parking lot across from the delivery building.

Ken Stewart, area representative for the Council of Postal Unions in Vancouver, commented on the fact that many other federal offices are in post office buildings.

"Our main concern is to stop the movement of mails," he said.

"We have no other concern with regard to the federal buildings.

"My instructions are to in no way interfere with other federal employees."

In Montreal, 2,000 mail sorters sang as they walked out of the main post office at 5 a.m., leaving behind supervisory personnel and sacks of mail. Sixteen pickets began quietly filing past the main office but no pick-

Grain Handlers Walk Off Jobs

PORT WILLIAM (CP) — Grain handlers walked off their jobs early today and set up picket lines at 28 terminal elevators at the Lakehead hours before union and management representatives were to resume contract negotiations.

About 1,300 members of Lodge 650, Brotherhood of Railway, Airline, and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees are involved.

Earlier this month the grain handlers voted 97 per cent in favor of strike action to support demands of a wage increase of $1.25 an hour on a basic wage of $2.30 an hour.

No date was set for strike action at the time of the vote, and the walkout at 8 a.m. EDT today came as a surprise.

The action came as union representatives and negotiators for the Lakehead Terminal Elevator Association, representing 10 national grain companies, prepared to resume contract talks this afternoon. The talks were suspended almost two months ago.

Proctor Silex Workers Go On Strike at Picton

By DAVID LEES, Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Production ceased at the Proctor Silex Ltd. plant here yesterday when 100 workers, the entire production staff, walked off their jobs.

George LeBlanc, president of Local 585 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, AFL-CIO pleaded their case.

"We are not even looking for wage parity," he said. "All we want is a basic living allowance."

About 10 of the workers spent the evening yesterday picketing the Main Street entrance to the plant.

Sitting on someone's front lawn, beneath the shade of a large tree, one of the workers pulled out a pay-cheque, handed it to this reporter, and commented simply, "This is why we're striking."

The cheque was for $39.73, after deductions.

Originally the cheque began at $54.12. Hospitalization amounted to $12.50. The pension plan and unemployment insurance devoured the rest.

Wages vary at the company. Payment is made upon a minimum of $1 per hour. That amount can be increased through an incentive bonus plan, depending upon the production of the worker.

Productivity is considered over and above 93 cents per hour. That is, workers are paid a basic rate of 93 cents. Extra productivity is measured from that point, and can be in excess of the $1.00 minimum.

Mr. LeBlanc said the plan has drawbacks. Productivity is measured on an overall average for the day. If the worker misses half a day's work his extra productivity for the entire day is considered. Said Mr. LeBlanc, it doesn't matter how fast or how much is produced in the half day, the rate drops back to the $1.00 minimum.

"During statutory holidays, workers are paid only 93 cents per hour, that," said another of the workers.

Overtime rates are paid on a time and a half basis, going by the 93 cent minimum as well, he said.

Mr. LeBlanc said that no definite wage had been asked for, but the increase would have to be "substantial."

"At this point, wages have not even been considered." The company is demanding that all non monetary items be settled before wages will be considered," he said.

To date 12 meetings between the company and the union have been held. The IUE originally called for negotiations January 2. A first meeting was held January 18. After four meetings with little progress an appeal was made in April to the government for a conciliation officer. On June 20, negotiations were broken off.

Proctor Silex plant manager J. V. Findlay said that at this time no official comment would be made.

The strike is the first at the company since it was established here six years ago.

A subsidiary of Smith Corona, Marchand, it produces irons, kettles and other electrical appliances.

Blonde Says She Gave $500 To Arrange for Trial Delay

TORONTO (CP) — A striking platinum blonde told a judicial inquiry Wednesday she saw the man with whom she was living give Vincent Alexander $500 April 19 to arrange a remand of her narcotics case.

Dianna Baker Kappas, testifying before Mr. Justice Campbell Grant in the judicial inquiry into the behavior or misbehavior of two Toronto magistrates, said she understood the money was to pay for a lawyer.

Mrs. Kappas, in custody on a charge of illegal possession of narcotics, testified that Alexander "said he could arrange for my trial date to be moved from April to September."

She said she arranged with Alexander to pay him $200 to have her case remanded to September. If he were successful in arranging an acquittal during the summer she was to pay him another $1,000.

When she and Ed Rutman saw Alexander April 19, "Mr. Rutman wrote a cheque for $500."

"I remember him handing the cheque to Mr. Alexander, but I can't remember if he accepted it. I remember Mr. Alexander said he preferred cash."

The investigation of the two magistrates, George Gardhouse and Fred Bannon, and their connection with Alexander, was reopened after a first public inquiry.

The magistrates were relieved of court duty June 18 pending the outcome of the inquiry. Magistrate Bannon resigned Monday, saying he had been "indiscreet" in his dealings with Alexander, a client whom he practiced law before his appointment to the bench.

Crown counsel Frank Callaghan also called evidence Wednesday to show Magistrate Bannon influenced the setting of bail for Alexander on a charge of breaking and entering laid May 15.

A police wiretap indicated Alexander called his wife to get in touch with Magistrate Bannon shortly before his arrest. Another had his wife telling her mother that "the good guy, the Judge" was handling the affair.

Mr. Callaghan said Magistrate Bannon asked Mrs. Alexander to meet him at his office the morning Alexander was to appear in court, and a police officer said she was observed entering the office.

Toronto Magistrate Peter Wilch testified that Magistrate Gardhouse, with Magistrate Bannon's knowledge, tried to influence him into granting bail to Alexander.

He said he was preparing to put on his robes the day Alexander appeared when Magistrate Gardhouse approached and asked if he "could see his way clear to grant bail" to a prisoner who was to appear that day, an "old client of Magistrate Bannon."

A few minutes later, he said, Magistrate Bannon entered to receive assurances that Magistrate Gardhouse had talked to him.

He said the man in question was Alexander, whom he freed on $10,000 bail posted by Mrs. Alexander, using the family home as security.

But, he added, he would have granted bail on the facts of the case anyway since it is his general policy to allow bail unless there are "very stringent reasons" for refusal.

Alexander has a record of five convictions for indictable offences, including shoplifting and car theft, and several gambling and liquor offences. He was on bail for another break-and-enter charge when he appeared before Magistrate Wilch. The inquiry continues.

Decision in Shade of Old Maple Tree

Beer Truckers at Work 3 Hours Early

By HARRY MULHALL
(Staff Reporter)

A decision in the shade of an old maple tree helped precipitate Belleville's big beer boom today.

Hotels and brewery stores throughout the Quinte district expected a pounding from parched beer drinkers after being closed by a 24-day labor dispute.

The strike-lockout ended in the Ontario beer industry yesterday when a new three-year contract was ratified by brewery workers.

Today, warehousemen in Belleville reported for work three hours early to help hotel owners hopeful of a noon-hour opening.

Brewers' stores re-opened their door at 10 a.m. for retail beer sales.

The current heat wave roasting Ontario was expected to add zest to demand.

Belleville brewerymen — members of local 2252, United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers — voted to end the dispute at 4 p.m. yesterday.

The finish was quiet, even languid.

Earlier in the day officials of the local were called to Toronto to hear details of the new agreement struck between union and industry negotiators.

Awaiting their return the workers lolled in the shade of a big maple in a back garden flanking the main city retail store and warehouse on Station Street.

It took less than 10 minutes for the men to vote agreement after Al Adams, president of the local, hurried onto the scene with details of the new contract.

Ballots were taken, then sealed for dispatch to union headquarters in Toronto.

"They voted 100 per cent in favor," revealed Lum Carson, steward of the local, who also sat in on the Toronto meeting with the president and local secretary John Harwood.

Picton Hotels Charged

PICTON (Staff) — The owners of two Picton hotels were charged this morning under the Liquor Licence Act.

Police raids on the Globe and Rickarton Castle hotels resulted in the seizure of 120 cases of Quebec beer Monday.

Arthur Black, Belleville, owner of the Globe, and Norman March, Picton, of Rickarton Castle, have been charged with purchasing liquor in a manner contrary to the regulations of the Liquor Control Board. They will appear in court July 24.

Both hotels are in operation today.

Rains Don't End Heat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario steamed Wednesday in a humid heat wave that set record temperatures in several areas and promised a roasting until the weekend, at least.

With a handful of southern centres reporting record highs and northern communities such as Timmins, sweltering at 90, isolated rain storms brought almost no relief.

No Garden Party This!

Coolness of this scene belies its serious intent. This is how beer dispute ended for Belleville brewery workers — as local union officials reported new agreement terms to men in garden near Station Street brewers' store. Union steward Lum Carson (right) collects ballots in vote on new contract.

Provincials to Operate Courier Service During Strike

Officers of the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial have become mail handlers during the postal strike.

The Belleville headquarters has been designated a drop-off and pick-up point for the provincial government courier service announced in the legislature Tuesday by Premier John Robarts.

The Emergency Measures Organization runs government mail from Toronto to Belleville and back again. The Long Sault detachment of the OPP runs mail from Long Sault headquarters to Belleville.

The two cars and their drivers meet at 2 p.m. every day at OPP headquarters here to exchange their mail and go on their way.

Provincial government agencies in this district pick up their mail at the police headquarters.

The service operates on Monday through Friday.

In addition to provincial government agencies, Belleville, General Hospital will make use of the service. Laboratory specimens going to the Department of Health laboratories in Toronto, and return reports, will be handled by the OPP mail service.

John Kunetsky, assistant administrator at BGH, said a courier service will be arranged for mail regarding hospitalization insurance going to the Ontario Hospital Services Commission in Toronto.

Hospital purchases will be made by telephone and all drugs are regularly shipped railway express.

"We anticipate no difficulty in our operation due to the strike," Mr. Kunetsky said.

The federal government has made no special arrangements to get mail to and from Ottawa and local federal agencies. A spokesman said this morning federal government employees would make greater use of telephone and telegraph services, but no problems were expected.

The Bell Telephone office here expects a 30 to 40 per cent increase in long distance calls as the strike continues. Former employees are being recalled to cope with the volume of calls.

"Putting on more operators will be of limited help," Mrs. Marion Green, business office supervisor, said.

"Our equipment can handle only a limited number of calls at a time and many customers will have to accept a delay in operator answering," she added.

At the Dundas St. East bus terminal, a heavy volume of mail and parcel post began moving in and out yesterday. So far, the staff has been able to cope with the volume, although in Toronto a block-long line-up for mail is reported at the bus terminal.

Price of mailing a letter to Toronto by bus is 25. Bus company's minimum charge for parcel post is $1.50 for a distance up to 50 miles and an additional 25 cents for every 50 miles thereafter.

All mail must be stamped at regular postal rates as well.

At the CN telegraph office, the manager is anticipating a heavier volume of telegrams, but plans to hire no extra staff. The working hours of present employees will be extended to cope with the situation.

OPP to Carry City Documents

At Belleville arrangements have been made with the Ontario Provincial Police to act as couriers for official correspondence between city hall and provincial government offices in Toronto.

Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott today said city hall mail for processing with various provincial government departments will be delivered at OPP headquarters in Belleville each day and sent by courier to Toronto.

Official mail from Queen's Park destined for city hall will be returned the same way.

Mayor Scott said the service was instituted after he phoned Dr. R. T. Potter, Quinte MPP at the Legislature yesterday.

The mayor indicated he was concerned about the pile-up of city hall documents needing government attention.

"We had to do something because we had a lot of mail here to go to the Ontario Municipal Board and other departments, he said. "Especially after that last (Monday's) council meeting."

"It's good co-operation, I think," he added. "We'll get the mail up there and back every day."

The police mail delivery service will continue for the duration of the postal strike.

JIM CAMPBELL and Harold Bankier, striking post office employees, were out early this morning to picket the federal building in Belleville.

Trenton Mailman Works --Union Members Angry

TRENTON — A letter carrier has crossed picket lines and gone to work at the post office today giving rise to heated anger from the members of Trenton's striking postal workers and letter carriers.

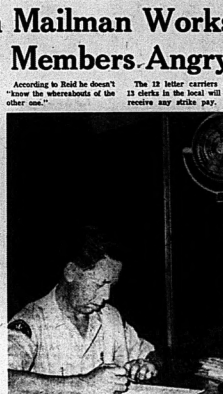
Jim Reid, a supervisory letter carrier, entered the building at 7 a.m. this morning and says he will work his regular eight hour day.

Mr. Reid says he has "a legal right to be here" as he is a supervisory letter carrier.

Gerald Jackman, president of Local 91 of the Letter carriers Union, has different views.

"This is a legal strike and Reid is a union member," said Jackman.

"As far as the union is concerned it's an illegal move, he has no right to be in there," he concluded.



But Reid says he will continue to work throughout the strike. In doing so he will collect his regular $80 take home pay while his fellow employees carry on without the benefit of strike pay.

Two picketers will be constantly circling the Trenton Post Office from 5 a.m. until 10 in the evening as this is the time that deliveries are made.

The only mail in the building will be that which came in last night. This will remain until the end of the strike.

Meanwhile a few Trentonians checked their postal boxes for mail, while postal workers inside, along with Jim Reid, catch up on some paper work.

There are two other letter carrier supervisors in the local. One is on vacation.

According to Reid he doesn't "know the whereabouts of the other one."

The 12 letter carriers and 13 clerks in the local will not receive any strike pay.

Two Men Picket At Picton Office

PICTON (Staff) — Picton post master Ross Greenfield and an assistant are keeping a lonely vigil at the post office here.

The eight regular postal clerks here are absent from their jobs through strika rotation leave or vacation.

Mr. Greenfield said at the beginning of the strike only four regular workers are duing the casual and one part-time worker have been relieved of their duties until the strike ends.

The picket line at the post office consists of only two men this morning.

24,000 Postal Workers Begin Strike

sting was reported at district post offices.

A union spokesman said the workers have never been better prepared for a strike and intend to stay off the job until the government meets their demands.

He said 99.9 per cent of the more than 6,000 postal workers in the Montreal area are in favor of continuing the strike as long as necessary.

Strike director Michel Lareau said the number of pickets on duty will be limited and the lines will be maintained around the clock.

With the parties still far apart, their representatives met under Judge Rene Lippe's mediation Wednesday night for 90 minutes then parted to reconvene at 3 p.m. EDT Sunday.

Isaac Turner, press spokesman for the Council of Postal Unions, said in announcing the break in mediation talks that the representatives of the council and treasury board, which bargains for the government, parted amicably.

"Both parties want to re-assess their position in the light of developments."

It was revealed the government had offered the unions a flat 15-cents-an-hour wage increase, or six per cent, over a 14-month contract and that the unions had rejected the offer without changing their demand for a flat 75-cents-an-hour increase.

Council Co-chairman William Houle termed the wage offer "a big joke." He said the council's 75-cents-an-hour demand could be toned downward if the government yielded on fringe benefits.

A council statement rejected the government offer as "totally inadequate" and said it was conditional on the council accepting the substance of a conciliation board report "which was rejected unanimously by the council some time ago."

Sixty Go On Strike Here

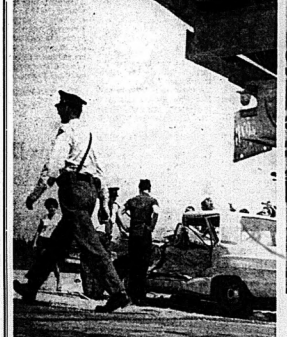
ment is made then it would be Wednesday before post offices could be opened."

Mr. Campbell said ballots for the ratifying vote are already in the hands of striking postal workers: Following the vote, a local count would be made and the result sent to Ottawa by telegram.

Pickets, nine at a time, will be on duty outside the post office every day except Sunday for the duration of the strike.



The union will receive no strike pay. On the next civil service payday, July 29, they will be entitled to two days' pay for the period they have worked since their last pay. Mr. Campbell said he had no idea if, or how, the government would deliver the cheques.

Strikers had one small cause for rejoicing this morning. Walking the picket lines on the shady streets around the federal building was considerably cooler than going to work would have been. The thermometer registered 87 degrees in the post office at 5 a.m.

Some of the strikers hinted that air conditioning in government offices was also a cause of the working conditions cause in the contract under negotiation.

Controversial Carrier

Jim Reid is a controversial figure in the postal strike. The Trenton based letter carrier today crossed picket lines to go to work at the post office.

Police pace scene for details of Highway 37 mishap that sent nine to hospital. Woman driver of car, framed in rear of truck involved, was seriously hurt. OPP Constable Tom Hulme (right) carries truck-driver's son, 12-year-old Bobby Wood of Kaladar, to ambulance stretcher.

Nine Injured in Accident

A young Belleville mother was in fair condition today, suffering head injuries after her car crashed with a truck on Highway 37 near Canniff on, in a mishap that sent nine people to hospital.

Among the injured was the woman's three - year - old daughter.

Mrs. Joan Elizabeth Clinkard, 22, of 22 Ahlon Street, was rushed to Kingston General Hospital after the broadside impact of the collision pinned her inside the automobile.

In Belleville General Hospital, also with head injuries, is her daughter, Gillian, reported in satisfactory condition.

Also hospitalized in Belleville are Mrs. Barbara Swales, Scarboro, with rib injuries, and her four-year-old son Colin, with possible head injuries; Susan Barsby, 24 of Derby, England, suffering back injuries and a possible fractured pelvis; Wilfred Wood, 42, of Kaladar — driver of the truck — and his son, Bobby, 12, both with minor injuries.

All were reported in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Swales' husband, Ian, 46, and 12-year-old daughter, Lorinne, were treated for minor injuries but not admitted to hospital.

Provincial police say Mr. Wood was driving his empty five-ton platform north on the highway when the collision occurred at the Black Diamond road intersection.

Mrs. Clinkard and the six other people in her automobile apparently were returning from visiting the near Black Diamond Cheese plant, say police.

Exact cause of the mishap was not immediately known by police.

Rapido Jumps Tracks --No Injuries Reported

The crack CNR passenger Rapido was delayed nearly three hours last night when the front wheels of a coach jumped the tracks east of Belleville.

The 13-coach Montreal-Toronto express was travelling about 70 miles an hour at the time but there were no injuries, said a CNR spokesman.

The incident occurred about 6 p.m., five miles east of the city where the Rapido was headed to change crews.

The train jarred to a halt as the front wheels on the fourth coach (11) p e d off the rails, said Ron Messenger, Rideau area operations manager.

Track ties were torn up but there was no other damage, he said.

Passengers were transferred to other coaches and the rear section of the train was backed about 10 miles to Marysville to reconvene at another line.

Both ends were then linked and the Rapido continued on to Toronto.

Several freight trains were delayed by rerouting around the derailed car.

Normal service was restored about 2 a.m. when repair gangs got the damaged coach operational.

Mrs. Olive Patrick shows brothers Arthur and Harold Lawrence where Lawrence home once stood on what is now Fry's Riverside Park on Cannifton Road. Brother Arthur (right) is visiting Belleville after absence of 43 years.

Arthur Lawrence Revisits Belleville After 43 Years

There will be a family reunion at Lawrenceville on Sunday with the guest of honor a former Cannifton Road man visiting in the city after an absence of 43 years.

That guest of honor will be 64-year-old Arthur Lawrence of San Francisco and the picnic spot will be Fry Park on Cannifton Road, once the home of the Lawrence family.

In fact the Riverside Park area on Cannifton Road was once called Lawrenceville.

"They should have called it Lawrenceville Park," states Mrs. Olive Patrick, of Belleville, sister of the visiting Californian.

The Lawrence family sold their riverside property to Mr. and Mrs. Fry after whom the Cannifton Road park was named.

But there was little to remind them of the old homestead when Arthur Lawrence and his brother Harold of Detroit visited Fry Park yesterday.

All the original buildings are gone with only big trees along the street to mark the entrance way to the one time Lawrence homestead.

Attending the family picnic on Sunday will be two Belleville area sisters, Mrs. Patrick and Mrs. Flossie Moore along with two other sisters and a brother from Toronto, a sister from Prescott and the brothers from Detroit and California.

Arthur left Belleville as a young man of 21 with only eight dollars in his pocket loaned by his sister from her first pay at Corby's.

"I sure hated to part with that money," said Mrs. Patrick, "but I got it back last year with interest."

Now retired from the US Army the former Bellevillian can look back on a much travelled army career.

His first real stopping place after leaving the city was the Panama Canal Zone and since then has been in an out of the US Army. As a member of Army Transport he made 23 trips across the Pacific, saw World War II service in Europe and has also been stationed in Alaska, in Guam and Korea.

But in all the years he never did get around to writing back home and a few postcards were all that were received in Canada.

"They all thought I was dead," the visiting brother commented.

He was finally located last year through something like chance.

A nephew was attending a California university and was being visited by his parents who suddenly remember San Francisco had been the postmark on the last card received from Arthur many years ago.

On the chance that he was still in the district they searched the San Francisco telephone directory and obtained his address.

Marginal Land Survey Initiated by ARDA

Can sub-marginal farm lands in the Hungerford and Tyendinaga township areas be utilized to better advantage through a systematic program of seeding and fertilizing?

And are the owners of the above ranch lands interested in doing something about it?

The Hastings county ARDA committee (Agricultural and Rural Development Act) will attempt to find the answers and this week is initiating a survey to determine the answers.

Hastings county agricultural representative Douglas Tipper said the idea of the survey is to find out what there is in the area and to determine what could be salvaged.

The ARDA committee also wants to find out owner opinion and whether owners are interested in doing something about getting a better return from their properties.

Visualized is a possible program of spraying to get rid of the weeds and small brush, followed by application of fertiliser and seeding.

But first farmland owners in the area will be interviewed to get their views and reaction.

Heading up the survey which gets under way today is Robert Phillips, high school agricultural instructor at Belleville.

Mr. Phillips will talk to owners to get their viewpoint as to the possible value of the suggested program and to learn whether farmers are prepared to help finance it.

Mr. Tipper said the area in which the survey will be conducted is mostly ranchland used for cattle pasture. However the grass each year is getting shorter and shorter and a serious pasture problem has developed.

Last week Mr. Tipper outlined his proposal to the county ARDA committee which approved the survey in principle.

He said the survey would be completed by the end of August following which results will be assessed to determine possible future action.

The whole thing will depend on the survey and on whether the farmers are prepared to go ahead," he said.

Mr. Tipper said aerial spraying for control of weeds and small brush had already been tried successfully by one Tweed district farmer.

He suggested the same method might be used for other marginal ranchlands in the district.

More on Pollution

Word that the provincial government is to attack this pollution problem in the Bay of Quinte is welcome. Quinte member Dr. R. T. Potter says Energy and Resources Minister J. R. Simonett has given an undertaking to this effect.

Doubtless the provincial authorities plan to tackle all such areas in the lake region. Pollution has been building up steadily to the point that locally even the water around Zwick's Island is suspect.

Then there are the fish on the beaches. Wellington is going to clean up its beach and the community's example should be followed elsewhere. We don't want to see the day come when citizens and authorities alike become so accustomed to the blight that they take it for granted, just as people who live next to a paper plant or in sulphurous thermal regions have to put up with the odors peculiar to them.

That pollution is in danger of getting completely out of hand is evident also from the reports of a similar situation at Ontario area beaches which normally have been free of the blight.

Not only is pollution a hazard to health, an affront to orderliness and the preservation of natural resources, it also eliminates a valuable recreational facility by rendering provincial waters unfit for swimming.

Certainly the time has come to stop paying lip service to the ideal of provincial water resources; they are untainted. It is one of the most pressing problems of the day and should be tackled with the urgency it deserves.

Teens' Problem

A letter on this page today from two teenage girls gives a further insight into the thinking of the younger generation. It is a good letter. For one thing it shows the young people are interested enough to analyse the problem as they see it and set down their thoughts on paper.

Yet they still give the unfortunate impression that the teenagers — as we have suggested on occasions — want everything done for them. The city offers (the word crops up so often in the letter) more than they know, but it is clear the young people are not making use of the facilities available. The city could bend over backwards to provide even more attractions — music, dancing and so on — and the kids would still be moaning, "there's nothing to do."

Perhaps their mood is symptomatic of the times. They are the generation that has everything — and nothing. Everything material that is, but little or nothing in the way of initiative, competitiveness and self-reliance. These qualities of course are there, but parents and the school system fail to encourage their development.

If such qualities were fostered there would be fewer complaints about there being nothing to do and there being no "scene." Adults can be as bad. Their underlying malaise is only too evident in the way people turn out say to watch a fire, or a parade, or just kill an evening sitting on the patio. But unfill young people "get up and go," and interest themselves in all aspects of life and not merely in external happenings so long will they find vacations a bore.

It is a pity there is not all-round emphasis on the physical fitness aspect of recreation. That is the way it is in countries like Britain and Australia. Young people there become involved in a variety of sporting activities from an early age. Such activity fills the vacuum that comes with vacation time and at the same time fosters the kind of qualities we have been discussing.

Young people should realize it is later than they think. One of these days they will wake up and find they are adults. Meantime they should stop searching for some nebulous "scene" and find it inside their own beings, in a book, in a game of tennis, a swim, a walk, music and dancing with their friends (in the basement at home if they can't afford to go out) or just helping around the home.

Passing Through

Americans visiting Belleville as often as not are just passing through. At least, that is the impression gained as the occasional U.S. licence plate is seen disappearing into the distance. And there is the rub — the visitors are on their way out of the city without so much as making a stop for a look around.

One family who possibly saw the city at more leisurely pace than most the other day was from New Jersey — they were riding in a vintage model, one-that shone and had the look of a vehicle that had been well taken care of.

"There's No Tomorrow" Trudeau's Action-Packed Theory

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — In the manly political art of kicking the cabinet around, nothing like Pierre Elliott Trudeau has come rip-roaring down the prime ministerial pike since the original "tough-lie" William Lyon Mackenzie King.

The weeping word seeping out of this new glad-economy-size cabinet is that the brittle new boss has got his 38 hired hands all upset.

They simply can't figure him out.

And they just don't know where they stand.

Old hand and new alike, the enigmatic prime minister is keeping them unconfortably off balance with his cryptic cracks in cabinet.

Let one of them come through with what he confidently considers one of the best political inventions since the baby bonus . . .

. . . and "The Man," as some are calling him, responds with maybe 10 closely-clipped words.

Who can read him? Who can be sure he is saying precisely what they think he means? Who can know whether there is not some hidden significance in these crackling comments?

So they sit and stew, wondering, except when "The Man" doesn't like an idea.

Then they know for sure in the biting brushoff they get.

This is the way they get business done.

Quickly. Decisively. No dithering.

And what a blinding change of pace this is!

For only Mackenzie King did business this decisively. He, too, was the unquestioned boss—and if anybody challenged him, they were out, out in the cold, like Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power.

Gentle old "Uncle Louie" St. Laurent, the soul of quiet courtesy, never knowingly offended anyone, much less his cabinet colleagues.

The creaky old curmudgeon, John Diefenbaker, was not only boss but czar, and ruled his cabinet with a rod of iron. He goaded them, finally, to rebellion, when his terrible-tempered threats of walking out himself no longer were credible.

And Lester Pearson! You can conjure up any quality, almost, in him except decisiveness. And that defies imagination. He was too amenable, too reasonable, too accommodating. Always, so over-willing to bend over backwards as to double himself up into knots.

Never so agonizingly, either, as when, incredibly, he set out to be decisive in his so miscalled "60 blazing days of decision."

But Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent, John Diefenbaker and Lester Pearson alike, they all debated endlessly in cabinet patiently hearing everyone out to the exhausting end.

Pierre Elliott Trudeau listens only until he has heard enough.

Then boom. Comes the crusher that cuts the cackle.

What he's doing it—he — and it is never for all that long — there is a prickly feeling of impatience.

The cabinet's "new boys," and there are eight of them raw recruits, don't know what hit them.

The freshman who made it into the cabinet in those few pre-election days and now are confirmed as ministers, and there are six of them, aren't much more comfortable.

Even the holdovers from the Pearson team, and there are 10 of them, are more than a bit edgy and uncertain.

But it is the four veterans and their uncertain reaction to the moods and manners of "The Man" that is the measure of this new prime minister.

Two of them, Solicitor General George Mcilraith and Government Senate Leader Paul Martin go back to the Mackenzie King years. Transport Minister Paul Hellyer has been with the St. Laurent cabinet. And Works Minister Arthur Laing, while he hasn't been around Parliament Hill as long or as steadily has been in federal politics for 45 years.

He has them thinking they are Mothmuths, ancients from another time and another place, greybeard fugitives from the grave.

And all that experience is for nothing — almost — except perhaps for Paul Hellyer, who, after all, happens to be younger than Pierre Elliott Trudeau himself.

With this PM the time is here and now, and the word is action, his action.

Belleville "A Dull Scene" Local Teens Complain

Editor,
The Intelligencer.
This city needs help, and we are here to try and set it straight. We would like the people of Belleville to answer us one question. What is the average teenager supposed to do in this dull city? What form of entertainment has Belleville got to offer its teenagers?

To begin with we are offered one good dance a week at that low rate of $1.50. Now since Belleville has no jobs to offer most of the teenagers, where is this money supposed to come from? The price is too steep although we realize we can't get the bands for nothing. The situation as it appears now is that we have an out-of-town and a local band appearing both on Thursday night. Why can't this be stretched out so that we have a local band one night and an out-of-town one another night? Wouldn't this keep the teenagers off the streets for another night?

At this point we would like to congratulate Belleville on the dance on Friday night with that low reasonable price of $1 for five bands. This is what we call progress, but it only happens once in a lifetime, unfortunately.

Next we are offered free concerts at Zwick's Island. We have a great band shelter but why not make better use of it? Why can't they have bands during the week nights and take up a silver collection to offer them. If the teenagers are in the least bit interested as we are sure they are, they will contribute to this cause.

Why do the teenagers sit on bank steps and stand on street corners? The answer is simply that there is nothing to do. Now if only we had a coffee house such as the "Owl" used to be, we would not have this problem.

Now the Cafe de la Moira is opening up. We are glad someone is interested in the teenagers but this is just a start.

We have a long way to go.

We hope this letter stirs the minds of teenagers and other interested people and maybe, hopefully something will be done about the dead scene Belleville proves itself to be.

There have been two very successful barn dances held at Shelly Anderson's place on the north of Thurlow township. Large crowds turned out for both events and everyone had a delightful time. A great deal of credit is due Mr. and Mrs. Anderson for their work in connection with these entertainments for a worthy cause.

The latest attack on Parliament Hill is disturbing. There are too many substantiated reports of molestation or robbery in the bush below Parliament Hill. But the Hill is not any hill, it is The Hill. If a Canadian citizen is not safe on the walks surrounding the seat of Canada's government, where is he safe? The RCMP have promised to police the area better. They must be effective. Such incidents erode the dignity of Parliament.

Prolonged Adolescence

Brantford Expositor

Once, young people were impatient to shed their years of adolescence because only adults had freedom of movement, earning power and privileges. Now, all over North America young people have taken adolescence their own. Why join the adult world, they seem to be saying, when it is far more advantageous to stay already enjoy? So they linger at what one writer has called "the greatest, most prolonged children's party since the invention of peppermint candy."

But in the end they can no more escape adulthood than old age, and when that time comes, many will they cope with it on the experience of a spun-out childhood? It could be a drastic and disillusioning transition.

2,000-Word Bombshell

Soviet Bloc Shaken by Czech Freedom Drive

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Reform-minded Czechoslovaks fired "2,000 words" into the ideological ramparts of the Communist world and evidently provoked a serious crisis in Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe.

Meeting in Poland, Communist leaders of the Soviet Union and four other countries Monday drew up a "common letter" to Czechoslovakia. This has the ring of ultimatum.

It suggests Big Brother is watching Czechoslovakia closely and will go to lengths to slow down, if not snuff, out completely, the attempt by liberalize the Communist system there.

The "2,000 words" from Prague was a searing indictment of Communist rule in Czechoslovakia during the last 20 years. Published in the Prague newspaper Mlada Fronta June 27, it seems to have badly shaken other ruling European Communists.

Those leaders, led by Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet party, are telling Czechoslovak party chiefs they are being subverted by "imperialist" influences and, by the example being set in Czechoslovakia, they are permitting the leading role of Communist parties everywhere to be endangered.

Brezhnev indicates he will not put up with this. Perhaps he has it in his power to exert pressures which eventually will bring back to authority the "conservative" hard-line Communists now discredited in Czechoslovakia.

What was in those "2,000 words" to worry Brezhnev so much?

The broadside was entitled "2,000 words to workers, farmers, civil servants, scientists, artists and everyone." It was written by Ludvik Vaculik, a Czechoslovak author, and signed by 70 leading scientists and intellectuals. After its publication, tens of thousands of Czechoslovaks endorsed it.

The statement said after the Communists took over in 1948, the direction of Czechoslovakia "got into the hands of the wrong people."

The party changed "from an ideological alliance into a power organization which became very attractive also to egotists avid for rule, calculating cowards and unprincipled people."

The statement said that this year the Czechoslovak party had great hopes in the process of democratization, but these hopes now are threatened.

"It took several months," it added, "for many of us to believe that we could speak out, and many still do not believe it.

"Nevertheless, we have spoken up, and so many things have been revealed that somehow we must complete our aim of humanizing this regime. Otherwise the revenge of the old forces would be cruel.

"Let us demand the resignation of people who have misused their power, who have harmed public property or who have acted dishonestly or brutally. We must find ways and means to indemnify the injured. For example, through public criticism, resolutions, demonstrations, denunciations, party delegates, collection drives for gifts to them when they withdraw, strikes and boycotts of their doors."

Coupled with this heady stuff was a warning that Russian forces may interfere with our internal developments as they did mean only the Soviet Union, even then exerting pressure through the Warsaw Pact military exercises on Czechoslovak soil.

The Czechoslovak National Assembly, on the advice of Premier Oldrich Cernik, rejected the "2,000 words," but this was not enough for leaders of the Soviet Union and other Communist nations fearful of contagion.

In a speech early this month, Brezhnev warned that there is not and cannot be socialism without the leading role of the Communist party," that "we cannot and never will remain indifferent to the fate of Socialist construction in other countries, to the common cause of socialism and communism in the world."

The Warsaw meeting suggests that the pressure on Prague and the reform regime of Alexander Dubcek, the party secretary of the Czechoslovak party, will get heavier and heavier as the opening session of the special September congress of that party.

That is the congress at which the reformers hope to throw out the last of the old hard-liners. But the hard-liners, though they have lost the first round, still may be counting on powerful Soviet support for a comeback which will destroy the reform movement for good.

Randall Cuts Ribbon

"Bienvenue!"

Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott welcomes Quebec teenagers visiting Belleville on two-week student exchange program. The group visited city hall yesterday to begin a busy afternoon of events — touring local industries, ending with a cookout at Presqu'ile provincial park.

Instant Housing Unveiled at Trenton

TRENTON — How would you like to own a beautiful modern home which would take only two months and two days to construct — all for only $750 as down payment and a single mortgage with monthly payments of $120, excluding lot rental and municipal taxes?

Sound unbelievable? Well it isn't, so read on and find out how Trentonians will be the first to cash in on this province-wide plan.

The unfurnished homes would be available to anyone who would not allow his debt to exceed 27 per cent of his annual income.

Yesterday Inland Homes unveiled models of their "instant aluminum housing" plan for the first time and in doing so gave new hope to low income earners who wish to purchase a home.

Trenton was chosen as the first site in the province wide program.

Housing at a reasonable price was the theme as Hon. Stanley J. Randall, Minister of Economics and Development, cut the ribbon to open the three model homes on display at Burttdale subdivision.

Inland Homes together with the government sponsored H.O.M.E. (Home Ownership Made Easy) program, are able to provide homes at the cost of approximately $15,000 a unit excluding lot price.

The house itself is delivered to the construction site in a single trailer. The foundation is prepared ahead of time and the prefabricated unit can be erected in three days.

Sub-trades then move in and the home is ready for occupancy within one month. This cuts the time of conventional methods in half.

Delivery of the prefabricated unit from the factory to the site takes about one month.

The plan began in August of 1967 when the Ontario Housing Corporation offered some 1,149 serviced lots in eight Ontario centres. This marked a new front in the H.O.M.E.'s program against the housing shortage problem.

Inland Homes is presently importing the prefabricated units but it is expected a factory will be in existence at Centralia, Ontario by October 1, 1968.

"When lots are ready for market they will be advertised in local papers including details of how to go about applying", said a company spokesman.

Choice will then be made on a "first come first served" basis.

It will also be up to the customer as to whether you will walk on hardwood floors or step on wool broadloom, the choice included at no extra cost.

Community Services President Wants Welfare Policy Changed

Any suggestion that persons applying for relief are unwilling to seek employment is wholly out of keeping with reality," declared The Rt. Rev. James P. Sullivan, D.P.

In a letter to Stirling Reeve Donald Rodgers, chairman of the County welfare committee, Monsignor Sullivan urged Hastings County officials to re-examine their newly announced policy of requiring applicants for general welfare assistance to keep diaries of their job - seeking activities.

"About one out of 10 persons in the Quinte area is unemployed," said the president of United Community Services, "and people apply for relief because there are no jobs."

"There is nothing to be gained by imposing regulations which will degrade the applicant for public assistance," Monsignor Sullivan emphasized. "Merely having to ask for assistance when all resources have been depleted excites the emotion of shame in the victims of our economic system. There is no place in a Christian society for procedures which further demean the individual who finds himself in difficult circumstances."

United Community Services proposed that the County assume, until proven otherwise, that applicants were honest and anxious to work.

"This is the policy of the Income Tax Department," explained Monsignor Sullivan. "While we all "know" of someone who has padded his return a little, none of us would accept the proposition that all taxpayers are out to cheat the government. In fact, we would rebel pretty vocally to any procedures which implied such a suggestion."

Monsignor Sullivan explained that the directors of United Community Services were unanimous in their praise of the work of the new County Welfare Department and its director, Reginald E. Tucker.

"However," he indicated, "we live in a complex society with complex welfare problems. There are no simple solutions to these problems, however attractive they may appear at the moment. The staff of the Welfare Department must be given every support and encouragement in the carrying out of the policies assigned them."

EVER SEE A CHICKEN GET BAGGED?

We do it every day at Schneiders. We take the plumpest, tastiest chickens available. We clean them, cook them, and spice them. Then we bag 'em for your freezer. No one should miss a treat like this two days in a row.

Beer Delivery Starts Early

The vote taken, the executive crossed the garden fence to talk with Cecil Bonnetta, manager of district brewery outlets.

Mr. Bonnetta said today he had a warehouse shift working at 6 a.m. this morning — three hours earlier than usual — to speed supplies to local hotels.

He said there was sufficient beer stored locally to meet immediate demands, although supply transports for main Ontario warehouses were expected later today.

City hotel owners, many hopeful of a regular noon-hour opening today, eagerly awaited the arrival of warehouse supplies, sealed by industry lockout June 21.

The three-year settlement provides a 93-cent-an-hour wage increase.

Robert Woolvett, executive secretary of the Ontario Brewers' Institute and spokesman for the industry, said beer supplies in warehouses will be sufficient to meet demands when stores open today.

Several breweries began operations with the midnight shift Wednesday.

The new contract, signed early Wednesday following a 16-hour bargaining session, provides for a 30-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Jan. 1 and an additional 13 cents an hour when employees return to work.

David Lewis, New Democratic Party member of Parliament for York South and chief union negotiator, said the workers will receive another 25 cents an hour Jan. 1, 1969, and the remainder a year later.

Rates under the old contract ranged from $2.89 to $3.51 an hour. The new agreement expires Dec. 31, 1970.

Mr. Lewis said it includes "another 15 cents or so . . . in various fringe benefits" — specifically improvements in the pension plan, a guaranteed wage scheme and increased life insurance.

Conflict Among Welfare Groups May Hamper Aid to Biafra

LAGOS (AP) — Relief officials fear that confusion and conflict among welfare groups will seriously hamper the multi-million-dollar effort to save the millions facing starvation because of Nigeria's civil war.

Tons of food source Lagos warehouse space because transportation is unavailable to get it to those who need it.

"There are just too many people who want to run this," said Timothy Ukwuku, executive secretary of the Nigerian Red Cross.

The U.S. government has contributed nearly $2,800,000 worth of food. Britain has promised at least $600,000, and Canada said it will contribute substantially. Other contributions range from a Dutch medical team to promised aid from the Soviet Red Cross.

Under the umbrella of the Nigerian Red Cross and the International Committee of the Red Cross, such voluntary organizations as the American Church of Christ Services, Britain's Oxfam and the Save the Children Fund are providing help.

Relief experts believe at least 200,000 persons in the Nigerian war zone need immediate aid. Reports from Biafra claim thousands are dying of starvation.

Rev. Patrick Devine of the Roman Catholic Caritas International was quoted by Biafra radio as saying 300 tons of supplies are needed daily in the east Nigerian territory which seceded, but only 10 tons a day are arriving by plane at improvised highway airstrips.

Material entering Nigeria's could reach the Biafrans only if the secessionists abandon their resistance to accept aid through neutral forces who surround Biafra.

All but 2,000 of 45,000 cartons of American powdered milk delivered in June have remained in the warehouse.

Friction between Nigerian and foreign aid workers has delayed relief. The Nigerian commissioner of communications attacked the International Committee of the Red Cross for trying to set up its own radio network.

"You don't know who to go to," said one relief worker.

Army Finally Tries To Stop Fighting In Southern China

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China's army is reported finally trying to stop the bloody fighting in South China after six weeks of standing aside from the clashes between supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung and between rival Maoist factions.

Travellers arriving from Canton, South China's largest city and the capital of Kwangtun province, told of troops patrolling the main streets and manning barricades at highway intersections and railway yards.

The official Canton newspaper Nan Fang said Peking had ordered troop commanders in Kwangtung to crush the violence.

A number of travellers from Kwangsi province, west of Kwangtung, said army units at Liuchow took sides in a major factional fight that broke out July 10 and lasted 36 hours. They said rockets used by the soldiers set off fires that devastated 12 city blocks.

But their reports said that within the last three days the army had taken steps to control the situation in the city, on the main rail route for Chinese war supplies to North Vietnam.

One traveller from Kwangsi said supply trains were under heavy guard after backers and opponents of Mao Tse-tung had raided the trains to steal weapons consigned to the North Vietnamese.

There is no way to confirm the travellers' reports, but their multiplicity and the way they dovetail indicates they may be true.

Western analysts believe the army, after first trying to stop the battles, was ordered six weeks ago to stand aside. But there was no indication whether the orders came from Peking or provincial military leaders.

Report Worries Wasaga

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP) — Businessmen and property owners in this beach and resort area 20 miles northwest of Barrie are worrying about secret government report they fear could affect their way of life.

The report, prepared for the province by Project Planning Consultants Ltd. and released so far only to members of Wasaga Beach council, is said to propose a massive transformation of the seven-mile sandy beach on Georgian Bay.

What report is that the beach, a seven-mile parking lot for up to 15,000 cars on weekends, is to become a recreational playground after huge government land purchases to control development.

Council officials met Wednesday in Toronto with government representatives, but spokesmen for both sides refused comment until all submissions have been studied.

Meanwhile the secrecy weighs heavily on businessmen here who complain they cannot plan for the future.

"I hope they tell us and tell us soon," tourist operator Bruce McGaw said Wednesday. "I don't see how any of us in business can plan if we don't know how we are going to be here for one year or 10. No one is going to put money in here when they don't know what the future is."

This is the second recent government study of this Collingwood-area beach strip. Two years ago the province began a crash program to acquire an additional 400 feet of land along the waterfront.

The program was designed to get tourist cars off the beach. Much of the land acquired since then has been transformed into picnic areas, leaving untouched the main commercial and amusement centres and other commercial projects.

One resort operator, who hopes the new park will turn the area into year-round resort, says the nature of Wasaga beach has changed since was taken over by the government.

It has become a one-day beach instead of a vacation beach, and at least one operator has had to advertise to rent cottages which would normally be filled for the season.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"What a pity! I guess this means we'll have to call off the picnic."

Most Tax Refunds Have Been Mailed

OTTAWA (CP) — A revenue department spokesman said Wednesday, on the eve of the postal strike, that the taxation division has mailed 9,074,653 tax refunds for 1967 and has perhaps only another 250,000 to go.

No special arrangements are being made to handle tax refunds during the strike.

Processing income tax returns and handling refund cheques this year was slower than usual because of difficulties with the revenue department's big electronic computers, but all but a small part of the backlog of work now has been handled.

The spokesman said the department has $25,573 income tax returns still in its so-called "inventory," awaiting final processing.

Most of these involve errors by taxpayers in completing their 1967 tax returns, or other complications that can only be resolved by referring them to district tax offices for consultations with the taxpayers, and cross-checking with other records.

The revenue department has processed 7,596,477 personal income tax returns known as T-1 Shorts or T-1 Generals.

The revenue department said it was possible to make advance mailings of other government cheques—such as for pensions and family allowances.

But tax refund cheques cannot be prepared from any standard list of recipients in standard amounts. Each has to be handled separately when individual income tax forms are processed.

Douglas Urges Raising Rates for Some Mail

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said in an interview Wednesday the Liberal government should afford to meet pay demands of striking postal workers if it instituted changes in mail rates.

He said if second and third-class mail were forced to pay their own way, the wage demands of the 24,000-member Council of Postal Unions could be met with no strain on the economy.

First-class mail made a profit of $9,000,000 last year but second and third-class mail had a deficit of $31,000,000, said Mr. Douglas.

The government was afraid to move against low-cost mail because it might lose the good will of "the people who put out advertising and magazines" he said the government had not made an honest effort to settle the dispute.

"All the bad faith is on the government side," Mr. Douglas said. Negotiations had been under way for about a year, but the government made its first offer to postal workers was within the last few days.

The NDP leader said Parliament should be recalled to settle the postal dispute until the government has made an honest effort to bargain with the postal workers.

Conditions in Provincial Civil Service Bad Says Liberal

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature was told Wednesday night it is possible to make more money on welfare "than by doing an honest day's work mowing the lawns and sweeping out the washrooms at Queen's Park."

Hugh Edinghoffer (L—Perth) made the statement in opening debate on spending estimates of the civil service department.

Mr. Edinghoffer said conditions in the provincial civil service are so bad that 30,000 of Ontario's 50,000 government workers "have placed their future in the hands of an arbitration board" after a breakdown in negotiations with the government.

"This, I think, is a ridiculous way to engage in collective bargaining procedures."

Clifford Pilkey (NDP—Oshawa) said he has nothing against the civil servants.

"They are doing a good job within a framework of poor and inadequate wages."

He said Treasurer Charles MacNaughton, as minister responsible for the civil service commission, has agreed that the government must compete against private industry for the services of skilled workers.

"But what about unskilled workers?" the NDP member asked, contending that most unskilled government workers get less than $2 an hour.

Mr. MacNaughton said most of the problems raised by the two Opposition members are under study by Judge Walter Little as part of an inquiry into collective bargaining within the civil service.

NDP Leader Donald MacDonald said he hoped the Little report will be ready by next fall so that the position of employees in Toronto's Don Jail who are members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees will be clarified.

Eddie Sargent (L — Grey-Bruce) suggested the civil service commission make a job evaluation survey to increase efficiency.

Mr. MacNaughton said staff complements are subjected to periodic review as part of "an ongoing process."

Mr. Sargent raised the ire of Mr. Pilkey and the minister when he said persons who join the civil service "go on pension."

The peppery Liberal member said civil servants he calls never seem to be on duty.

"They come back from lunch at three o'clock," he said, suggesting they should have to punch timeclocks.

Opposition Member Praises Mines Minister Lawrence

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition party spokesman, praising Ontario Mines Minister Allan Lawrence for an announcement that a copper smelter may be built in the Timmins area, Wednesday urged him to do as much as possible to establish a basis for cleaner and wealthier Northern Ontario communities.

Ronald Knight (L—Port Arthur) said the minister should exercise "all haste and efficiency" in going after multi-billion dollar mineral production.

The government must provide the mines department with far more than the $4,438,000 being debated in the estimates so it can do its job adequately, he said.

Donald Jackson (NDP—Temiskaming) said the government should establish a Crown development agency for the North and a cabinet "task force on development" to include all ministers from Northern Ontario.

Both speakers criticized the government for permitting the mining industry to "deface the landscape" and pollute air and water near their operations.

Mr. Lawrence said Texas-Gulf Sulphur Co. has indicated that smelters for copper and zinc produced by the firm should be built in Ontario.

The government has urged Texas-Gulf to build a copper smelter near Timmins and to put the zinc smelter at the Ontario location of its choice.

Emergency Service Not for Public

TORONTO (CP) — An emergency courier service for Ontario government departments is not applicable to the public, Premier John Robarts told the legislature Wednesday.

In reply to a question from Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce), Mr. Robarts said it is not possible for the provincial government to organize a mail service.

Trucks and aircraft operated by the provincial police and departments of highways and lands and forests are to be used to pick up inter-departmental government mail along routes radiating from Toronto to Windsor, Brantford, Cornwall, Ottawa, Fort Erie, Owen Sound, Sudbury, Timmins and the Lakehead.

Safety Engineers 'Used' Minister Tells House

TORONTO (CP) — Safety engineers are being "used" in management-labor disputes between the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. and Sudbury Local 6500 of the United Steelworkers of America, Mines Minister Allan Lawrence told the legislature Wednesday.

Mr. Lawrence told New Democratic Party critics that "I don't like it at all."

Mining engineers are being harassed, largely by the union, for reasons that are either political or to "put on the pressure" as time for a contract to expire draws near, he said.

The contract at Inco expires next year.

Civil servants are being used as pawns in a power struggle over an agreement between two powerful economic forces, an unfair situation that does not occur anywhere else in the province, he said.

The minister's comments were a reply to Elie Martel (NDP—Sudbury East) who suggested the department spends too little money on hiring trained safety personnel to do an adequate job of mine inspections at Inco.

Mr. Martel said it is wrong for the company to be notified when an inspection is to occur, because "men work overtime to clean up for the royal tour."

Mr. Martel drew fire both from the minister and Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) when he said Inco pollutes its safety record by failing to report some injuries to the Workmen's Compensation Board while it carries the injured workers to their jobs by taxi for weeks at a time.

Mr. Sopha said it is an accusation he cannot accept as fact.

Rand Report Available Soon

TORONTO (CP) — A report from the Rand commission inquiry into labor disputes and the use of injunctions will be available within six to eight weeks, Premier John Robarts said Wednesday.

He told the Ontario legislature the commission's terms of reference included the rights and liabilities of trade unions and their members, among others.

In a carefully-worded repl yto Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce) who had asked a series of questions about threats of violence to union members who object to union policy, Mr. Robarts said he "might say yes, the government is aware of problems in the area referred to," but he did not necessarily agree with some of Mr. Sargent's opinions.

The commission, headed by Ivan C. Rand, a former justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, has been investigating Ontario labor law and the causes of disputes since August 1965.

Mines Minister Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — Mines Minister Allan Lawrence, who attended a well-published mineral staking rush at Elliot Lake shortly after he took office in February, was criticized in the legislature Wednesday of playing "major domo of the circus."

Elmer Sopha (L — Sudbury) deplored the "Robert Service atmosphere" in which several hundred prospectors rushed to stake claims on land newly reopened to prospectors.

If there are areas with ore-bearing potential the government should either set up a Crown corporation to exploit them or offer a lease to a group of companies on the provision that "the people of Ontario get in on the action."

Legislators Attempt To Wind Up Session

TORONTO (CP) — In a chamber far hotter than its debates, the legislature Wednesday picked up speed in a drive toward early prorogation of its longest-ever session.

The house spent less than an hour winding up debate begun Tuesday on spending estimates of the municipal affairs department and then whipped through the mines department's $4,838,000 budget in 4½ hours.

The speed was in contrast to 12 sittings required to pass estimates of the highways department and a week taken on the attorney-general's spending plans for 1968-69.

Some legislators were predicting Tuesday that the house will be prorogued by Lt.-Gov. Ross Macdonald as early as Friday night but others felt next Tuesday or Wednesday are more likely dates.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

UNIONDALE W.I.

The July meeting of the Uniondale Women's Institute (Hastings West Branch) was held at the home of Mrs. E. McCaw, 4th Concession of Sidney with 25 members and two visitors attending.

Plans were arranged for the July picnic at Zwick's Island. A letter from the Belleville Fair Board gave reason for concern that the ladies would be catering meals and lunches for the 1968 Belleville Fair.

Mrs. Morley Sine gave the highlights of the summer '68 "home and country," while Mrs. George Burkitt read another chapter of heritage of Prince Edward Island. Mrs. T. Patrick, convener for July had as her topic, "T.V. and our children". She pointed out some programs were educational for older children, and the younger ones could be amused for a considerable length of time by the Walt Disney program and children's stories.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Striker, and the topic will be prominent women of today, convener to be Mrs. Gerald Harrington.

The July lunch committee served lunch and a social half hour was spent.

Points for Parents

By MARY BETSON

Mother: "I've told you what I think you should do. I don't want to argue about it. Either take my advice or quit bothering me about your problems."

Mother: "I know it's hard to make up your mind. Tell me what you think would be a good thing to do. Discussing it may help you come to a decision."

A teen-ager may really be arguing with herself about a course of action. Be a good listener and encourage discussion, even if it gets somewhat heated. She may talk herself into doing exactly what you think she should.

Funeral Details Can Be Pre-arranged

Dear Doris: I'm sending you some forms worked out by our church with the idea of getting people to express wishes while they are still around. You will remember you were interested in hearing more.

Some people were annoyed when they got the letter and form, but I suspect a great many will see the sensible rather than the sentimental side.

and co-operate. Certainly even the main, factual information about one's family is only casually known by friends or even relatives; and dates have a way of mulling into one another all too easily. — Elder

— but Not Elderly

Dear Elder: Well, good for the Instigators of this idea! Excerpts from "Pre-Arranged Funeral Directions", I read:

". . . The person who says, 'It doesn't matter to me what happens to my property or my body when I am finished with them' is not easing the burden of those who live after them."

". . . The Committee on Christian Faith (of the United Church of Canada) reported in part: 'Christian people should discuss freely with one another and with their minister, while they are still in good health, their wishes concerning death and burial.'

". . . Funeral instructions in the detail suggested (herein) are not necessarily a proper function of a will."

Would anyone like further details?

Dear Doris: I'm worried about my 13-year-old daughter. She has always toed in. When she was four a specialist told me her legs were straight but that she would toe in until she was old enough to care about appearances.

Her right foot almost flops in as she walks. Should I have her doing exercises or should I have a doctor see her?

— Must Not Neglect This

Dear Must Not: Couldn't agree more. By now she surely cares about appearances—or could be helped to.

I'm thinking that a specialist is the one who could suggest just how to strengthen those muscles, right now while bones and tissues are still developing.

This is no time to hesitate.

A New Banana Muffin Recipe

By MARY MOORE

Florence has been a dear family friend and helper for 30 years.

Now she has a reputation for her specialty: acting mother while parents are on winter vacations.

She is so highly regarded that the several professional people who employ her plan their holidays according to her schedule. She can be quite choosy — "Do you have a dish washer . . .?"

She does a complete takeover whether there are five children under 10 or three children under 16.

Sitting in our living-room not long ago she was relating some of her experiences, especially with children who were testing her out. She overheard 11 - year - old twins conspiring to sleep in their bed rolls outside in February. When they told her their plan and that their parents "always let them" she said, "Fine, but indoors with your windows wide open."

She is a thrifty gal and makes leftovers into attractive dishes the kids love. Strangely enough she always seems to arrive when some bananas are overripe. Now she thinks they plan it this way, for years ago she made some banana muffins one family of children (now grown up) will never forget.

Because it is hot weather and because bananas are overripening overnight and milk is souring I was reminded of

Dinner Menu

Stuffed Roast Chicken; Homemade Red Currant Jelly (see Tues.); Broccoli; Kernel Corn; Sliced Tomatoes; Cantaloupe with Lemon; Coffee.

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. baking soda
Florence's thrifty trick. So I made up a new Banana Muffin recipe and I am proud of it.

BANANA MUFFINS
(12 — These freeze)

1 egg, ad vanilla. Stir to mix.
¼ cup All Bran
¼ cup sour milk
1 cup mashed overripe bananas (nearly 3)
1 egg
¼ cup soft shortening
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tbsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¼ cup sugar

(If desired ingredients may be measured into separate bowls well in advance of meal-time then combined — see below.) Into mixing bowl measure All Bran, and add milk, mashed bananas, egg, shortening, and vanilla. Stir to mix. Over another bowl (or large sheet of wax paper) place sifter and sift through it the sifted flour, baking soda, baking powder, salt and sugar. If you have done these steps in advance about 40 min. before mealtime butter medium-sized muffin pans. Add dry ingredients to wet ones and stir to barely mix. Do not overstir muffin batter. Spoon with buttered muffin pans, filling almost full. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 25 min. Serve fresh from the oven.

Reader Says Exercise Form of Self-torture

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's time someone spoke out against exercise. Yes, you heard me. Exercise is the most overrated and fraudulent form of self-torture ever perpetrated upon the human race.

ANN LANDERS

Last week I attended a convention. One of my good friends broke his ankle jogging in his hotel room. Another told me his wife was in the hospital with a fractured hip. I asked if she fell. "Oh, no," he replied, "She was doing her daily exercises and suddenly something gave."

Within the past five months, I have lost three buddies, all under 50. One dropped dead on the golf course and the other two were inveterate tennis players.

I get all the exercise I need acting as pallbearer for friends who were hipped on weight control and physical culture. Set the public straight, will you, Annie, old girl? — FATSO WHO HOPES TO LIVE TO BE 100.

* * *

DEAR FATSO: Every now and then the papers print a story about someone who choked to death eating a piece of steak. You haven't given up steak because of it, have you? Well, the examples you have cited add up to approximately the same thing.

Proper exercise never killed anybody, but the lack of exercise has put a good many people in their graves. I agree that a person who is not accustomed to exercise should not take up squash at 50. Sensible exercise for people over 40, however, is vital to the circulatory system. A physician can tell you how much exercise and what type is best for you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I married my husband three years ago I knew he would have to pay support for an out-of-wedlock child. We are both intelligent people, college graduates, and I was sure this unfortunate incident would not mar our marriage.

Norm made it clear from the outset that the child was not his but he was accepting the responsibility because he felt sorry for the girl and it seemed like the Christian thing to do. Also he didn't want to risk a lawsuit because of the hurt it would cause his aged parents.

We now have a son of our own and every penny counts. I resent the $40 a month Norm sends to support a child who is not his. Both my in-laws died this past year and now I feel there is no reason for my husband to be bled by an unscrupulous girl. Don't you agree that Norm should deny that he is the father and put an end to the racket? — DEPRESSED.

* * *

DEAR D.: Sorry, now is not time for such a denial. I'm reasonably certain your husband wouldn't do well with this new story in a court of law. Since you agreed to accept the situation when you married him, keep your word and consider the $40 a month the price Norm must pay for an old mistake.

Results of Creative Hobby

Some of the unlimited possibilities of decorative tube painting are illustrated by (left), Mrs. E. C. Karkheck, Ontario District Sales Manager of Cameo Hobby Products Ltd., and (right) Mrs. Dorothy Finkle, both of Belleville. A biblical scene, (centre), orchids on black velvet (left) and a tablecloth (right) are just a few of the countless items that can be designed.

Decorative Tube Painting Is Fascinating Hobby

By Staff Reporter
LINDA GELDART

Embroidery enthusiasts should know, if they don't already, that their hobby has been channelled to meet new horizons.

How? Head-on, with a paint tube, of course.

Actually, "decorative tube painting" is the term for this new offshoot of an old form of sewing artistry. If the whole thing sounds complicated and difficult, you've got the wrong idea completely.

The main difference between paint tube embroidery and thread or floss embroidery is that a six-inch paint tube acts as a substitute for thread. The actual design or transfer is placed on the material in the same manner — with a hot iron. From this point on, it is simply a matter of holding the tube upright and painting.

Sound simple? It is.

The paint tubes, which cost about $1.10 each, cannot be purchased in stores; and the operation is run on a party basis. Regular "painting parties" are held throughout the district, where interested individuals can see how it is all done.

Mrs. Dorothy Finkle, of 34 Frank St. Belleville, is the woman to talk to when it comes around to decorative tube painting. After being an avid embroidery "painter" for more than three years, she said she wasn't satisfied until she got all the paints. But, she added, "I still like it as much as the day I bought it — and I wanted to show other people just how easy it was."

The whole paint tube idea was the brainchild of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hope of Toronto, who introduced it into Canada. The company, Cameo Hobby Products Limited, will be one year old in April of next year.

Mrs. E. C. Karkheck, Ontario District Sales Manager, told of the recent Cameo conference held at the Skyline Hotel in Toronto. The purpose was to teach the correct way to use the paints; as well as to answer various questions and give more information on the topic.

Mrs. Karkheck revealed that she became interested in the idea when she saw a paint tube display at the CNE. After being unable to buy it, and then after attending several painting parties herself, she began to sell and show the paints to others. She emphasized that anyone could sell them, or for that matter, have a "paint party."

All over Canada, there are approximately 600 persons involved in selling Cameo paints. In Belleville and area, there are about seven people active in this endeavor. Mrs. Karkheck admitted that even to try to estimate the number of persons actively engaged in this hobby would be next to impossible.

Anyone in the 10 to 90 age group would get great enjoyment and relaxation out of this type of embroidery, "because this hobby is so practical — and you don't have to be creative," related Mrs. Karkheck.

The use of the paints is not restricted to merely decorative purposes. There are practical ones, too. Marking laundry or children's names on boots; the applications are almost limitless. The paints are the type that dry instantly and can be washed or bleached — all within 24 hours.

The response to decorative tube painting in the Belleville district has been very good. "Once the paint has proven itself, then that is the beginning of all-out support for the product," Mrs. Karkheck said.

Not only linens can be decorated, but glassware, shoes, dresses — almost anything. The fact that the range of colors are so varied also provides a limitless possibility of what an individual, who is artistically inclined, can do. The tip of the tube can be removed, and the paint applied with a brush to result in a true "artist's touch."

Mrs. Karkheck summed it up quite well when she said simply, "this hobby is excellent for those who are convalescing, the handicapped — anyone who wants a relaxing and rewarding occupation."

The organization is all over Canada at present, and expanding constantly. At the painting parties that are held, the two people involved are the hostess and the instructor. It is the hostess who opens her home to "interested future "painters" and the instructor, who is franchised by the company to sell, who explains and demonstrates the correct method of embroidery and gives out samples.

This worthwhile enterprise is used in hospitals, schools and centers for the handicapped. Although only a fledgling hobby from the point of view of time, it has travelled a long way.

Its many uses and potential for the creative utilization of spare time can only mean a great future for this unique hobby, as well as providing genuine satisfaction and enjoyment to thousands of people all over Canada.

Rhodesia Seems to Intend to Become Republic

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Rhodesia today appeared to be steering toward its most dramatic move since the 1965 seizure of independence from Britain—the declaration of a republic.

The governing Rhodesian Front party of Prime Minister Ian Smith proposed replacing the Queen as Rhodesian head of state with a republican leader in a constitutional blueprint announced Wednesday after weeks of secret meetings by party leaders.

The constitutional change still is only a suggestion, which Rhodesians will have a choice to approve or favore out in a referendum.

But Smith should have little difficulty in getting it robber-stamped by the special constitutional party congress scheduled to meet here in September.

The front's new plan would continued white-dominated rule in the foreseeable future. It was clearly a firm step to the right that seemed sure to dampen down most criticism of Smith's "soft" policies from the party's far right.

Although it did provide for a continuing Negro share in government, there was no mention in the plan of eventual white-black parity, as ideal as: forward in a draft constitution recommended in April by a government commission.

Most political observers saw the plan as weakening the slender remaining chances of a negotiated settlement with Britain, but the Rhodesia Herald newspaper saw some hope it did not slam the door on future talks.

It said that although British Prime Minister Wilson would not view the proposals favorably he might be persuaded to reopen negotiations on them.

In an editorial headed "still one eye on Britain" the paper said: "The retention of the African strength in the legislature should be regarded as a victory for sweet reasonableness in the party. . . . No one should underestimate the pressures Mr. Smith must have been under to cut back on African representation."

In the first phase of the new constitution, there would be a Senate of 23 members—10 Negroes, 10 whites and three nominated persons. In a lower house of 65, 15 would be elected from the common roll and could be people of any race, and 15 would be Negroes.

After five years, three provincial councils—one European, one Mashona and one Matabele, the two major Negro tribal groups—would be set up but Parliament would remain overlord, controlling internal affairs, defence, finance, security, and law and order.

Hi-jacked Passengers Are Returned to Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fifty-six passengers back from a hi-jacked airliner flight to Cuba joined in a hasty cheer Wednesday night when they landed on U.S. soil in a plane chartered by the state department for their return trip.

Crew members said the man who commandeered a National Airlines DC-8 jet with gun and fake grenade stayed behind on the island.

Airline officials said the hijacker boarded National's flight 1064 to Miami in Los Angeles, giving his name as "Herman Gandes."

Melton Hamilton of Houston, Tex., said the only passengers the Cubans interrogated directly were U.S. servicemen.

The hijacker took command of the plane over Texas after a stop in Houston. Stewardess Kathleen Dickinson of Coral Gables, Fla., acted as an interpreter for the gunman.

She said he told her: "Fidel has indicated to me that I've got to go back to Cuba any way I can."

Capt. Sidney L. Oliver of Miami, the pilot, said the man threatened to explode a hand grenade and brandished a wrapped object. But in Havana, Oliver said, the hijacker made a big show of unwrapping his hand grenade. It was a can of shaving lotion.

After the Houston stop, when the hijacker went onto the flight deck and ordered a change in course, Capt. Oliver persuaded him there was insufficient fuel to reach Havana. The gunman permitted a 10-minute stop in New Orleans—the intended second stop on the flight—for refuelling. The next landing was at Jose Marti Airport on the outskirts of Havana.

Cuban authorities released the DC-8 jet, but held the passengers, claiming the runway was too short to permit the loaded craft to take off.

The seven National crew members flew to Miami while the passengers were driven to the former Havana Hilton hotel.

At 7:22 p.m. Wednesday the 56 passengers were driven to Veradero Airport in two buses and put aboard a propeller-driven plane for the return flight.

Tito, Romania Back Czechs

PRAGUE (AP) — The split in European communism over liberalization in Czechoslovakia is growing deeper.

With the Soviet Union and four apprehensive allies demanding that the new leaders of the Czechoslovak Communist party reverse their liberal course, leaders of two other Communist nations and of the French Communist party were reported coming to Prague to show support for the new reform leadership.

Sources in Belgrade disclosed plans to visit Prague by Yugoslav President Tito, who has taken his country along an independent course since he broke with Stalin in 1948, and Romanian Communist Leader Nicolae Ceausescu, who has been increasingly defiant of Kremlin control.

The Prague government announced that French Communist party chief Waldeck Rochet will arrive Friday. Rochet, along with an Italin Communist delegation, has been in Moscow to urge that the Czechoslovaks be left alone to develop their own policies.

This position clashes with that taken at a conference in Warsaw Sunday and Monday by the Communist leaders of the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria. These leaders, especially those from East Germany, Poland and the Soviet Union, fear developments in Czechoslovakia might heighten rebellious ferment in their countries.

A letter from the conference told the Czechoslovak leadership it no longer was a master for Czechoslovakia alone when "alien forces lead your country off the path of socialism . . . and expose Czechoslovakia to the danger of being led astray from the Socialist community."

The letter, distributed Wednesday by the Hungarian news agency MTI, demanded the regime of Alexander Dubcek, the Czechoslovak party's new leader, re-establish firm control over liberals and the press, which has gone uncensored in recent months.

The letter said the Communist leaders were not attempting to interfere with Czechoslovakia's internal affairs or with the planning and management of the national economy. But it charged that the Czechoslovak party and people apparently had failed to answer counter attacks against the Communist system launched since liberalization began.

Despite the pressure to change, Dubcek's regime said Tuesday the liberalization would continue, with the full support of the Czechoslovak people.

Land Development Tax Urged by Municipalities

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's select committee on the report of the Ontario committee on taxation was urged Wednesday to recommend a land development tax to the government.

A joint brief from the Ontario Municipal Association and the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves said a land development tax could ensure better urban planning, protection for farmers near cities and funds for servicing suburban subdivisions.

The tax would be paid by developers, the brief said, and would reconcile a basic principle of the Smith report on taxation abolishing preferential tax treatment for any property owner.

Farms now are assessed differently from other properties, with the sale value "for farming purposes" a main consideration. If sale value were defined as the market price, farms near urban centres would be assessed at a higher rate because of the demand for development land.

The municipal brief Tuesday recommended that all properties be assessed at their "actual current value," that farmers pay tax on 50 per cent of the assessed value and that their business tax exemption be continued.

Farmers have claimed that the Smith report's recommendations would increase their taxes four or five times.

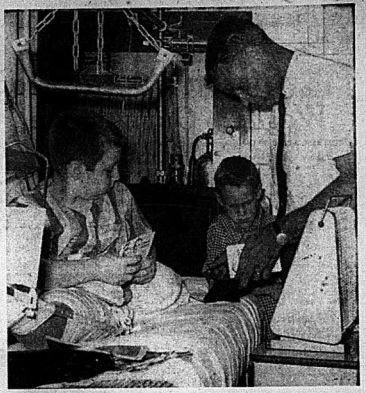
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1968

Howe Was Here!

For him, it was a routine, if weather-perfect day; but for the Belleville dozens that bashfully clamored to get a glimpse of Gordie Howe it was a scrapbook and souvenir affair.

The man who unassumedly wears the title of the greatest hockey player ever sidled through the city yesterday as part of a cross-Canada promotion tour for the Eaton Stores chain.



But if it was business as usual for Gordie, it was a "There he is" event for the Detroit Red Wing star's fan following.

From the instant the 22-year National Hockey League veteran stepped from an Otter seaplane in Belleville's harbor, they clutched for his autograph, waved "Hi, Gordie" from the sidewalks like old friends, and asked him to pose with junior for the Polaroid.

In less than two hours he managed to give Mayor J. Russell Scott an impromptu lesson in handling a hockey stick, pass out 300 autographed pictures, delight the children's ward at Belleville General Hospital, and even catch the eye of a few admiring young ladies.

A busy day? "We're about half through" an assistant panted at 4 o'clock.

Color Nancy's pocket-book green.

Scarcely stopping for a backward glance at her amateur triumphs, Canada's skiing darling from Rossland, B.C. has started to capitalize on her fame as the best woman slalom artist in the world.

The "Tiger of the slopes" will soon be the "Impala Imp" or the "Firebird filly," having signed a contract with General Motors to promote that company's auto products.

And who can blame her. At 25, Nancy Greene has, if not a lifetime of skiing competition, then at least more than enough successes behind her to satisfy two careers.

Her pair of Olympic medals this winter, her second straight World Cup win, six Canadian and three U.S. Women's championships — all these were fought for and attained with satisfaction Nancy's sole reward.

But she's passed out of that sphere now, graduated from amateurism's school of hypocrisy.

For Nancy, there will be no more codes like those that tarnished her triumphal return home from Grenoble by the scrutiny of a wristwatch gift from an admiring hometown jeweller.

"No," came the official verdict after perusal of the dog-eared regulations of amateurism, "we guess she hasn't jeopardized her status, after all."

Nancy maintains she has retired from competitive life because she has accomplished all she set out to do.

We wonder if her decision would have been the same if so-called "amateur" rulings were made a little more practical, in a day when some country's "amateur" athletes are full-time state employees.

EOBA Play

Kingston Srs. Break Season-Long Joyce Jinx

By JERRY HOFF
Staff Sportswriter

In three EOBA games this season, the defending provincial senior champion Kingston Centennials had been dropped by Belleville's Joyce Realtors. Wednesday night, to the tune of 8-6, the Kingston nine took revenge.

In the game's auto - plot, EOBA leading batter Guy White of Kingston connected for a triple in the eighth to fatten his batting average while Joyces' catcher Larry Mavety, number two league hitter, went hitless in four at bats.

For the Joyces, the loss was the second in three games in the last five days.

The problem for the locals came in the first four innings when, to put it bluntly pitchers Randy Castellerin and Rodger Hunter were bombed.

Kingston picked up four of their eight runs on four hits, including a homer by Clyde Harris, in the first four frames before the Joyces' Joe Hasting took the mound in the fifth.

The Joycet picked up two runs in the first four innings from Kingston hurler Keith Weese, then went ahead 5-4 in the fifth with three runs on three hits while Hastings held the visitors hitless and scoreless.

The latter three Joyce runs included a pair of RBI's by Joyce shortstop Gary Goyer who slammed a triple to score Hastings and centre-fielder Ralph Plane. They were the only earned tallies scored by the locals.

The other Joyce score came in the sixth when third sacker Moe Hunter copped a single, was sacrificed to second by Craig Rump, then stole third and came home on the catcher's overthrow to third.

On the play, Hunter jammed his hand into the third base bag buckle and was then taken to hospital for treatment.

The Centennials came up with two runs in the sixth to square matters 6-6 going into the seventh.

In that fatal inning, the Kingston nine picked up the two winning runs with Joyces' hurler Hastings giving up a single, then walking a man to put runners on first and second.

With two out, Kingston right fielder Elwin Watts collected two RBI's with a single that scored Jim MacDonald and Brian Coffey for the winning 8-6 margin.

Weese for Kingston saw the Joyces pick up four unearned runs in their total of six on eight hits while walking one and fanning ten.

Top Joyce hitters were Goyer with a triple and a single, with his two RBI's, and Hunter with a double and a single.

Plane, Hastings, John McKibbon and Craig Rump collected singles for the losers.

Ron Earl and Clyde Harris led the Centennial batters with three RBI's each while Elvin Watts had two.

Last night's loss left the Joyces in top spot in the EOBA, but whittled their record to 9-4.

Gibson's 10th Straight Washed Out Against Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Gibson's bid for a 10th straight pitching triumph was rained out Wednesday night.

Gibson and St. Louis Cardinals were leading 6-0 when rain halted play before San Francisco Giants could bat in the fifth inning.

The postponement left the Cardinals riding a six-game winning streak while their National League lead mushroomed to 10 games—thanks to Houston Astro' win over runner-up Atlanta Braves.

Southpaw Danny Coombs snapped Atlanta's seven-game unbeaten streak with a 3-2 victory, his first of the season.

Jeff James, meanwhile, pitched Philadelphia Phillies to a 2-0 victory over Chicago after the Cubs had run their winning string to five with an 8-4 conquest in the doubleheader opener. James, a rookie right-hander, scattered four hits on the way to his first major league shutout.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati Reds ended a seven-game tailspin by whipping Los Angeles Dodgers 7-4 and Pittsburgh Pirates split with host New York Mets, beating the Mets 8-2 in the first game before bowing 5-4.

Gibson could have picked up his 13th victory in 18 decisions by retiring the Giants in the fifth. But the thunderstorm left the St. Louis ace three outs away from an official game.

Coombs, making his first start this year, checked the Braves until the eighth when he got relief help from John Bunhardt.

The 26-year-old pitcher, who contributed a two-run single in Houston's four-run sixth, allowed seven hits and barely missed going the distance for the first time in his checkered five-season career.

James, also 26, stroked his first hit in the...majors, a run-scoring single that capped Philadelphia's three-run second inning burst in the nightcap. Home runs by Don Lock, Johnny Callison and Cookie Rojas eased the young hurler's path to his third victory in six decisions.

Ernie Banks slugged the Phillies in the opener, driving in six runs with a pair of homers that helped Bill Hands bring his pitching mark to 9-2. The Cubs' Glenn Beckert hit safely in both ends of the doubleheader, extending his hitting streak to 23 games.

Mack Jones' pinch hit double in the eighth inning knocked in two runs, snapping a 4-4 tie and carrying the Reds past the Dodgers.

Reliever Ted Abernathy, for whom Jones hit, picked up his seventh victory against one loss.

It was the Dodgers' 12th setback in their last 14 games.

The Mets overcame a 3-2 Pittsburgh lead with a three-run rally in the sixth inning of the nightcap, an error by shortstop Jose Pagan opening the gates. And snapped a six-game losing streak.

The Pirates cuffed rookie standout Jerry Koosman in the first game.

Maury Wills doubled, tripled and scored twice and Willi Stargell blasted his 15th homer as the Pirates knocked out Koosman in the third inning.

Steve Glass, given an early 4 0 lead, breezed to his sixth successive victory for a 7-3 season record.

Nixon Avenges Trade From Twins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Russ Nixon got even with the team that dropped him when Boston Red Sox clubbed with Minnesota Twins Wednesday night.

Nixon, a former Minnesota catcher, came through with a tie-breaking three-run pinch double in the ninth inning as the Sox edged the Twins 6-5.

It was the first appearance of the season for the veteran catcher, just brought up from the minor leagues.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland Athletics edged Detroit Tigers 3-2, Chicago White Sox swamped Baltimore Orioles 10-0, Cleveland Indians downed California Angels 4-2 and Washington Senators tripped New York Yankees 2-1.

Nixon went to spring training with the Twins, for whom he batted .235 last year, but was released two days before they broke camp. The Red Sox signed him for their Pittsfield, Mass., farm club.

"Sure it felt good," Nixon said. "I wanted to get that hit for us and I wanted to get it against this club. Every club I talked to told me they'd have wanted me if I'd been released earlier. But everybody had roster problems by that time."

Nixon connected off Ron Perranoski after the Red Sox had loaded the bases against Al Worthington on Rico Petrocelli's double and two walks. The Twins came back with two in the bottom of the ninth.

The White Sox literally balked Baltimore's attempt to chop another game off Detroit's league lead. A controversial balk call in the fourth inning gave Chicago the only run of the game.

Tom McCraw opened the inning with a single, one of only three hits the Sox got in the game. He stole second, took third on a wild pitch and scored when the umpire called a balk on Tom Phoebus.

That ended the Orioles' seven-game winning streak and gave Earl Weaver his first loss in seven games since taking over as manager.

Rick Monday's two-run homer in the first inning and a game-saving throw by Reggie Jackson in the seventh highlighted Oakland's win over Detroit. It was the Tigers' fifth loss in seven games since the All-Star break. Chris Cannizzaro doubled with two out in the seventh and Mickey Stanley singled. But right fielder Jackson fired the ball to catcher Dave Duncan, who tagged McAuliffe out.

Larry Brown stroked three singles and batted in three runs as Cleveland downed California. The victory was the Indians' fourth straight and enabled them to move into a virtual second-place tie with Baltimore.

Cowan Keeps Role as Favorite

TORONTO (CP) — A pair of two-under-par 67s gave two men the lead today as play began in the second round of the Ontario amateur golf championship.

The rounds Wednesday left Kitchener's Gary Cowan, Ontario Open champion, deadlocked with Jim Neale of Burlington in the 140-man field playing over the 6,770-yard, par 71 course at Scarborough Golf and Country Club.

Cowan had six birdies but was one over par on two holes and two over on the par-four seventh which he three-putted.

Neale was par on 16 of the holes and had birdies on the other two.

One-under-par 70s for second place were registered by Jim Dollan and Don Hewson of Scarborough and John Ellison of Toronto Islington.

Tied at even par were Dale Mackness, Galt; Dave Allewell, Owen Sound; Bill Gross, Kitchener, and Eric Hanson, Toronto.

Cowan's 69 gave him an unbeatable lead in the 72-hole race for berths on Ontario's four-man Willingdon Cup team, which consists of the four low aggregate scorers for the first two rounds of the Ontario Open and the first two rounds of the Amateur.

Cowan is 10 shots ahead of Ellison at 206 for the 54 holes played so far in the competition for the Willingdon Cup tournament at Edmonton, Aug. 5 and 6.

The lineup for the Willingdon Cup team has Cowan, 204; Ellison, 214; Ben Kern, Cooksville who shot a 75 Wednesday, 215; Peter Hutchison, Dundas who also shot a 75, 216; Hanson and Allewell at 217; Gus Blair, Toronto, Siu Hamilton, Brampton, and Neale at 218.

Wednesday's play took its toll of prominent provincial golfers. Nick Weslock, six-time winner of the Amateur, came in with a 75 and the Morland brothers also shot a 75. Dave Morland had an 80 and his brother Bill, 76.

After today's second round the field will be cut to the low 60 and ties.

Cheesemen Win Duel For 4th Over Point Anne

Black Diamond Cheese burler Sonny Holoway got back into his two - hit groove last night at the Alemite, throwing a neat 4-0 Commercial League softball win against Point Anne.

The win broke a deadlock between the two teams for the league's fourth and final playoff spot, giving the Cheesemen a 16-14 point edge on eight wins and nine losses.

It also kept the winners two points back of third - place Stinson's Construction, who were idle last night.

Holoway struck out 10 Point Anne batters, and walked four in hurling his two - hitter, his third or fourth this season.

The Cementmen had him in a jam in the second inning, when they counted both their hits—singles by left - fielder Ted Walte — and shortstop Ted Walte — and all three of their runs. The two hits and a pair of free passes by Holoway led to the Point Anne scoring.

The Cheesemen had taken a 2-0 edge in the initial frame, on consecutive singles by leadoff man Gene Francis and catcher Don Wood, a double by first - sacker Jack Francis, and a Point Anne error.

Trailing 3-2 going into the bottom of the fourth, Black Diamond squared things on singles by right - fielder Rick Denard and Holoway.

The winning fourth tally came the next inning, when Cheesemen Jack Francis collected his second hit of the night, and scored on a single by shortstop Dwight Rathwell.

Ted Walte took the Point Anne loss, being tagged for eight hits, while fanning one and not issuing a walk.

The Francis brothers — Gene and Jack — led the Cheesemen plate attack with a pair of safeties each.

No One Attends Funeral of Child, Diphtheria Victim

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — No one came to the funeral of diphtheria victim Barbara Iles Wednesday.

As Rev. Roderick Macdonald said prayers beside the five-year-old's grave her family was still under quarantine in its London home and 450 more adults and children went to clinics in case they had contracted her disease.

Barbara died in London's Victoria Hospital about 18 hours after being admitted. An autopsy confirmed diphtheria was the cause of death.

The Iles family is under quarantine until at least Friday and Mr. Iles has been ordered not to let anyone into his home.

Chatham Boy, 18, Killed in Vietnam

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — An 18-year-old Chatham youth who achieved his biggest ambition when he joined the Marines on his 17th birthday has been killed in action in Vietnam.

Steven Joseph Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Scott, died aboard the USS Tripoli last Sunday as a result of a wound received earlier that day in Thua Thien Province.

A telegram to his parents said he sustained multiple shrapnel wounds.

Mrs. Scott said Wednesday Steven pleaded with his parents to sign his enlistment papers on his 17th birthday.

"He wanted to go real bad," she recalled, saying they agreed when he did not change his mind after a period of reconsideration.

Arrangements are being made to ship his body home, and military rites are planned in Chatham.

FBI Will Get Ray In England Today

LONDON (Reuters) — A British court today cleared the way for the extradition of the alleged assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to the United States when the prosecution dropped the charges on which he was arrested in Britain.

Police were expected to hand over James Earl Ray—now being held in Wandsworth top-security prison in London—to FBI agents later today.

The home office said extradition papers to send Ray to Memphis, Tenn., to stand trial were expected to be signed today. King was shot in Memphis.

Press reports said a plane was standing by at a U.S. Air Force base in Britain ready to take Ray—charged here under the name of Ramon George Sneyd—back to the United States.

At a brief hearing this morning at London's Bow Street magistrate's court, the prosecution offered no evidence against Ray and the charges were dismissed.

The charges were using a forged Canadian passport, under the name of Ramon George Sneyd, and carrying a loaded gun for which he had no licence.

Policy Revision by Quebec Liberals May Cut Pressure for Special Status

QUEBEC (CP) — The provincial Liberals this weekend launch a program of policy renewal that could diminish the strength of the party's most determined special status seekers and strengthen the leadership of former premier Jean Lesage.

Oppaition Leader Lesage Wednesday announced that he and other leading party figures will travel across the province consulting Quebec Liberal Federation members at nine regional policy meetings.

Central feature of the consultation program, starting in Rimouski Saturday and ending here Sept. 15, is a new survey aimed at finding out how strongly party members feel about the constitutional issue.

The opinion survey, whose results will be available only to the party leader, could strengthen Mr. Lesage's case that the people are more interested in bread-and-butter matters than constitutional questions.

Such a result would enable Mr. Lesage, a moderate on the constitutional question, to exercise greater authority over the party's radical constitutional thinkers such as former education minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie's growing influence within the party was reflected by adoption within the caucus of a party constitutional committee report urging special Quebec status within a confederation renewed by a new constitution.

At the federation's annual meeting last year, when former cabinet minister Rene Levesque quit the party, members rejected "separatism in all its forms" and endorsed special status for Quebec. Mr. Levesque now leads the separatist Movement Souverainete-Association.

A special constitutional conference was to have been held in June, 1967, preceded by regional meetings, to define special status based on a study of what became known as "the Gerin-Lajoie report."

But this conference was cancelled when the federal Liberals announced plans to hold the leadership conference that brought to power Pierre Elliott Trudeau, a celebrated critic of special status.

And during the federal leader's successful general election campaign, that won him 56 of Quebec's 74 federal seats, most Liberal MLAs publicly endorsed Mr. Trudeau in spite of the conflicting constitutional views.

The Gerin-Lajoie report will be studied during the regional consultation program along with six other topics, including education, cultural affairs and agriculture, to be discussed at the federation's annual meeting in Montreal Oct. 4-6.

But Mr. Lesage noted that the constitutional questionaire, a sort of internal referendum on the constitution, is not based on the special status report, but "is much more general."

The questionnaire goes beyond existing party policy to ask if Quebec should have a special status (statut particulier) within fcederation or if it should be "a province like the others."

Among other things, the questionnaire asks Liberals how they rate the importance of the following issues:

Education, special security, economic development, the constitutional problem.

Strike Leaders

Quebec Liquor Stores Strike May Continue for Six Months

MONTREAL (CP) — Acting Premier Maurice Bellemare was pessimistic Wednesday on the duration of the strike by Quebec Liquor Board employees that started June 26, saying it possibly could last six months.

"I persist in believing it's going to be a long strike," he told a news conference in Quebec City. "The two parties don't even want to meet each other."

The liquor board and the 3,000 striking employees, whose unions are affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, are "diametrically opposed," said Mr. Bellemare.

After a talk with government mediator Gilles Laporte, Mr. Bellemare had the impression "the strike can last six months."

Earlier, in Montreal, Jean-Paul Lalancette, chief negotiator for the striking employees seeking higher wages and a new collective agreement, said management "is willing to pay" but interests close to the Quebec government are preventing a settlement.

He told workers at an information meeting that a government "gang" has been fixing salary norms for QLB employees, hydro workers, teachers and hospital workers and refuses to budge from these norms.

The "gang" allegedly kept open certain positions in the QLB and hired some workers on a temporary basis for reasons of patronage.

Mr. Lalancette said Wednesday's meeting has been called to inform union members of the details in a union counter-proposal turned down by the QLB July 12 after only three minutes of consultation.

Demands in the counter-proposal were for a three-year contract retroactive to Nov. 1, 1967, providing for an immediate raise of 16.5 per cent, a further increase of 8.5 per cent in November, 1968, and a 6.5-per-cent increase in 1969.

The counter-proposal represented an 8.5-per-cent reduction in salary demands by the union which originally had asked increases totalling 40 per cent over three years.

The QLB offered a 15-per-cent increase over three years.

Current average weekly wage is $80.30.

Meanwhile, the Union of Quebec Municipalities has called on the provincial government to consider turning over control of liquor sales to municipal authorities.

Maurice Tessier, president of the union, said such a move would enable municipalities to increase their revenue and would result in smaller distribution costs and larger profits.

Seven New Cabinet Ministers In Newfoundland All Under 50

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The youngest was an youth as 67-year-old Premier Joseph Smallwood announced a revamped provincial cabinet here Wednesday.

"These youngsters will soon find out that the life of a minister of the Crown is no picnic," the premier told a news conference.

Involved in the major cabinet shuffle, one of the most extensive in recent years, were the resignations of three veteran ministers and the appointment of seven new ones.

All of the new ministers are under 50 and five of them are under 45. Youngest member of the cabinet in Newfoundland's history is William Rowe, 26, who was appointed minister without portfolio. Mr. Rowe, whose father Dr. F. W. Rowe, 56, is education minister, edged out Edward Roberts, new minister of welfare, for the title of youngest minister.

Mr. Roberts, former parliamentary assistant to Premier Smallwood, is 27. The senior member of the cabinet, executive council President L. R. Curtis, is 73.

Mr. Smallwood announced the retirement from the cabinet of Dr. James M. McGrath, minister of finance, Beaton J. Abbott, minister of municipal affairs, supply and housing, and C. Max Lane, minister of mines, agriculture and resources. All three will continue to sit in the house of assembly.

The new ministers are:

Captain Earl Winsor, 43, a former wireless operator and ship's master, member of the legislature for Labrador North, appointed minister of Labrador affairs.

Edward M. Roberts, 27, a lawyer and former parliamentary assistant to Premier Smallwood, White Bay North, minister of public welfare.

John A. Nolan, 37, radio and television broadcaster, St. John's South, minister of municipal affairs and supply.

William R. Callahan, 36, journalist and radio and television broadcaster, Port au Port, minister of mines agriculture and resources.

Gerald Hill, 49, manager of Confederation Life Insurance Company for Newfoundland, Labrador South, minister without portfolio.

William N. Rowe, 26, lawyer, White Bay South, minister without portfolio.

Stephen A. Neary, 43, former president of Newfoundland Federation of Municipalities and of the Newfoundland Federation of Labor, Bell Island, minister without portfolio.

Premier Smallwood said the three retiring ministers were leaving the cabinet for health reasons "and just plain weariness."

The new appointments also filled three previous vacancies created by the resignation of Charles R. Granger, John C. Crosbie and Clyde Wells.

Mr. Granger resigned in September, 1967, to become minister without portfolio in the federal cabinet. He was defeated in the June 25 federal election in the Newfoundland riding of Gander-Twillingate.

Mr. Crosbie and Mr. Wells resigned May 14 after a disagreement with Premier Smallwood over the economic policies of the government.

Toronto Man Charged With Triple Murder

TORONTO (CP) — An unemployed bakery deliveryman was charged Wednesday with bludgeoning to death his wife and three young daughters and piling their bodies in the basement below their dilapidated midtown flat.

Toronto homicide detectives charged 32-year-old Yves Roland (Maurice) Raymond with non-capital murder for the deaths of his 24-year-old wife, Victoria, and their daughters, Anne, 6, Cecile, 4, and Lucille, 4 months.

Hammers, knives and garden tools were strewn over the basement floor at 100 Granby St., a short, dirty avenue in a run-down neighborhood.

The family moved into the flat three weeks ago. They paid $100 a month rent. Mr. Raymond moved his family here from Timmins, Ont., to seek work.

He was laid off Tuesday by the bakery he had worked for as a driver.

Homicide detectives said Raymond was found sprawled near the bodies of his wife and daughters.

He was taken to Wellesley Hospital for treatment of apparent iodine poisoning and released late Wednesday morning.

On those days when it's so hot and muggy you can almost cut it with a knife, there's nothing to compare with the joy of driving home in an air conditioned car.

American Motors understands. That's why we put Kelvinator air conditioning into every Ambassador... free! Everyone should be cool.

The other manufacturers don't go along with us on this. They all want more for a car with a comparable air conditioning system.

	Ambassador	Ford	Chevrolet	Plymouth
Standard Equip. Air Conditioning?	YES	NO	NO	NO
Extra Cost of Air Conditioning	NIL	$394.	$458.90	$441.15

Well, we've led the industry before . . . in rustproofing . . . in compacts . . . in single unit construction. Now, it's air conditioning. Maybe some year they'll follow. Who knows?

In the meantime, though, you get two advantages. The sheer pleasure of driving an air conditioned car, plus the increase in trade-in value . . . just because your car is air conditioned.

On the way home from work tomorrow, stop in at an American Motors dealer and take a test drive in a cool one . . . a 1968 Ambassador. Then ask yourself: "Why should I suffer when I can get air conditioning free?" Why indeed.

Asthma Almost Always Allergy

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you have any information on the causes of asthma and what can be done? If a young person in her 20's has periodic occurrences, can it be the result of a childhood problem? — R. M.

Asthma, which can be such a burden to a person, is not as difficult to figure out as it appears to be, if you understand it. But many people don't. "Why do I wheeze?" they ask. While medication can help the person with asthma, it seldom solves the problem.

Why? Because, at the root of the problem when it afflicts a young person, asthma is almost always a matter of allergy. Allergies do as many things: it can cause hay fever and runny nose and eyes; it can cause digestive upset; it can cause itching; it may not cause all of these, but in different people, allergy can bring on quite different consequences.

With some people, allergy causes swelling and congestion of the airways. This congestion cuts down the ability to breathe — and the result is asthma.

It is just as well to keep in mind that, in the middle years and later, things other than allergy may be involved. There may, for one example, be cardiac asthma, in which the condition of the heart is an important factor.

But in the asthma that develops early in life, in childhood or even in infancy, look for allergy! It may be dust, pollen (trees, grass, weeds, etc.) plastic, some foods, or various fabrics. Or you name it. It may be a matter of a variety of things which touch off asthma attacks, and it is easier to find just one than it is to find several. But that's part of the problem of asthma; finding those allergens, and learning to avoid them, or having desensitizing treatment.

There is, however, another element almost always present in such cases — the emotions. Emotional tensions tend to trigger attacks as well. A child comes to dread these attacks of wheezing and struggling to get breath. That very dread builds more tension — and greater likelihood of more attacks.

A "childhood problem" does not of itself cause asthma, but it can, truly, make the problem worse as time passes.

Thus medicines which relieve congestion during an attack are useful in more ways than one. There is the direct help with breathing, but there is also the emotional reassurance that the attacks can at least be alleviated.

The child (or the adult) should make no use of these medications not just for immediate relief but to ease the tension of fearing an attack of wheezing.

Trying to weigh the comparative impact of the physical causes (allergies) and the emotional ones (tensions and "nerves") isn't easy. Maybe it isn't even important — so long as you learn to recognize that these emotional tensions are a very real part of the problem.

I am not saying that everyone with asthma should seek the help of a psychiatrist, but I am saying that psychiatric help can be useful for some patients if there are continuing tensions which can be eased by such treatment.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For July 19

Your birthday today: Unexpected but productive changes characterize the coming year. Your intuition sharpens — except in the foibles of friends and in romantic interests. Today's natives normally have exceptional patience with people and nature.

ARIES (Mar. 21 —Apr. 19): Today promises progress in human relations and development of good habits. Everything else is routine. Family situations improve with just a little effort.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): How you think through health-care improvements, spend the day presenting your ideas. Work for — not somebody will object before the day is out. You'll be invited to finish another day.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): The wisest course today is out of the middle of the confused situation; wait until things settle down. Remember that while some of your efforts are confidential, so are other people's.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Young people are apt to take up your attention today. Patience with the ideas of friends pays off better than usual. Time disproves their assumptions, anyway.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Count your private dismay. Go boldly seeking support. Your original plans, with few changes, turn out most feasible. Relatives are unlikely to be very consistent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Co-operation is everywhere but home. Some affairs move along slowly, but the advances gained are definite. Be ready this evening to respond to some emergency.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Arrival of mischievous people upsets your plans and habits. Pay attention not to what anybody says but only to what they do. An old friend, without understanding it, brings you a message.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Strangers are anxious to help spend your money. Your attentions are better u s e d in straightening out your home life or easing some longstanding bottleneck.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20, — Feb. 18): If you are going to decide things, do so quickly; if not, make it clear that decisions are postponed. Definite statements are essential to cut through the mental haze most people suffer today. Develop your property to improve its value.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): There are factors escaping your attentions today which ought to be part of every decision. Postpone matters and wait for better facts.

Crown Corporation to Employ Marine Pilots Is Recommended

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man royal commission has urged establishment of a Crown corporation to employ and supervise marine pilots in Canadian coastal and inland waters.

In a report made public by Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday night, the commission proposes that the corporation, to be known as the National Pilotage Board, determine and classify pilot services, create pilotage districts and appoint district authorities, and exercise general supervision.

But the commission also recommended complete administrative decentralization through local pilotage authorities.

Pilots guide ships in and out of harbors and anchorages. Under Canadian law, they cannot be crew members.

The pilotage board would be responsible to Parliament through a designated cabinet minister. This would remove the general formulation of policy and surveillance of operations from the transport department.

Technically self-employed, pilots are already "at least quasi-employees of the government," the commission said. They are "subject to discipline, including fines and suspension of licence, imposed directly by departmental action."

This situation has existed for many years, "causing endless administrative difficulties over questions such as the selection and licensing of pilots, pilots' discipline, pension arrangements for pilots, the nature and amount of pilotage dues to be charged in shipping and exemptions from the compulsory payment of these dues."

Often, attempts to resolve these difficulties had only complicated them.

The commission blamed the situation chiefly on inadequate laws. It "finds it strange that this state of affairs has been allowed to last for so long, instead of seeking from Parliament the necessary powers to control and administer the public service that pilotage has become."

Prime Minister Trudeau said the government plans swift action on the report. Most of the commission's recommendations "appear acceptable in broad terms."

The three-man commission, headed by Mr. Justice Yves Bernier, 51, of the Quebec Superior Court, was established by former prime minister John Diefenbaker in November, 1962.

The two other commissioners are R. K. Smith, 80, of Waterloo, Ont., and Parmboro, N.S., a retired chairman of the National Harbors Board and former member of Parliament for the old Nova Scotia riding of Cumberland, and H. A. Renwick, 73, of Vancouver, a retired lumber executive.

Mr. Trudeau said the government "intends to proceed quickly with preparation of the appropriate legislation." As a first step, a small group would be set up under the direction of the transport department "to launch an early review of the report."

The 180,000-word report made public Wednesday embodies the commission's findings and recommendations after two years of public hearings and a longer period of study and review.

There will be additional reports dealing with the local situation in various pilotage districts throughout Canada. They are expected to be completed within a year.

There are 355 pilots in Canada, 280 on the St. Lawrence River, 85 on the Great Lakes, 110 on the Atlantic coast and 80 on the Pacific coast.

As the royal commission sees it, the local pilotage district would remain the basic unit of organization. Authority would be entrusted in each district to a self-governing local public corporation that would be responsible to the proposed national pilotage board.

The new act should contain provisions of control for the protection of pilots, ships and the general public, the commission said. Licensing would be the essential factor in public administrative control. The new act would define basic minimum qualifications for licensed pilots.

Above all, it would need "to promote safety of navigation and the safe, speedy movement of ships."

The commission said existing pilot or pension funds should cease to be a responsibility of pilotage authorities, and "be disposed of in such a way as to respect and guarantee acquired rights."

When pilots became public servants, they would become eligible for extensive pension, health and welfare privileges.

FARLEY MOWAT

Farley Mowat Says He Saw Sharks in Lake Ontario

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — Large fish resembling sharks have been reported seen in Lake Ontario.

Sightings of the fish, said to be four feet long with six-inch dorsal fins, were reported Thursday by Farley Mowat, 47-year-old author who lives in this town on the Lake Ontario shore.

Fisheries experts are baffled. Some are skeptical.

Mowat said he and three other men saw the fish recently about half a mile from shore near Port Hope.

"The water was dead calm," Mowat said. "No one on board the schooner had seen anything like them in Lake Ontario so we steamed after them at seven knots.

"They were not aware of us until we were 100 yards away. Then they just submerged. They didn't dive like ordinary fish but sank out of sight like sharks."

"In Newfoundland I would have unhesitatingly identified them as small sharks. If they are, I am not surprised to see them up here. Sharks have been known to come up into rivers and lakes and DeVisser and I were convinced they were squid hounds (small sharks)."

Aboard the schooner with Mowat were John DeVisser of Toronto, a photographer with the National Film Board, Gerald Pointer of Port Hope, a yachtsman and former fisherman, and Rudy Pils of Port Hope, who takes care of Mowat's schooner, a 31-footer he purchased in Newfoundland and sailed back to Port Hope.

Mowat hit the headlines last year when he established himself protector of an 80-ton finback whale trapped in inland Newfoundland waters while chasing herring. The whale later disappeared, believed dead and submerged.

Eight construction workers at Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. reported seeing the strange fish Wednesday near the harbor here.

"We saw them a couple of times," John Senecal, one of the workers, said in an interview.

Senecal, familiar with carp, sturgeon, muskellunge and pike, said the fish he saw were none of these.

Ted Burridge, with the federal department of fisheries in Ottawa, said in a telephone interview that anything was possible although sharks are considered salt-water species. He said there are no authenticated records of sharks in Lake Ontario.

"But I wouldn't say this was impossible," he said.

Dr. Ian Sandeman of Trent University in Peterborough and Dr. Bev Scott of the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto suggested the fish might have been large carp or sturgeon.

Sharks are almost exclusively inhabitants of the sea but, as Encyclopedia Britannica notes, "some species enter the mouths of large rivers and one species . . . occurs frequently high up in the large rivers of India."

There are several species of sharks in Canadian, east, west and arctic coastal waters.

The "squid hounds" to which Mowat refers are not man-eaters.

To get to Lake Ontario, a shark would have to cover about 250 miles from water — plus five locks — in the St. Lawrence River and Seaway from Trois-Rivieres, Que. Salt water from the Atlantic ends at Trois-Rivieres.

Heat Wave Over Hip, Hurray, Skies Grey

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

Grey and gloomy skies never looked so good.

You could almost hear the sighs of relief across the Quinte district as cloud banks built up early today, ending a week-long weather ordeal of torturing heat.

And the weatherman made it official:

"It's the end of the heat wave — for now," predicted the duty forecaster at Canadian Forces Bases, Trenton.

The cooler air swept in from Northern Ontario as wind patterns changed, blowing out the furnace-like front of hot, humid weather that had gripped the Quinte area for a full seven days.

And, as a bonus, the cloud bank over the region deposited cooling rain showers throughout the early morning.

Temperatures began dropping — the normal high in the next few days should be about 80, declining to a comfortable low of 60 at night.

Best of all, humidity is out. Dry air is in.

The sudden change came none too soon for a citizenry rapidly running short of its cool as the heat wave peaked in recent days.

Temperatures hit highs of 88 along the Bay of Quinte shoreline. At Trenton, highs over 90 were recorded.

In Belleville, city water turned soupy as the mercury mounted.

Yesterday public utilities workers reported water temperatures at the city's filtration intake pipe reached 78 degrees.

Pressure on water supplies also mounted. Wednesday, as the city scorched, households used a 1968 record 7,700,000 gallons.

But as cooler weather swept into Southern Ontario, northwestern parts of the province were mopping up in the wake of severe thunderstorms which interrupted road and rail communications.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cooler less humid weather this morning bringing an end to the heat wave in southern Ontario. Temperatures near eighty this afternoon will be about ten degrees less than Thursday's readings. Sunny weather and seasonable temperatures can be expected Saturday. Some cloudiness will develop in northern Ontario during the afternoon and isolated thundershowers are possible by this evening. Saturday's weather should be almost the same as today's.

Mankind Now Independent Of God -- Philip

LONDON (CP) — Man's power to dominate nature has made him independent of God, Prince Philip says.

The development of such products and techniques as synthetic materials and spare-part surgery has put man in a dominant position over nature, he told the National Federation of Women's Institutes Thursday.

"It is not arrogant to say this," Philip told the conference. "It is realism.

"Of course the power of God is still needed to influence our ideas, but we are all responsible for the direct results of our actions."

Phone, Express Firms Swamped

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The postman didn't come Thursday for most Canadians and there is no definite word when the mail will again go through.

A coast-to-coast strike by 24,000 post office employees that started early Thursday effectively shut down all but a handful of 410 offices.

William Houle, co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, said as pickets marched across the country that "it appears everyone is out."

A post office spokesman agreed that "it's a pretty solid strike."

Substitute mailing operations sprang up across Canada, ranging from student letter-carrier operations in Edmonton to special airline shipments.

A department spokesman said the only post offices remaining open were at Clarendon, Nfld., Chandler and Coaticook in Quebec, Carleton Place, Ont., two offices in Manitoba, eight in Saskatchewan and possibly a few in Alberta.

The largest office still open appeared to be at North Battleford, Sask. He assumed the other open offices employed no union members.

Grain Handlers Talk at Lakehead

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Negotiations were to resume today to try to bring a quick settlement in a strike of Lakehead grain handlers which Thursday plunged the eastern flow of Prairie grain.

The walkout, legal since July 8, came hours before the company and union negotiators were to meet in their first session in eight weeks. They met for about seven hours and agreed to talk again today.

A spokesman for the 10 grain companies represented by the Lakehead Terminal Elevators Association expressed satisfaction with the initial meeting but hedged when asked if he thought a settlement was attainable by the weekend. He said, though, the strike action should not jeopardise the settlement prospects.

Czech Situation Tense

Pravda Says Arms Cached for Rebels

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda today claimed a cache of American-made arms destined for "revenge-seekers and supporters of the restoration of the old orders" was found in northern Czechoslovakia.

At the same time, another Pravda article alleged that a NATO plan was uncovered for the subversion of Czechoslovakia followed by a full-scale invasion.

The paper also said today it was becoming clear the key question now at stake is whether Czechoslovakia will remain a Socialist (Communist) country.

The paper, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, said Czechoslovak workers and Communists could rest assured the Soviet government and people are ready to give them "all the necessary help in defending socialist gains."

The report on the alleged arms cache said it was found by Czechoslovak security police on the road from Karlovy Vary (formerly Karlsbad) to the town of Cheb.

"According to informed journalists who quote witnesses from among the local inhabitants, pistols, sub-machine-guns and machine-guns, all of American manufacture, were seized," Pravda said.

"They were apparently delivered from the Federal Republic of Germany for Sudeten revenge-seekers and supporters of the restoration of old orders in Czechoslovakia," Pravda said.

The article on the alleged NATO plot said it was prepared by the Pentagon and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and was aimed at "undermining the Socialist community."

It claimed the documents had fallen into Soviet hands.

"They plan by ideological, political and secret subversive measures to shake the Socialist community, i.e. determine the unity of the Socialist countries and weaken their ability to give a rebuff to direct aggression," it declared.

The article, signed V. Ragulin and I. Chuikov, said the plot contained "concrete tasks" for the subversion of specific Communist countries, especially Czechoslovakia.

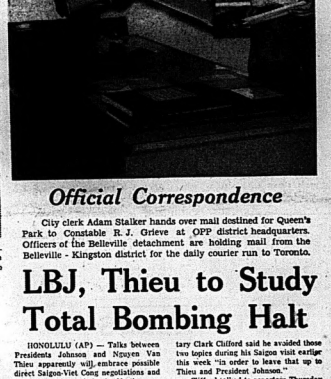
Won't Change Course-Dubcek

PRAGUE (AP) — Alexander Dubcek, the leader of Czechoslovakia's liberalization movement told his people Thursday his regime will not change course under Soviet pressure but "our road will not be easy."

"The people will not permit a return to the years and days," said Dubcek, who displaced Stalinist hard-liner Antonin Novotny as the Communist party chief at the start of the year and launched the so-called democratization movement.

Dubcek spoke on television after his regime had prepared a statement rejecting the demand of the Soviet Union and four orthodox Communist allies for reversal of the liberalization drive.

In a reminder to Moscow that Czechoslovakia does not stand alone, Dubcek in his speech said he was grateful for the support of "many fraternal parties"—meaning those in Yugoslavia, Romania, France and Italy.



She Slips On A Rind, Lands on Behind And It's Rumored the Poor Girl Lost Face

TORONTO (CP) — A woman reckoned without a chunk of watermelon rind when she tried a bicycle getaway Thursday after an attempted bank holdup.

Police said a woman jumped on a bike after rushing from an east end branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. She pedalled furiously down the street and then crashed to the ground as the bicycle's front wheel skidded on the rind.

Before she could get up she was caught by bank accountant George Hughes who vaulted the counter and gave chase. The woman fled the bank after a teller refused to give her money.

Mrs. Argentine Giroux, 28, of Toronto, has been charged with attempted robbery.

LBJ, Thieu to Study Total Bombing Halt

HONOLULU (AP) — Talks between Presidents Johnson and Nguyen Van Thieu apparently will embrace possible direct Saigon-Viet Cong negotiations and a total bombing halt in the North.

In advance of today's first formal meeting between the U.S. and South Vietnamese leaders here, Defence Secretary Clark Clifford said he avoided those two topics during his Saigon visit earlier this week "in order to leave that up to Thieu and President Johnson."

Clifford talked to reporters Thursday at Hickman Field as he waited with Johnson to greet Thieu's chartered airliner.

Sought to Deceive

Alexander Says He Tried To Pose as A 'Big Shot'

TORONTO (CP) — Vincent Alexander told a judicial inquiry into the conduct of two Toronto magistrates Thursday he attempted to deceive his associates into thinking he could fix court cases by referring to Magistrate Fred Bannon as "my man."

Alexander, free on bail pending trial on charges of breaking and entering, admitted he wanted to be a "big shot" by letting his associates know he knew a couple of magistrates.

Under cross-examination by Crown counsel Frank Callaghan, Alexander said Magistrate Bannon had never influenced the outcome of a court case.

Alexander, who has five convictions on charges ranging from shoplifting into theft, admitted that Magistrate Bannon had telephoned him last spring from Kitchener asking for a $1,000 loan.

"But I didn't give it to him because a little time later he didn't need it," Alexander said.

Alexander said he also referred to Magistrate George Gardhouse in conversations, but added that although he had known him for years, "I don't talk to him or see him that often."

Alexander said Magistrate Bannon got nothing for arranging a $10,000 third mortgage on Alexander's house a few days after it was placed as security for his $19,000 bail.

He said neither Magistrate Bannon nor Magistrate Gardhouse had ever influenced a court decision for him and added that he valued their friendship because it made him a big shot among his friends.

Alexander said he made his living "the best way I can — hustle around, I gamble a little, I invest in a little property."

Alexander was asked to explain the reference "this guy may want money," contained in a taped telephone conversation with Charlie Bagnato about getting light sentences for two convicted bookmakers.

He said he was just telling Bagnato a story to get some money out of him."

"I was referring to Magistrate Bannon, but I'm sure there wouldn't be any money changing hands there," Alexander said.

"You were giving the magistrate a pretty bad name," Mr. Justice Grant said.

"Yes sir, I was," Alexander replied.

Brennan's 'Pony Express' Provides Novel Postal Service

The pony express is riding again in the Quinte district.

Chief dispatcher and one of the drivers is Gerald Brennan, Belleville insurance adjuster, who organized the service himself in just a week's time.

Purpose is to move mail for agents and adjusters and anyone else connected with the insurance business. Premiums, policy-holders' cheques and all related correspondence is delivered to Toronto insurance company head offices from the eastern Ontario district.

The service is strictly a courtesy one, operated by Mr. Brennan at no charge to agents or the insurance industry.

"We serve the public," he says, "and this is one way we can do it best during the postal strike."

Mr. Brennan began arranging the service by long distance telephone calls a week ago when the strike seemed imminent.

The mail starts at Cornwall, is moved to Brockville, and sorted there for trans-shipment to Ottawa and Smiths Falls.

It continues by car from Brockville to Mr. Brennan's Kingston office and from there to Belleville.

Mr. Brennan takes over personally at Belleville, driving the mail to Toronto every Tuesday and Thursday.

He meets a courier on highway 28 at Port Hope and hands over the mail for the Peterborough district.

In Toronto, he drops the mail at the Continental Insurance Company at 55 Yonge St., the pick-up point for the Toronto area.

He gathers mail at the same office for the east-bound run, bags it and starts homeward over the same route.

"Our first run yesterday ran perfectly," Mr. Brennan says. "We will continue to operate twice a week until the strike is over, and will handle mail from any industry or business along our route that wants to use our service."

A similar system is in operation in western Ontario, enabling mail from that area to be channelled into Toronto and out again to eastern Ontario by the Brennan pony express.

The London Life Company has no need of the service.

For two or three years the company has operated its own courier system, offering daily service from London to Montreal.

Thurlow Council Discusses Regional Government Issue

A special meeting of Thurlow Township Council last night evolved into an elaborate discussion on the benefits and disadvantages of regional government.

The debate began as a result of questioning by two university students who throughout the summer months are canvassing councils on behalf of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council.

The purpose of the council visitations is to diagnose problems and learn the general situation and ideas of councillors.

The students, Roy Maddocks of Belleville and Al Thomson of Peterborough, have been surveying all of Hastings and seven other counties looking for "grassroots" ideas.

Replying to questions concerning regional government, councillors generally agreed that they didn't like the idea.

"The trend seems to be that the counties are becoming the preferred municipalities. The province would rather deal with larger areas", said E. M. Dafoe, clerk-treasurer of Thurlow.

"The local individual is being pushed away from his service."

Deputy reeve Paul Thurlow, D. B. Forsythe, had a similar impression. "We've got to get closer to the people. We've got to have a grassroot arrangement."

Mr. Dafoe continued, "people look to council to solve their problems, but our hands are tied by Toronto."

Mr. Maddocks and Mr. Thomson were surprised at the council stating that they felt it was the most outspoken of those they had interviewed. Others just grumble a little," Mr. Maddocks said.

Postal Strike 'Solid'

Negotiations in the dispute are adjourned until Sunday. Spokesmen said that during the break both sides will reassess their positions and consider developments across the country.

As striking workers from 400 union locals set up picket lines in front of post offices, Canada was in all walks of life turned to alternate means of communications.

Telegraph and telephone companies reported a near-frantic rush as companies and individuals attempted to get messages through.

In Toronto, Bell Canada, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Telecommunications recorded an increase of about 50 per cent over the amount of traffic handled on a normal day.

Elsewhere, companies in cities and towns near the United States border rented U.S. postal boxes and arranged for mail pickups and deliveries.

In British Columbia companies offering alternative methods of communication were so swamped with business that they had to call in more staff. People turned to the telegraph, telephone, air express, delivery truck, taxi and U.S. mail services.

B.C. Telephone Co. reported a 10 per cent increase in calls originating in the province while both CN and CP Telecommunications reported landslide increases in the number of messages and money wires.

Air Canada and Canadian Pacific Airlines said there was a big upsurge in the use of air express and air cargo services, and both expect it to get worse if the strike lasts.

Fresh supplies of U.S. stamps were rushed to Blaine, Wash., 20 miles south of Vancouver, where the U.S. post office was doing a roaring business from Canadians wishing to send letters abroad.

All across Canada companies began marking time on sending out bills while other organizations arranged for payments to be made through local banks.

The morale of picketing postal workers seemed high as Montreal workers sang in French and Ottawa strikers carried signs reading: "You'll wonder where the posties went if you still insist on air per cent."

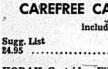
But in Winnipeg letter carrier Ken Corrigan echoed the feelings of many strikers who agree with the objectives of the strike, but nevertheless are not happy about it.

Strike Takes Toll -- Paper Won't Publish

PICTON (Staff) — Picton's first major victim of the postal strike will recover by Tuesday.

The Picton Gazette, the biweekly newspaper here, depends almost entirely upon mail service for distribution of its 5,000 circulation.

Dave Taylor, managing editor, explained that there wasn't enough time to organize drop-off locations for the issue that would have normally appeared today.



Next week however, papers will be delivered to various stores about the county and distributed there and at the Gazette office.

"It is a much more concrete and inconvenient method of delivery", said Mr. Taylor, but added "it is all that we can do".

"Out of the county' newspapers will be held and sent by mail following the strike".

She has gone from our home but not from our hearts.

OPP Turn Mailmen As Strike Continues

The first mail exchange of the Ontario Provincial Police courier service took place around 2 p.m. yesterday at OPP headquarters here.

Glenn Shaler, an Emergency Measures Organization driver from Toronto arrived at headquarters first, with mail from Smith's Falls for the district from Belleville to the Quebec border.

Const. Donald Eastop, OPP Const. Donald Eastop from the Long Sault OPP detachment arrived. He left Cornwall at 8 a.m. and dropped off mail at Brockville on the way.

The two men exchanged mail and left government letters and parcels for the Belleville to Kingston district with local OPP officers for sorting and distribution.

Government employees pick up their mail daily at headquarters.

The foyer of OPP headquarters has taken on the aspect of a sub-post office as mail piles up in the corner and government employees come and go with their agency's correspondence.

Deadline for "mailing" each day is 2 p.m.

Const. Eastop took off for his return trip to Cornwall with only four letters.

Conditions at OPP general headquarters in Toronto are chaotic, Mr. Shaler reported. Clerks pressed into service as mail sorters have yet to get the hang of the job, and the service was complicated by uncertainty at Queen's Park about the way the service functions.

"They'll have the bugs worked out by tomorrow and the service will really begin to function then," Mr. Shaler predicted.

Two employees of the energy and resources department in Kingston drove up looking for their pay cheques. Yesterday was the Ontario government employees' payday, and most workers received their cheques by mail Wednesday, before the strike began.

Cheques for the energy and resources department are held up in OPP general headquarters in Toronto, delayed by the mail sorting confusion.

The two men will continue their shuttle service every day except Saturday and Sunday for the duration of the strike.

Service Sorters

Mail may be halted by postal strike, but men of Royal Canadian Postal Corps are still busy at army mail centre in Belleville. With normal civilian mail routes immobilized the servicemen are operating courier service sorting and despatching defence department documents.

Retires From Postal Corps

Last Day Quiet for Major Wiens

For Major Ed Wiens of Belleville, there's a touch of irony to his retirement today as a veteran soldier.

He leaves one of the army's busiest command posts on one of its quieter days.

A member of the Royal Canadian Postal Corps, for the last three years he has been in charge of the army's main mail-sorting centre — the Canadian Home Postal Depot.

The depot, responsible for processing servicemen's mail from around the world, is located in a basement corner beneath Belleville's federal building.

Major Wiens said is responsible for a flow of letters that bulk up to 6,000 lbs. in an average month. Parcels and second-class mail add another 90,000 lbs.

Now the mail stream has been dammed, and as he clears his desk for the last time Major Wiens can see the reason from his first-floor office.

Outside, civilian postal workers pass the sidewalks, picketing the city's main post office in the second day of a nationwide strike.

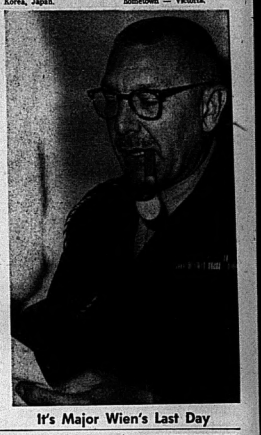
However, the major and his men reported for duty as usual today.

While the mail may not be going through, there is still work to be done at the depot.

With civilian mailing channels closed, the depot is now being used by the defence department as a contact centre with all service bases across Canada and overseas.

But, in actuality, it is no mail service, Major Wiens points out.

"What we're now operating is really a courier service for the department," he says.



The exchange of government documents is now arriving daily by truck from three points: Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto.

Sorted by postal corpsmen is then shipped out to Canadian Forces Base Trenton for air despatch across Canada and overseas.

The major's farewell to arms is unaffected by lack of mail facilities. Official confirmation of the date came through months ago.

It ends a career that started in May, 1940 and took the Major across Canada and around the world to Europe, Egypt, Korea, Japan.

With his wife, Dorothea and two children, he expects to leave early next month for the world to Europe, Egypt, Korea, Japan. British Columbia and his new hometown — Victoria.

It's Major Wien's Last Day

The Bugs Arrive -- Even With Strike

The Research Institute of Canada here is having a few minor problems as a result of the postal workers strike.

The major problem lies in the receiving of imported insects by mail. The imported varieties are usually flown to Toronto from where they are mailed to Belleville.

The strike may force the institute to travel to Toronto to pick them up, said a spokesman this morning.

"It depends upon the rail services — whether they're swamped or not," said Dr. J. S. Kelleher.

Still it isn't as serious as it could be. "We're close to the end of the busy season."

"According to Dr. Kelleher, the institute has told its "overseas people" to limit their exports to only the crucial needs of the researchers here.

"The only problem is a little extra labor, going up (to Toronto) to pick them up," said Dr. Kelleher.

Trenton Mailman Takes Day Off

TRENTON — Jim Reid is not working at the post office today, it's his day off, but he says he'll be crossing picket lines again on Saturday to continue working.

In an interview today Reid was asked why he was working.

"There seems to be a difference of opinion here, perhaps you had better speak to the union," he snapped.

After further questioning Reid maintained that he was a "legal right to go to work" as he is a letter carrier in a supervisory capacity.

"I have not spoken to any fellow employees except for Gerald Jackman," continued Reid.

Jackman is the president of local 91 in Trenton.

"We passed each other at the post office but didn't say anything except for passing comments on a fancy poster," said Reid.

He had nothing more to say except that "I have shown how I felt when I went to work here yesterday."

The union believes he has no right whatsoever to go to work.

Smoked Meat New Specialty

PICTON (Staff) — Smoked meat may be the specialty of the day at Corneyeas Meat Market here.

Fire in a meat locker there caused $200 to $300 damage yesterday said a fire department spokesman.

He said the locker door had been forced and that smoke ejectors were required to clear the store and basement of smoke.

The fire began in an electrical motor in the meat locker.

Telecommunications Busy -- Strike in Second Day

TRENTON — For some people the postal strike has brought overtime hours and 20 minute lunch breaks.

One of these is the telecommunications officer for Trenton.

Bill Reyea says "business has doubled since Monday." Bill, who handles both CNR and CPR wire services, stated that business began to snowball before the strike began as many saw the impending problems.

Overtime has become a regular thing now," said Bill, "and you learn to swallow fast in 20 minutes."

How is all this business being handled? What extra measures are being taken in this time of stress?

Bill said he was not allowed to comment on the situation and showed a message from the head office being circulated to all outlets.

It read, "If you receive any inquiries as to our plans for dealing with increases in messages your reply should be non-committal.

So in this area Bill says, "business is going as usual."

A spokesman for Colonial Coach Bus services here said "there has been a general increase in parcel delivery."

The increase has been noticed between Belleville and Trenton but this area is no higher than the others as he emphasized the increase to "be equal in all areas."

"It does make it rough on the drivers," continued the spokesman, "because it is hard to keep track of all the letters."

Trenton's two major taxi companies, Gould's and Graham's, say there has been no increase of parcel delivery in their area.

Telephones are also receiving a workout during the postal strike.

Bob Carleton, Bell Telephone manager in Trenton, said long-distance calls "are up 20 per cent since the strike began."

"We expect a 40 per cent rise in the near future," he said.

Mr. Carleton said employees are working overtime and on days off and holidays to keep up with the increased demand.

He also noted Bell offices are open to allow clients to pay their bills by cheque.

"I hope clients will understand the reason for a longer waiting period when placing calls," he said, "and will be tolerant — we're going all out to do our best."

Rural Post Offices Continue to Operate

Post offices in small centres through the district are continuing business as usual throughout the postal strike.

Well, not quite as usual.

Madoc post office is handling about 20 letters a day. Foxboro post office had one parcel on hand at 10 a.m. today, for delivery in Coe Hill.

The smaller post offices can operate because their staffs are in the supervisory category, and are paid by revenue received at the post-office.

Not being government employees in the strict sense, they are non-union.

Highway service between outlying post offices handled by independent truckers under tendered government contract. They will continue to operate as long as there is mail to be transported. Rural route carriers are in the same position.

However, none of the drivers will be paid for days on which there is no mail to deliver.

Yesterday, service at the smaller post offices was normal. Trucks carrying mail from Belleville and Picton were able to leave the post offices before the strike began at 9 a.m.

Today, mail in the outlying post offices had dwindled.

Local mail is moving between Foxboro and Bancroft, and on the Shannonville - Marysville - Deseronto run.

Mail is also moving from Bancroft to Maynooth, Madawaska Mills, Cardiff and Baptiste and points between.

In North Hastings, delivery of the local weekly newspaper will keep rural carriers on their runs today at least.

Power Failure Closes Plants

Plant production at manufacturing establishments in the south end of Belleville as well as at Canada Cement in Point Anne ground to a halt this morning due to a hydro interruption.

Power was cut off in south and east end Belleville for periods up to 37 minutes. At Point Anne the cement plant was shut down for about 20 minutes.

At Belleville General Hospital the institution's emergency stand-by unit was cut in for about one half hour to provide power for essential services such as elevators, operating rom and exit lights.

Power was also off at Delcro Steline, Eaton Carbide, Stephenson Adamson and most of south Belleville south of Dundas Street and east of the river.

The Intelligencer and CJBQ radio station were also effected by the cut-off.

Belleville Utilities Manager E. L. Burnham said their phones almost rang off the wall and office staff was queried about the power shut-off.

But the trouble was on an Ontario Hydro 44,000 volt line just inside the city limits.

Immediately the interruption took place, Hydro crewmen commenced patrolling the line but it wasn't until after 11:00 o'clock that the trouble was located.

A hydro spokesman said the trouble was "pole top" fire caused by a short circuited insulator. The trouble was in the Hillcrest area just north of the CN yards.

It seems that during a prolonged hot dry spell such as has just been experienced, power line insulators collect dirt and grime which then are subject to short circuiting during a rainstorm.

It's now a routine sight — but yesterday it was something to toast. Belleville hotel waiter Jim Zamanis reflects happier situation in Ontario bars as customers returned yesterday with end of brewery dispute.

Taprooms, Hotels Back to Normal

Glasses were raised around the Quinte district yesterday in a steady succession of unspoken toasts as Ontario's 26-day beer strike ended.

Taprooms opened as usual at noon as brewery warehouses in Belleville unlocked and workers resumed normal deliveries.

Hotel operators reported a steady flow of customers throughout the day, but no big scramble by parched beer drinkers.

A similar pattern developed at brewers' retail stores in Belleville.

There were initial flurries of heavy buying when stores opened at 10 a.m. and again at 4.30 p.m. by homebound workers.

Cecil Bonnetta, Belleville area retail stores manager, said the buying slowed when patrons realized local warehouse stocks were sufficient to meet demand.

Local supplies were augmented with the arrival of some shipments from Toronto warehouses, he added.

Vacationers likely will help business boom tonight and tomorrow, believed Mr. Bonnetta.

"But it looks as if we're supplying the demand with no problems," he said. "We can handle all they want to buy over the weekend.

Where the Action Is

Cooling off at the beach or lake or at Zwick's Island by Quinte's shore has its hazards these hot days.

At the park the other night, as lightning flickered through a high-flying cloud formation and winged creatures sought out human flesh, a plaintive voice was heard from the stage at the band shell.

It was one of the pop musicians and he wanted to know if anyone had any insect repellent. Yes, the bugs were there in strength and repellent or not they seemed to have the upper hand.

But not so much that the musicians did not adhere to the tradition that the show must go on. Drums and guitars poured out their beat firm as ever, while the multi-colored psychedelia of the lighting helped to siphon off the mosquitos when they might have been drawing blood down below.

Nor were the dancers deterred from their purpose. Yes, a hot summer's night at Zwick's Island has a haunting enough quality, a certain mystique compounded of primitive rhythm, swaying bodies — and swinging insects!

Zwick's is where some of the action is, in a community so many decry as having no action.

There is atmosphere too at the Cafe de la Moira, the city's new outdoor spot just off the main street. It is amazing what a little initiative and imagination will do. Overnight the downtown area has been given new life.

Genius and Wealth

Remember the fuss about British sculptor Henry Moore's oddly-shaped piece which after considerable palaver because of its price ended up in Nathan Phillips Square outside Toronto's new city hall.

Well, there are not many skills or attributes in this world that bring instant riches. Professional sport comes to mind. A single victory in a major golf tournament for instance can keep a wolf far away from your door. Then again, if you are of the calibre of Dr. Morton Shulman, wealth can come from shrewd study of the stock market, from the buying of gold and works of art. Or, if you are in any way eccentric to look at, have some sort of personality and musical flair you can make a tidy fortune after the manner of the Beatles.

Or you can be a Henry Moore and turn out strange formations in bronze and other media. Moore's Toronto creation (it has a name, but it escapes us) cost a lot of money — some thousands of dollars. Now comes word that the sculptor has arrived in his 70th birthday with an exhibition of more than 100 of his works in Dusseldorf, West Germany.

Meanwhile, the city of Recklinghausen, noted for the Ruhr Festival plays there, had money to burn also. It paid $82,500 for a piece called Grosse Liegende Nummer 5. The work is Moore's only sculpture of poured bronze on the continent of Europe.

Not everyone can be a Henry Moore, but his genius does illustrate the wealth that is to be had from professionalism and talents that are unique. They add color and interest to a world that thrives on creativeness.

Initiative Counts

If you are young and cannot find a job a little initiative and determination will go a long way.

For instance, tourists Sadie Meade, 22, of Dublin, and her cousin, Sadie Inglis, of Glasgow, ran out of money in Vancouver. It took a little persuasion, but city authorities gave them permission to set up a sidewalk shoeshine stand downtown. Now, after three months they have enough money to return to Britain to attend the wedding of Miss Meade's sister.

Meanwhile out in Saskatchewan, teenagers Diane and Loretta Brooker and Doreen Hein are spending the summer as flagmen for a highway repair job between Weyburn and Yellowgrass, 70 miles southeast of Regina. The girls put in 14 hours a day in all weathers flagging down motorists as they approach the construction crews.

It was hard at first but now their aches have gone and they are accustomed to the stares of drivers. One thing bothers them, though — dust. Still, it is a job, an unusual one that many youngsters would likely be glad to have.

Stimulus of Competition Is Good for Children

Letter to The Hamilton Spectator

The article, "Too Many Class-room Theorists" (July 5), expressed better than we could what we believe. We have four children and we are hoping that their education will not be sacrificed in proving how wrong the theorists are.

We can understand that it must be frustrating and disappointing to some parents and children when the children are not doing well in school and we think special provisions should be made for children who find it impossible to compete. However, what thought is given to the child who enjoys school, who enjoys competing and who is not afraid of hard work?

Most of us thrive on competition, finding it easier to work towards a goal. We think children have as much right as adults to be rewarded for their endeavors.

From our point of view, the end product of the new system will be a generation of adults with a meaningless, complacent attitude towards life. We certainly hope our children will have a chance to experience fulfilment in goals reached, difficulties overcomb and rewards received.

Motorcycle Toll Rising

Kingston Whig - Standard

It is understandable that many Ontario residents are sickened and alarmed by the increasing number of accidents involving motorcycles. Last year in Ontario 66 motorcyclists were killed (an increase of 40 per cent. over 1966) and 2,526 were injured in traffic accidents. Unless the present situation changes for the better the 1968 figures will be even higher.

As these columns have pointed out frequently in the past, the rising popularity of the motorcycle particularly among young people demands that a greater emphasis on responsibility be placed on this aspect of traffic safety. In 1955, for example, only 412,000 cycles were registered in the United States. By 1965 the number had increased to 1,361,000 and an estimated half million more were added during 1966. Thus statisticians predict that by 1970 motorcycle registrations in the U. S. will have risen to about five million. Canada can expect a proportionate increase.

The Ontario Safety League has observed that "too many motorists who are law-abiding in other matters believe that they are justified in breaking traffic laws if they can 'get away with it.'" The same, it would seem, can be said of motorcyclists. Like the irresponsible motorist, the irresponsible motorcyclist is a menace and should be dealt with under the law. But all too often, we have observed young cyclists flouting the traffic rules almost under the noses of police officers. Spending is a good example of this apparent "double standard", especially on Highway 401.

France and Russia Eye European Federation Plan

Toronto Star Syndicate

A Pan-Europe, a uniting of all the countries into a federation of states, is a long term aim of the Soviet Union and France. Charles De Gaulle introduced the concept when he became president of France.

An anti-British, anti-United States position, the federation would include not only mainland Europe, but the western parts of Russia. Such a giant complex of nations would have vast bargaining powers in world affairs. From the time political divisions began, Europe has been weakened by borders and internally guarded methods of life.

The concept of a Europe with a Paris-Moscow axis is a theory now, but France and the Soviet Union are doing their best to make it real.

Western Europe accounts for nearly 50 per cent of the Soviet's trade with the non-Communist world. Industrial co-operation agreements are increasing each month and cultural exchanges are more and more numerous.

The West German Federal Republic, with its pro-British and U.S. policies, is standing in the way of the Pan - Europe dream. The French and Russians know a federation of all Europe can't be a fact till West and East Germany are brought together into one state.

The French foreign policy centre in Paris has a plan. Under the plan the two Germanys would form a confederacy with a joint agency in Berlin. There would be mutually advantageous trade arrangements, free cultural exchanges and a mutual security system. Such an accommodation could only mean the decline of United States and British influence in the European land mass. The whole world balance of power would change.

Soviet trade with West Germany rose by nearly 21 per cent in 1967 with the Federal Republic's exports to Russia rising more than fourfold. Soviet contacts with West Germany are mostly of a private business nature. Bonn's come under government treaties, so aren't evident to the outside world.

Official Russian contacts with the West German republic promote the idea of the all-Europe federation rather than the narrower, touchy idea of improving Soviet-West Germany relations. The Germans have never forgotten or forgiven the Reds bowls being dumped over them at the end of World War II.

In 1852, he opened the Colt Patent Firearms Co. at Hartford.

Consumer Index Muddle

Brockville Recorder and Times

Remember when reassessment was the thing? It was supposed to give us a more equitable tax rate and a mill levy that looked less but wasn't. Now it's the larger school area for a greater distribution of the costs. We doubt, however, that it will make people feel they are getting more for less. In the future we'll be faced with regional governments, predating on the same theory, a more equitable sharing of the costs by a greater number of people.

All the so-called benefits from such manoeuvring are shortlived. The taxpayer finds that initially he may benefit slightly but in the long run he is paying far more than he would have under the old system. It just sounds less if you say it fast. Now the government has come up with another flim-flam.

The Consumer Index, based on 100 for 1949 prices, is getting a little too high and, for government statistical purposes, a little too unrealistic. It is now proposed to base the index on 100 for 1961 prices. Housewives will be very happy to learn this, we are sure. For a while, it will look as though the price index is way down. But it won't make one smiggin of difference in the price of anything. In fact, unless something is done to keep down the rising costs, the index based on 1961 prices will be unrealistic much faster than the old 1949 comparative.

Buses for Newfie Route

London Free Press

This has got to be the saddest Newfie joke of all.

The Newfie Express, which slow-motioned between Port aux Basques on Newfoundland's west coast and St. John's overlooking the Atlantic Ocean is to be scrapped early next summer by highway buses, air-conditioned and with toilets.

Until a few years ago, the Express itself didn't know such comforts.

The narrow gauge rattler, in one day-and-a-half trip between the island's extremities, could traverse the bleak land by being blown off the tracks into St. George's Bay, stalled by snow in the highlands near Gander, or stopped by fog off Trinity Bay. It has been tracked down by aircraft, forced to coal bags to get it going, and now Canadian National Railways has received tentative approval to replace its passenger services with buses.

The train joined opposite ends of the island for years before the Trans - Canada highway was built. It will be remembered fondly.

Barbecue Here to Stay

Windsor Star

A decade ago the person who had a barbecue — any barbecue — was looked upon as a pioneer and something of a gourmet. Today it takes a fairly elaborate barbecue to draw even minor attention from the neighbors.

The simple flat dish of thin sheet metal, perforated with a tripod, served well, enough its primary purpose of cooking meat, to a barbecued hunk if you were an expert or, more frequently, to a burnt offering on the altar of outdoor living. But as a means of acquiring social status, it is now useless.

Today's barbecue, if it's to be worth even a second glance in the back yard, must have as many gadgets as a teenager's car. Standard equipment available at extra cost of course, includes an oven, a flat surface for kitchen tasks, and a rotating spit powered either by batteries or an extension cord.

More and more, the back yard barbecue is becoming an outdoor kitchen. Ultimately, it will be built around it, and the resemblance to a kitchen will be complete. Think of the luxury! Outdoor living, with all the benefits of indoors.

And ultimately, some daring person will build a fire outdoors behind the walls of the barbecue, cook some meat on it, and claim the invention of an entirely new delight, the outdoor barbecue.

Students Without Jobs

Montreal Gazette

The majority of Montreal students who registered for summer jobs this year haven't found work. By the end of June less than 20 per cent of some 7,000 registered had been placed.

Without summer work, it is feared that hundreds of students this year will be unable to return to college or university. This problem is now being accepted as a matter which needs planning by educational authorities and the industrial community.

This is not the only area in the educational field which requires such planning. Local universities have announced they will have to turn away thousands of eligible first-year students this year because they haven't room for them. Sir George Williams and the University of Montreal report they may have to turn down as many as 2,000 students each.

These problems are not confined to Montreal. Toronto has them too. They must be looked at as national problems, in an age when education is essential both to the Individual Canadian and to the growth of the nation in an increasingly-specialized economy.

There are many demands on Canadian resources, for many kinds of development, too many demands for all of them to be answered at the same time. A system of priorities is essential. The crisis in education shows how vital a system of priorities has been to Canada, and how poorly the hasty, uncoordinated and often needless, spending by governments has recognized the things that ought to have come first.

The Beer Outlet Monopoly

Peterborough Examiner

Between statements by Eddie Sargent, provincial member for Grey-Bruce and Quebec government spokesman, good sense is made with separate suggestions that beer should be sold in Ontario grocery stores and that government should not be in the liquor selling business.

Quebecers are already one step ahead of their counterparts in Ontario because they are able to purchase their beer at corner grocery stores.

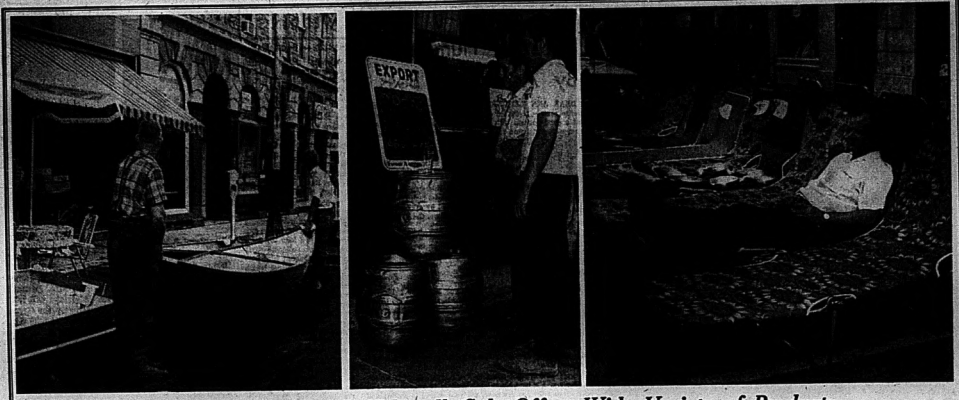
The provincials themselves already have captive control of the beer market through the brewers' retail outlets which are owned by a captive board. The fact that two small, independent brewers do not belong to the warehousing company yet are permitted to distribute their products through the outlets give the illusion of competition. Hardly relief of any value also opposed to the idea because of the amount of work entailed in controlling sales although this should not be a hindrance since it is the small corner grocery stores which sell the great majority of the beer in cities such as Montreal and Quebec City. As it is the majority of large chain grocery stores refuse to cater to beer drinkers in the province.

Soviets Build In Siberia

Peterborough Examiner

While northern development in Canada remains today at the visionary stage, Russia is moving at a fantastic rate to urbanize Siberia. Instead of patiently watching villages grow into towns and towns into cities, Russia is erecting "instant cities" near and inside the Arctic Circle and the lure of moving to Siberia is beginning to appeal to young Russians both because of higher pay scales and the excitement of being on the frontier.

Behind the move to populate the Siberian wilderness areas are a number of factors, not the least of which is the need for ever-greater sources of low-electric power. Even more important, perhaps, are Russia's relations between Moscow and Peking. To leave an enormously resource-rich land the size of Siberia with only 24 million people living in it beside 700 million Chinese would be courting trouble.



Whether Canada has either the need or the funds to plant cities in its own northern frontier is doubtful at this time. Nonetheless we can learn much from the Russians on the problems of large-scale building and resource extraction in the permafrost areas. If we have not learned from some of our government experts to say, exciting Siberia, it is time we did so.

Beer Down The Drain

Hamilton Spectator

The Ottawa government is making a mistake if it doesn't act swiftly to counteract bad feeling caused by customs regulations which prohibit Americans with cottages in Ontario from bringing as much beer as they wish into the province.

The law should be changed but our approach to our U.S. friends should be tempered by a timely warned. through advertisements in the news media and on signs near crossing points that they cannot bring caseloads of beer into Ontario if they are summer residents of Canada. Forewarned, the American will then have no legitimate beef if he is indeed forced to pour his excess beer (and, in essence, the money it cost him) down the drain at a border customs house.

Belleville's Downtown Sidewalk Sale Offers Wide Variety of Products

Canoes and other outdoor sporting equipment, summer garden furniture, dress goods and wearing apparel and even an invitation to enjoy a "cool" draught inside are all part of the local street scene as Belleville downtown merchants today continued into the second day of their three day sidewalk sale. Canoe display is outside Booth's store on Bridge Street. At the right a customer tries a patio lounge for comfort at King Sol's Front Street store. In the centre two youths show interest in the City Hotel beer keg display indicating that the "goodies" are again on tap following the beer strike. Merchants reported brisk business during the Thursday opening of the sidewalk sale.

Sculpture Whimsey

Miss Beatrix Bylsma, a Toronto teacher, puts the finishing touches on a larger-than-life-sized paper lion created by students at the summer art course at Centennial Secondary School.

Changes Every Day

Exciting Art on Display at Centennial School

They're having a happening at Centennial Secondary School.

Some of the most exciting art to be seen in Belleville in some time is on display in classrooms and corridors.

The display is a revolving one, changing every day, as student teachers learn by doing at a summer art course sponsored by the Department of Education.

The course, one of five offered by the department in Ontario this summer, has an enrolment of 303 public school teachers from as far away as Sudbury and Ottawa. Twenty-one teachers from Belleville schools are enroled.

The course offers the first and second terms of the four year studies leading to a supervisor's certificate in art. Some teachers are taking only one term to up-grade their teaching.

If your experience with art in the public schools consists of being shown how to draw a tired cosmos in the fall and a weary daffodil in the spring, forget it.

School art today includes everything from painting to puppetry, from mask making to mosaics.

These teachers are with it. Hidden behind a department of education eupemism, "visual perception and design", is a course in psychedelic and op art. In the unit entitled "use of film in art education" students are producing a psychedelic, non photographic film with irridescent paints, using the newest National Film Board techniques.

Emphasis appears to be on bold, new ways of using commonplace materials. Tissue paper, crayon, scraps of wood and nails are manipulated to create works of art whose finished appearances belie their humble origin.

Each teacher takes four units of the 17 offered. Morning classes are three hours long, and the school is open in the afternoon to allow students to do independent work.

"They're a hard working group," says principal Arnel W. Pattemore. Co - ordinator of art for the St. Catharines board of education, he is on loan to the department of education for the summer.

He is assisted by a staff of 17 drawn from schools across the province.

School art no longer is a pleasant diversion to fill in gaps in the school day when concentration of the three Rs wanes.

"We use art to develop in children the ability to think creatively," Mr. Pattemore explained.

"It also teaches the pupils to be aware of their environment, to really see their surroundings instead of just looking."

The teachers will share their work with the public next Thursday, July 25. From 7 to 9 p.m. the displays will be open for viewing.

"We hold an open house each year in the community where the course is conducted," Mr. Pattemore explained. "Part of the purpose is to give teachers not on course an idea of the latest techniques, but we hope to attract all interested members of the general public as well, particularly parents."

If you want an advance look at what's going to happen when those 303 teachers scatter to their respective schools in the fall, better attend.

After all, it's not often parents get a chance to be one-up on their youngsters.

BEAUTY IN MINI KIT — Actress Barbara Rhoades totes a mini cosmetic bag containing five basic make-up items so useful at this time for vacation travel.

Five Basic Make-up Articles Contained in Beauty Mini Kit

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Beauty in a mini kit! With just five basic make-up items, a vacationer or office worker can travel 'round the world or 'round the job. The secret is making each space-saving cosmetic do double (sometimes even triple) duty. As actress Barbara Rhoades discovered, foundation base, mascara, lipstick, eyebrow pencil and pressed powder are the important "glamor savers." For instance, select a base with a sun-screening additive and enjoy the two-in-one benefits of foundation covering, plus sunburn preventive.

The most adaptable item, however, is an eyebrow pencil. Not only can it be used to sketch in brow hairs, but as a substitute for eyeliner and shadow. Barbara, who traveled east to coast for her Universal film, "Don't Just Stand There!", found pencil's pointed tip ideal for lining the lids; its flat side convenient for shading and contouring. But that's only the beginning! This versatile "tool" is equally at home filling in a hairline or outlining the mouth.

Other convertible items are mascara for touching up the hair, pressed powder for corrective make-up shading, and lipstick for achieving the complexion. The latter is applied like creme rouge. And, in an emergency, the same tube of lipstick can be used to camouflage chipped nail polish. So, whether you're packing a suitcase or an office locker, be sure to include this quickie quintet of cosmetics. They'll keep you "go-everywhere" ready, wherever you are.

Ann Landers

Husband Humiliated By Actions of Boss

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is an attractive dignified man — respected and well liked by everyone. Dwayne holds a good position with a nationally known firm. He came home from work this evening and repeated the following story.

About 3:00 p.m. he walked from his desk to the water cooler. As he was leaning over to take a drink, his boss (an elderly man) came up behind him and gave him three hard slaps on the backside. This was in full view of the entire office. The boss then shouted in a voice that could be heard by everyone, "That will teach you to waste time. Get back to your desk and go to work."

My husband is so humiliated by this public spanking that he wants to quit his job. I've tried to tell him the old man was kidding and he should not be so sensitive. At the same time, I must agree it is a mighty strange way for a boss to treat a 36-year-old employee. — HOUSTON.

* * *

DEAR HOUSTON: Kidding, you say? The old gaffer sounds senile to me. If your husband has a good job I hope he will not quit because of this single incident. Encourage him to consider the source and make allowances.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Many people read your column and little else. Please get across this vital message to Mr. and Mrs. America.

First: You are not going to live forever. Second: Unless you don't give a hoot about what happens to your money and possessions after you are gone, put your wishes in writing and make it legal.

I work in a lawyer's office and I've heard the following statements so many times it makes me sick. "I know Papa wanted to put his nephews through college. He said so many times but his second wife is keeping everything for herself." Here's another familiar tune: "My sister would not like what is happening in the family. She often told me she would provide for our invalid brother but her selfish children have inherited everything and feel they owe their uncle nothing."

Unless it's written down and in legal form, you can be sure of nothing, except that the law will take over. What's right morally or what "Papa wanted" doesn't amount to a hill of beans unless it's in writing and 100 per cent legal. — BROKEN RECORD.

* * *

DEAR RECORD: I hope every person who reads your letter will ask himself, "If I died tomorrow would my property and goods be divided just as I want them to be?"

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother and dad have been divorced for two years. Dad was mean to her and she is glad to be rid of him. He was mean to us kids, too, and we are happy he has moved away.

Mom is seeing a divorced man. He is good to her and acts like a father to my two younger brothers. The problem is that I am ashamed my parents are divorced and I've told my friends this man is my uncle. I hope Mom doesn't marry him but I don't know how to tell her. She is 48 years old and her life is just about over. Can you help me. — HAZEL EYES.

* * *

DEAR HAZEL: You'd better get the record straight before your "uncle" turns out to be your stepdad. And another thing you'd better get straight is that a woman 48 does not have one foot in the grave. In a few years you and your brothers will be on your own and your mom will be alone. Wish her luck and be happy for her.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I wish you would get out and play with the other boys. Do you want to grow up without any friends?"

Son: "Aw, I don't like those kids."

Mother: "Why don't you ask Ted to go swimming with you this afternoon. He's new here and I'm sure would like to have a friend."

A loner may "reject" the gang because he feels uncomfortable and left out in a crowd, but he will benefit by the companionship of one or two congenial friends.

WEDDING

SEXSMITH — HAGERMAN

Eldorado United Church was the scene of the July 13th wedding when Rev. W. Sedgwick united in marriage Linda Enid Hagerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hagerman of Eldorado, to Charles Edward (Ted) Texsmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Sexsmith also of Madoc.

Organist Mrs. M. E. Johnson rendered the traditional wedding music. Duets were given by Rev. and Mrs. Ronald Campbell of Bannockburn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of nylon organza over taffeta, featuring an empire waist and long lily point sleeves. The rediagate style skirt was enhanced with panels of lace and chapel length train had matching lace appliqué. Her veil was of silk illusion and was caught to a floral headpiece of organza rosebuds with pearl trim. She carried a colonial bouquet of orange delight roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Sheila Hagerman, sister of the Bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lois Hagerman and Mrs. Douglas Lee, both sisters of the bride, and Miss Mary Jodoin of Ottawa, cousin of the bridegroom. All were gowned alike in mint green lustre crepe with a-line skirts, square necklines with floral braid trim and puffed sleeves. Matching color headpieces were of the halo styles with fabric flowers. They carried nosegays of shasta daisies with yellow ribbon streamers.

Attending the bridegroom was Frederick Sager of Kitchener, cousin of the bridegroom. The ushers were Robert Hagerman, brother of the bride, of Brooklin, Ont., and James Thompson, cousin of the bridegroom and Robert Adams of Morrisburg. The two mothers were ushered by the bride's younger brothers, John and David Valyear.

The wedding reception was held at the church parlors, where the mother of the bride received the guests attired in a Kelly green knit suit, white accessories and a corsage of bronze baby 'mums.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a powder blue lace over taffeta dress, matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations tipped with pink.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and the Maritime provinces, the bride chose a turquoise silk shantung dress and matching coat, with white roban knit hat and accessories. She wore a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at the bridegroom's farm in Madoc.

Idea "Sheer Nonsense" That Women Voters Won't Vote for Women

TORONTO (CP) — The only woman among the 69 government supporters in the Ontario legislature said Thursday that notion that women voters won't vote for women candidates in elections is "sheer nonsense."

"In many ridings male candidates are, in fact, more afraid of a woman opponent than a male candidate simply because they believe the women will vote for a woman," Ada Pritchard (PC—Hamilton West) said during the budget debate.

Mrs. Pritchard said that while parties select few women candidates—only 16 were nominated in the last provincial election—"they rely on women workers in the constituency to get them elected on voting day."

"It seems to me that if women are capable enough to run a campaign it is only reasonable to expect that they would also make good candidates."

Mrs. Pritchard said that too often the Tories nominate women "in ridings which the party is willing to write off as a loss."

She also complained that too few women are appointed to important boards and advisory committees.

The only other woman member of the Ontario house is Margaret Renwick (NDP—Scarborough Centre).

Moody Boy Friend Wants to Keep Baby

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I have been going with my boy friend for nearly three years. We have always been rather doubtful as to whether we would be a suitable pair for marriage! He is very quick - tempered and a rather moody person at times, yet as far as doing something for anybody, he will go all out.

I had wanted to break up with him many times but it didn't last. He just said he might as well spend his money on me, rather than some other girl, and so I thought to make him happy I've got to go along with it. But the real problem is that I'm pregnant and it happened purely by force.

If I don't marry him, would I be able to get some sort of financial assistance? He says that he wants the baby and if he can't have it, he'll see that I can't keep it.

Time is running out and he says he's not going to stir around much longer if I don't soon marry him. — Undecided

Dear Undecided: So you would marry him just to go along with the gag and to give the baby a name? How about giving the baby a grown-up father and a happy home? You won't find them with this off-hand, self-centred sex partner.

Better run in the opposite direction while you still can. Your child care service will clue you in about how to collect a fair share from the baby's father for the baby's support.

Dear Doris: Would it be proper for parents to put on a dance and wedding reception at 12 Saturday midnight, for their son-in-law and daughter here in our home town?

They got married away from home, and had a small reception for the immediate families.

We would like it to be put on when they come home. They are both working and can't get off, only weekends. — Bride's Mother.

Dear Mother: I can't see starting a dance at 12 midnight. Couldn't the Newly Married's stretch a point and get there by 10 p.m. at the latest?

Otherwise I'd suggest an afternoon reception Sunday or whatever day they can manage it. Get their ideas.

To Your Money's Worth Food costs more than it did by a long shot. Nearly half! Much again, between 1963 and 1968. Why? Partly because of mark-ting costs, partly because of processing methods which save kitchen preparation. Working mothers — and the rest of us — take to convenience foods.

It behooves us to know what to buy, how to buy it, for food value and economy. All of this is covered in a handy new government booklet. Write for "Value for Food Dollars", to Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Canada.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS B. SMITH

Smith – Myles

Rev. William G. Davis performed the recent wedding ceremony in St. George's Anglican Church, Willowdale, when Susan-Jane Millicent Myles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Myles of Willowdale was united in marriage to Douglas Bruce Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bruce Smith of Don Mills.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Thomas Beetmy who also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Diane Jordon in appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father Mr. Charles H. Myles, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza highlighted with a yoke of Alencon lace. Matching lace adorned other details of the gown as well as the chapel train which flowed gracefully from the yoke and the neckline of the skirt was enhanced with scalloped design. She carried an all-white bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. L. Rank as matron of honor, the bridesmaids Miss Ruth Nelson and Miss Earline Smith, the junior bridesmaid, Miss Vicki Dutfield, niece of the bride and the little flower girl Miss Susan Thomson were all identically attired. They wore floor length gowns of daffodil yellow faille taffeta in the scalloped new line with short sleeves. The skirts of the dresses were highlighted with removable panels at back. Matron of honor wore roses in her hair while others wore bands of yellow daisies.

All carried bouquets of yellow Shasta daisies encircling orange sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom was attended by a brother of the bride, Charles Myles and the ushers were Curt Bopp, Alfred Dutfield and James Thomson, brothers-in-law of the bride and Robert Dahlke, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Ringbearers were Jeffrey and Christopher Dutfield.

Welcoming the guests at the reception held at The Old Mill, Toronto, the bride's mother wore a floor length gown of apricot silk chiffon featuring a bodice of French Guipure lace with matching hat and carried a purse corsage of cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a full length gown of turquoise lace over peau de soie, matching accessories and carried a purse corsage of orchids and stephanotis.

QUINTE WI

The Quinte WI met at their Hall on Tuesday afternoon with president, Mrs. C. Reid, in charge and Mrs. Robert Alsa as acting secretary, with at least 40 members present.

A picnic was planned for August 13 at Fry's Park; and also a pot luck dinner at Riverside Park, Carrollton Road. Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, convener of Home Economics and Health, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Earl Denyes, also a Home Economics and Health convener, gave a very interesting paper on the motto, "laugh when you can, it is cheap medicine," concluding with more than a touch of humor.

Mrs. Eric Leeming gave a reading, and Mrs. Clarence Holmes, as guest speaker, gave a talk based on the idea that "the homemaker's responsibility is primarily to herself."

Mrs. Cecil Keene and Mrs Harry Thomson, leaders for the 4-H club contributed greatly to the program with about 15 girls present with several mothers also attending. The girls displayed their hats, purses and scarves made as the "accent on accessories" course. They also presented a skit on how to dress for the various occasions with Mrs. Donald Mitchell as commentator.

A duet and several humorous ditties were given by Brenda King and Linda Grills. A reading was also given by Mary Langevin and Sharen Mitchell. Gifts were presented to the leaders and girls of the club.

*Family Calling Time rates are fully explained in the text below.

Notes and Explanations

These new rates apply on all calls between any two points in Ontario and Quebec as well as on calls to points in Labrador and the North West Territories served by Bell Canada.

All the rates shown on this page give you the price for station-to-station calls. These are the calls you dial direct or call which our Operator places to the distant number. They always cost less than if you ask for a specific person.

The main change in the Day Rate is a reduction of up to 55 cents in the price of calls over 362 miles. On the other hand, the initial time period on calls of less than 10 miles has been cut from five to three minutes for 10 cents; and overtime units are now two minutes instead of three for 5 cents.

As you can see from the chart above, your real savings come into effect after 8 p.m. on weekdays, and all day Sundays. The cost of a three-minute call is now just 50% of the Day Rate on calls of 100 miles or more; for shorter distances, the percentage of savings is a little less.

Family Calling Time is in effect all day Sunday, Monday thru Saturday, it now begins at 10 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

On person-to-person calls over 362 miles, reductions range from 20 cents to $1.10; on calls under 100 miles, there are increases ranging from 5 to 20 cents.

*This is how Family Calling Time works:

All day Sunday, and after 10 p.m. Monday thru Saturday, you pay only for the first five minutes of your call, then there is no charge for the next five minutes. You pay for another five minutes of calling time for the price of five. If you wish to talk longer, every two additional minutes are charged as just one.

The "Night Owl" Rate, applies seven days a week, from Midnight to 6 a.m., but it applies only to calls you dial yourself (D.D.D. calls). If this service is not yet available where you live, our Operator will place such a call for you at the same low rate.

Typical examples of the new per-call rates for station-to-station calls between any two points in Ontario and Quebec.

Teacher Matches Cowan's Pace

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Neale of Burlington and Gary Cowan of Kitchener have left each other little room to relax in the third round of the 68th Ontario amateur golf championship today.

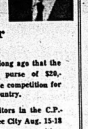
Neale, who says he hasn't played serious golf for two years, matched Cowan stroke for stroke during Thursday's second round and both finished with 72s for a one stroke lead over Stu Hamilton of Brampton.

Both Cowan, Ontario open champion, and Neale, a 35-year-old high school teacher, carded 36-36—72 Thursday and 36-33—69 Wednesday.

The two leaders are one under par for 36 holes at the par-71 Scarborough Golf and Country Club.

Hamilton covered the back nine of the 6,772-yard course with birdies on the 14th, 15th, 18th and 17th. He finished with a 70.

His charge was enough to put him on the Ontario Willingdon Cup team for the national amateur title in Edmonton, Aug. 5 and 6.



Cowan clinched a spot on the team with his 72. The four-man Ontario group is decided after totalling the first two rounds of the Ontario Open and the first two rounds of the amateur.

It doesn't seem like so long ago that the Canadian Open offered a purse of $20,000, let alone the annual title competition for golf professionals in this country.

But this year's competitors in the C.P.-G.A. championship at Quebec City Aug. 15-18 will be vying for that five-figure sum, with a $3,000 cheque for the winner.

The total represents a $6,500 increase over last year's prize money for the event, and indicates how pro golf's popularity is boosting the tournament cash kitty in our austere surroundings, just as south of the border.

We're still a Jack Nicklaus tee shot away from the average U.S. tour pay-off, but our Open prize of $100,000 ranks with the best of them.

When Sam Snead was the leading U.S. pro money winner in the late 30's he took home some $7,000 for playing in about 20 tourneys.

But one win at any of about a dozen U.S. circuit events these days is good for triple that amount.

Not to mention the automobiles and bonus loot made available for holes-in-one, or other feats accomplished during tourney play, which are being collected with increasing frequency these days.

On the other hand, each young summer finds some of the best professional duffers in the world making the ritual trek to the British Isles to participate in all the heathery-splendor of a British Open.

This year's first-place money was less than $8,000, and yet no Nicklaus, Player, or Palmer would dream of passing up the event, even though they probably make more modelling golf slacks.

It's the prestige of the thing, old boy.

After all, Hogan did it, and Bobby Jones, and Walter Hagan.

And shouldn't today's U.S. golfing elite be equally capable of rising to the occasion?

Way down deep in their little divot-making hearts, we think the U.S. pros have an alternate motive.

There's a tremendous sense of accomplishment in beating your teacher at his own game — and on his own ground.

No-Hit Effort

Reid Puts Stinsons in 2nd

No-hitters are getting to be old hat for the Brant Commercial Softball entry. Brant pitcher Mark Sheridan has one to his credit, but it's been a-bad week on the other side of the ledger.

Scotty Reid threw a 7-0 no-hitter at the Bodymen last night to mark the second time in three evenings at the Alemite that Brants have been similarly victimized.

City Hotel hurlers Gerry Genereaux and Bob Davenport turned the trick on the Brants in a 14-2 Tuesday night league tilt.

Last night's win, coupled with Belvedere Hotel's 10-6 drubbing of City Hotel, vaulted Stinsons into a second-place tie with the City men. Both teams now have 10-7 records, and their 20-point totals leave them four points behind league-leading Belvedere.

Scotty Reid won Stinson's third in a row, handcuffing the Brants with 13 strikeouts, and issuing but a pair of walks during his seven-inning no-hit effort.

His mates only tagged losing pitcher Mark Sheridan for five hits, but, complemented by eight Brant errors, it was good enough for the 7 - 0 margin. Sheridan fanned six and didn't walk a batter, allowing Stinsons a run in the first, four in the second, and single tallies in the fifth and sixth frames.

Lead-off batter Rick Locke, playing in centrefield for Stinsons, collected three singles on the night, or 60 per cent of his team's hits. Right-fielder Neil Goyer contributed a double, while first-sacker Paul Stinson came through with a home run.

And who else but the on-again, off-again cellar-dwelling Brants could pull-off a triple play and commit eight errors in the same game?

They did it in the fourth inning, when Stinson catcher Lyle Thompson lined out to pitcher Mark Sheridan. Sheridan caught Locke off first base with a throw to Gary Mosier, who made it force out by whipping the ball to second to catch Mike Smith by surprise.

Last night's loss was the thirteenth in 17 league games for the Brants.

BELVEDERE 10 — City 6

Belvedere Hotel had to overcome a four-run, first-inning deficit to beat City Hotel 10-6 in the second half of last night's double-header at the Alemite. The loss also temporarily stalled the City drive for first place, and leaves them tied in second with Stinsons, who won their game last night.

City was out for blood last night, having downed the league leaders 3-2 in their last encounter. They took advantage of a shaky three-walk start by Belvedere's Doug Ellis and a pair of first-inning errors by his mates to jump into a 4-0 lead.

Belvedere mustered a pair of second-inning tallies, and took a 5-4 lead in the third before Ellis walks led to the tying City run in the fourth.

Hard-hurling Wayne McConnell relieved Ellis and his appearance marked a change in fortune at the plate for Belvedere. Left-fielder Bob Lloyd put the game out of reach with his three-run homer in the bottom of the fourth to give his mates an 8-5 margin. Belvedere added a pair of insurance tallies in the sixth.

City's sixth and final run of the game was shortstop "Pug" Kellar's fifth-inning solo home run.

Gerry Genereaux went the route for the losers, and yielded the 10 runs on nine Belvedere hits and a pair of walks, without registering a strikeout.

Ellis was charged with five City tallies on two hits and five walks in 3 2-3 innings. McConnell gave up one run on three hits and three walks the rest of the way.

Bob Lloyd added a single to his three-run homer to lead Belvedere's plate attack while outfielders Lyle Wannamaker and Don Smith each hit a single and double. Shortstop Dale Duvall stroked a pair of safeties, and Doug Ellis contributed a single.

Argos Pluck Ti-Cat Whiskers

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, noted as an outstanding defensive team in recent seasons, had their reputation tarnished slightly Thursday night.

The frequently-meek Toronto Argonauts unleashed a powerful offense to defeat Hamilton 35-23 in an Eastern Football Conference exhibition game.

In an interlocking Canadian Football League pre-season contest, Saskatchewan Roughriders edged Montreal Alouettes 16-1.

A crowd of 22,023 at Canadian National Exhibition Stadium in Toronto saw Argonaut fullback Jim Dillard score two touchdowns. Quarterback Tom Wilkinson and flanker Bobby Taylor scored the others. Dave Mann kicked two field goals, a 79-yard single and converted the four touchdowns.

Tommy Joe Coffey collected 11 points for Hamilton on a touchdown, a field goal and two converts. Willie Bethe and Bob Richardson scored the other Ticat touchdowns.

The Argonauts riddled the usually sturdy Hamilton defence for 203 yards on the ground and 332 passing. The Tiger-Cats responded with 61 yards rushing and 276 passing.

Joe Zuger and Bill Redell shared quarterbacking duties for the Ticats while the Argos used Wally Gabler, Wilkinson and newcomer George Wilson.

A crowd of 13,728 in Regina watched fullback Bill Goods pick up 10 points for the Roughriders on three field goals and a convert. Halfback Alan Ford scored the only Saskatchewan touchdown.

This Policeman Shoots Up A Storm

By JERRY HOFF

Earl Marvin has been a constable for more than 30 years and has only fired his service revolver once in the line of duty.

But last year the Prince Edward County Constable shot up between 7,500 and 10,000 shells.

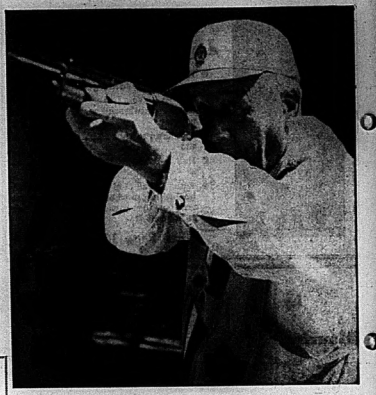
Too much practice?

No.

Marvin, who retired as chief constable of Wellington last year is the champion veteran trapshooter of the nation. And he does practice a lot. But not too much.

He proved his practice pays off the first week of July when he won his second Canadian Veteran Champion title in Vancouver at the annual Canadian National Trapshooting Championships.

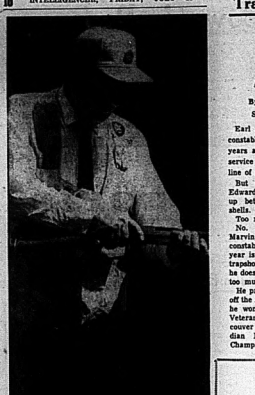
The retired chief constable and present county officer and First Division Court clerk won the title last year in his first try at it and came back this year to prove it wasn't a fluke. He had to break 99 of 100 clay pigeons to do it and that should be enough proof for anyone.



The white - haired marksman competes as a veteran, that is, in the class reserved for shooters over 60. But that doesn't mean he's been at it all his life.

He started trapshooting regularly just 10 years ago as a member of the Picton Rod and Gun Club. Since then he's been both a president of the Quinte Trap and Gun Club and a life-time member of the mother organization of the sport, the Amateur Trapshooting Association out of Vandalia, Ohio.

"They say you either prove you've got it in the first five years of competition or you don't have it," Marvin said. If that's how it is, the Canadian National champ has it. His trophies line a solid wall of his home and are scattered throughout most of the house.



He's won the Ontario Veteran Championship four out of five times in the last five years, is one of the 20 Class A (94-96 of 100 average over a year) in the province, and was one of the top five this year at Vancouver in top straight scores (non-handicap or doubles).

Marvin compares trapshooting to golf as a personal challenge and achievement. "You get a thrill out of every target," he said. "It's all done in a split second, no delay. You either do it or you don't — there's no second chance."

. . . "Pull!" and Pigeons Fly

"It's all over in a split second," says Earl Marvin. "There's no second chance, it's either hit or miss." Marvin hit 99 of 100 in Vancouver this month to retain his 1968 National trapshooting title.

A Check, Then . . .

Earl Marvin, Wellington's Canadian trapshooting champion, checks gun at the firing line in preparation for one of his regular practice rounds.

Master Bowlers to Coach Blind

TORONTO (CP) — A group of Canada's top bowlers, devoted to improvement of the spot and working with youngsters, is taking on an additional job—helping the blind.

The Master Bowlers Association of Ontario will help organize tournaments and coach sightless players.

"We don't really know in which ways we can help," MBA president Jim McKenzie of Belleville, Ont., said.

"We have experience in organizing but maybe the blind bowlers are already organized. We'll have to learn the very special methods involved in teaching the blind."

The master bowlers, 159 tournament players and 50 teaching masters, must maintain an average of 240 for men and 220 for women—a high score in five-pins.

The MBA organizes two tournaments a year for young bowlers and works toward improving conditions by cracking down on drinking in bowling houses.

Bill Cook of the Ontario Blind Bowling Association met Jim McKenzie at a recent Ontario Bowling Congress meeting and told him the story of Dolores Jenkins of Chatham, Ont. It led to an offer of help by the MBA.

Mrs. Jenkins, mother of Ferguson Jenkins, a pitcher with Chicago Cubs of the National League, has four-percent vision.

"I can't see the pins, but I can make out the spots on the floor just in front of the rubber. I just try to get a natural swing and aim for the headpin," she says.

"People tell me that my ball usually hits the side of the headpin which gives me a better chance for a strike.

"Usually I can tell by the sound if I've made a strike. If I don't get one, I have to rely on the coaches to tell me what is left up. They tell me where to stand to get the pins that are left."

Mrs. Jenkins has been Western Ontario blind five-pin bowling champion for the last three years. Last year she won with a 212 average and was surprised when she repeated this season.

"I only had 185 and I missed the last half of the year when I went into hospital for a gall bladder operation."

The blind bowlers have a meeting in August, then will approach the master bowlers again.

"We'll offer whatever assistance is necessary," McKenzie said.

"We'll even pick up and return the bowlers home and work with groups already working with the blind."

Marichal Squares His Score With 3-0 Victory Over Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Juan Marichal has finally caugh up to St. Louis Cardinals.

Just before the San Francisco ace blanked the Cards 3-0 Thursday night and evened his lifetime record against them at 15-15, Herman Franks confirmed reports that he would retire as manager of the Giants if they don't win the National League pennant.

The Giants are in fourth place, 13 games behind St. Louis, after ending the Cards' winning streak at six games.

Elsewhere, Atlanta Braves walloped Houston Astros 7-1 and New York Mets downed Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0. Los Angeles Dodgers was rained out at Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

Marichal, the NL's top winner, ran his record to 17-4 with a four-hitter and even drove in a run with a second-inning single. He retired 17 batters in order over one stretch until Lou Brock singled to open the ninth.

The Giants scored twice off Steve Carlton in the second on singles by Willie Mays, Jim Hart, Hal Lanier and Marichal. They added a run in the eighth when Mays walked, stole second and scored on a single by Jesus Alou.

The Cardinals saw their league lead chopped to nine games when second-place Atlanta beat Houston behind the hitting of Tommie Aaron and Pat Jarvis' two-hit pitching.

Aaron broke a 1-1 tie with a bases-loaded triple in the third inning off Dave Giusti and knocked in another run with a single in the eighth. Not to be outdone, big brother Hank singled home a run in the ninth.

Jarvis, 10-6, has never lost to the Astros and beat them for the fifth time. He allowed singles by Hector Torres in the first and Doug Rader in the seventh.

Seaver tied a club record with his fourth shutout of the season as the Mets hopped back over Los Angeles and Pittsburgh into seventh place. Al Jackson did it in 1962. Carl Willey in 1963 and Jerry Koosman has already done it this year.

The Mets nicked Al McBean for all their runs in the sixth inning on Bud Harrelson's single, a walk, Art Shamsky's bunt hit, a force play and singles by Jerry Grote and Phil Linz.

Tigers Snap Slump With Oakland Series Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Tigers, after a brief plunge, seem to have resumed the course that had them flying high in the American League.

After taking a commanding 8½ game lead into the All-Star break, the Tigers dropped two of three games at Minnesota and two straight to California, the first time this season they had lost two consecutive series.

But the Tigers steadied in Oakland and rode Earl Wilson's six-hitter to a 3-1 victory over the Athletics Thursday, giving them the series two games to one.

The victory brought Detroit's lead to seven games over idle Cleveland Indians while Baltimore Orioles fell to third place, 7½ games behind, by losing to Chicago White Sox 2-1.

New York Yankees stopped Washington Senators 4-1 in the only night game and Minnesota Twins bombed Boston Red Sox 7-2 in the only other contest.

Wilson, a hard-throwing right-hander, evened his record at 7-7. He had a three-hit shutout until a double by Ramon Webster, a single by John Donaldson and an infield out got the Athletics a run in the eighth. But the Tigers had three runs by then.

Bill Freehan hit a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning off loser Lew Krausse, 6-8, after hits by Jim Northrup and Willie Horton. Don Wert's single, a double by Dick McAuliffe, an infield hit by Mickey Stanley and Northrup's sacrifice fly got two more in the fifth.

Eddie Fisher, Wilbur Wood and Hoyt Wilhelm combined to stop the Orioles, who got their only run on Frank Robinson's fifth homer.

The White Sox bunched all four of their hits in the first inning off loser Dave Leonhard when Luis Aparicio doubled, Tommy Davis singled and Leon Wagner and Pete Ward each singled in runs.

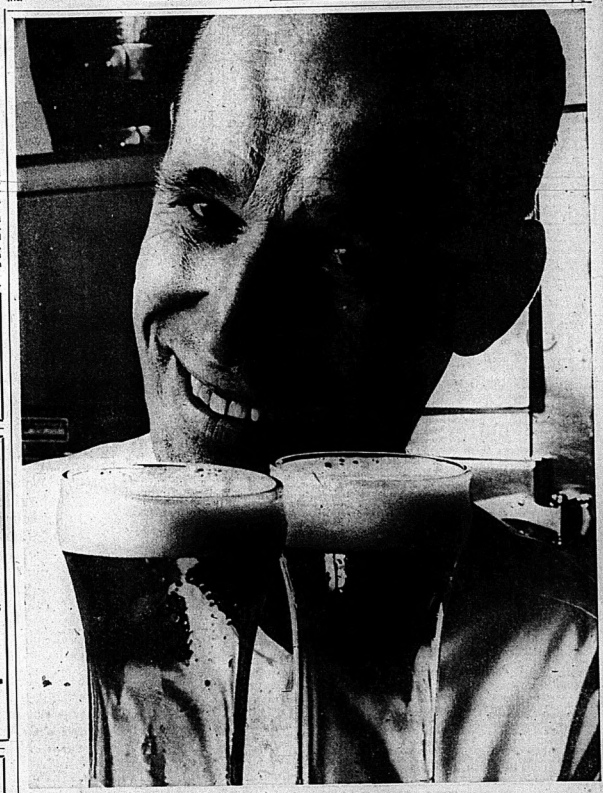
Montreal Men Build New NL Team

MONTREAL (CP) — Charles Bronfman, vice-chairman of the seven co-sponsors of Montreal's National League entry for 1969, said Thursday everything "looks positive and promising" for the baseball team next season.

Montreal and San Diego were granted franchises by the National League May 27 to bring the loop to a 12-team, two-division circuit.

The local group is negotiating with the city for the use of Expo 67's Autostade for the club's first three years of operation, before the municipality goes ahead with a proposed 55,000-seat, $50,000,000 covered stadium.



The city is conducting feasibility tests to determine what type of covering can be placed on the Autostade and also plans to expand the seating capacity to 37,500 from 25,000 by next spring.

"The sponsors spent Thursday on a detailed study of all parts of the financial organization and have also reviewed in depth the personnel requirements," Bronfman said.

"It would be premature at this time to reveal the course of our discussions. We expect to be in a position to give information of some substance not later than the end of next week.

PC Whip Leonard Reilly Urges Law to Forbid Labor Agreements Calling for Closed Shops

TORONTO (CP) — Leonard Reilly, government caucus whip, Thursday pleaded in the legislature for an end to the closed-shop labor agreement and what he said was compulsory union support of the New Democratic Party.

His two-hour budget speech, delivered against a constant stream of interjections and catcalls from the NDP benches, was one of the longest of the session.

At one point Speaker Fred Case grimaced and invited Cliff Pilkey of Oshawa, NDP labor critic who peppered Mr. Reilly with interjections, to take over the chair.

Mr. Reilly, a 56-year-old businessman, said unions have no right to interfere with the constitutional rights of workers outside "of their membership."

He said the Rand formula, which established the closed-shop principle after a 1945 strike at Ford Motor Co. in Windsor, was "designed for the particular set of circumstances . . . and not necessarily applicable to all circumstances."

Under a closed shop, union membership is not necessary, but dues are taken from the wages of all workers to support the union selected by the majority.

"The worker is at the mercy of the union officials," Mr. Reilly said. "Either the employee agrees to support the union or he loses his job."

Mr. Reilly said that "to require an employee whose political convictions are opposed to the New Democratic Party, to support the steelworkers, is political discrimination."

Mr. Reilly said the United Steelworkers of America was active in development of the NDP from the old CCF party, and supports a policy which permits unions to deduct an NDP contribution from monthly dues unless a member opts out of the arrangement.

James Renwick (NDP—Riverdale) protested that no union member is under obligation to contribute to the NDP.

Workers who for religious reasons refused to join what they considered "the secular" labor movement have been "callously punbed out of their jobs," Mr. Reilly said.

In a criticism of his own party, he said "this persecution takes place right under the eyes of government officials who are called to administer justice and who are obliged to protect every citizen and who shout from the rooftops about the equality of opportunity."

Mr. Reilly said he had evidence to prove the United Auto Workers' International treasurer sent to the NDP between 1961 and 1966 cheques totalling $139,603.

—In other legislature business Thursday:

Donald Deacon (L—York Centre) told the house during budget debate thatp rovincial subsidies to municipalities for new residential areas could reduce by a third carrying costs for the average small bungalow.

Making his budget speech later in the evening, Mr. Pilkey said Mr. Reilly was "from the dark ages."

The purpose of his speech, with its demand for an end to compulsory unionism, was "to destroy the labor movement."

Right-to-work laws would destroy the trade union movement, "tear out its very guts," he said.

International unions with head offices in the U.S. do not dictate to Canadian affiliates, but provide the professional help a local union cannot provide in negotiations.

The NDP labor spokesman said that he "hopes one day for a solely Canadian union", but "with American interest on the other side of the bargaining table we must have international unions."

—George Kerr (PC—Halton West) told the house that subsidiaries of United States companies in Canada should be governed by Canadian laws and not "by some foreign state department."

Sunday School Lesson

Spotlight on Individual

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

They did it. They killed Martin Luther King. They rioted in the streets. This, so often, is the way people tend to talk. Some black Americans condemned all white Americans because one person killed King. Some white Americans blamed all black Americans because a small minority of black citizens rioted in the streets. A whole race should not be blamed because one member of it committed murder. Neither should a whole race be condemned because a few members of it advocate violence.

This problem of merging individuals into a mass so they are lost sight of as individuals is often faced in the Bible. The fact that people can be goaded into action by social pressures is clearly recognized. Aaron made a golden calf at the instigation of the people. Therefore the people suffered because they shared in his sin. The sacred writer put it, "And the Lord sent a plague upon the people, because they made the calf that Aaron made." (Exodus 32:35 RSV)

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 21: "Ezekiel's Challenge," Ezekiel 18; 36:16-38.

But this did not exonerate Aaron from personal blame. Each individual was held accountable for his own part of this offence before God. For when Moses prayed for the forgiveness of the people, and offered to accept their punishment by having his name taken from God's book of approval, the answer came back, "Whoever has sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." (Exodus 32:33 RSV) Not they, but him. Each person would be considered on the basis of his own merits or lack of them.

And when Ezekiel talked about God's punishment of Judah for its sins, he went on to say that the children of the exiles would not be condemned in God's sight because of the sins of their fathers. "The son shall not suffer for the iniquity of the father, nor the father suffer for the iniquity of the son." (Ezekiel 18:20 RSV) Instead, he stressed the fact of individual responsibility. "The soul that sins shall die." (Ezekiel 18:20 RSV)

Ezekiel was a prophet during the exile of Judah. He preached to people who had been captured and taken away from home, and whose children were being born in a foreign land. He understood their sorrow because he "sat where they sat" in the land of the river Chebar. (Ezekiel 3:15 KJV)

He sought to encourage his people by painting for them a vision of God's chariot-throne. God is not limited to Zion. His moving chariot carries Him everywhere. His all-seeing eye, like eyes within wheels, sees everything. (Ezekiel 1:16-18) He is surrounded by creatures with four faces. Undoubtedly, each face represents the deity of religion in the land to which they had come. In other words, the best of all religions is caught up in the one true God. All religion is an attempt to find and serve Him.

But should children of the exiles have to suffer because of the sins of their father? That children do sometimes have to suffer because of the sins of their fathers is expressed by a striking proverb quoted by Jeremiah: "The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge." (Jeremiah 31:29 RSV) But this does not mean that God is condemning them for sins others have committed. Each person must bear the moral responsibility for his own acts. "Each man who eats sour grapes, his teeth shall be set on edge." (Jeremiah 31: 30 RSV)

Ezekiel picks up this thought, and seeks to drive home the fact of individual responsibility. A nation cannot feel guilty. Individuals must feel guilty. A race cannot repent. Individuals must repent, and seek to live a new life. (Ezekiel 18)

But what does living a new life mean? Ezekiel spells it out. It means purity and honesty in dealing with others. It means sharing with the poor. It means not taking advantage of another's need to exploit him. It means walking in justice. (See Ezekiel 18) This way means life and this is God's desire for every person. "So," Ezekiel pleads, "turn and live." (Ezekiel 18:32 RSV)

As each person realizes his personal responsibility, and tries to live according to God's purposes, then God can restore the nation. (Ezekiel 36:25-38) Then, what was a battlefield covered by the bleaching bones of slain Israelites will become again a populated area. This hope is portrayed in an unforgettable vision of dry bones being reclothed with flesh and becoming living persons again. (Ezekiel 37:1-14)

It is not enough to say Americans must change its ways. Each citizen must say, "I must change my ways if I want my nation to be different." For a nation is made up of individual persons.

Pitman Praises Education Plan

TORONTO (CP) — An Opposition member of the legislature Thursday praised the Hall-Dennis report on the aims and objectives of education as "new and exciting" but warned that it will impose "a greater and greater burden on the taxpayer."

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) said that while the report, if implemented, would produce some savings through the elimination of Grade 13 and the present grades system, recommendations on improving teacher qualifications and increasing individual attention for students will be costly.

Mr. Pitman said the NDP stands "foursquare in support of the report" but will press for a complete overhaul of the tax system as a necessary adjunct to its implementation.

He said one of the most important recommendations of the report calls for a search for a new means of finance to replace the local property tax as the main source of education funds.

He said education costs will also be increased by development of the community college system, creation of teacher-education facilities in the universities and the new country school board system in the province.

Pitman was accused in the legislature Thursday of advocating that Ontario students be taught "subversion".

The accusation was levelled by Douglas Kennedy (PC—Peel South) who quoted from Hansard during the budget debate to show that Mr. Pitman had opposed courses in citizenship being introduced in the schools.

Mr. Kennedy said the NDP member had told the house in a debate Feb. 26 that in a world where the whole question of democracy is being questioned the school system should be "continuing that questioning".

"Surely we do not want a citizenship course which is going to teach them to revere Canadian citizenship," the Conservative quoted Mr. Pitman as saying.

The NDP member didn't object to the quotation but later rose on a point of order to say that he had not advocated "subversion."

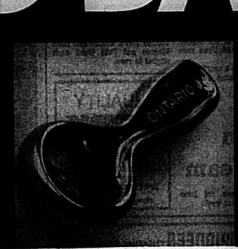
Mr. Kennedy said he was sure most responsible members of the house "would not support teaching that encourages defiance of authority or discredit of our Canadian citizenship."

Hansard also quotes Mr. Pitman as having said students want to know how democracy "can be made to live up to its word."

"Let us create sensitive, committed, concerning young people. Then I think we can stop worrying about whether they will be good citizens."

Mr. Pitman followed the Conservative member in the budget debate and used the opportunity to put his Feb. 26 remarks in context.

Alcoholic Incidence Not Up



TORONTO (CP) — The incidence of alcoholism in Ontario has not increased since 1961, although the number of alcoholics is higher year by year, the Ontario legislature was told Thursday.

Rev. A. W. Downer (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe), who speaks for the Liquor Control and Liquor Licence Boards, said Ontario's Alcoholism and Drug Research Foundation, formed 19 years ago, has become a model imitated across North America.

The $5,500,000 to be spent on its operations is a small price to pay when the size and complexity of the alcohol problem is realized.

The province has 100,000 alcoholics, more than are afflicted by cancer, tuberculosis and polio combined. Ontario, almost alone among jurisdictions in North America, has been able to "hold the line" on its incidence.

Barbara Rush Says Peyton Place A 'Dream Job'

Life in ABC's Peyton Place may be a long series of tribulations, not to mention murder trials, that would break the strongest mind. But for one performer paid to suffer professionally, ABC's evening serial is a dream job. Barbara Rush, who recently joined the cast, tells about it.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Peyton Place comes as close to being an actor's paradise as can be found in television. There are a few drawbacks—a lack of travel for location filming and the fact that you won't achieve the fantastic fame that a hit motion picture can help—but these are other compensations.

Few shows on television, aside from anthology dramas, have strong acting scenes. By that I mean most teleplays are all plot and there is not enough face-to-face dialogue between the characters.

Peyton Place is thought of as being an intricately plotted show, and in many ways it is, but the characters talk to each other more than is possible on the action-adventure programs.

With a continuing drama too, there is greater opportunity for actors and actresses to help develop the character of the part they are playing. It is not like a play where you interpret just what the author has written. You find that you are putting something of yourself into the role. There is a lot more of me in the Marsha Russell part than I ever thought there would be.

One of the reasons for this is that the actors confer with the writers of the show on the parts they are playing. As a consequence, I am playing Marsha more strongly than the writers originally intended.

If I disagree with the writers on some point, we discuss it. I don't always win my point, but if I don't, at least I know why a scene is written the way it is for me to play."

Penguins Scalp Braves

The Parsons Penguins topped the Batawa Braves 2-1 Wednesday at Zwicky's Island in a Bay of Quinte Soccer League rematch between the two.

Last week, the Penguins and the Braves played to a 1-1 tie.

But this week the locals came back to avoid that fate with two goals by Richard Kafka and Richard Dumbeck.

Kafka's netter came mid-way through the first half after Belleville had concentrated on a defensive game which kept Batawa from the home nets.

The second half had Batawa come out determined to break the 1-0 lead and the defensive stalemate the Penguins had maintained in the first period. Ron Basting in the Belleville nets completely frustrated the Batawa offensive attack with, key saves everytime the Braves got a shot.

The Penguins made it 2-0 midway through the second and half when Peter Koutsoubois flat footed the Batawa defence with a crossing pass to Dumbeck who put the ball home. Batawa finally came through to score in the final two minutes of play.

No Coroner Informed Of Fatality

TORONTO (CP) — The death from severe burns of a St. Catharines sailor in December, 1966, was not investigated by a coroner until one was ordered by Ontario's supervising coroner in February 1967, the legislature was told Thursday.

Details were given by Provincial Secretary Robert Welch, acting attorney-general in the absence of Arthur Wishart who is in Ireland.

In reply to a series of questions from Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) Mr. Welch said Isaac Teichrood died in Hamilton General Hospital Dec. 28, 1966, of severe thermal burns to 60 per cent of his body.

The accident report was reported to a coroner but Dr. H. B. Coburn, supervising coroner, heard of it indirectly on Feb. 21, 1967, and ordered Dr. B. N. Powell of Port Colborne to investigate.

Ask Uncle Ed

DEAR UNCLE ED —

With our science and technology advancing at it is, I wonder the day when people will no longer eat food such as pork. I wouldn't call it living.

When it comes to food I'd suggest you knock off the scientific fuss and leave the cooking to us.

Yours Truely
UNCLE ED.

If you have a free question to ask send it to Uncle Ed's Talk Out — Home of Dixie Lee Fried Chicken.

316 Coleman St. Belleville

DEAR B.S. —

People might be able to live on pork pepsi I wouldn't call it living.

Yours Truely,
